1,000,000 CONTRIBUTORS AIM OF REPUBLICAN PARTY

Republican National Committee Has Launched a Plan to Multiply by Ten the Number of the 1924 Campaign Contributors—Candidate Hoover Denounces the Use of the Religious Issue in the Campaign—Mr. Hoover Will Speak at Elizabethton, Tenn., Next Saturday Afternoon.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30—(AP)—Herbert Hoover left campaign worries at his personal headquarters today while he worshipped and rested in his customarily quiet manner.

Unmindful of the reverberation of his flat repudiation of the injection of religion into his campaign for the presidency, the republican candidate attended church at the Quaker meeting house on I street, accompanied by Mrs. Hoover, their son, Allan, and a neighbor, Mrs. Charles Walcott. He spent virtually the entire afternoon in his S street home.

Having twice denounced in unmistakable terms an appeal sent to women republican workers in Virginia over the signature of Mrs. Willie W. Caldwell, national committeewoman for that state, for them to aid in saving the United States from being "Romanized," the nominee turned from that subject toward his next personal step in the campaign. His denunciation of the use of the religious issue was coupled with a repudiation by Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the republican national committee, of such tactics, and a denial by Mrs. Caldwell that she had used such a term in dictating the letters sent out.

The candidate will leave Washington Friday to carry his campaign into the eastern Tennessee mountains where, at Elizabethton he will speak Saturday afternoon at an industrial and historical celebration. His speech for that occasion, already virtually completed, will be as nearly non-partisan as a presidential candidate could deliver in the heat of a campaign.

While Hoover rested today, the republican national committee launched a plan he endorsed for multiplying by ten the number of the 1924 campaign contributors. Dr. R. Nutt, of Cleveland, national treasurer of the organization, in announcing the plan for boosting the number of contributors to 1,000,000 made public a statement by Hoover in which the nominee declared that every presidential campaign was an important educational period in national issues and that all who are interested in the party and the issues should assist in the work.

The candidate's sally into the south will mark the delivery of the second of the four speeches on the program he has mapped out for himself.

After it will come an address in the home town of his democratic opponent, Governor Alfred E. Smith, at Madison Square Garden on October 13, and another at Boston later in the month.

Winant, Concord; Mrs. Nellie B. Parker, Berlin; Vermont, Redfield Proctor of Proctor, and Mrs. Blanche Bryant, Springfield; Rhode Island, J. H. Metcalf, and Adelaide Esten, Providence; Connecticut, J. Henry Roraback, Hartford.

The republican finance organization in France will be directed by Percy Peixotto.

CONFESSED THAT HE HELD KIDNAPED BOY

CHICAGO, Sept. 30—(AP)—The owner of the "Kidnap Farm" where Billy Ranieri was held prisoner for ransom has confessed he held the boy under orders from abductors who demanded $50,000 ransom, police learned today.

Andrew Cappallano, farmer of Bourbonnais, Ill., where the 10 year old boy was held 18 days, admitted his part in the affair, police said, after his arrest in Herrin, Ill., last night. His wife and four of his ten children were found in Herrin today. All were held awaiting arrival of Chicago police.

Cappallano, found at the home of his brother Frank, at first insisted he had not fled from his farm, fearing capture by police.

"Yes, I kept the boy," he said after declaring he had left the farm due to a sudden impulse to see his brother. "Yes I knew he was kidnaped and I knew they were trying to get money for him."

Then Cappallano refused to answer further questions. He denied, however, that other children at his farm were victims of extortionists, but claimed they were his own. Police said ten children were at the farm when Billy Ranieri was held there.

Billy tomorrow will see Tony Cappallano, nephew of the "Kidnap Farm" owner, who was arrested as a suspect. Police believe he may have been the driver of the car in which the boy was kidnaped.

SENATOR CURTIS ORDERED TO GIVE HIS VOICE A REST

TOPEKA, Kas., Sept. 30—(AP)—Returning home today from an arduous campaign tour of the west, Senator Charles Curtis, republican vice presidential nominee, was ordered by his physician to give his voice an immediate rest lest the remainder of his contemplated campaign be endangered.

Nevertheless, the senator announced he would go ahead with the program mapped out for him this week, and tomorrow night he will leave Topeka for Chicago where he will speak Wednesday night. He will remain in Chicago during the week, going Friday on a short trip into northern Indiana.

Senator Curtis showed the effects of his intensive two weeks of campaigning in the west as he left his private car here shortly after dawn to go to his home. A badly mashed finger, injured in an automobile door, forced him to carry his right hand in a sling. A worn out voice forced him to keep the throat under wrap of a heavy muffler, but he was smiling the old smile to the few friends he met on his early ride through the city.

BRIDGEPORT MAN'S DEATH DUE TO ALCOHLISM

WATERBURY, Sept 30—(AP)—Frank Abbott, 35, carpenter, of Bridgeport, was found dead at 10 30 o'clock this morning at the home of William Can. Negro, of Woodbury. Dr H. S. Karrmann medical examiner of Woodbury pronounced alcoholism as the primary cause of death and apoplexy as the secondary cause.

Mrs. Abbott went to Woodbury today and said her husband had left home yesterday morning to work over the week end for relatives in Roxbury district. His whereabouts since yesterday morning were unknown to her she said. It is believed Abbott spent the evening with friends an died shortly after retiring at Can's home.

State police of the Ridgefield barracks were notified and an investigation will begin tomorrow. No arrests have been made

FRIENDS SAY HERBERT HOOVER HAS NO HOBBIES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30—(AP)—Herbert Hoover has no hobbies, his friends and associates agree, and with fishing and camping trips crowded out by the pressure of campaign work he has practically no recreation, except for an occasional automobile drive.

"Doesn't Hoover ever play?" is not an unusual question around the republican presidential nominee's personal headquarters.

One of his former associates in the food administration recently answered the question.

"In Herbert Hoover," said Fred C. Walcott, republican nominee for senator from Connecticut, "both the play instinct and the building instinct the psychologists talk so much about are completely satisfied by his work. He gets as much pleasure out of it as most men do from games."

"His only hobby is having no hobbies," was the suggestion of James Francis Burke, counsel of the republican national committee.

Hoover does enjoy seeing an occasional baseball or football game, and has been to several major league games here since the opening of the presidential campaign. But he never has gone in for any outdoor sport himself except fishing.

AIMED TO EMBARRASS MRS. CALVIN COOLIDGE

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Sept. 30—(AP)—An attempt on the part of an unidentified political joker to have some fun at the expense of local republicans and in a way that might have caused embarrassment to Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, wife of the president, on her way to church, was thwarted by police here today. Mrs. Coolidge is in this city visiting her mother who is seriously ill in a local hospital.

Sometime during the night, an old tar barrel, mounted on a box, had been placed on the lawn of Memorial hall, past which Mrs. Coolidge must pass on her way to Edwards Congregational church. On the barrel, which had been stuffed with oily clothes and with excelsior, had been painted in white letters inscriptions uncomplimentary to the republican party and to the republican presidential candidate. Police made short work of the setting before Mrs. Coolidge passed.

Mrs. Coolidge attended church accompanied by her intimate friend and neighbor, Mrs. H. B. Hillis, and in the afternoon, visited her mother at the hospital.

50,000 COMPLETE OUTFITS FOR HURRICANE VICTIMS

SAN JUAN, PORTO RICO, Sept. 30.—(AP)—An order for 50,000 complete outfits of clothing for boys, girls, women and men has been approved by Henry M. Baker national disaster relief director of the American Red Cross. These are to be made in local factories at a cost of $65,000 and deliveries are to begin by the middle of the week

The Red Cross has requested its headquarters in Washington to send 20 more nurses as well as physicians to Porto Rico.

Francisco Vizcarrondo, assistant commissioner of education, has suggested to Director Baker that the Junior Red Cross members of the United States might assist the 75,000 children in Porto Rico who were deprived of school facilities by the hurricane by funds for school lunches and school gardens. Such gifts would not duplicate the Senior Red Cross efforts to restore the badly damaged house facilities.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 30—(AP)—The deduction which league of nations circles draw from the American note rejecting the Franco-British naval accord is that the United States would be willing to participate in a five-power naval conference to find a basis for naval limitation acceptable to all.

RAMSAY MACDONALD ATTACKS CONSERVATIVE GOVERNMENT

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The conservative government was accused of having cut obstacles in the way of disarmament by Ramsay MacDonald at a large assembly which met as a prelude to the labor party conference here tomorrow.

MacDonald, home from Canada completely recovered in health, told his audience that the United States should have been brought into the naval negotiations with France. He said that he had prepared a long statement for delivery at the conference on Tuesday which will be moved as a resolution. It calls for "drastic reductions in all forms of armaments by international agreement."

In this statement MacDonald will blame the lack of progress toward disarmament on reservations made to the Kellogg pact "against war and to pursuance of pre-war policies."

Of the Franco-British accord he will say, "this agreement was designed to give Great Britain a cruiser program which our government knew was unacceptable to the United States, and it has had a disastrous effect upon American publica pinion. The government of the United States refuses to accept it even on a basis for discussion. x x x This agreement should at once be abandoned, a preparatory disarmament commission should meet as soon as may be, and continue in public session till the draft of a treaty of disarmament is completed."

In his address today Mr. MacDonald declared that the British government should publish immediately not only the accord but the correspondence leading to it.

RUNAWAY BOYS ARE HELD FOR THEIR PARENTS

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Because a policeman became suspicious when he saw them carrying extra pairs of trousers, two boy runaways from Waterbury, Conn., were sent to the Children's society tonight to wait for their parents to take them back home.

They were Louis Willford, 14, of 40 Terrace avenue, Francis Platt, 12, of White street, Waterbury. Besides the spare trousers, they had brought from home Willford's bank which still held $1.42 in pennies when a policeman found them wandering in a downtown street. The boy had broken open the bank, he said, and paid the bus fare from Waterbury to Bridgeport, where a motorist had given them a lift to New York. The boys said they were bound for Florida.

BANDITS LEFT TRAIL OF HOLD-UPS AND GUN BATTLES

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 30—(AP)—Two bandits, with two kidnaped girls in a stolen automobile left a trail of holdups and gun battles through southern Indiana Saturday night, and after engaging in a running battle with Louisville police, abandoned the car and escaped here early today.

Before they deserted the automobile under fire of two police plot cars, they slowed down long enough to throw the girls from the car and shoot a patrolman, J. W. Hardin who was standing at his call box reporting the fight to headquarters. Hardin was not expected to recover from his wounds. The identity of the two girls, said by police to have been forced into the car at New Albany, Ind., was not revealed. Neither of them was seriously injured they said.

KILLED BY WHIRLING PROPELLOR OF AIRPLANE

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 30—(AP)—Henry Hough, 32, of Enfield, N. H., walked into the whirling propellor of an airplane at the Scarboro airport today and was killed.

Hough, an aviation mechanic during the war, had been a passenger in the plane which was piloted by Roger Q. Williams, co-pilot of the Roma which is being made ready for a trans-Atlanta flight. As Hough descended from the plane he walked around the front of it, apparently unaware of the moving propellor. Several persons shouted to him, but he failed to heed their warning.

Of Lindbergh, Mr. Garfield said:

CARNES ANXIOUS TO GET BACK IN PENITENTIARY

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 30—(AP)—Clinton S. Carnes, former treasurer of the Southern Baptist Home Mission board, whose funds he is charged with embezzling, urged authorities here tonight to expedite his return to Atlanta.

Now that he has come to the end of his fugitive trail, he wants to get back to Georgia and answer charges growing out of his peculations which he denies will total the estimated $1,000,000 suggested by preliminary investigations.

Denied to newspaper interviewers, Carnes spent the Sabbath in his cell, much of the time nervously pacing its narrow confines, repeatedly asking when officers would arrive from Atlanta to return him to that city.

Police here told him that the officers from Georgia likely will arrive tomorrow. Carnes has said he would not oppose extradition.

Asked what had become of the funds, Carnes told police they said, that the greater portion had gone to persons who knew his past as "hush money." Frequently they threatened to bring to light his prison record, and large payments were necessary to satisfy their demands.

HARTFORD, Sept. 30—(AP)—A youth who drove off with a new sedan on Ashley street, near St. Francis' hospital today at 5 p. m., not only will be held for the theft of the car if he is caught but also will be charged with stealing $3,000 worth of jewels, according to the police.

Louis S. Myers, of 124 Mapleton street, owner of the machine, left it for only five minutes while he went inside the hospital to look at the new born baby of a friend. In that short interval a bare-headed young man, wearing a dark suit, was seen to enter the car and drive quickly away.

Myers, a salesman for the Attleboro, Mass., Jewelry Co., told Detective Sergt. Charles J. Hallissey and Detective Peter A. Anderson, that two black cases in the car contained all his samples of lodge emblems.

Some Prohibitionists To Vote For Hoover

Party Candidates Will Run, But Not Under the Auspices of the National Committee.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—(AP)—The prohibition party entered the political lists this summer with duly nominated candidates for the presidency and vice presidency.

Those candidates are still running for office, but not under the auspices of the national committee of their party.

The split came after Herbert Hoover's acceptance speech, a speech which prohibition leaders previously had said would decide whether the party would keep its candidates in the field.

Satisfied with Hoover's stand on prohibition as expressed in his acceptance address, the prohibition national committee decided to swing support of their party to the republican candidates and withdraw their own standard bearers.

But this decision failed to meet with the approval of the prohibition candidates, William Varney of Rockville Centre, N. Y., and James A. Edgerton of Alexandria, Va., and they have continued in the race under the auspices of the "Varney-Edgerton committee," composed of prohibitionists in disagreement with the stand of their national committee.

The national committee, headed by D. Leigh Colvin of New York, plans to spend a campaign fund of $100,000 to help the republican party against the democrats, with whose prohibition policy they are in complete disagreement.

"Smith could not, if he were elected, change the eighteenth amendment or the Volstead act," Colvin said in a statement, "because he would have a dry congress. But his election would encourage the lawless faction which would suppose that it had a friend in the president."

The committee is of the opinion that New York will go for Hoover if the upstate vote can be brought out and will spend much of its effort and money for that purpose, especially to get out the woman vote.

"Women are more interested in the prohibition phase than in the other outcomes of the election," Colvin said, "and we believe they will come out stronger this year than ever before."

Colvin expressed the opinion that the solid south would relinquish its democratic solidity this year to vote for Hoover. He said he was confident that Hoover would carry Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Virginia and Texas, and that he thought Mississippi and South Carolina were "waking up."

Although the prohibition party, except those members which have split to the Varney-Edgerton faction, are supporting the republican national ticket it has not committed itself as to local tickets.

The prohibition party was organized in 1869 and is now active in four-fifths of the states. It estimates that it controls in the neighborhood of a quarter of a million votes.

N. Y. DEMOCRATS LOOKING FOR A CANDIDATE FOR GOV.

Franklin D. Roosevelt and State Senator Wagner Are Much Talked About, But It is Generally Believed That Neither Will Consent to Become a Candidate—There Are a Number of Active Contenders for the Nomination.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 30.—(AP)—For the first time in ten years the democratic party of New York state is hunting for a candidate for governor.

Since 1918, Alfred E. Smith has received the unanimous support of the party workers, but now that the governor is the national standard bearer of his party, the state leaders here tonight for the opening of the convention tomorrow were casting about for a gubernatorial nominee.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, former assistant secretary of the navy, and United States Senator Robert F. Wagner, were much talked about, but it is generally believed that neither of them would consent to become a candidate, Mr. Roosevelt for reasons of health, and Senator Wagner because he believes he can be of greater service in the senate.

Active contenders are George R. Lunn of Schenectady, at present a member of the public service commission and formerly lieutenant governor; Peter G. Ten Eyck, of Albany, former member of congress; Representative Meyer Jacobstein of Rochester, former State Senator Nathan Straus, Jr., of New York and State Senator William Lathron Love of Brooklyn, were active contenders.

Others mentioned include Judge Thomas C. T. Crain of New York, Judge Townsend Scudder, fromer Attorney General Carl Sherman of Buffalo and George Albert Wingate of Brooklyn.

GOV. SMITH COMPLETES FIRST STUMPING TOUR

GOVERNOR SMITH'S TRAIN EN ROUTE TO ROCHESTER, N. Y., CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Convinced that his first stumping tour has netted him votes, Governor Smith was headed toward home tonight, with only a stop-over at Rochester for the New York state democratic convention between him and a few days' rest in the seclusion of the executive mansion in Albany.

The presidential nominee of the democrats said good bye this afternoon to Milwaukee where last night he rinned into prohibition and called for the modification of the 18th amendment and Volstead act on a state's rights basis. Before sundown his long special train on the next to the last lap of a 6,000 mile journey, moved through railroad yards in Chicago and pointed its nose toward the east.

Less than a half dozen stops all for operating purposes were in the schedule before arrival tomorrow morning in Rochester, when Governor Smith will start conferences with democratic leaders chiefly with a view to shaping up the state ticket, and tomorrow night will address the convention.

He said today that he would discuss the political situation in his home state, and would discuss the "record" but declined to be drawn out either as to the probably makeup of the democratic slate or the nominees put in the field yesterday by the New York republicans.

REPUBLICANS CONDUCTING ACTIVE CAMPAIGN IN SOUTH

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30— (AP) — Chairman Hubert Work of the republican national committee tonight announced that "for the first time in years an active campaign for the presidency is being conducted in the south" by his party.

The advices reaching the chairman, were reported by him to show that "in some of the states" in the south Herbert Hoover, the party's presidential nominee, "undoubtedly is in the lead at the present time."

The statement of Chairman Work was based on a report submitted to him by Horace A. Mann in charge of republican southern division organization work. Mann's report covered the activities of the Hoover campaign in Dixie, embracing nine states—North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Mann's report made the prediction that Hoover is gaining increasing support in the south which "will continue to increase and will result on election day on our not only obtaining electoral votes from the south but a majority of all the votes the south will cast."

Mann based his prognostications upon reports made to him by the party's campaign managers in the nine states.

"Notwithstanding a daily press almost unanimously closed to us," Mann's report continued, "it is my information that the southern electorate is turning to Mr. Hoover in increasing numbers daily.

"The entire electoral vote of Florida was claimed in the report to me 'without question,' for Hoover." There was no report on the situation in South Carolina, but a Hoover victory was predicted in the other states by the respective state campaign managers.

Six charges of explosives were used and several hundred rugs and window shades from the store stock were utilized to deaden the sound.

The robbers were interrupted by the arrival of Michael Poleszyzuk, who explained that he usually washed the store windows on Sunday. He was politely invited to enter and was overpowered and handcuffed to Turner. Both were gagged. With their victims looking on, the robbers finished their work and departed. Turner and Poleszyzuk succeeded in removing the gags and attracted attention by their cries.

CITY ENGINEER MITCHELL DIES FROM SHOCK

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Sept. 30—Robert E. Mitchell, engineer of the city of Willimantic for the past quarter of a century and widely known in engineering and surveying circles throughout the state died at his home, 16 South Park street at 5:20 o'clock Saturday morning following a shock. He was found in a paralyzed and unconscious condition in his bed Thursday morning, having retired in apparently good health the night previous. He failed to regain consciousness. The entire community had noted his condition with each passing hour since Thursday morning and death brought much sorrow throughout the city.

Robert Ernest Mitchell was born in Ashford, March 26, 1875, the son of Kim and Harriet Parker Mitchell, both now deceased. The latter belonged to a very old New England family, her great-grandfather Ephraim Squires, participating in the battle of Bunker Hill and fighting for the cause of independence throughout the Revolutionary war. Another ancestor of a long line of New England ancestry, was Colonel Squires, a commissioned officer in the War of 1812.

Robert Mitchell was educated in the district school of Ashford and in the Windham grammar schools having removed to Willimantic with his family when he was seven years of age, in 1882. He completed his studies at Windham high school and made his initial step in the business world by entering the office of Robert Fenton, a civil engineer, under whom he served a four-year apprenticeship. Equipped with practical experience to supplement his theoretical knowledge he continued his study of surveying and civil engineering during four years spent in the office of H. D. Cord, embarking into the practice of civil engineering and surveying in November, 1900. He gained a good clientele and throughout the intervening years to the time of his death his business was continuously successful. For the past 25 years he filled the office of city engineer to the best interests of the community, exercising caution in city planning yet always a staunch supporter of any measure that was safely for civic progress and growth.

Mr. Mitchell was united in marriage to Miss Myrta Jennie Taft of this city on November 29, 1910. One child was born to them, Miss Harriet Myrta Mitchell, now a student at Windham high school. Besides his wife and daughter the deceased leaves one brother, John L. Mitchell of Ohio; four sisters, Mrs. Eva J. Johnson of Hartford, Miss Ella M. Mitchell of Bridgeport and Mrs. Mary Mitchell Bashore of this city and Harriet Mitchell of Bridgeport; and six cousins, Charles Mitchell of New Bedford, Mass., Robert Mitchell of Brattleboro, Vt.; William Mitchell of Worcester, Mass., Mrs. Frank Lavallee of Gardiner, Mass., Mrs. George W. Maine of South Manchester and Mrs. Emma Towne of South Manchester.

Mr. Mitchell was a member of St. Paul's Episcopal church and served as vestryman for several years. Fraternally he was connected with Masonry, being a prominent member of Eastern Star lodge, No. 44, O. E. S.; Trinity Chapter No. 4, R. and A. M.; Olive Branch council, No. 10, R. and S. M.; St. John's Commandery No. 11, K. T. and Radiant Chapter No. 11, O. E. S. He was also affiliated with the Consistory in Norwich. He was a past noble grand of Obwebetuck lodge No. 16, I. O. O. F., and also a member of Windham Encampment, No. 10. He was a past master of the Masonic branches, member of Willimantic lodge No. 1311, B. P. O. Elks and also belonged to the chamber of commerce.

When he was but 21 years of age he served as councilman and later was first selectman of the town of Windham for four terms. Politically he was a democrat. He had been affiliated with the fire department for 23 years having served four terms as foreman during the days of volunteer service, in the Alert Hose company No. 1. He was ever loyal and true to the trusts reposed in him as a public official. While the ambitions and the determination which carried him through his studies to a successful business never failed him, yet he always held uppermost the rights and desires of those with whom he came in contact whether in public or private dealings.

The loss of one hour's sleep which occurred last spring when daylight saving time took affect and which so many good citizens had forgotten about, came in handy when it was returned overnight with the turning back of the timepieces to standard time. All activities are now on standard time and in accordance with this the New Haven railroad has issued the new fall time table of passenger trains. The new table shows some changes including: Trains for Hartford and New York to leave at 7:05, 11:17 a. m., 2:07, 4:07, 6:07 and 8:07 p. m daily except that those leaving at 7:05 a. m. and 4:07 p. m. will not operate on Sundays. WESTERLY

FIRE ALARM GOES BAD—PAPALIA STOCK DESTROYED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Sept. 30—The fire which started in the news office and barber and tobacco shop of Michael D. G. Papalia, 46 High street, shortly after 11 p. m. Saturday in the two-story frame Willard block of the Porter-Loveland estate, taxed the combined fire-fighting ability of the Westerly and Pawcatuck fire departments. The failure of the Westerly fire telegraph alarm service to function was the cause of an expensive delay in the arrival of the firemen and allowed the flames which apparently originated in the center of the Papalia store to gain considerable headway. When the firemen arrived the flames were shooting out of the store door and out of two rear windows on the Pawcatuck river side. The charred interior of the store, the wrecked Girl Scout hall on the second floor, where the floor was about ready to fall in, and the present headquarters of the Hoover-Curtis Republican club of Westerly, show the effects of the fire. Lieut. George H. Champlin, on duty in Dixon square, turned in the alarm from Box 56 in the square. The fire whistle failed to work properly and the officer requested the telephone central office to sound the alarm. Finally it became necessary to summon the members of the various local companies by telephone. Mr. Papalia is inclined to believe that the electric wiring in his store was to blame for the fire. When he locked up the store at 9.55 p m. everything was apparently all right. Mr Papalia's stock consisting of cigars, cigarettes, tobacco, newspapers, magazines, etc., and valued by the owner at $18,000 is almost a total loss. Mr. Papalia does a wholesale as well as retail business. His stock was partially insured. From the Papalia store the flames shot upward to the floor of Unity hall, (Girl Scout hall) and southward into the adjoining millinery shop of Mrs. Rose Ahern Beebe, whose stock is a total loss from smoke and water.

DANIELSON

WORCESTER MAN ARRESTED AFTER CAR TURNS OVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Sept. 30—As soon as he is able to leave the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam Willard F. Palmer will appear in a justice's court in the town of Thompson to answer to a charge of reckless driving. Palmer, a resident of Worcester, was operating a Chrysler roadster he owns when it skidded and turned over on a curve in the northern part of the town of Thompson about 500 feet from the Massachusetts-Connecticut line Saturday afternoon.

Stephen Lee of Port Washington, N. Y., riding in the car, was badly injured and was reported on the danger list at the hospital today. He suffered a fractured pelvis and a punctured bladder. Palmer was cut about the face and had part of a little finger severed as well as sustaining minor cuts and bruises. State Officer Elton Nolan of the Danielson state police barracks investigated the accident. It is understood that Palmer and Lee had been wedding guests in Worcester and were on their way to New York when the accident occurred. The Palmer car was quite badly damaged. It was towed to a garage in Webster.

Quiet campaigning went on this quiet Sabbath day in the interest of candidates for town offices at Monday's election. The polls will be open in the town hall building at 8 o'clock Monday morning. It was indicated today that the vote this year will be a heavy one. Among many others, there are 400 new electors, who will be voting in many instances for the first time. The real contest this year is for places on the board of selectmen. Charles A. Tillinghast and N. P. Gingras are the republican candidates. The democrats have A. D. Sayles and John H. Ryan in the field. Only three of these four candidates can win. This year the republicans are striving not only to elect Messrs Tillinghast and Gingras, but also to elect Mr. Tillinghast as first selectman to displace Selectman A. D. Sayles, who was elevated to that position last fall after a ruling by the superior court upheld his contention that he had been elected as first selectman, though Selectman John A. Gilbert was declared so elected by the moderator when the vote was declared following last year's election.

This year the republican organization will make a special effort to get its real strength recorded at the polls. To that end preparations were complete today for a systematic getting out of the vote.

No matter much out of the ordinary will engage the attention of the voters at the annual town meeting this afternoon, jnust the routine business and a few incidental matters.

Some time between the early evening hours of Saturday and noon today, the action of individuals considered, Danielson and all the surrounding territory that has been regulating its doings by daylight saving time since last April slipped back to standard time. It was a transition barely observable. Getting an "extra hour" through a little tampering with time pieces, persons in great numbers used it up in getting additional sleep or extra recreation, as each was inclined. Monday morning all manufacturing concerns, the postoffice, banks and schools and stores here will regulate their hours on a standard time basis. The first real demonstration that standard time was again being observed here came this evening when darkness set in so much earlier than it has for the past week. It was a bit of a shock to those who had not thought of the matter. But for the hundreds of workers who must be up early morning's the daylight they now will have will be a boon to them.

On invitation of officials of the Fifth district, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil war, members of patriotic organizations representing many sections of eastern Connecticut will join in a pilgrimage to the birthplace of General Nathaniel Lyon in Eastford next Sunday, October 7. The state has made the Lyon place into a state park, and while the old home has been demolished, the old stone chimney has been preserved and restored and is an object of special interest.

The plan is to have all attending the pilgrimage meet at the Lyon place at 2 o'clock next Sunday afternoon. A program of exercises that is to include short addresses and singing has been arranged. Following a basket lunch after the exercises, the pilgrims will, while on the return journey, make a stop at the cemetery at Phoenixville and place a wreath on the grave of General Lyon, the first general officer of the Union armies to be killed during the Civil war.

The Sons of Union Veterans are inviting members of the G. A. R., W. R. C., Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, Sons of Veterans auxiliary and members of the Connecticut division, Sons of Veterans, to join in the pilgrimage. If this one proves as successful as it is hoped it may, other similar pilgrimages are to be planned for the years to come to the homes and birthplaces of other national heroes.

For periods extending up to an hour in some instances, business houses here were without electric lights during the rush period of early Saturday evening. A break in the electric lighting service, one of the very infrequent ones in this territory, caused the temporary inconvenience. Kerosene lamps, gas and candles served to supply a diminished, flickering lighting arrangement until the electric energy again flashed with its usual brilliancy, bringing a revival of appreciation of this great boon to humanity. Loss of the lights handicapped business men and their customers, but it was an unavoidable situation and the best was made of it.

Over at Kum-Along-Inn, the West Side dancing resort, lanterns were brought in to illuminate the place, while accommodating motorists also drove their cars up to the entrance and let the headlights glare into the building that the dancing might go on without interruption. The effect inside with this transient lighting arrangement was something of a cross between that of a barn dance and a moonlight waltz.

Work is scheduled to begin Monday on the rather difficult operation of hoisting the great marble columns that are to adorn the front of the new Brooklyn Savings bank building into place. These columns, four in number, arrived here the past week and are now at the building site. They weigh in the neighborhood of four tons each and are 18 feet in length.

Mrs. Ella Stone and Miss Gertrude Stone, Mrs. A. F. Wood and Mrs. Stella Prentice are to leave Monday for a motor tour through the White mountains, a region now glorious with the beautiful tints of autumn.

It is fast approaching the time when you must make your deposit in the savings department of the Windham County National bank, as all deposits made on or before October sixth will draw interest from October first.—Adv.

PUTNAM

TWO HURT WHEN CAR TURNS OVER TWICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Sept. 30—William S. Palmer of Norwood street, Worcester and Stephen Lee of Port Chester, N. Y., were hurt yesterday when the car they were riding in skidded and turned over twice. Stephen Lee was seriously hurt but Palmer has only cuts and bruises on his face. It is reported that Lee has a fractured pelvis. The accident occurred near the home of Mrs. Martha Joslin on the Thompson road. The two men were piloting a car which was following another machine occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Campbell who were just married in Worcester and were on their way to New York for a honeymoon.

The two men had attended the wedding party and as the bridal couple did not know the way to New York Palmer offered to drive them to Connecticut as far as the main highway to New York. The belief is that the car ran into a pile of sand and that Palmer, who was driving applied his brakes too rapidly which forced the car to skid and turn over. The car was quite badly wrecked.

The both men were rushed to the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam. It was reported this morning that both men were resting comfortably.

Walter Light, who was in an accident on School street, last Friday has been dismissed from the hospital. It was feared at first that he would lose the sight of one of his eyes but now it looks as if the sight of his eye can be saved.

Many people were disappointed yesterday when they went to Pomfret to see the Pomfret school-Bartlett high football game when the Bartlett team failed to show up for the game. NOANK

OLD MICHIGAN COACH GROOMS FOOTBALL SQUAD

John Bentley, a football coach for a Michigan college 25 years ago has made his home in the village. When September comes round he hears the call of football. He loves to show green men how to play the game on the gridiron. He is coach of the Dance Hall eleven and gave them a workout Friday night.

Under the electric light on Church street, "Hurry Up" Bentley as he is called, showed them some new stunts to use this week against the Prospect Hill Giants. Coach Bentley has a trick play that no football player around here has seen worked. He told it to Capt. John Bracel "wishing I was younger, so I could be right in the backfield, taking the ball for 20 yards" Dance hall squad has a heavy team and is looking for the best season on the gridiron in years in this village.

Keith Ebbetts has resigned as mate on the boat Cannonball, after lobstering all summer.

QUEER STORM PUZZLES EVEN SEASONED FISHERMEN

The queer storm that hit the village recently has the old weather guessers scratching their heads. They don't know what to say about it. With the moon and stars out it thundered and lightened with rain. Then the sky got black again, hailstones came down and rattled on the windows. They were as large as marbles, some thought they would break the glass. The wind was blowing a 70-mile gale and it was a cold wind. Does that mean that frost will soon be on the pumpkins on the farms outside of the village or is Indian summer near at hand. Jack Frost, an old time Whaler, has often looked at the fishermen's weather glass, has seen many full moons and can tell a fair day by the stars, but in all his 87 years he never saw a storm like that of the past week.

When the school bell rang Friday afternoon to let the pupils out for the day, the fifth grade members marched two by two to the home of Miss Muriel Carpenter, a member of that class. She was taking off her coat and hat and when a knock came she ran to the door and found her classmates standing there. They said "It is your birthday!" Into the parlor they all went to enjoy the late afternoon Games were played, post office, being one game enjoyed James Ashly, Jr., was postmaster and door tender When a number was called a girl would go and receive a post card or a letter from the mail carrier behind the door until everyone got a letter or card. School was played with Miss Marion Tinkerson teacher, putting on glasses and holding a book. "Children, we will have a spelling bee! The one standing the longest will win a prize!" Then hard words came from the book Muriel Carpenter was the winner, beating out Esther Sistare and she received a book. By this time Mrs. Carpenter had the table set. In the center of the table was a large birthday cake with 11 candles in different colors. "Who will blow them out?" "I will" said Duncan Carson, Jr. With one blow they were all out. After having the good things to eat school songs were sung with George Ward, singing teacher. Each classmate was given a piece of birthday cake by Miss Muriel. She received many pretty gifts.

TONIGHT'S TOWN MEETING

Because Norwich is included among those towns which select their town officials biennially, this is the year when there is no town election.

This, however, is the night for the annual town meeting at which there will be presented for action the reports of the town officials and when there will be an opportunity for not only endorsing the manner in which the town affairs have been administered for the past year but to act upon the estimated expenses and the additional appropriations which have been asked for.

The town meeting is the opportunity for the citizen to hear and to be heard. It is the chance for him to learn what the situation is in regard to town business and to let it be known what he believes should prevail for the ensuing year. It is one of the few meetings of the stockholders of a community which ought not to be neglected.

This is a year when it is impossible to estimate what the tax rate will be inasmuch as the revaluation is expected to be in operation for the new tax list but that work hasn't been completed as yet. However, inasmuch as the tax rate is not laid at the annual meeting but delayed until March when the grand list is ordinarily perfected it will still be possible to do business as usual. The changes in the grand list always affect the rate of taxation so that while the revaluation may mean more than the average change in the grand list the rate conforms to the new condition in either case. It is customary to determine expenditures by necessity or by appropriations which have been made in the past. Such is possible even though the rate may be for the time being uncertain. Whatever the rate may be the amount to be paid by taxation will be fixed by tonight's meeting.

For a number of years Norwich has voted a number of extras with such regularity that they might as well be fixed charges. Such is to be expected at tonight's meeting. These include the appropriations for the Otis library, the Free Academy, trees and health work.

SMITH'S WESTERN TRIP

Going west for the purpose of winning the farmers and those who voted for LaFollette four years ago, Candidate Smith has been giving the people of that region a chance to see and hear him. Evidently that was considered to be rather important from his standpoint. Whether it has worked to his advantage is a question. While there are those who figure that he has aided his cause there are others who can point out where he has lost and even some of his own backers think that he has done well if he has managed to hold his own.

Mr. Smith in giving the people of the west a chance to hear him has also given them an opportunity to see how he talks one way in the east and another way in the west. He went to talk to the farmers but he has wobbled all about on the equalization fee, which he denounced at home but for political expediency's sake has tried to make the farmers think he may favor some day without actually saying so.

On the question of inland waterways he is showing a changeable attitude. There was no firmer advocate of the all American route before the democratic convention. This, in spite of the advocacy, reports and demands in behalf of the St. Lawrence route by the section of the country seeking such advantages. When, however, he goes into the west, into states which are particularly concerned with this matter, he says he might change his mind. He wasn't swayed by one commission report but he might be by another. Perhaps such a bid for votes will fool the farmers.

Equally confusing is his attitude in regard to immigration. In his acceptance speech he declared his opposition to the "principle of restriction based upon the figures of immigrant population contained in a census 38 years old," and yet he told the westerners that there was no difference between him and the republican candidate, "the present restrictive measures" being supported by both.

Perhaps Mr. Smith thinks that the farmers will not be able to check up on his varying views but there is no evidence that they have been carried off their feet by his trip. They have heard much that didn't interest them, much that failed to convince and much that only served to confuse them as to where he really stands.

SAFETY EDUCATION

In the opinion of Dr. John J. Tigert, national safety can be brought about through education. As to the need of greater safety there can be no question. The toll that is being collected every day on the highways of this country is frightful. If such a total of deaths and injuries occurred at a single place it would be rated as a serious disaster.

There is a crying need for greater safety. There is need of causing people to think of highway conditions as they exist today and not 25 years ago. It is necessary to regard the perils as real and strive to escape them. Instead of inviting trouble the aim should be to prevent it. In this direction education certainly can play an important role, for while it is not solely the children who are concerned in the highway dangers no better way exists of getting the attention and interest of the present generation, than by teaching them the rudiments of safety in the schoolroom. With the seed sown in such a manner there are countless opportunities for the child to recognize the value of and to apply such instruction as they receive. Taken in combination with such warnings as should be given by parents there should be a lessening of the highway accidents. This should have its effect not only while the children are in school but in later years.

Many things for the benefit and protection of the children are taught in the school room, but it is quite important that those same children should be taught not to throw their lives away under the wheels of highway traffic.

The number of children killed every year, and for the most part needlessly, is appalling. It isn't always that the responsibility rests with the child, but too often it is the case, and it is just such cases that ought to be prevented by impressing upon the boys and girls the necessity of protecting themselves. This will be fully upheld by those auto drivers, who even while driving cautiously, find children jumping and running in front of autos in the very act of tempting the driver to hit them. If it is education they need in refraining from the foolhardy acts, let it by all means be applied.

THIS COUNTRY'S ANSWER

By the note which was sent to Great Britain and France, this government has shown its unwillingness to accept the Franco-British pact and it tells why. It points out the situation that would be created relative to this country in such a manner as to carry conviction in many instances across the water.

President Coolidge isn't willing to neglect the defense of the United States for the sake of coming to an agreement with the two European powers. The fact is that the agreement is not entirely satisfactory to the British but it was the best they could do. The United States isn't willing to go further into armament limitation on such a basis in this particular instance for it would be denied the type of defensive craft which it needs the most.

While setting forth its disapproval of the idea advanced from abroad for a further reduction of armament, the president not only indicates that we would be willing to abandon submarines entirely if the other nations would, but he believes that it will still be possible for the leading powers to come to an understanding through a tonnage basis. This was urged before, but even though it was not accepted the plan is believed the one that will permit the several nations to meet their respective needs and yet accomplish the desired reduction in naval armament.

It is quite evident that the reply of the United States does not end the opportunity for discussion of the disarmament question. It is nevertheless firm and indicates that further talk must be in another direction.

THE VOTING MACHINE

Not only have there been numerous recounts as the result of the recent primary in Massachusetts, but there have been decided upsets. Sizeable errors have been disclosed and in one instance a candidate who had been considered nominated by nearly 600 majority found that his opponent had really won.

Such is the uncertainty which too often prevails where the human agent is relied upon in the counting of ballots. Had those same people used voting machines, where the registering and counting would have been mechanically done there would have been an assurance of accuracy and in addition the correct result would have been disclosed at once.

Such communities cannot fail to understand the benefit attached to voting machines. They furnish the best kind of an argument for the mechanical device. Perhaps the same excuse for wrong counting doesn't exist in all communities alike, but when it comes to ease of voting, assurance that the vote will be counted as cast, certainty of the count and a quick report on the outcome of a contest at a primary or on election day the machine is unequalled. Furthermore the accuracy of the machine does away with the necessity for a recount. There is no such thing as counting a person's vote one way on the first inspection and another way on the second. Neither is it possible to disfranchise voters by throwing out their ballots for technicalities.

The adoption of machines in place of the former method of voting in many instances has been due to such experiences as that in Massachusetts and the favorable experience of those communities which have adopted them.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Serve currant jelly with codfish cakes.

Cheese wafers may be served with pear salad.

Use as little soap as possible on gilded china.

Place rolls in a paper bag when reheating them.

Nothing is better than an alcohol rub for tired feet.

Pure turpentine will remove grease stains from leather.

Egg-stained silver may be cleaned with moistened salt.

The roast will not be juicy unless it is basted frequently.

Creamed cabbage is improved by adding a little nutmeg.

Dipping the tops of fruit jars in paraffin will make them absolutely airtight.

All new cooking utensils should be thoroughly greased and heated before using for the first time.

Tar and heavy grease stains will wash out if first rubbed with lard.

Menus planned a week in advance will prove more economical and more satisfactory.

The annoying odor of fresh paint can be destroyed by placing a pail of cold water in the room and changing it every couple of hours.

Oiled mops should be cleaned with hot water to which a little ammonia and a good washing powder is added, then well rinsed and dried quickly.

A salt or sugar bag can be readily opened if you place the double stitching to the left and start by pulling the string at the end away from you.

BREAKFAST CHANGE.

A change in breakfast dishes, good at this time of the year, is grilled fresh tomatoes with crisp bacon, rather than eggs. Slice about a half inch thick, sugar, salt and pepper, dip in flour and fry in a skillet with plenty of fat, very hot.

USE FORK FOR MIXING.

A fork is the best implement to use when making mayonnaise dressing. A beater is likely to cause the egg and oil to separate, while the fork will thoroughly mix the ingredients.

MAPLE SAUCE.

Nothing makes a more delicious sauce for cup custard or bread or rice pudding than hot maple syrup. Let it boil a little and serve as piping hot as possible.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Iodine, and mercurochrome for external cuts and skin abrasions.

Boric acid for a good eye wash.

Epsom salts for a strong purgative.

Witch-hazel for sprains and bruises.

Bicarbonate of soda for indigestion.

Rhubarb compound pills for a mild cathartic.

Application of a solution of equal parts of olive oil and lime water will afford immediate relief from a burn.

SOUP SECRETS.

Use water in which spinach has been cooked for cream of spinach soup.

Save the water in which vegetables are cooked for use in soup making.

Delicious cream soups may be made from small amounts of left-over vegetables.

The tough and cheap parts of meat, such as shoulder, neck, flank, tail and shin, make the finest soups.

FRESH WATER FOR DOGS.

So many people who own dogs pay little attention to their water pans, whether the water is fresh and cool or plentiful. Water is as essential to a dog as to a person, and a little attention paid to it will mean better health to the animal.

STAIN REMOVER

To remove discoloration from doorsteps mix chloride of lime into a thin paste with cold water.

Apply at night and leave on until morning. Wash off with clear water and your steps will be clean.

VINEGAR INSTEAD OF WATER.

If you use vinegar instead of water when mixing plaster of paris you will not have the annoyance of the hardening while you are applying it.

REMOVING BUTTONS.

When removing buttons from a discarded garment, it is easy to thread a needle and thread the buttons together, tying them securely. Then the whole set will be intact if you wish to use them on a similar garment.

FIRST CREASES GONE!

Never allow clothes to become so out of press that the first creases are gone. They will never look new again, even after pressing.

DICTATES OF FASHION

In one smart shop, eggshell satin—the smart material for evening wear—is being used in trimming black velvet afternoon gowns.

The sleeveless frock of sapphire blue tulle gains an added charm when over it is slipped a short coat made of blue sequins.

Chenille sows in what Paris calls Jenny pink are the sole decoration of a svelte evening gown in a slightly lighter shade of satin.

A sumptious sports coat with raglan sleeves and a smart pointed back yoke has its pockets lined with fur and a double collar of natural lynx.

In antique gold settings are the flat stones shading from a brilliant dark blue to green and flecked with gold. The effect is marvelously like the colorful sheen of peacock feathers.

It is the thing to have real jewels nowadays. A smart buckle on a white satin overblouse is of setback design in onyx, outlined with pearls and diamonds.

Some of the new lingerie will delight the heart of the fastidious woman, for it is made of the finest of crepe de chine and is trimmed only with clusters of hand-run tucks of infinitesimal size.

Beige sheared lamb is used lige svelt fabric to fashion a youthful suit of plain skirt with inverted front pleat and a cute jacket with Ascot cravat of self-fur. A little toque of fur completes the ensemble.

A dainty little cover for the crib is made of pink cotton, with scalloped edges outlined in white tape. On pillow and cover alike there is a spray of white daisies with green leaves. The flowers are made of white tape.

WOOL FABRICS

The woolen materials for winter offer a most astounding range of fabrics, colors and weights. All, however, are extremely soft and pliable and many of them resemble silks, although silk may not be the main material used. Red seems likely to be a prime favorite, as do the brown shades, especially for the broadcloths. Navy blue and black and white come close behind.

ODD WAISTCOATS

Double coats are being prepared as a feature of the fall wardrobes. That is, they are not exactly double coats but coats and waistcoats which are joined together instead of being put on separately. The waistcoat invariably offers a color contrast to the coat. For example, a black crepe de chine coat is superimposed on a white cord waistcoat. The waistcoats are usually fashioned on a diagonal line, with ornamental metal buttons.

STRASS BUCKLE

A six-inch wide strass buckle of great beauty is the focal point on a black panne velvet frock with fullness concentrated in the center front and a deep lace fichu around the pointed neck.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Velvet may be steamed by placing wet cloth over an upturned hot flat-iron, laying the velvet on it and lifting the nap with another piece of velvet.

To renovate a shiny coat rub it well with a little turpentine. Strong coffee or a solution of ammonia is also recommended for the purpose.

When washing chamois gloves, add a teaspoonful of olive oil to the water. This keeps them soft and pliable.

If laundering curtains for the first time, soak them overnight in warm water to free them from dressing, if they are older curtains soak overnight in cold water.

To remove ink stains on linens, let the stained part stand in milk. When the milk is discolored, change to fresh milk. Wash next in cold water and ammonia. Use milk if you have no ammonia.

PICTURE FRAMES

Modish right now are the very narrow picture frames that are painted the same color that the woodwork or furniture is. There may be a pair of green frames and a pair of orange ones in a single room.

KENTUCKY QUILTS

These quilts are stamped with a patchwork design and then quilted by machine, and the result is surprisingly like the old-fashioned quilts of our grandmother's day. Pillows to match may be had.

CUTTING CORN

When you cut corn off the cob, unless you have a very sharp knife, try running a kitchen fork down each row of kernels. This removes the whole kernel very nicely.

STRAW HAT TABLE MAT

If that straw hat is beyond wear you can cut out the top and bind it with tape for use as a table mat for hot dishes or under flower receptacles.

SILVER LACE

Silver lace may be rejuvenated by cleaning with gasoline or alcohol by a brush. It may also be cleaned by washing in salt water, using two tablespoonfuls salt to each pint of water.

FRESH DRAINS

Whenever cauliflower, cabbage or other strong vegetables are drained into the sink, the hot or cold water tap should be turned on immediately for a few seconds to wash out the drain and keep it smelling fresh.

ODD TEA TABLE

An odd tea table is made somewhat in the shape of a fire screen. When it is necessary to use the table, the center swings down into position and, presto! there is a table painted with East Indian motifs.

FLOWER POT HOLDER

An iron flower pot holder, which comes in the shape of large scrolls and stands about three feet high has places for at least seven flower pots. The iron is painted a dull green.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Two women are to assist in revising police regulations, including even those under which the Scotland Yard operates.

Miss Jeanne B. Phillips was the only woman graduated from the architecture school of Ohio State university this year.

Among the industries in Turkey which employ the poorer classes of women on a large scale is the tobacco industry, in which 90 per cent of the workers are women.

Arabia is about the only Eastern country where the revolt of the women has not made good progress. Tribal customs still have great weight in the land of the sheik and these do not favor agitation against the veil nor are they in favor of other reforms.

The chief beauty of an Arab woman is her eyes and is therefore her chief preoccupation to enhance. The Arab mother will rub kohol on the eyelids an under the eyes of her child from its earliest infancy, so that the eyes may be strengthened and brightened, and the lashes grow long and silky.

NECKTIE HOLDER

Screw a small towel rack into the closet door or the back of the closet for a necktie hanger. It makes an excellent one.

NON-SKID HANGERS

To prevent dresses from slipping off hangers, wind elastic band around the ends of the hangers. If hangers are of wood, push rubber-tipped tacks into each end.

RECIPES.

Pineapple-Rice: Wash one cup of rice and cook it in four cups of boiling salted water until tender. Turn the juice from one can of pineapple and boil it with one cup of sugar to a thick syrup. Add one tablespoon of butter, then the pineapple shredded or diced, and cook for five minutes. Then mix with the rice. Serve covered with half a pint of cream whipped, flavored with one-half a teaspoon of vanilla.

Scotch Soup: Prepare one and one-half cups of stock jelly from lamb bones by boiling the bones from the forequarter for about three hours. Remove all the meat and boil the bones again for 10 minutes. Strain, cool and remove the fat. Cook two cups of strained tomato with one and one-half teaspoons of barley and a seasoning of salt, pepper and celery salt until the barley is cooked. A carrot may be cooked whole for seasoning, then removed. Two whole cloves, four peppercorns and two onions may be cooked with the bones, then strained out. Season to taste and serve hot in bouillon cups.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Gas And Electric Rates

Mr. Editor: Contemplating with dismay and indignation the action of the gas and electrical department of Norwich, I, with others, am asking some potent questions:

Who are "they?" Where did "they" come from as well as other officials intrusted with our honor, weal or woe? What are their duties? Who gave them the power to foist upon the people burdens which many are not able to bear? It is not a case of "will not," but really and truly cannot. Are they in office because "they" are fit and honestly trying to do the best for those who elected them?

Who are they answerable to?

Is not the gas and electrical department a city institution for which we are already taxed?

I well remember the hue and cry when the motion was up to sell this same gas and electric plant to private parties: How much worse off would we have been? Would the money have paid some of our indebtedness and so reduced our tax rate?

What does electricity cost in our sister city? Is our gas flame always blue or our electric current always good?

We are a by-word over the country and justly bonded for more than we can pay, loaded with debt.

Who are depopulating the Rose of New England, by discouraging the coming of industrial concerns and making it a residential city?

Now I live alone mostly, have six rooms, am out in garden as long as I can see and this summer the gas and electric bills mount and are still mounting—June $4.26, July $4.23, August $5.57. Three of the rooms are unoccupied or rarely. The four burner chandelier in living room is rarely lighted and mostly one light at a time. I have a three burner gas stove, buy my bread and sweet stuff and eat very little meat. Have a small square grill and Premier sweeper, these I cannot afford to use. A washer and iron, the latter seven years and I use them with care and deserve no such bills as we are and have been getting.

A lone woman who has a 7 room house, children grown, married and gone, husband dead. She uses light in kitchen and bedroom. Should she pay to light five rooms the same as those who have 5, 10, 12, 14 rooms, entertain lavishly, have lights galore and also help to pay for their gas and electric city? We are only two. There are hundreds more. Is it right? Is it just?

Otis Library

Mr. Editor: The recent report of the Otis library of Norwich, distributed to the citizens as of August 28, 1928, is a remarkable testimonial of the growth of interest among the Norwich people for books of educational value.

The figures giving the total circulation for the year as 119,971 issues is a demonstration of the fact that Norwich citizens have a healthy interest in improving their minds by good reading. But the most outstanding fact of the report is the increased demand for books dealing with literature science, travel, biography, sociology, philosophy, history—books of solid and serious reading matter. The issues of adult fiction have also increased by 2,427.

A most pronounced and outstanding increase of the year is the 3,871 issues of juvenile fiction and 4,126 issues of juvenile class. This increased juvenile interest in reading books, instead of wasting their time in idleness, and perhaps in mischievous play, ought to be very gratifying to all good people of Norwich, and at the same time ought to increase their interest and appreciation of the educational value of the Otis library to the children of Norwich.

Helpful as the Otis library is to the improvement of the minds of Norwich juveniles, there is a crying need for a room where the children can enjoy a reading room reserved expressly for juveniles. From my observation of the behavior of Norwich children in the Otis library reading room, I have the highest praise for their exemplary behavior; but it is unjust to the children to put them under constant of expecting them to behave like adults while attending the library.

In examining the books at the Otis library I some time wondered whether our citizens are aware of the treasure which the library contains under its roof. The Otis library is particularly rich in reference books, and their quality and number would do credit to a city much larger than the city of Norwich.

A word of commendation and appreciation of the officials and the staff of the Otis library is not out of place and well deserved. I ever found them kind, courteous, and sincere in their desire to be of help to direct and to assist the people who patronize the library.

Otis library is indeed an institution making for a better, a happier and more enlightened Norwich citizenry.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30—(AP)—It develops that this column did an injustice to the town of Elizabethton, Tenn., where Herbert Hoover is to make his single political address in Dixie of the presidential campaign.

A letter to the writer from Frank H. Lovette, chairman of "Dixie's Reception for Hoover" executive committee and also editor of the Elizabethton Star, takes exception to the implication that the Tennessee community was a small town of 5,000 or so inhabitants.

"It has grown from 2,300 to 15,000 persons in a little over two years," Mr. Lovette writes, and the Bystander hastens to make amends for the previous error.

Industrious City

The Hoover appearance in Tennessee will be combined with Elizabethton's Industrial Celebration and Mr. Lovette's account of the progressive spirit and accomplishments of the town paint a growing picture of American hustle and energy. As the home of "the two largest artificial silk plants in the world," Mr. Lovette's claim that the town is the site "of almost $100,000,000 in industries" is no doubt fully justified, and the Bystander promptly and ungrudgingly takes off his hat to the Tennesseans responsible for this progress.

"If you should happen to come to Elizabethton on Oct. 6," Mr. Lovette says, "you will see 200,000 people fed, policed, their cars parked, all special trains handled, complete wire facilities, sufficient loud speakers and the greatest political demonstration you ever saw in your life."

Mr. Lovette, it appears, did the negotiating in Washington with Horace Mann, Hoover field marshal for the southern states, which led to the selection of Elizabethton as the place where the republican nominee is to make his bow in the south. Press dispatches from Bristol, Tenn., at the time to the Roanoke (Va.) Times give the "youthful editor of the Elizabethton Star major credit for obtaining the chief attraction for Elizabethton's biggest day."

Republican Stronghold

He is clearly in a position to know more of the political geography of the region than the reference books in Washington made available at the time this column sought to show that Mr. Hoover would talk in the south in what is the center of a strongly republican region overlapping state lines into adjacent North Carolina and Virginia. That was the only purpose of the previous Bystander comment on the matter, and in that connection Mr. Lovette says:

"The Bascom Slemp district votes more than a third of the total vote of Virginia. Western North Carolina is solid for Hoover. The first two congressional districts of Tennessee, the first two of eastern Kentucky and all of northern Alabama have always been republican."

As to the reasons of political strategy or tactics which made it seem desirable for Mr Hoover to speak in Elizabethton, the writer of this column is not advised. The selection could have been made only after careful check up of all elements involved for the nominee. It's an important point in his campaign. It is certain to place Elizabethton squarely on the political map and that obviously must be highly satisfactory to the civic pride of the Tennessee town and perhaps vital in its further aspirations for civic and economic growth and expansion. Elizabethton and Mr. Lovette are to be congratulated.

The Mental Effects of Fatigue

By Walter Freeman, M. D., Professor of Neurology, George Washington University, Washington, D. C.

Industrial research has shown that the fatigued worker's output falls off, quality suffers and carelessness develops. Accidents are most numerous shortly before quitting time.

Scientific psychology has disclosed the reasons for this impaired efficiency. During fatigue the threshold of perception is raised, the reaction time is lengthened, powers of discrimination and judgment are reduced, coordination is impaired and errors are multiplied. Work done after fatigue sets in not only costs more effort, but accomplishes less. Tests further indicate that fatigue is a normal protective mechanism preventing overloading of the human organism just as a fuse prevents overloading of an electrical circuit. The utterly fatigued person cannot continue and must therefore stop in spite of himself.

The point of complete exhaustion is seldom reached. At a certain stage the "second wind" develops, and our minds, shutting out disturbing impressions, continue to function at a high level of efficiency, and very economically, so that we can go along, more or less automatically, depleting our energy reserves slowly.

If the energy output persistently exceeds recuperative powers a condition of chronic fatigue develops. In this state people are irritable, resentful, brooding discouraged, and they may rage or weep over trifles. Some take refuge in drink or in hectic amusements, but the time comes when even pleasures cannot be enjoyed, and the terrific load of weariness pervades every waking moment. Insomnia prolongs these moments, indigestion and headaches develop, and worry spreads the black pall of fear over the individual's imagination. The vicious circle of fatigue, failure, worry, leads inevitably to zero efficiency. This again is the normal protective mechanism against exhaustion. The chronically fatigued person is absolutely compelled to rest. If he is wise he will do so before his efficiency drops, or disagreeable symptoms develop.

Fatigue is not the direct cause of mental or nervous diseases, but just as fatigue renders the individual more susceptible to colds and other infections, so it may render him more susceptible to the relatively unknown causes of nervous and mental disorders. Fatigue certainly aggravates the symptoms.

Why should Smith wilt and Brown thrive at the same job? Why does Jones tire more quickly of pushing a pen than of weeding his garden? Why can a girl dance all right when she is too tired to wash the dishes? The attitude we bear our work largely determines its effect upon us. Interest and success banish fatigue; monotony and failure accentuate it. Other conditions may induct fatigue; physical defects, unhappy home conditions, unsatisfied cravings, even totally unsuspected factors that only painstaking investigation of the individual's life will reveal. It is in the realm of unhealthy fatigue that the conference of the worker and the physician may be the most fruitful.

Stories That Recall Others

The Fourplex

Bobby had lived in a double house for four years and heard duplexes thoroughly discussed.

Near where Bobby lived a four apartment house was under construction. One day Bobby was looking out of the window and said: Mamma, that fourplex is almost ready for people to live in, isn't it?"

Precaution

The family was seated at the table enjoying dessert. "I think I'll take my tomorrow's share now," said father jokingly as he helped himself to a second slice of cake.

Jean, an only child, glanced covetously at the one remaining piece on the plate.

"I'll take my piece now, too," she said quickly," before father gets his day after tomorrow's share."

COULD NOT GET OUT OF BED

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Strengthened Her

Elkhart, Ind.—"I had a tired feeling and was unable to get out of bed without the help of my husband. We heard of the Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. I am still taking it and it sure is a help to me. I can do my work without resting before I am through. I know that if women will give the Vegetable Compound a trial they can overcome those tired and worn-out feelings. I cannot express the happiness I have received and how completely it has made over my home."—Mrs. D. H. Susar, 1326 Laurel St., Elkhart, Indiana.

TWO MEN FOUND DEAD FROM ASPHYXIATION

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Sept. 30—(AP)—Timothy Hayes, 50, and Charles Carter, 42, were found dead from asphyxiation today in a cottage at Holmesdale, the former William Pollick estate here. The gas jets in the kitchen stove had been left open. Both men were employed on the estate.

ACCEPTS DR. HOWE'S RESIGNATION AT END OF 45 YEARS PASTORATE

After the close of the Sunday morning service at Park Congregational church a meeting of the congregation was held to take action upon the resignation of the pastor, Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Howe, which was presented to the church on Sunday, Sept. 16.

Principal H. A. Tirrell presided at the meeting at which it was voted that the church accept Dr. Howe's resignation as pastor, to become effective Nov. 3, 1928, at the expiration of his forty-five years of service.

The following resolution was adopted: "We are grieved that Dr. Howe is feeling the burden of his years, but as he is not strong enough to continue his duties, we recommend that we accept his resignation with assurance of our deep affection and appreciation of the devotion of this forty-five years' service and of admiration for the rarer quality of his ministrations. We have been privileged to have a pastor of such unusual endowments, such intellectual attainments and rare grace of mind, and such unflinching courage of convictions. He has ministered to us in our joys and in our sorrows, and we hope he and his family will realize how beloved they are by all the church."

The recommendation was also made and adopted that the church ask Dr. Howe's permission to appoint him pastor emeritus.

MRS. L. L. BREWER'S POEMS PLEASE WESTERN CRITICS

Recently The Bulletin noted the fact that Ruth Foss Brewer (Mrs. Leslie L. Brewer) of Norwich, had published a number of her poems. The Oakland Cal. Tribune says of them: "Ruth Foss Brewer is a singer of more than passing artistry. Her ear is true and her methods simple. In the verses presented in a thin volume, "Vignettes" she makes a modest but impressive bow. Feeling and sincerity, a deft manner, and a lyric sense are hers.

There is real pleasure in the reading of her friendly lines."

Of "Vignettes" the Spokane Wash., Chronicle critic writes: "The Stratford company has given its usual careful attention to the slim pamphlet edition of the poems of Ruth Foss Brewer. "Vignettes" is just what the name implies—a series of impressionistic sketches, often compact with real beauty, always containing a definite picture. Mrs. Brewer works very successfully in the newer verse forms. Her vers libre contains genuine feeling and vitality."

Cragin, Sylvia C. Norton, Mrs. Arthur L. Stebbins and Sampel P. Willard, president. The report of the librarian, Mrs. Beebe shows: Total circulation, 11,228; attendance for year 10,856; fines collected, $35.53; total number of books in library, July 1, 1928, 7,823.

In the fall of 1927 the interior of the library was completely refinished and the electric light wiring repaired and new lamps installed that give more light in the rooms with less consumption of electricity. The library was closed about four weeks because of these repairs. A little later, when it seemed to the health officer that the small pox situation in neighboring towns demanded extra precaution the trustees were glad to cooperate and close the building for another period of three or four weeks.

The report of the town school committee for the fiscal year ending Sept. 1, 1928, shows: Total receipts, $31,690.62 and total expenditures, $31,946.69. Budget voted, $31,500.

The health of this community in general for the past twelve months has been excellent. There has been no undue prevalence of any disease, and no deaths from any preventable disease except tuberculosis and pneumonia.

The list of preventable diseases reported is as follows: Diphtheria 2, measles 3, scarlet fever 2, whooping cough 4, mumps 2, lobar pneumonia 6, bronchial pneumonia 2, poliomelitis 1, influenza 1.

Last winter there was an epidemic of small pox in neighboring towns. Owing to the kind cooperation of the selectmen, school nurse and teachers, two physicians were able to vaccinate all but three children of school age who could not show certificates of recent successful vaccination. Although small pox is a very contagious disease, no case appeared in this town.

Several cases of tuberculosis were reported from this town which reminds us that we are all exposed to this disease. The germs of tuberculosis are taken into the body by two routes: either directly into the lungs with the inspired air, or into the alimentary tract with food. Hence one should avoid those known to be tuberculous. You may be bombarded with thousands of microscopic germs more deadly than bullets, when a tuberculous person coughs or talks in your presence. The bone and glandular tuberculosis of children is often contracted by drinking milk from tuberculous cows. Although the bovine germ is slightly different from the human, it is a destructive microbe.

The infectious diseases are preventable, so why have them and pay out your money for doctors, pharmacists and nurses?

ALEXANDER MAY OPPOSE HOYT IN WORLD'S SERIES OPENER THURSDAY

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—(AP)—Taking up the baseball battle where they left off in the chill and rainy gloom of the Yankee stadium two years ago, the New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals will meet this Thursday on the same battleground in the opening game of the 1928 world's series.

The stalwart, weather-beaten figure of old Pete Alexander was the last to bar the way to the Yankees in that memorable struggle of 1926. He may be the first to try to hold the fort this time, with Waite Hoyt, a factor in every one of the six Yankee pennant victories, as his opponent in the opening pitchers' duel.

Two stormed-tossed, battered and weary outfits have come down to the big climax of the 1928 season, survivors of two of the most exciting pennant campaigns in the history of either major league.

No team that can be recalled off hand has ever entered the series so crippled as the Yankees. To the loss of two of the club's pitching aces, Pennock and Moore, has ben added the wrist injury to Earle Combs that will keep the fleet Kentuckian out of centerfield. The team won the pennant with two other stars, Lazzeri and Ruth, handicapped by ailments and the regular third sacker, Joe Dugan, also out of action.

Such an epidemic of casualities might be enough to discourage any team. It came close to costing the Yankees the pennant but they had enough stuff to beat, and they won't concede the Cardinals much, if anything, in the forthcoming championship fight.

St. Louis for the reason that it has a superior pitching staff headed by Alexander, Sherdel and Haines, all veterans of the 1926 victory, probably will enter the series favored to win. The betting odds in Wall street favor them at 6 to 5. The Cardinals also will have the advantage of being more intact, physically, than the Yankees, but it will be upon their moundsmen that the chief hopes of the Missouri men will hinge.

Old Alex, Sherdel and Haines will pit their stuff against Hoyt, Pipgras and probably Tom Zachary, who came back to form at a time when the Yankees were in dire need of pitching talent. Old Tom has been through the world series mill before, with Washington, so that the championship test will be nothing new to any of these six twirling hopes.

Even in its crippled condition the Yankee attack figures to be more formidable than that of the Cardinals. Bottomley and Haley provide the big punch of the St. Louis troupe while Gehrig and Ruth lead the Yankee artillerymen. The long range firing of these combinations ought to be as interesting a contrast as was the duel last year between the New York home run twins and the Waner brothers of Pittsburgh.

The Yankees have Lazzeri, Meusel and Koenig to add additional punch to their offensive. The Cardinals rely on Frisch to snap out of his batting slump, besides depending on Douthit, Harper and High.

The Yankee lineup, as compared with its 1927 series forces will be changed at center field and at third base, unless Dugan shows a sudden return to form, besides presenting new pitching forces. The Cardinals, unless Tommy Thevenow is put back at short, will have only one infield survivor of the 1926 series in action—Jim Bottomley. The National leaguers also have made changes behind the bat and in the outfield but their moundsmen are the same who tackled the Yankees two years ago.

Both of the managers have directed world's series tactics before, but Miller Huggins has led the Yankees into action in five previous conflicts while Bill McKechnier has been in the big battle only once and then with another team, the Pirates of 1925.

Series records of attendance and receipts appear certain to be broken, regardless of how long the contests last. The crowd for the opening game on Thursday in New York is expected to be between 70,000 and 75,000 which will surpass the mark of 63,000 set at the Yankee stadium in 1926 when the same teams met. The record receipts for a single game, $309,665, made last year in the third game of the series with Pittsburgh, at the Yankee stadium, also is likely to be shattered.

All reserved seats for the first game, totaling about 25,000 have been sold, the Yankee stadium announced, but 40,000 unreserved seats will be put on sale the day of the gamee.

After two games here the contenders will take a day off to journey to St. Louis, resuming the series next Sunday. Three games are scheduled there before a return to New York for the final two, if they are necessary. The games will start at 1:30 a. m. standard time, in each city.

CARDINALS DROP LAST GAME TO THE GIANTS

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—(AP)—The champion Cardinals permitted the Giants to win from them by a score of 6 to 2 in the final game of the season, the new title holders thus finishing with a margin of two games over the New Yorkers.

Fred Frankhouse and Karl Hubbell each allowed only six blows, but two of the New York hits were home runs by Bob O'Farrell and Frank O'Doul. Each team started with its regular lineup, but seven substitutes finally entered the game.

ROBINS CLOSE SEASON WITH WIN OVER PHILLIES

BROOKLYN, Sept. 30—(AP)—The Phillies and the Robins closed the season here today with Brooklyn winning a loosely played and frigid contest by the score of 5 to 1. The victory enabled the Robins to finish above the .500 mark.

Watson Clark went the route for Brooklyn while Walker, young Phillie southpaw, was bated out of the box before he retired a man. Milligan had the Robins in check for the rest of the game.

REDS RING DOWN CURTAIN ON 1928 SEASON WITH LOSS

CINCINNATI, Sept. 30—(AP)—The curtain came down on the season at Redland field today and the Reds lost the final game six to one to Chicago. Cincinnati could not do a thing with Percy Jones. The contest meant nothing in the standing of the teams as New York defeated St. Louis and held second place.

YANKS DOWN TIGERS IN CURTAIN GAME

DETROIT, Sept. 30—(AP)—The pennant winning Yankees closed the American league season here today with a 7 to 6 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Waite Hoyt, pitching the full route for New York, won his twenty-second game of the year and thereby clinched a bonus of $2,000 offered him by Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the champions.

During a wrangle over salary last spring, Ruppert told the pitcher he would add $2,000 to his season's pay if he won 22 games. Hoyt was given the opportunity to pitch today only because he needed one more game to round out the bonus-winning total.

Hoyt's triumph was marked by Babe Ruth's fifty-fourth home run of the year and his fourth of the final series. It was a drive into the right field bleachers in the fifth inning with Durst on base.

Lou Gehrig was struck in the face by a ground ball from Stone's bat in the seventh and forced to retire. The Yankee first baseman collapsed in his tracks, and was assisted to the dugout. The injury, however, was not serious, and a few minutes later Gehrig walked to the club house. George Burns, the former Cleveland player, took his place at first.

WASHINGTON POUNDS OUT EASY WIN OVER BROWNS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30—(AP)—The Washington Senators pounded George Blaeholder, Brownie right hander, unmercifully here today and the Browns dropped their last contest of the season with Washington 9 to 1.

The spill came in the fifth inning when Goose Goslin hit a home run with two men on base. Sam Jones was on the mound for the Senators. The game marked the close of the league baseball season in St. Louis.

FEW UPSETS IN COLLEGE FOOTBALL

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—(AP)—Except for unexpected reverse for the highly touted Naval academy eleven, there were few upsets in the east to mark the first general engagement of the college football year.

While the midshipmen were losing to 2 to 0, to a hard fighting squad from Davis-Elkins college, of Elkins, W. Va., by the margin of a safety, the Army, gaining momentum with every period, crushed Boston university, 35 to 0, scoring three touchdowns in the last period.

Yale which shared with Pittsburgh the mythical championship of the east last year was one of the few teams which failed to get into action yesterday but the Panthers, hard hit by graduation were extended to pull out a 20 to 0 victory over Thiel.

Hobart provided stiff opposition for Syracuse, holding the Orange to a 14 to 6 score, but Cornell, "Gloomy Gil" Dobie's well known pessimism notwithstanding, did manage to down Clarkson 20 to 0. Colgate romped to victory over St. Lawrence but not before their smaller rivals had scored.

Gettysburg, downing American college, 81 to 0, rolled up the highest score in the east but that crushing triumph was not nearly so significant as Lafayette's 78 to 0 victory over Albright. The eLopards, led by Herb McCracken, seem destined for another banner season, perhaps as successful as that of 1926. Pennsylvania and Penn State found their first opposition easy. The Philadelphians took Ursinus in their stride and hammered out a 34 to 0 victory. Hugo Bezdek's charges at State college took Lebanon Valley down the line, 25 to 0.

With Al Marsters running wild as usual, Dartmouth got nothing more than practice against Norwich which fell, 39 to 6. The "Little Three" opened auspiciously enough, Wesleyan beating Bates 14 to 0, Amherst taking over Middlebury 19 to 7, and Williams accounting for Providence 20 to 13.

A green Columbia eleven muffed many opportunities but disposed of Vermont 20 to 0. Ken Strong led New York university to a 21 to 0 triumph over Niagara, Strong scoring all the Violet's points. Fordham turned back St. Bonaventure, 27 to 0. Lehigh, Washington and Jefferson, West Virginia, Boston college, Holy Cross, Georgetown and Bucknell all came through with wins although several of them had close calls.

TWO ROOKIES HOOK UP IN TIGHT PITCHING DUEL

CHICAGO, Sept. 30—(AP)—Bob Weiland, rookie hurler from the Mississippi Valley league, made his major league debut today and pitched the White Sox to a 1 to 0 victory over Philadelphia in the season's finale.

Weiland held the Athletics to seven hits, fanned nine and was so tight in the pinches that 12 Athletics were stranded on base. The winning run came in the seventh inning when Reynolds, another rookie, singled, took second on an infield out and scored on Kamm's single.

Yerkes, Philadelphia rookie, also pitched masterful ball, limiting the White Sox to four hits.

GODFREY-ROBERTI BOUT IS FINALE OF OUTDOOR SEASON

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—(AP)—The outdoor boxing season, more or less groggy from the stiff punches of the wheather man and public indifference limps to a virtual close this week when George Godfrey, massive Negro, meets Roberto Roberti, Italian heavyweight at Ebbets field Wednesday night.

Tex Rickard called a halt on his outdoor extravaganzas some time ago when the Mandell-McLarnin and Tunney-Heeney bouts failed to draw customers to as great numbers as he expected. Now it's getting too cold for Humbert Fugazy to stage his cut rate shows at Ebbets field. The Godfrey-Roberti mix-up, set for 10 rounds probably will wind up the season.

Tommy Grogan, that blue-eyed slugger from Omaha, Neb., takes on a tartar at Madison Square garden Friday night when he meets Joe Glick, deadly body-punching lightweight, who hails from the Williamsburgh district of New York. Glick has met and held his own with the best in the junior lightweight and lightweight divisions. Grogan's long suit is contained in the lethal power of his punches. The battle is set for 10 rounds. In the semi-final Baby Joe Gans, Los Angeles Negro, meets Andy Divodi of New York in another ten-rounder.

ROUTIS HAS SIGNED TO MEET HONEYBOY FINNEGAN

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—(AP)—Andre Routis, young Frenchman who has scaled the featherweight championship heights, has signed to fight Dick (Honeyboy) Finnegan at the new Madison Square garden's opening in Boston, Nov. 16, according to announcement today by his manager, Joe Jacobs.

Routis' newly won title will not be at stake, however, the match being made at 130 pounds, four pounds over the feather limit.

The Frenchman, according to his manager, probably will defend the title for the first time at Madison Square garden here, on or soon after Nov. 30, either in a return bout with the former champion, Tony Canzoneri, or with Benny Bass of Philadelphia.

THE PRINCE IS BEATEN IN GOLF MATCH

MOMBASA, British East Africa, Sept. 30—(AP)—The Prince of Wales, representing the navy in a golf match with a local club today, was defeated by R. D. Browne, 3 up and one to play.

The prince, who is on a good will tour of East Africa with his young brother, the duke of Gloucester, later attended a garden party at which he met a number of native chiefs and wound up the day with a dinner and dance at the Momlasa club.

ACADEMY ELEVEN NOT IMPRESSIVE IN VICTORY OVER CHAPMAN TECH

The Academy opened its football season by squeezing out a 2 to 0 victory over Chapman Tech at Morgan park, New York, Saturday afternoon. A fairly large crowd saw the battle, which was mostly of defensive football with little of the spectacular, open warfare.

The safety came in the third period when Freddy Fox, Norwich guard, tackled a Tech back behind his own goalline.

The Red and White, while winning, still showed that they will have to improve somewhat for the stiff games to come on their schedule. They lost chances to put over touchdowns, both by fumbles and other causes.

Capt. Buck LaCroix, playing his first game in the backfield was a shining light in the tilt, while Fox, who was responsible for the victory, also played a bang-up game. Both these boys are veterans and are looked upon for great help during the course of the year.

On three distinct times the Academy advanced on Tech's goalposts but were unable to score more than the pair of points.

Tech, which had won decisively from Plainfield the week before, was evidently amazed with the Academy attack and could not get her attack in high speed. Any serious threats on the Norwich goal were broken up by Red and White forwards.

The squad will get down to work this week for its opening home engagement this coming Saturday with the Coast Guard Junior Varsity eleven. This team is rated more powerful than Chapman Tech and should extend the locals to the limit.

By their victory Saturday, the Academy already is about the only unbeaten team in eastern Connecticut scholastic football. Windham, Bulkeley and Chapman Tech were victims of Old Man Defeat over the week end. It is the Bulkeley defeat that serves to heighten the week end for Academy followers, especially when their own team had such a tight squeak.

KOZIOL TO BOX TWO AT PROVIDENCE FRIDAY

Al Koziol, local boy and R. I. state lightweight champion, has been signed for the card at the Arcadia arena in Providence on next Friday night. It is probable that Phil Martone of Worcester and Eddie Moran of Somerville, will be brought back to meet the champion. Writing in the Providence Journal, Frank Wakefield comments on the coming fight as follows:

Two weeks ago Koziol was the lone Rhode Island victor here, and last week there were no winners from these plantations, both Koziol and Apice being out of the competition. Next Friday night the Cranston clubber will return to the Arcadia ring in an attempt to redeem some of Rhody's fading fistic prestige.

Judging from the performances of two of the lightweights at the "Arc" last Friday night, Phil Martone of Worcester and Eddie Moran of Somerville, Kozio will have a busy night if these boys are brought back next Friday. Botl Moran and Martone shaped up as worthwhile opponents for the Cranston kid. They are opposite types but either is likely to give Koziol a energy argument. Martone is a chunky, aggressive battler who is ever plunging in and flailing, with both fists Moran is a boxer of the stand-up style, with a fair left jab and a devastating right cross which he is careful not to shoot until he gets the proper opening.

Martone and Moran both scored a pair of knockouts in their trial and semi-final tilts. Moran, because of his heavy punch, figured to trounce Martone in the finals, but the Worcester pugilist crossed the experts and, after weathering one or two of Moran's "shots" knocked the Somerville boy out in the second round with a left and right to the head. Matchmaker Jack Farley could do far worse than bring this pair, and, with Koziol, produce some fireworks in the 135-pound division.

PUTNAM HIGH OPENS WITH WIN OVER WINDHAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Conn., Sept. 30—Putnam high school opened its 1928 football season yesterday afternoon, playing Windham high of Willimantic. Putnam easily defeated Windham by the score of 12 to 0. Putnam outplayed their rivals and scored seven first downs to Windham's two. In the third quarter Cody of Putnam went around Windham's left end for 35 yards. A short time after Cody's run Chase of Windham went through Putnam's line for about 30 yards. The both lines held like stonewalls and all gains were made around the ends. Shann scored both touchdowns for Putnam. The first was on a line plunge from the three yard line and the second was scored on a forward pass from Cody. Windham drew three penalties for being off side while Putnam was only offside once during the whole game. In the last quarter Coach Noyes put in the second team, which seemed to hold the visitors as easily as the first-string team.

HALLAHAN PITCHES SPARKLING GAME TO BEAT BIRMINGHAM

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 30—(AP)—"Sweet William" Hallahan gained revenge over Ed Wells, gangling Birmingham southpaw, today as Houston evened the Dixie series with a 6-0 victory. The left-handed strike-out king of the Texas league put on a dazzling performance for the more than 17,000 fans who paid to see the champions of the two Dixie circuits in their fourth game of the series.

Only 27 men faced Hallahan during the contest. He retired the Barons in order in every inning except the fifth when a fast double engineered by Hock after Birmingham had made two hits in a row and had men on first and third, squelched the only Baron chance for a score.

Houston broke loose on Wells in the sixth and drove him to cover in the seventh. Score:

NUMBER OF LEADING INDUSTRIES SHOWED STRONG DURING SEPTEMBER

NEW YORK, Sept. 30—(AP)—The general strengthening of business that has been apparent through the summer continued during September, a number of the major industries showing marked activity at the end of the month in contrast to the end of September 1927.

Steel mill activity rose to 85 per cent., of capacity with the railroads again in the market for rails, a gain of 10 per cent. over August and of 20 per cent. over September of last year. Construction operations during the third week of the month broke all records for any one week. A slight recession in employment figures at Detroit, after setting new records for seven consecutive weeks, indicated that the peak of automobile production was reached toward the end of the month, but prospects that the total for the month would set a new record appeared promising.

Continuance of underlying firmness in the money market failed to shake confidence, although it tended to defer many new projects and limit expansion to conservative programs. In the building industry, however, business now under contract is sufficient to insure a high rate of activity for some time to come, and confidence prevails that the credit situation will improve after the first of the year. The downward tendency of credit rates in the world markets generally is regarded as a favorable owen.

The crop outlook remained good last week, although the weather has recently been rather unfavorable. Corn has suffered a little from frost, and rains in the northwest have hindered the threshing of spring wheat. Prices of meat animals declined somewhat, but remain unusually high.

The recent improvement in non-ferrous metals, after their long slump continued, copper prices again advanced under the influence of heavy foreign and domestic demand together with abnormally low stocks. Tin and zinc also showed firming tendencies. The petroleum industry was another laggard for which prospects again brightened. Although heavy drilling has continued in California, voluntary control of production in the mid-continent fields has been successful, and restrictions in Venezuela, which has leaped up to second place among producing countries, is now generally expected.

The cool weather had a stimulating effect upon retail trade, and the demand for textiles improved, although the condition of the industry continued unsatisfactory. Coal loadings rose to their peak of the year to date in the second week of September, surpassing the week of last year, but failing to approach the 1926 level, due in in part to the smaller movement of coal and the delay in crop movement owing to low prices for cereals. Failures were again at a high level during the week, surpassing the like period of last year, but dropping off considerably from the previous week.

FIRE ON OCEAN AVENUE, NEW LONDON SAID TO HAVE RESULTED FROM STILL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Sept. 30—Two arrests were made Saturday when the men were charged with violation of the liquor law, their arrests being the result of a fire that brought firemen to a building at 111 Ocean avenue. There a still was found in operation, together with 19 five-gallon cans of alcohol. Samuel Shapiro, owner of the building was arrested shortly after the fire was extinguished and today Joseph Busette, 9 Steward street, was arrested in connection with the law violation. The fire was discovered about 10 o'clock and a still alarm caused Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and two pieces of apparatus to respond Patrolman Henry Hick arrived about the same time the firemen did and discovered the existence of the still, which, it is contended, caused the blaze. When the fire had been extinguished with chemicals and without damage of consequence, Acting Sergeant William Graham and Patrolman Frank Philopena and George Cockell were summoned. The search of the officers revealed the 90 gallons of alcohol, which was seized as evidence against Shapiro. As a result of investigation, Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith and Acting Sergeant Graham today arrested Busette. It is claimed by Shapiro that he is in no way connected with the existence of the still on his premises, nor the manufacture of alcohol, but that he rents the building to Busette. Shapiro was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $1,000 and Busette was liberated upon furnishing a surety on his bond for the same amount. Shapiro and Busette will be presented in court Monday.

Graduating exercises for pupils of the Sunday school of the First Baptist church were held this morning when members of four classes were promoted to higher grades The pastor, Rev. Chester H. Howe, preached on a "Four Square Life". Graduates from the different classes were presented diplomas.

Mrs. James A. Macdonald, 17 Coleman street, was hostess at a miscellaneous shower Friday night given in honor of Miss Ellen Mansfield, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mansfield, 25 Coleman street, who is to become the bride of Joseph Macdonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Macdonald of 14 Center street.

The local customs house is to have a new tin roof according to orders issued by the treasury department. The poor condition of the roof came to the attention of the supervising architect of the department and he immediately recommended that it be repaired.

Property on Goshen street owned by R. C. Davidson has been ordered sold by Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander to satisfy back taxes owed the city in the amount of $110.18 The auction of the property is scheduled to take place on December 1.

According to rumor Councilor William C. Fox of this city will be the unopposed democratic nominee for the office of state senator.

Waterford town election will take place tomorrow and workers in the republican and democratic parties are striving to bring out a record vote. There is little antagonism between the two factions this year as both have more or less agreed to work in harmony.

The program of speakers who will be heard this winter at the Diocesan Bureau of Social Service, New London, was opened the other night by a talk given at the bureau's headquarters, 42 Jay street, New London by Rev Gorden Bodenwein, who spoke on Italian Impressions. Father Bodenwein, who has been stationed at Niantic since his return to this country, recently arrived from Rome, where he has spent the past three years in study.

The speaker was introduced by the Rev. T M. Crowley, D. D., pastor of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, and preceding the talk Henry J. LaFontaine of Norwich, sang several selections.

The room in which the lecture was given was crowded.

Father Bodenwein discussed present day conditions of government and religion in Italy and said during his address:

"And what about Mussolini? Italians themselves will tell you what the conditions were before and after the war. How trains more often than not never reached their destinations, how whole cities at night would be suddenly plunged into darkness, how disorder, discontent, poverty, misery and wretchedness stalked abroad throughout the land. Government, such as it was, was in the hands of political pirates, and all sorts of insidious propaganda had found a happy hunting ground in the land of the ancient Caesars. There was nothing to care about and nobody cared.

Then suddenly, over night as it were, without a great deal of bloodshed or violence, from the threatening communism and chaos, a nation was born. And under the sway of the classic littorio for more than six years there has been steady and phenomenal progress, until today Italy ranks as one of the world's greatest nations. What poets have dreamed and politicians conspired has at last been achieved—national unity, a unity of spirit, a moral unity, the unity of a people conscious of their own identity of their own inheritance from the past, of their hopes of the future, one in sentiment, tradition, and ambition. If ever a nation has been reborn that nation is present-day Italy."

Palace Theatre

Emil Jannings has proved again that art need not be beautiful. And he has shown also that realism, stark and powerful, is his forte on the screen, realism with a grim, human quality that burns into the mind.

This time it is "The Street of Sin," more than a worthy successor to his first American production "The Way of All Flesh," which created a place for the tragic screen drama in a land given over to hapy endings.

To appreciate the heart shock, the fine irony and the pathos of this Paramount picture, go to see it at the Palace theatre where it opened last night to a reception seldom accorded any star's work.

Jannings stalks through the rabble of the London slums like a conqueror in corduroy. The streets of Limehouse obey the threat of his fists and women love him despite his brutality.

It is essentially a story of regeneration but wrought differently than ever before on the screen. His reformation brought about by Fay Wray, who plays a Salvation Army lass, is vivid because it is truthful. His purpose in "playing good" is dire in the beginning. His friend, Olga Baklanova, has lost her street girl charm for him and he desires the purity of Fay Wray. He goes to an extreme that causes Miss Wray to go to the verge of death at the moment when he realizes his love for her and her love for him.

Miss Wray and Madame Baklanova, the latter a celebrated Russian actress from the Moscow Art theatre, give splendid performances. Mauritz Stiller directed the picture from a story written by Josef von Sternberg and Benjamin Glazer, bearing the heart of a squalid Limehouse

Broadway Theatre.

If the theatregoers of Norwich love a love story, and what one does not, then the Broadway theatre will be taxed to its capacity next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, during the Garrick Players' presentation of the Rose of Picardy, a romance of the world's greatest drama that tells the story of human courage and weaknesses, without the firing of a single shot, nor the distant rumble of a solitary cannon. Rose of Picardy is a little French girl, who lives her solitary life in the house her father and brothers had left behind for the battle front. When a squad of A. E. F. is billeted at the farmhouse, things begin to happen for the little Madamoiselle, things that are thrilling, tragic, and humorous, but Mlle. Rose succeeds in finding the road that leads through the gates of happiness to the romance for which her heart aches. As there is something to cry over, much to make merriment, a story to take home—the whole leavened with songs, the entire world loves, it is safe to predict the one of Picardy will prove one of the most popular attractions of the stock season at the Broadway.

Breed Theatre.

The old saying "It's the woman who pays" is true—sometimes.

One time it goes wrong is in The Play Girl, Fox Films delightful comedy romance starring Madge Bellamy, which opened at the Breed theatre last evening.

Miss Bellamy portrays the role of a salesgirl in a florist's shop who dreams of having fine clothes, jewels and easy living.

By a twist of fate she gets them but balks when the man who provides them seeks to exact a price. She learns that his expenditures on her were in the nature of an investment, not gifts, and the battle is on.

Her "lady of the mob," as played by Anita Garvin, is little help; she brings the wrong advice. In the end however a handsome young man, played by Johnny Mack Brown, falls in love with Madge, believes in her and convinces the girl that, after all, the right way is the only way.

The Play Girl is an original story by John Stone and is said to be the finest directoral effort to date of Arthur Rosson, a consistently successful director.

Dr. Caldwell's 3 Rules Keep You Healthy

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their systems. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person.

Get a bottle today, at any drugstore and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open. For a free trial bottle, just use special coupon below:

Mrs. Boone had been apparently enjoying good health until Sunday morning when she complained of being ill, but not seriously. About 4 o'clock her condition was worse and Mr. Boone went to a neighbor to call a physician and on returning to his home, found his wife dead in bed. Mrs. Boone was 68 years of age and had spent 35 years as a resident of Greeneville. She was born in Fitchville, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Fenton. She was united in marriage with George Boone Nov. 5, 1890. Besides her husband she is survived by one son, George Boone, of Hartford; one sister, Mrs. Mary Place, of Providence, and one brother, John Fenton, also of Providence, R. I. Her many friends and acquaintances in this vicinity will be shocked to hear of her death and will extend their heartfelt sympathy to the deceased's family in their bereavement.

Anders Peterson of Providence is spending a few days at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Peterson, of Boswell avenue.

Miss Jane Suplicki, student of the Willimantic State Normal Training school, spent her week-end recess at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Suplicki, of Golden street.

Miss Mary Geohegan has returned to resume her studies at the Willimantic State Normal Training school after spending the week-end recess at her aunts' home, the Misses Driscoll, of Central avenue.

Arthur McGowan of Higgins avenue has returned to resume his studies at Georgetown university at Washington, D C., after spending his summer vacation at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McGowan. During the summer he was playground instructor at the Thamesville center.

Edward Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sullivan of Central avenue, has resumed his studies at Tufts Medical school at Boston.

In the announcements made at the three masses at St. Mary's Memorial church by the pastor, Rev. William A. Keefe, Sunday, it was stated that a tridium to St. Theresa, the Little Flower, would be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The three morning masses will be said at 7 o'clock. Thursday afternoon and evening confessions will be heard for the benefit of the parishioners who wish to receive holy communion on Friday, which is the first Friday of the month.

YALE DIVINITY DEAN SPEAKS AT MEETING ON RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

Dr. Luther Weigle of Yale university addressed a union service Sunday evening at the United Congregational church, under the auspices of the Norwich Council of Religious Education. There was a large congregation at the service which opened at 7:30 o'clock with the organ prelude and the invocation was offered by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church. Following the singing of a hymn, announced by Edwin Hill, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. the responsive reading was led by Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the Central Baptist church. The prayer was offered by Rev. Joseph Cooper, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church and was followed by the anthem.

Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, pastor of the First Congregational church, and president of the Norwich Council of Religious Education, briefly outlined the history of the council, its purposes and plans, which are to train officers and teachers of the Sunday school in order to provide more effective religious education for the youth.

Wallace I. Woodin, secretary of the Connecticut Council of Religious Education, spoke of the coming state convention. He outlined the convention plans and programme, with reference to the list of speakers secured.

The offering was then taken. Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United church, announcing that it was for the benefit of the local ministers' association treasury.

Dr. Luther A. Weigle, who is dean of Yale Divinity school, spoke on the topic, Religion and the Schools. Education remains incomplete, said the speaker, unless it eventuates in character. Religion, if it gets out of touch with education, condemns itself against unequal battle. Education and religion belong together.

We have almost completely stripped our public schools of the religious element. The public schools are doing the best they can in a situation we have created. I believe in the public schools in theory and practice. I send my own children to the public schools. But I cannot be satisfied with the present situation. In the beginning the public school gave ample attention to religion. In early days school sessions were opened and closed with prayer. For a long time the children read and studied religion in school. The old New England primer was very largely composed of material, meant, at least, to be religious.

Now there is nothing left in the public schools of the religious element, save the practice, which still holds in some states, of opening the morning session with scripture and the Lord's Prayer.

Religious strife has taken religion out of the schools. The athiests were not responsible. It has been folk who have spoken in the name of religion. Eventually our children will come to think that religion doesn't count. The public schools are providing practically everything of human interest except religion.

What are we going to do? We can never expect our public schools to undertake in whole or in major part, the religious education of our children. But I think we can do more in our public schools than we are doing. As churches we can undertake to face up to ourselves in the work of religious education for our children. The church should maintain church schools, whether Sunday or week day, that will match up with the efficiency of our public schools.

The service closed shortly after 9 o'clock with the benediction by Rev. Harry P. Brothwell, pastor of the Third Baptist church.

Methodist Pastor Speaks

In his sermon at the morning service Sunday at Trinity Methodist church, the pastor, Rev. Joseph Cooper, spoke upon the theme of Religious Education and said that while our public school system is in force with ever increasing efficiency, it cannot give the religious and moral training which are essential to the highest morality. "Where ought this teaching to be done? It ought first of all to be done in our homes but unfortunately in so many homes these things are tabooed or neglected. Business and pleasure have driven out much of the old time spirit of religion even from our so-called Christian homes. The only hope for the child is largely centered in the Bible schools of the church. Why do I believe this?

"The Bible school is the focus of consecrated personalities. It is the place of the greatest honor because it is the greatest service that any one can render to the kingdom of God. The Bible school makes possible the consecutive study of the Bible. Huxley said many years ago: "I do not see how we can expect private or public morality without the help of the Bible." Nowhere else do our youth get this today. No man can call himself an educated man who does not know his Bible. The Bible school is the place for the greatest opportunity for character building. The appeal of the wise teacher is to the heart as well as to the head. Without character neither man nor woman is anything worth while. Neither money nor knowledge can take the place of character. The Bible school is the place for the development of leadership. Paul writing to one of his churches said: "By this time ye ought to be teachers. Every teacher should be training teachers."

WOMAN INJURED IN WESTERLY ROAD ACCIDENT

Mrs. Carl Guesch of Torrington, a passenger in a big sedan driven by Andrew C. Guesch of that place, sustained severe bruises about the body Sunday afternoon, when the machine skidded and rolled over down a bank on the Norwich-Westerly road near the city line. Mr. Guesch was taken to the Backus hospital by Dr. N. B. Lewis.

There were five or six people in the machine, but she was the only one injured, being caught and pinned under the car when it rolled over.

FAIR GROUNDS CROWDED FOR THE FINAL DAY

The New London County fair came to a close Saturday with its largest attendance of the three days, the grounds being well filled afternoon and evening with a crowd that came close to the 10,000 mark for the day.

The special features for the afternoon entertainment were the horse races, with the vaudeville programme and the automobile parade, while in the evening the fireworks and the vaudeville programme, with the attractions of the midway were the big features.

The race programme started with the 2:19 pace in which four horses faced Starter Lester Dore and the contest for first place was a close struggle between Peter Morris and Good Hope. After the latter, which is owned in Goshen, N. Y., had taken the first heat, Peter Morris, which is owned in Rhode Island, took the second heat by a nose, and went on to win the third heat and the race. The summary:

2:19 Pace, Purse $500 (3 heats)

Time, 2:13, 2:14 3-4; 2:13 1-2.

The 2:18 trot had a field of six to start, but Ed Butler's Santa Cruz Boy was out of it after being distanced in the second heat. Pilot Dillon, a bay gelding owned in Central Falls, R. I., took the race in straight heats, but was hard pressed in the last two heats by Peter Jewett. The summary:

Time, 2:16 1-4; 2:17 3-4; 2:14 3-4.

There was strong rivalry in the 2:30 trot or pace for New London and Windham county horses and J. O. Chapman's Darwetta Boy was an easy winner of the first and last heats and the race, although he ran away in the second heat when a back strap broke, and galloped out in front of the field with Driver Dwyer making frantic but fruitless efforts to bring him to a halt until he dashed under the wire at the finish. He was placed fourth in the heat, but made a show of his field in the final heat which decided the event. The summary:

NO FANTASTIC DOCTRINES IN MISSION, SAYS PRIEST

"There will be no fantastic doctrines preached, nothing of the issues of the day," said Rev. Father Mark at the high mass in St. Patrick's church Sunday. "Nothing only the doctrines of Jesus Christ—the old doctrines which are the best to bring people back to the foot of the cross in repentance." Father Mark was announcing the opening of the two weeks' mission in the parish, which was begun formally at the Sunday evening service. He was explaining that the first week would be devoted to sermons to the women and the girls over 16, the second week being for the men and boys. The design of the special exercises would be to benefit each indivdual, also the parish as a whole.

Father Mark spoke of a mission as a time of special grace; it may be the last opportunity which God will offer many to return to friendship with Him. Nor is it intended alone for the good—it is for all, good, bad, and indifferent. Most of all do the missionaries labor for the indifferent—those who put off their reformation in the hope of a death bed repentance. God gives each this week for himself. Every person appreciates a week of vacation in which he may restore his physical health and strength. It is just as logical to take advantage of a week's opportunity for a spiritual vacation, to build up the soul, that it may be strong against the onslaughts of the devil. The missionary fathers are not here to utter threats, nor for coaxing; merely to remind each person that his eternal welfare is at stake, to help all spiritually as much as they can.

At the end of the week there will be no one so sad as those who have dared the Almighty by throwing back the gift of grace into God's face. All, too, can of themselves prove missionaries, by taking the trouble to use their influence with the careless, poor souls, who may be persuaded to come back and square their accounts with God. The missionaries will call the mission a success only insofar as numbers are brought back to the faith, making their peace with God; and in this respect the lay apostles may prove themselves true missionaries of Jesus Christ.

Throughout the week the daily mission masses will be at 5 and 8 o'clock each morning, with instruction by one of the mission fathers. Evening services will be at 7:30. The mission for all children from first communion age up to 15, is to be held at 4 o'clock on the afternoons of Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

The evening service opened Sunday with a procession of the mission cross, followed by a sermon and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The preacher was Rev. Father Gilbert. The third member of the missionary band is Father Conon. Their monastery, that of the Order of Passionist preachers, is in Baltimore.

Sunday morning the music was exceptionally good, with a solo by Miss Blanche LePre, who was also heard in a duet in "Christe Eleison" with Organist Henry J. LaFontaine. Crucifixus was an effective solo by Horace F. Corning, while Caesar Frank's "Panis Angelicus" proved a wonderfully impressive offertory, the solo by Roderick F. Sullivan, with an admirable blending of voices, as the quartet took up the theme. This great composition is one of the favorite solos of John McCormick. It was given Sunday with remarkable success.

APPLICATION BLANKS FOR MOTOR VEHICLE REGISTRATIONS

Blanks for 1929 motor vehicle registrations were mailed Monday to 815,000 registrants by the state motor vehicle department. These applications are sent three months before the date when new number plates will be required, the department announces so that they may be returned early and eliminate as much as possible the rush for registrations at the end of the year.

Until the close of the business day on November 15, the department will endeavor to reserve for any applicant the registration assigned in 1928, for use, either January 1 or April 1, 1929.

Because of the amount of clerical work involved applications received after November 15, must be assigned numbers in the order most convenient to the department. Each application must be complete and accompanied by the necessary fee and if payment is made in coins or bills, sent through the mails, such payments must be registered. A written request must be submitted for special number reservations. These may be made to the Hartford office or to any of the branch offices. No mail orders will be accepted at the branch offices, except for reservations, and after November 15 all mail orders must be sent to the Hartford office.

Registrants have been slow to take advantage of the opportunity offered to get their number plates early. Last year 27,160 of approximately 280,000 were listed before November 15. In 1926 there were 24,050 and 21,956 in 1925.

With a few changes of words, the registration blanks are the same this year as last. All questions must be answered in ink, or typewritten. Remittance must be made by check, money order or express order, and made payable to the commissioner of motor vehicles. Number plates are delivered free.

All current motor vehicle registrations will expire December 31, 1928. Number plates issued covering 1929 registrations must not be displayed until the last week day of December, 1928. Information concerning fees and questions contained on the application blanks has been sent with every blank to prospective registrants.

Special care is requested of the registrants by the department in copying the engine numbers of their cars on the blanks. Hundreds of owners make the mistake of using the casting number of the cylinder block instead of the engine or motor number. These mistakes are more frequent with users of the Buick, Chevrolet, Dodge, Essex, Hudson, Hupmobil, Maxwell, Nash, Oakland, Overland and Studebaker.

Casting numbers may be distinguished from engine numbers by the fact that they are raised and engine numbers are either stamped on a plate or on a smooth surface somewhere on the motor. If the applicant finds difficulty in locating the proper number, reference should be made to a dealer. To aid registrants information clerks at all department offices have been given a list of casting numbers of various makes of cars. Engine numbers, as given by prospective registrants, are checked with these to determine whether the proper number has been copied on the registration form.

PHILA. POLICE OFFICIALS INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

True Bills Returned Against a Suspended Police Captain and Two Suspended Detectives—Trial Set for Thursday—Indictments Were Found on Testimony Given by a Number of Saloon Keepers.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1—(AP)—William K. Knoell, suspended police captain, and two suspended district detectives today were indicted by the grand jury on evidence uncovered by a previous grand jury's investigation of gang murders, bootlegging and police corruption in Philadelphia. Trial was set for Thursday.

John Sells and Herbert Layre, the detectives, were under Knoell in the police district he once commanded. The witnesses, a number of saloon keepers from the northeast section of the city, offered the testimony on which the indictments were found.

The grand jury returned 52 bills of indictment against Knoell, including 17 bills charging bribery and extortion.

The two detectives were jointly accused on the same number of indictments.

District Attorney Monaghan said he will present bills against more than 20 other police and civilians arrested as the result of the investigation. He said the August grand jury would be continued as an inquisitorial body for at least six months longer.

"I have four payrolls of bootleggers in my possession and they have to be worked out," he said. "The payrolls show payments to policemen, police officials and others for protection."

ALL BUT TWO OF MAFIA EXTORTIONISTS ARRESTED

CHICAGO, Oct. 1—(AP)—Aided by a stoic little Italian boy who could remember every detail of the two weeks he spent with kidnappers on a farm near Kankakee, police tonight had taken into custody all but two of the alleged band of Mafia extortionists and professed to know the identity of the pair still at large.

The names of these two—one of them the chauffeur of the automobile in which Billy Ranieri was whisked away from his home a month ago—were given the state's attorney today by Andrew Cappellano, who made a new confession of the part he played in the conspiracy.

"Yes, the kid was at my farm," Cappelano said when brought here from Hevin. Police had traced him there, where he had fled with his wife and nine children.

Prosecutors broke through his reticence after a long session with Cappellano and his 17 year old son, Tony, whom Billy had identified as his roommate on the farm. Without divulging the names of the men Cappellano had accused, they said he had made a complete new confession. Tomorrow Charles J. Muetler and Samuel A. Hoffman, assistant state's attorneys, will go before the grand jury and ask indictments against the entire band of kidnappers.

Three Sicilians are already under indictment for kidnapping or extortion and a new effort today to free one of them on bail was unavailing.

PHILLIPS DESCRIBED AS "100 PER CENT. PROFITEER"

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—(AP)—The late John M. Phillips, Queens sewer pipe agent, was described today at the Queens sewer trial as a "100 per cent. profiteer."

George V. Slack, a contractor, testifying at the trial of Maurice E. Connolly, former borough president, and Frederick Seely, former borough engineer, charged with conspiracy to defraud the city in $16,000,00 worth of Queen's sewer contracts, furnished the description. He said that Phillips quoted him 30 inch pre-cast pipe at $8 a foot for Queens in October 1924, "terms cash," and at the same time offered to deliver identical pipe to him in the Bronx for $4 a foot.

Frederick Curran, once secretary to Phillips, testified that Phillips supplied $35,000 for newspaper advertising in behalf of Mayor Walker's primary fight in 1925 when John F. Hylan, then mayor of New York was defeated.

"And Mr. Phillips," Max D. Steuer, Connolly's counsel, asked in cross-examining Curran, "knew of course that the governor of the state was most vitally concerned in Mr. Walker's defeating Mayor Hylan?"

"Well, all the newspapers said so," the witness replied.

PUZZLED OVER WHERE CARNES CASHED VALUABLES

WINNEPEG, Ma., Oct. 1—(AP)—Whether Clinton S. Carnes cashed valuables here or in other cities he has visited puzzled police today as they awaited the arrival of officers to take him back to Atlanta, Ga., to face charges of embezzlement.

There were two possibilities, although police have found nothing to substantiate either. One was that the former treasurer of the Southern Baptist Home Mission board had more than one safety deposit box here; or that he deposited cash or securities in Chiago, Milwaukee or other cities he may have visited since disappearing from Atlanta, August 15.

C. M. Newton, chief of police, said: "We have Carnes and we're satisfied he is the man Atlanta officers want. Beyond that we aren't interested."

Questioning of Carnes, whose shortages as treasurer of the church organization were estimated at $1,000,000, has been confined lnrzely to establishing his identy, Chief Newton said.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTOR RESIGNS AS BANK DIRECTOR

BRISTOL, Conn., Oct. 1—(AP)—Named as a presidential elector on the republican ticket, Dewitt Page, a director of the Bristol National bank, resigned from the board of directors at a meeting held today. Mr. Page in tendering his resignation said that it had been called to his attention that he could not serve as a presidential elector and also serve as a director or officer in a national bank.

It is understood that he will be reelected to the board after the November national elections. Mr. Page is president of the New Departure Manufacturing company and a vice president of General Motors.

MISSING MAN LOCATED THIRTY MILES FROM HOME

BENNINGTON, Vt., Oct. 1—(AP)—A four-day search ended tonight with the information received here that Charles E. Wright, 30, missing from his home here since last Wednesday, had been located in Halifax, a little mountain settlement, 30 miles from here. Posses had searched the hills in this vicinity since last Friday.

According to meager reports from Halifax, Wright was in good health in spite of exposure incurred during his wanderings.

SENATOR CURTIS TONIGHT WILL SPEAK IN CHICAGO

Enroute with Senator Curtis to Chicago, Oct. 1—(AP)—Somewhat rested after two days at home in Topeka, Senator Charles Curtis, republican vice presidential nominee, was on his way to party headquarters in Chicago tonight prepared to take orders "like a good soldier" for his part in the finish of the campaign.

Despite two days of complete relaxation at Topeka, Curtis said tonight he was still "very tired." He knows the national committee has outlined a very comprehensive speaking program for him in the northwest and east for the next three weeks and he is ready to go ahead on it but he frankly stated tonight that he hoped his voice might be given a rest for a week or ten days.

The senator still carried his right hand in a sling as he said goodbye to friends upon his departure from Topeka early in the evening. However, an x-ray of the finger which was mashed in an automobile door last week showed that no bones were broken and he expects to be freed of the sling soon. Meantime he is shaking hands with the left hand.

The nominee plans to spend the remainder of the week in Chicago where he is to speak tomorrow night. He also is expected to make an automobile tour of northwestern Indiana on Friday with a speech at Gary. Plans for the next few weeks will be worked out at conferences in Chicago tomorow and Wednesday.

REPUBLICANS TRYING TO SILENCE RELIGIOUS ISSUE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—(AP)—While Herbert Hoover worked away upon campaign details today, the republican national committee attempted to silence a new echo of the religious issue.

The presidential candidate remained silent on the affair, resting upon his flat declaration that he wanted no support upon the basis of religion, but Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the national committee, announced that he has dispatched a telegram to Oliver D. Street, national committeeman for Alabama, rebuking him for published statements attributed to him.

Street was quoted by the Birmingham News as saying that his organization had distributed in that state 200,000 copies of literature entitled "Governor Smith's membership in the Catholic church and its proper place in the campaign."

Work declined to make public his telegram, but disclosed that it was in the nature of a rebuke. Although Hoover made no statement concerning the new development, it became known that he approved the action of the national chairman.

During the day the nominee held a series of conferences to gather the data for the future speeches he is to make.

MURDER TRIAL OF HALE CONTINUED UNTIL NOV. 12

PAWHUSKA, Okla., Oct. 1—(AP)—Retrial of W. K. Hale, rancher alleged by federal investigators to have directed a reign of terror during which nearly a score of Osage Indians met mysterious and violent deaths in northern Oklahoma several years ago, was continued in federal court today until Nov. 12 at the request of government prosecutors.

Hale is charged specifically with the murder of Henry Roan, an Osage Indian, upon whose life he carried a $25,000 insurance policy. He was convicted at his second trial and sentenced to life imprisonment but obtained a reversal of the conviction on an appeal.

In asking a continuance government attorneys told the court they needed more time to prepare their case.

Federal agents allege that Hale plotted wholesale murders among Osage families to obtain their wealth. It is charged he hired John Ramsey, cowboy-farmer, to kill roan. Hale and Ramsey were tried and convicted jointly. The court of appeals held they were entitled to separate trials.

MRS. RAYMOND T. BAKER TO FILE DIVORCE SUIT

RENO, Nev. Oct. 1—(AP)—A divorce complaint charging desertion was prepared for filing today by Mrs. Margaret Emerson Vanderbilt Baker, wife of Raymond T. Baker, director of the United States mint under President Wilson.

They were married June 12, 1918, at Lenox, Mass. Mrs. Baker was the widow of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, who was drowned in the sinking of the Lusitania. Before her marriage to Vanderbilt she obtained a divorce here in 1910 from Smith H. McKim.

The complaint as prepared for filing set forth that Mrs. Baker is a resident of Reno, where she votes and maintains a residence, although she has not been in Reno for several years. She arrived Saturday night. She and Baker have not lived together for five years.

Custody of the eight year old daughter of the couple is asked by Mrs. Baker, although Baker would have the privilege of visiting the child at will and could have the custody of her during part of the summer. All property rights of the couple have been adjusted by separate agreement.

King Of Albania Is Guarded In Palace

Trusted Agents Are Rounding Up Plotters—Eleven Persons Executed.

VIENNA, Oct. 1—(AP)—King Zogu, recently elected monarch of the Albanians, is closely guarded in his palace at Tirana while trusted Albanian and Italian police agents are trying to round up plotters against the new regime, say uncensored dispatches which have just leaked over the border of the mountain kingdom.

The dispatches describe the country as being in a state of alarm which in some places approaches terror. They state that eleven persons were executed yesterday at Durazzo and that 200 others were arrested there at the command of Zogu himself. The executions are said to have taken place in the market place of the dilapidated sea port, which is only 25 miles west of the capital.

The movement against the throne is reported to be widespread. The fact that it has reached Durazzo is taken as confirmation of this because the entire situation is said to be an outgrowth of an uprising which started a few weeks ago in the mountains of northern Albania. That uprising had its birth in the murder of one of the most conspicuous of the mountain chieftains who was found dead in bed. His followers attributed the assassination to men hired by the new king and they declared a blood feud against the monarch.

A majority of the northern Albanians refuse to accept Zogu as king. Most of the northerners are Roman Catholics while Zogu is a Mohammedan.

Thus far nothing has come through to indicate that the Greek Orthodox Christians in southern Albania have a mind to join their co-religionists of the north, but some observers here are predicting the possibility of rebellious outbreaks in that region also.

The dispatches assert that Tirana and other centers are swarming with Italian and Albanian secret police and that arrests are numerous.

King Zogu, it is stated, is virtually barricaded in the old presidential palace which contains so many machine guns, rifles and other weapons that it resembles an arsenal. He ventures out only when accompanied by body guards. It is stated that he has screened himself entirely from public view since the day he was proclaimed king by the national assembly because of fear of assassination.

Because of the turbulent condition of the country and the widespread ramifications of the newest plot, it is stated that the coronation of King Zogu probably will be postponed indefinitely.

FOURTH WITNESS TO IDENTIFY STEPHEN HOPPE

DEDHAM, Mass., Oct. 1—(AP)—John T. Fletcher, an employe of a Quincy garage today, was called by the state as the fourth witness to identify Stephen Hoppe as having been enar the scene of the slaying of Patrolman Alfred N. Hollis, of Quincy. Hoppe is on trial here charged with the murder of Hollis who was slain by a burglar whom he surprised in the act of looting a hardware store in Quincy early on the morning of October 4, last.

Fletcher said that on the night of October 3, 1927, he was employed in a garage near the scene of the crime. He sai dthat an automobile was driven into the garage between 10 and 11 o'clock and that the driver purchased some gas and oil. The car had but two occupants, he said, the driver and a man who was seated in the rear seat. He identified the defendant as being the man who was on the rear seat.

The witness said that Hoppe alighted and left the garage before the car was driven out and that he did not return. He said that later, in the yard of the Dedham jail, he identified Hoppe as the man he had seen. He was under cross examination when court was adjourned.

The bishop at the same time sent a message to Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the republican national committee, expressing "appreciation for the timely and trenchant messages on law enforcement brought us by Mrs. Willebrandt."

In both telegrams, he denied that Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, deputy United States attorney general, in her speeches either before the recent Ohio conference at Springfield or the Northeast conference at Lorain, had appealed to religious intolerance.

EMPORIA, Kas., Oct. 1—(AP)—Roy O. West, secretary of the interior, predicted here today that Illinois, his home state, would give a majority of 500,000 for Herbert Hoover. Secretary West made the statement when informed Thomas F. Donovan, chairman of the Illinois democratic state committee, had told Governor Smith the state would give him a 50,000 majority.

"I have not had time to delve into politics since accepting my seat in the cabinet," said Mr. West, "but I am familiar enough with the Illinois situation to be confident the republican candidate will be given an overwhelming majority."

First Air Mail From Mexico City To U. S.

Airplane is Inaugurating the North-Bound International Service.

LAREDO, Texas, Oct. 1—(AP)—A Mexican government airplane late today was winging its way toward Laredo with the first air mail from the Mexican capital to the United States, inaugurating the north-bound international service.

The first mail from Mexico to cross the border by plane, however, was flown from Nuevo Laredo to Laredo at noon today by David Chagoya, Mexican pilot. He brought only mail from Nuevo Laredo and surrounding towns.

At 7:30 a. m. tomorrow morning the south-bound service will begin. A plane, loading in Laredo, will take off for Mexico City at that hour.

The plane now on its way to Laredo attempted to take off in Mexico City at 6 a. m. on the northward flight but was unable to leave the ground because of the excessive load and a faulty carburetor. After adjustments had been made, the same ship started for the border. The mail in this ship will be transferred to Texas Air Transport planes tomorrow and started on its northward journey through the states.

Mail flown to Laredo from San Antonio yesterday was hauled across the international boundary in a truck, and delivered to the Nuevo Laredo postmaster.

SENATOR ROBINSON CAMPAIGNING IN KANSAS

WICHITA, Kas., Oct. 1—(AP)—The home state of Senator Charles Curtis and William Allen White was selected tonight by Senator Joe Robinson, democratic vice presidential nominee, as a site from which to open with verbal attack guns on the activities of both.

Further, the senator singled out Kansas, one of the great farm states, as the place from which to deliver the most extended attack so far made on his tour of the west on the record of the republican party toward the farmer.

In a speech specifically prepared for delivery here, he accused both Curtis, his rival for office, and other republicans with "trifling" with the agricultural problem and declared that neither the Kansas senator nor Herbert Hoover, the republican standard bearer, had advanced "any definite and effective" plan for carrying out party pledges on this question.

"Both Mr. Hoover and Senator Curtis profess the belief," Mr. Robinson said in his prepared address, "that increased tariffs on farm products are an adequate remedy for the depression in agriculture. It is a recognized principle of economics that protective tariffs are barely effective to maintain domestic prices on products of which large surpluses are produced and sold abroad.

"If increased tariffs is the remedy, what excuse can be given for the failure of the republican party to apply that remedy during the last eight years?"

He added that during this period the republican party under the "leadership of Senator Curtis and others, has been trifling with the problem."

TEXTILE UNIONS REJECT 5 PER CENT WAGE CUT

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Oct. 1—(AP)—Four out of seven unions comprising the New Bedford textile council today voted to reject the five per cent wage cut urged as a compromise by the state board of conciliation and arbitration and the citizens' mediation committee, which had been accepted by the manufacturers' association.

The vote was announced following a meeting of the textile council this afternoon to hear the result of the balloting by the unions.

Secretary W. Batty refused to give out the vote of the unions, but partly from official figures secured and an accurate estimate, it is stated that the vote was substantially 1,000 to reject the wage cut and 800 to accept it.

The total number of union operatives voting today was much below the number that voted overwhelmingly in favor of the strike last April 12. The total vote of the weavers was less than 67 per cent of the vote that called the strike, the loom fixers mustering less than 62 per cent of the total vote on the previous occasion. The small vote is accounted for to some extent from the fact that a number of skilled operatives have left the city for employment in other textile centers.

After almost a two-hour session at which the delegates to the textile council heard the result of the voting, Secretary Batty issued a formal statement announcing the council had unanimously voted confidence in the strike committee.

SMITH REVIEWS HIS RECORD AS GOVERNOR OF NEW YORK

CONVENTION HALL, Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 1—(AP)—Addressing the democratic state convention here tonight on the general theme of party responsibility, Gov. Smith reviewed his service as chief executive of the state, and assailed the republican majority in the state senate and assembly which he charged had sought to block him at almost every turn.

"I will be able to demonstrate if not in the time given me tonight, surely before this campaign is over," the governor declared "that not a single constructive achievement that took place in the government of this state in the last six years had republican suppert until they were beaten down to the earth."

The convention had effected a permanent organization at tonight's session, adopted a platform of party principles and listened to addresses by the permanent chairman, Oliver Cabana, Jr., of Buffalo, when Governor Smith spoke.

The appearance of the governor before 1,700 delegates and alternates and a crowd of spectators that packed the convention hall which seats nearly 5,000 brought to a roaring cheering climax a day marked by party patriotism. Outside the hall, other thousands unable to gain admission, jammed the streets and filled the adjoining Washington Park, while batteries of amplifiers brought to their ears the speech of the governor.

Two conferences, one in the forenoon and the other after adjournment of the opening session of the convention failed to result in an agreement as to the gubernatorial candidate and the balance of the state ticket. The field had narrowed to former Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt and U. S. Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York, either of whom would have to be drafted since both had emphatically declined the place.

The democratic presidential nominee declared that the republican platform adopted last week in Syracuse was "meaningless" and that personally he could get "more comfort from a Chinese laundry ticket."

The governor had not gone far before he singled out Attorney General Albert Ottinger, the republican gubernatorial nominee, declaring that he had approved a fifty year water power lease to the Frontier Power company which he referred to as a subsidiary of the Aluminum company of America.

"No attorney general, protecting the people's right to these great water power resources, should have advised as he did," shouted the governor to applause.

Then Smith lashed out at Edmund MacHold, new chairman of the New York state republican committee, whom he described as the "chief opponent" and the "master mind" against his water power program during the last ten years.

Declaring that MacHold had left "a lucrative office" in the Northeastern Power corporation to become head of the republican state committee, the governor added:

"You can bid goodbye to any state development of water power in the event of republican success."

N. Y. STATE DEM. CONVENTION READY FOR NOMINATIONS

CONVENTION HALL, Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 1—(AP)—The second session of the democratic state convention was called to order tonight for clearing the decks of business for nominations of state officers tomorrow and hearing an address by Governor Smith.

Long before the gavel fell, the convention hall was packed with delegates and spectators, while thousands vainly sought admission.

While the 1,700 delegates and alternates came prepared to cheer their leader and presidential nominee, they were also deeply engrossed with the question of who would be the gubernatorial choice of the executive. A day of conferences between the governor and party leaders apparently was fruitless, for it was announced that another pow wow would be held after the close of the meeting.

After the temporary chairman, William Church Osborn had rapped with his gavel for several minutes order was obtained and prayer was offered by Rabbi Philip Bernstein of this city. Miss Mildred Chapin of Rochester sang the "Star Spangled Banner."

Oliver Cabana, Jr., Buffalo banker was chosen permanent chairman.

In his address Chairman Cabana referred to the Federal Reserve act enacted during the administration of President Wilson and predicted that as president, Governor Smith would bring relief to agriculture.

Joseph V. McWee, president of the board of aldermen of New York city, chairman of the resolutions committee, then read the lengthy party platform. References to Governor Smith's administrative record brought cheer after cheer.

Approval of Governor Smith's "constructive plan for ending the abuses which have attended the futile efforts of the republican party to enforce the provisions of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead law" was the high spot of the lengthy platform adopted.

The platform declared that "present intolerable evils demand a constructive program designed to eliminate the abuses that existing legislation has produced."

The document praised the record of the democratic presidential nominee in his four terms as the state's chief executive.

It also declared that under Governor Smith the state had advanced in its work in child welfare and public health; labor and workmen's compensation; education, home rule, transit, conservation, rent laws and housing, and aviation, despite a policy of opposition by the republicans.

The platform pledged the party to a continuance of the program of state development and progress initiated by Governor Smith.

FRANKLIN D ROOSEVELT SELECTED FOR GOVERNOR

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 1—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt of Hyde Park former assistant secretary of the navy, was unanimously selected at a conference of Governor Smith and state democratic leaders early this morning as the most desirable candidate for governor.

HEAVY VOTE CAST IN LITTLE TOWN ELECTIONS

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 1—(AP)—Early returns from the 123 towns and one city in the state which elected local officers today indicated that the efforts of both major parties to bring out the vote have borne fruit. Both the republican and democratic state chairmen have been urging their committees to secure every "to be made" name in their district and, as a result, a majority of the towns tonight reported unusually heavy voting.

In Middletown, the lone city to elect today, the democrats swept Mayor Frederick J. Bielefield back into office and also elected a first selectman, city treasurer and three councilmen. The republicans elected one councilman. More than 80 per cent of the registered voters of the city cast their ballots.

Andrew Schlectweg was the only democrat to be named to office in Stamford. Schlectweg was elected first selectman by a majority of 369 votes. The republicans rolled up large majorities for every other office, the greatest of which was 1,700 votes for the office of town clerk.

In Branford the contest was so close that a recount of the ballots cast for first selectman was ordered. After the recount, Stephen O'Brien (democrat) moderator, declared that the republicans had won the office. The office of assessor was won by R. S. Baldwin, who was left off the republican ticket this year and who ran on the democrat ticket with the backing of the independent faction of the republican party.

Manchester, Plainville, Cheshire and several other towns reported that the republicans had carried the election by about 4 to 1.

Republican victories were scored today in 22 of the 25 town elections held in western Connecticut, New Milford, Beacon Falls and Morris proving the only exceptions to the general rule of G. O. P. domination in the rural districts of the state.

A large number of split ballots were cast by voters throughout the section, in several cases bringing about the election of individual candidates, who, discarded by their own party, ran as independents and achieved victory by way of the blank column.

Republican majorities were large in most of the towns, with the few close contests being provided by individual candidates.

Towns falling in line behind the G. O. P. banner were: Litchfield, Watertown, Thomaston, Sherman, Kent, Goshen, Bridgewater, Cornwall, Harwinton, Bethlehem, Cheshire, Middlebury, Oxford, Plymouth, Prospect, Roxbury, Seymour, Southbury, Warren, Washington, Woodbury and Wolcott.

TILSON ADDRESSED NEW HAVEN HOOVER LEAGUE

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 1—(AP)—Reluctance to make a change in government at this time will lead many voters to cast their ballots in favor of the republicans and continue the party in office, Col. John Q. Tilson, candidate for re-election as congressman from the third district, said tonight, speaking at a republican rally held under the auspices of the Hoover league for New Haven county.

"People say you can't tell the difference between the parties," Col. Tilson said. "This is true as far as the platform planks on prohibition and the stand on the farm question are concerned. But there are some fundamental differences tha. have come down from the past. If the republicans should now be turned out it would be taken for granted that the policies of one party are not acceptable to the people and it would be a mandate to change that the democratic party could not ignore or it would be accused of bad faith."

Will Irwin, author and life-long friend of Hoover, spoke on "Herbert Hoover, the Man," telling of the republican candidate's rise from obscurity outside his own profession in 1914 to the place he occupies today.

At one part of his speech, Col. Tilson declared that "Hoover is the best man for the presidency, and he is the best man largely because he is a republican. He will carry out the republican policies and uphold the republican tradition."

RELIGIOUS INTOLERANCE "FRUIT OF IGNORANCE"

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 1—(AP)—Speaking at the opening of Yale Divinity school tonight Dr. Luther A. Weigle, who succeeded Dr. Charles R. Brown as dean, deplored the present-day tendency to reduce Christianity to the single dimension of ethics, or to identify it with a particular scheme of dogma.

Dr. Weigle declared that "intolerance is the fruit of ignorance" and that "the most jealous sectarianism is that of the folk whose creeds and politics are matters of habit, custom and contagion merely. The man who sees clearly the reasons for his own convictions," he said, "is able to appreciate and respect the reasons which others have for their convictions."

RAYMOND TAKES PUNCH AT HIS BIG GUARD

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 1—Giving vent to an alleged hatred for John Shea of this city, burly guard of the two Worcester, Mass., bandits convicted in superior court here last Wednesday for the murder of State Policeman Irving H. Nelson in Pomfret last April, Albert J. Raymond, one of the so-called "ice box" bandits and measuring but a few inches over five feet attempted an assault on the guard at the Brooklyn county jail this morning. The assault which was said to have consisted of a "crack in the jaw" was not taken by jail authorities as an attempt to overpower the guard and escape Shea, who was one of two guards who have had charge of the youths since their incarceration in the county jail following their extradition to Connecticut to stand trial on the murder charge, had taken Raymond, according to daily custom into the wash room. Raymond dropped his towel and stooping as if to pick it up came up with a sudden right aimed at the guard's jaw. The prisoner was overpowered without difficulty and locked up in his cell. Shea measures six feet in his stockings and tips the scales at 200 pounds while Raymond weighs about 130 and is but five feet four inches tall. Two sets of heavily padlocked bars which stood between the prisoner and freedom dispelled the theory that Raymond had any intention of escaping by overpowering his guard.

DEMOCRATIC LANDSLIDE IN WINDHAM ELECTION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 1 — Every democratic candidate on the town of Windham ticket swept into office in the town elections held today with the greatest democratic victory experienced here since the days of the ex-Mayor Daniel P. Dunn, about a decade ago. While it had been expected from many quarters that the vote would be close, the landslide, breaking a republican precedent of some ten years standing, came as a surprise throughout the community, including leaders of both parties. Independent voters pointed out that the possible overshadowing effects of the forthcoming national elections and the failure of the republicans to endorse Frank P. Fenton, always a powerful candidate, for town clerk and treasurer, may have been important factors in the victory scored by the democrats.

It was conceded, however, that the Windham democrats, in preparation for the big national and state elections, were more strongly organized this year than for many years past.

While Frank P. Fenton, in making his sensational sweep to victory, carried every ward, including the normally republican first district, by 61 majority, this was not true of every candidate, especially in the fourth district, where there was a republican majority with the one exception of in the office of town clerk and treasurer. The democratic assessor, town clerk, auditor, tax collector and first two members of the town school committee carried small majorities in the first district. The second district went democratic by an average majority of ten, while the third returned to its former standing of many years as the Tammany Hall of Windham.

The elections were the first biennial in the town, permission having been granted by the last legislature to change from annual to biennial. Voting machines were used, two in the second district, two in the fourth, and one each in the first and third districts. The polls were open from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m. and final returns and declarations of elections announced by Chief Moderator Elmer M. Young, at 7:10 o'clock. The biennial town meeting was then adjourned until next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the town hall.

Of the town voting list of 6,079 there were 4,106 ballots. The list by districts and the number of votes cast in each:

First district, list 1045, ballots 690; Second district, list 2131, ballots 1470; Third district, list 1332, ballots 841; Fourth district list 1571, ballots 1105.

The election results show Frank P. Fenton, candidate to succeed himself in the office of town clerk and treasurer, which he has held for 29 years, as running ahead of his ticket by 366 votes with a majority over his opponent, Lewye G. Gerry, of 586 for town clerk and 592 for town treasurer. M. Eugene Lincoln, candidate for second assessor, carried a majority of 226. William A. Buck defeated Ernest P. Chesbro, incumbent of the office, for first selectman, by 116. Buck's running mate, Jeremiah C. Healey, went into the office of second selectman, with a majority of 218. Ernest Chesbro, higher than his running mate, C. Arthur Keeney, on the republican ticket, by a majority of seven votes, assumes the minority position on the board of selectmen, three of the four candidates being elected. A similar situation arose in the offices of assessors and board of relief. A battle royal was waged for the position of tax collector between Lester H. Blish, incumbent, and Conrad Dubeau, a newcomer in public office, who was beaten by Blish, in a similar race last year. Dubeau rode on the bandwagon to a majority of 189. Five of the six candidates for the school committee are elected; C. C. Case being dropped out.

Assessors—*Alexis Caisse, d, 2095, majority 161; *M. Eugene Lincoln, d, 2179, majority 226; George E. Clifford, r, 1953; Frank C. Smith, r, 1954.

A singular situation was created in the office of agent of the town deposit fund for which the democrats had failed to name an opponent to George H. Spencer. The words "No Nomination" showed a majority of 194, but there being no such persons known, the moderator declared Mr. Spencer elected.

Moderator William A. Dawson of the fourth district, accompanied by Frank F. Fenton, custodian of the voting machines, reported at balloting headquarters a defect in one of the machines used in that district with the result that 44 votes for M. E. Lincoln were duplicated, cutting the latter's actual majority over Frank C. Smith to 176. Inasmuch as this did not alter the result of the election the full vote as recorded by the machine was counted. The defect in the machine came to the attention of the district counters when it was discovered that Smith's vote, 592, added to Lincoln's 57, totaled 1149, while the total number of ballots cast in the district was but 1105.

The district officials follow: First District—Moderator-in-chief, Elmer M. Young; checkers, John C. Barstow and William Palmer, Jr.; deputy registrars, William E. Jackson and Jerome Piche; machine tender, William P. Shea; challengers, F. W. Jacobs and Dennis Shea. Second District—Moderator, Attorney Arthur T. Kelly; checkers, Charles W. Hill and Romeo Benoit; deputy registrars, James Haggerty and Attorney John B. Harvey; machine tenders, Charles H. Baker John O'Neill, C. Howard Chaffee and Joseph Lefebvre; challengers, Frank M. Lincoln and Eugene J. Randall Third District—Moderator, James F. Twomey; deputy registrars, James Casey and Paul Hopkins; machine tenders, Thomas Perreault and Wilfred Lariviere; challengers, Anthony Meehan and Leroy Howlett; checkers, L. Vincent Sweeney and Russell Andrews. Fourth District—Moderator, William A. Dawson; deputy registrars, Amos Lewis and John Stoughton; machine tenders, Joseph Cotter, Daniel Sullivan E. F. Ellsworth and Homer Harrington; challengers, Edgar W Jacobs and Thomas Pickett; checkers, Frank H. Foss and Mrs. Marie Simmons.

Early this afternoon, Attorney Arthur T. Kelly, moderator in the second district, who has been suffering from a severe cold, had to abandon his position. James Haggerty, democratic deputy registrar, was sworn in to act as moderator. The first ward had compiled its total at 5:30, third ward at 6:12, followed by the fourth ward at 6:15 and the second ward at 6:40. The official counters of final returns were Chief Moderator Young, John Barstow and Charles V. Palmer, Jr.

Improvements to the New Haven railroad station yard were completed today with the installation of a ten-inch pipe, 55 feet long along the east side of Railroad street to drain off the gutter of the street and prevent the flooding of the depot board walk and parking space. The new pipe connects to one which runs beneath the tracks and empties into the Willimantic river, thus offering complete drainage for the yard. The improvements made also include the elimination of a deep gutter which was a menace to traffic, especially to the New England Transportation company coaches.

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 1—Miss Yvonne Marie Gilbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ulric Gilbert, and Harry Francis Delaney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Delaney, of Greeneville were married by Rev. J. J. McCabe with a nuptial high mass, at St. Mary's church Monday morning. Armand Gilbert the bride's brother, who is studying for the priesthood served the mass. The music was sung by Mrs. George Sarasin and Ephraim Sylvester. Organist James Olson played the march from Lohengrin as the processional and Mendelssohn's wedding march as the recessional. The bride wore a handsome gown, period style, of white satin, with duchesse lace trimmings. Her veil of tulle and lace was caugh with pearls and orange blossoms in bonnet shape. She carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The bridesmaid, Miss Ann Delaney, sister of the groom, of Greeneville, wore a pink chiffon period dress trimmed with maline and a hat to match. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses. The best man was Leo Gilbert, the bride's brother. The little train-bearer was Marie Delaney, a niece of the groom who wore yellow crepe de chine with a maline bandeau and carried on her arm a basket of yellow rose and carnations. The wedding breakfast was served at Ashland club by Mrs. Berkoff of Norwich. Mr. and Mrs. Delaney are going over the Mohawk Trail on an automobile trip. Mrs. Delaney is traveling in a flowered transparent velvet and satin dress, with beaver trimmed sport coat and tan hat. They will reside in Providence, where Mr. Delaney is employed as a carpenter by Pierce and Gates. The bride's gifts were unusually beautiful. Proposals!

A glance at her blonde loveliness tells better than words why this beautiful New York City girl has received such flattering proposals from kings of movie and stage land. She's Collette Francis of 255 East 25th St., Brooklyn; now one of the charmers in the Broadway hit, "Rio Rita."

Miss Francis says: "Since I've been on the stage, so many people have asked me what I do to get the beautiful golden gleam and sparkle in my hair that I am beginning to think I'm really taking wonderful care of it. I really never thought much about it. What I do is so simple. Like so many of my girl friends here in New York, I just put a little Danderine on my brush each time I use it. That keeps my hair silky and gleaming, makes it easy to dress and holds it like I arrange it, for hours. My scalp was very dry and I had a lot of dandruff when I first started on it, but all of that trouble stopped quickly. And Danderine keeps my hair so clean I don't need to shampoo half as often, now."

Danderine removes that oily film from your hair and gives it new life and lustre. It isn't oily and doesn't show. It gives tone and vigor to the scalp. The generous bottles are just 35c at any drug or toilet counter. A delicately fragranced necessity for the well-groomed girl.

"OVER THE COUNTER"

DEAR DOT:

What a difference a few weeks make in the weather and things in general. It seems just yesterday that I was writing to tell you where to get what you wanted in the way of vacation needs and aids in keeping cool and now, with hardly a warning, our greatest concern is how to be warm and comfortable these chilly Fall days But after all it doesn't matter much what the weather is like if we are prepared for it.

The other night we had an argument at the house as to what the most needed piece of furniture was during the shut-in months. Of course Betty quickly insisted that we would never exist without the radio but being the housekeeper I soon won the argument that the STOVE is THE important silent servant. This happened to be an excellent time to tell Jack that I needed a new one badly. Instead of feeling gloomy about it he told me to go down to LINCOLN'S FURNITURE STORE the next day and pick one out as it shouldn't be delayed. So I went.

Of course the first thing they showed me were GLENWOOD RANGES. I guess every housewife knows that they are the best. I only wish I had bought a GLENWOOD when I first went housekeeping. I would never had to buy another one so quickly. The GLENWOODS come in many different styles and they have the Plain Black Iron and Grey Enamel finishes. It matters not whether your kitchen is large or small (and the same applies to your purse) there is a GLENWOOD RANGE to suit your need. They have them with the gas attachment which is ideal for summer cooking. I selected one of these and after giving it only a short try-out I am convinced that it couldn't be improved upon. I told Jack it was like being a bride all over again, breaking in a new STOVE and he reminded me that there was one great difference and that was that we didn't have to eat any overdone or underdone pies this time. Of course experience has helped some, but I think my GLENWOOD deserves most of the praise. I am going to tell all my friends about how wonderful it really is, and you being one of my best ones, are getting the first tip. So when you buy, be sure it is a GLENWOOD from LINCOLN'S and you won't go wrong. Come and see it when you can, won't you?

SUMMER VISITORS

Reports indicate that New England is increasing in popularity as the objective of tourists. That is as desired and it was just such an increase that was sought through an advertising campaign launched a number of months ago. Such a gain as is reported justifies the belief that New England is the delightful playground that it claims and more and more people are coming to recognize it every year.

Just what the gain has been is not the easiest thing to determine but when it is claimed that the number of tourists has increased by 10 per cent. it gives cause for much satisfaction inasmuch as the past summer has not been the kind to attract the largest number of visitors. If such a gain has been possible under those conditions it is proper to believe that more favorable weather conditions would produce even more gratifying results.

But there is no reason why it should not be so. Every one that owns an automobile, and that means an auto for every five persons, sooner or later sees the desirability of spending his vacation in his machine. This is a big country but there must be some place to go and when we sit down and look them over there aren't many sections of the country which offer as great a diversity of attractions as New England. New England attracts because it has good roads. It is a section that is rich in historical places. Every town has them. One will have to travel a long distance to outdo the beautiful views from its high hills and mountains, or the magnificent pictures in going through those mountains. There are natural attractions which vie with the enticing lakes and rivers while there are few sections that can offer anything approaching the charm and variety of its shore resorts.

The tourist business is a desirable one. Evidence of that is to be found in the many signs displayed along the highways, but while there has been an appreciable increase in visitors during the past summer there are good reasons for believing that such does not mean that the peak has been reached. New England has as yet experienced no uncomfortable crowding from the tourists.

HEADED TWO WAYS

When Alfred E. Smith spoke at Milwaukee he did so with the knowledge that he was probably talking to a sympathetic audience. He made sure of that by picking the wet question for discussion. But he was also angling for the LaFollette vote in that state and from the indications there is serious question as to whether he was even satisfied with the result himself.

Mr. Smith is advocating the state control of liquor and the adoption in those states that want to sell liquor of the Canadian system of dispensing it. Of course the Canadian system depends entirely upon which province is referred to. Hardly any two of them are alike, but even where there is the government dispensary or where the prescription system prevails there is no ending of the bootlegging business. That flourishes whether the province is dry or whether it has government control of the liquor business. Likewise there would be encountered the same difficulty of having the wet states sending adequate supplies to those who wanted liquor or wanted to bootleg liquor in the dry states.

It is the declaration of Mr. Smith on another occasion that if elected he will see that prohibition is enforced "so far as it is humanly possible to do it." This was to disclose his attitude to his duty in case he should be elected president, and at the same time it was intended to offer criticism of the manner in which the dry law has been enforced in the past.

In the course of his western trip he declared that the wet question was not the important issue of the campaign, but in Milwaukee he told his hearers concerning that subject that he would consider it his duty to "lay the matter before every community I can reach." In other words while he was engaged in giving the country the best enforcement it ever had he would be doing everything possible to defeat the object of that enforcement. Riding two horses going in opposite directions is quite a feat if done at the same time. Possibly Candidate Smith's hearers swallowed all that he was promising but how he expected to get enforcement in New York city or how he plans to break down the opposition of the southern dry states he didn't take the trouble to explain. He was talking for Milwaukee's votes.

CHANGES IN CHINA

Once the nationalists got control of China they proceeded to improve conditions. It was to be expected that there would be reforms instituted and they are beginning to make themselves evident. The start that is being made gives much hope for the future. That country is apparently getting away from the strife by which it has been torn for so long and laying its plans for better internal and external relations.

Already they have been able to get the recognition of this government. They have adopted new treaties with Germany and Belgium and the consulates of this country and Great Britain have been reopened at Nanking.

Interest centers in the new tariff schedule that will be announced soon, although it is expected that while there will be a tax placed on such goods as China must obtain from other countries it promises to be light, but there is the opportunity for imposing rather stiff taxes on luxuries and on such necessities as can be produced or manufactured in China.

China faces a tremendous task. It needs the friendship of other nations and it evidently recognizes the need of setting its own house in order as one of the effective means of getting it. But reorganizing that government, ending the many abuses, putting down the elements which are hard to control and getting the government onto a sound basis is certain to take much time. Perhaps China has done as much as could be expected in the time it has had and in view of the things to be done. This country has set the pace for other countries in giving assistance to the new government and its good effects are certain to be felt.

Inasmuch as it is not the policy of China to display speed, the developments there must be regarded as characteristic. That is moving in the right direction is cause for satisfaction and perhaps the reforms when instituted will be the more lasting because of the fact that sufficient time is taken to know what they are doing. The idea of making changes unless they are for the better accomplishes nothing.

WHAT NOT TO DO

Frequently there are occasions when criticisms of the lack of protection for the highway users are justified, and when it is possible to show that better warnings should be provided for those negotiating railroad crossings, but such could hardly be said concerning that couple who were killed on a crossing at Norwalk.

The driver of the car was not the first at the crossing after the signal indicating the approach of a train had been displayed. He was in the line that had halted in respect for the signal. But for some reason he was impatient. Evidently he was not disposed to sacrifice the minute or two that would be lost by waiting. In a foolhardy display of daring he pulled out of the line of waiting cars and headed across the track. He was too late to accomplish it. The auto was struck and cut in two and the driver and the young woman with him were killed.

It was one of those many instances which go to show that the fault at grade crossings rests in too many cases squarely upon the shoulders of the highway users. It is bad enough when there is a refusal to stop, look and listen, even when there is no signal displayed, but to brazenly disregard the signal which clearly indicated danger of such a character that others were stopping was inexcusable.

Still tragedies of that character are occurring almost every day and yet there appears to be no end of those who are willing to make themselves the victims. The haste that refuses to heed danger invariably has no justification. Too often there is no reason for it. The Norwalk case was certainly a clear cut demonstration of what not to do at railroad crossings. Can it be imagined that those who waited for the train to pass were sorry?

EMERGENCY BOARD'S SCHEME

Acting under the provisions of the railway labor act, President Coolidge has named an emergency board for the purpose of making an inquiry into the situation which has been created by the demands of the employes of the western railroads. This board is made up of men from all sections of the country and will be headed by James R. Garfield, a former secretary of the interior.

This board will have a period of 30 days in which to make its investigation and report, after which there can be no change in the condition of those involved for another period of 30 days.

Hope had been entertained for a long time that it would be possible to bring about an adjustment of the differences. That had been recently renewed, even after announcement to the contrary was made. The efforts of those who had endeavored to secure a compromise or to have the matter submitted to arbitration were unsuccessful. The men were unwilling to arbitrate because they feared it would make it necessary to submit other disputes to similar treatment in the future. It is a case where the men were unwilling to follow the advice of their officers, who with the railroad officials were willing to submit the matter to arbitration.

The threatened strike is putting to a full test the Watson-Parker law which was intended to operate for the prevention of strikes and the detrimental effects therefrom upon the men, the road and the public. Because of the threat to interrupt interstate commerce it became necessary for the president to act and it is to be hoped that it will not fail to accomplish a settlement of the dispute.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—Some day may be written a very interesting tale of the political adventures of John J. Raskob, who is taking his first plunge out of the realm of big business and into the whirlpool of practical politics as director general of the Smith-for-President drive and chairman of the democratic national committee.

It is going to make a new page in American political history. It may foreshadow a closer knitting of the warp and woof of American life, with lines less sharply drawn than in the past between politics and other gainful occupation.

For it seems quite clear now that, surprising as was Governor Smith's selection of Raskob instead of a democratic political veteran to direct his campaign, it was only an outstanding development in a movement slowly gaining force in the country to draw the rank and file of American business more intimately into the political picture.

On Both Sides

A mere glance at the names of the two score and more directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States shows that Raskob is only one of several of this group of important figures in the business world to have embarked this year on active political work for the presidential candidate each favors.

John G. Lonsdale of St. Louis, president of the National Bank of Commerce, is functioning as a regional chairman of the democratic financial organization. John W. O'Leary, vice president of the Chicago Trust company, heads the division of the republican national committee organization concerned with getting in small subscriptions to the Hoover war chest. Julius H. Barnes, once president of the national chamber and president of Barnes-Ames company of New York, is chairman of the Business Men's Hoover committee of that state. And so it goes, with nobody in Washington entirely certain as to just what active part in the campaign many others of the chamber directorate may be playing.

In the circumstances it is needless to say that the national chamber itself adheres to its announced policy of rigid non-partisanship and political neutrality. With members of its directorate active on both sides of the vote getting warfare, it could not be otherwise.

Big Vote Only Aim

The only activity of the national chamber that may have a bearing on the outcome and which is detectable is the "get-out-the-vote campaign" launched by its civic development department. Member chambers over the country were circularized during August, more or less quietly, but with a foreword by the manager of the civic department stressing the non-partisan purposes of the movement for the purpose of arousing members of local chambers "to a livelier sense of tehir practical responsibilities as citizens."

A considerable number of local chambers already were working to get out the vote, their activities antidating the present campaign. Others, however, find their membership so divided politically in a presidential year that they deem it wiser to preserve complete aloofness from politics for the time. Their position is as delicate in preserving a nice balance of neutrality between the two presidential candidates as that of the national body and they plan to avoid any action, however innocent of partisan motive, which might conceivably be misconstrued.

UNCRUSHABLE

"Why, hello!" said the pretty girl casually when the young men paused beside her where she sat on a bench looking at one wall of a picture exhibit. She seemed intensely interested in one splash of orange and purple color.

"Good afternoon, Theodora," the young man said in a tone that was deep and portentious. He sat down beside her as though he had plenty of time and intended to use it.

"Of course, after the surprise you handed me the other night, I promised myself that I should never see you again, but after thinking the matter over I have concluded that I know what is the trouble. It is all with you. You won't marry me because you are absolutely spoiled."

"Why, Lindsey!" The pretty girl turned on him with a slight frown. "I told you—"

"I don't care what you told me!" the young man declared, sitting up very straight and swelling out his chest. "It may mean something to you but it doesn't to me! Here is one man you can't wind around your little finger!

"The others are so afraid of losing your favor that they round around in circles when you snap the whip and you have accumulated the idea that the world is your oyster, if you get what I mean! You have lost your sense of proportion, Theodora, and when I have restored it to you, life will seem far more perfect—"

"Really, Lindsey—"

—And when you and I are happy together in our little home, you will be thankful that I took matters into my own hands. You aren't in love with any one else?"

"That has nothing to do—"

"It eliminates a lot of trouble for me," the young man said. "You wouldn't want to have a longer time to know me than the fifteen years since we were children together, would you?"

"I certainly would not—"

"You can't complain about my salary," the young man pursued, relentlessly. "You needn't look over into that corner, because there's not a soul there that you know—it's all a mistake that you think you see some one you've got to run over and speak to! You see, I know your little tricks and ways, Theodora, and when a woman can admit that about a man she knows she's met her master! It's your nature to avoid trouble if possible, but you're going to sit right here and listen to what I have to say.

"You are doing yourself a great injustice by refusing to marry me! While the outer world might call you merely frivolous, I look beneath the surface. Rouge and lipstick do not mean that there is not a mind and soul beneath and I am sure that under my guidance you would develop into an entirely different person—one who could appreciate my aims and follow my mental flights! You can do something better than dance your days away—"

"What?" demanded the pretty girl flatly. The young man coughed and hitched a bit nearer.

"Oh, well," he said a bit vaguely, "there are lots of things! For instance, you could learn to type all my papers for me! And be cheerful and optimistic when I came home tired and discouraged! You—"

"But where do I come in?" she inquired interestedly. The young man appeared annoyed.

"You do not seem to comprehend what I am trying to say," he told her. "I am pointing out to you how different your life would be if you spent it with me! I'm not asking you, I'm telling you quietly but forcefully as a strong man would who has made up his mind! I am headed for a goal I am going to reach. And I am done hanging around, a victim of your every whim, coming and going when you whistle, so to say!"

"You may not have thought you whistled but you have!" the young man said. He got to his feet, tall and manly after the fashion of the last leading man he had seen. "When shall we announce our engagement?"

"I told you last night I wouldn't marry you and I won't!" The young man looked stunned.

"If you can give one actual reason for this extraordinary behavior," he told her, "I wish you would! And after all I've said!"

"All right," the pretty girl said with a little sigh. "I won't marry you, Lindsey, because you bore me almost to death! Bore me!"

"Well something certainly went wrong with the line I took this afternoon," the young man admitted with a certain amazement. "But after I've thought it all out again I'll come around and show you how and why you are wrong, Theodora!" And to the nearest picture the pretty girl said, as the young man marched away:

"If he weren't such a nice boy, in spite of being thoroughly spoiled, I wouldn't be so sure I want to marry him after I get him trained!"—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Fair Exhibits And Judges.

Mr. Editor: What is the matter with our Connecticut Agricultural College? Is our extension agent sick, has he been called away on more important business (if such a thing could be) or has he become incapable that he is not on his job as judge of vegetables at our county fair? was the thought that was uppermost in my mind when I was returning Friday from our county fair greatly vexed. I hand had a dispute over my corn with the judge. He had given the premium to the display that reminded me of the lean ears of the Egyptian famine that we read about in the Bible and absolutely refused to change it to the exhibit which represented the fat ears which grew in the seven years of plenty. I told him that those lean ears did not represent my corn as I bred it and but for the fact that I had noticed that the introducer had woefully neglected his strain and that the grower had labeled it Whipple's Early Yellow, would I have ever known it was a Whipple corn. If it had been put on the market at 50 cents a dozen it would not have stood in the way one second of the other exhibit, the originator's strain bringing a dollar. With an air of superiority he indignantly walked away saying "You can settle that with the superintendent" who by the way entered the fat corn.

When I got home I phoned to County Agent Clark and asked. What is the matter with our extension agent. Professor Wilkinson, that he is not on his job as judge of the vegetables at our county fair? and to my surprise I got the answer he and the fruit specialist got no invitations and that they did not feel like judging without being invited. They would have cost the fair nothing, no more than it cost me when he helped me to select the stock corn from which the fat exhibit was grown. I offered to pay him and he stoutly refused saying that the state paid him and he would take no pay from any other source and that it was a part of his work. But let me show you how it must hurt and how keenly he felt the slight if not insult by the delicate regard he had for my feelings when he came to help me select my stock corn. (Stock corn is not cattle corn, but the name given to the selection we make to grow seed from.) He said, "Mr. Whipple, you have succeeded in producing so far the very best sweet corn before the public. You have your ideal and I don't feel like interfering with them." It was the greatest compliment I ever received.

I said, "Professor, I have selected four times as many ears as I need for my planting as that would suit my ideal. Will you please select your ideal from mine?" And then I learned his skill. While selecting he would say, "You want long kernels?"

"Yes." He did not stop to pick out kernels to know their length. They glided through his hand as fast as you could pick them up and not an ear but what had the longest kernels and then he would say, "I like the ears that dries out to a little space between the rows. They stand longer without getting tough." and in 20 minutes to half an hour he was all through and not a mistake. And then we would have a friendly chat together.

One time he fairly lamented over New London county as Christ did over Jerusalem when he would have gathered them together under His wings as hen would her chickens and "ye would not." The professor was doing his very best to help vegetable growers and they wouldn't take any interest in his efforts.

"When ignorance is bliss it is folly to be wise." When conceit has fully bloomed out among our farmers there is but a small show for agricultural colleges benefiting them.

Please let me tell of an experience I had when I lived on the farm. To advertise my corn I exhibited it at the fair. To enter the corn I had to buy a season ticket and in order to meet my expenses I would seek premiums on vegetables. One year I exhibited among other things six varieties of good tomatoes. The exhibit was in place at 10.30 according to the rules. After dinner some one came through the fair and after viewing the exhibits, he goes to the superintendent of the vegetables and I could hear the superintendent answer, "Yes, yet plenty of room." and when I saw the trick and saw my fate I said to myself, that's the last time this is ever going to happen and I prepared for the occasion. At the next fair I had eight, red, yellow and ripe white tomatoes, I had, beside, nearly all the standard market kinds, red and yellow pear and plum tomatoes, peach tomatoes, cherry tomatoes and husk or ber tomatoes. I made 32 entries. I got florist's ferns and lined the paper plates with them, the points just projecting over the edge, to make a green background for red tomatoes. I used red sumac leaves for a background for yellow and white tomatoes and a plate of unripe green tomatoes. I garnished the whole exhibit with cherry tomatoes. I didn't know how many told me it was the prettiest exhibit ever at the fair. Professor Wilkinson was judge at the state fair in Hartford and sent another professor of the C. A. C., to take his place at Norwich as the two fairs came on the same day. I got about $15 in blue ribbons with the collection, $2 prize. The next year I prepared for a still better exhibit and phoned the superintendent asking for more room and got this reply: "I don't know. I don't know. The room is all taken up in the horticultural hall. You can give an educational exhibit in the tent with the county agent." I doubt if he had ever consulted with the county agent about it. I replied, "I will not exhibit at all," and received the answer, "All right, all right."

The next day I heard that my defeated competitors had said that "that old Whipple who drives the white horse carries off all the blue ribbons and if he exhibits we won't." And they exchanged judges to those not as discriminating as our college extension agents. To the many who inquired why I did not exhibit I stated the facts as I have stated them above, and added a fair that is not big enough for my exhibit is not big enough for me and I will stay away until it is, and by the looks of things many have followed my example.

Appreciates Attention Given To Complaint.

Mr. Editor: May I be permitted to thank His Honor, Mayor LeRoy Robbins and the Norwich court of common council through the column of The Norwich Bulletin, in behalf of myself and residents of Washington street, Broadway, Maple Grove avenue, Asylum street, Goldberg avenue and other streets situated in the proximity of Hollyhock island, for listening to the citizens' complaint against the burning of garbage on Hollyhock island.

The practice of disposing of garbage on Hollyhock island by the process of burning constituted a general nuisance and inconvenience to the residents in the above named and other streets which happen to lay in a line near to the island, especially on a windy day. When the garbage was burning on such a day not one of the citizens living in the vicinity would dare to open their windows as the shifting of the wind made it impossible in the entire neighborhood, owing to the unbearable smoke and nauseating smells. During the summer months when the opening of the windows is imperative the citizens living in streets adjacent to Hollyhock island suffered great hardship having the choice of enduring the discomfort of living in homes with windows shut or the greater discomfort of having the interior of their homes ruined by black offensive smoke with the attendant evil of most unpleasant odors.

The burning of the garbage on Hollyhock island caused direct injury to the value of the property in the vicinity as prospective buyers of property in the streets near to the island regarded the smoke and smell attending the burning of the garbage as greatly detrimental to the establishing of their homes in that region.

The prompt manner in which the city authorities investigated the complaint resulting in doing away with the nuisance is greatly to the credit of the administrators of our city government. It shows a tendency to regard the convenience and the health of the citizens of Norwich. This is in line with the entire policy pursued by the city authorities in the administration of Hollyhock island.

New Rates Squeeze Poor To Aid Rich.

Mr. Editor: One more letter of indignation to be added to those already appearing in regard to the new rates of the gas and electrical department.

The only lack now is a leader when something might be accomplished. If someone having the attributes of a leader would call a meeting, a chance would be given for concentrated action.

The argument of the powers that be in the gas and electrical department is that the new rates give a more even distribution of costs. Since when has it been considered a more even distribution to take from the poor man and give to the rich?

With the new rates, the poor man or man with a moderate income living in a small house has his rates raised that the man with a large home and all sorts of electrical appliances, and the manufacturer who is making much money by the use of electricity may have their rates lowered, or in other words, part of their bills paid by the poor man in this so-called just distribution.

It's a farce and I hope the people of Norwich won't let them get away with it.

Walk up and down the business streets of Norwich and ponder on conditions when you observe all the vacant stores. There is something wrong some where and the city gas and electrical department aren't helping towards a better state of affairs.

PERODIC EXAMINATION OF THE URINE

By Leonard A. West M. D., Des Moines, Iowa.

The importance of an examination of the urine, once a year, cannot be too strongly advocated. This means a thorough analysis to determine the presence of albumin, sugar, pus and blood. The specific gravity, which indicates the amount of solid substance in relation to the liquid, is tested. The reaction of the urine, which means whether the urine is acid or alkaline, is also checked.

If the urine is normal, one can rest assured that there is no definite disease of the kidneys or urinary bladder in the great majority of instances. On the other hand, the presence of albumin means some impairment of kidney activity; the presence of sugar suggests diabetes; pus indicates infection; and blood is always a serious finding.

Blood in the urine is a danger sign. There are many people who have passed blood in the urine. They have noticed it. The bleeding has perhaps lasted only a day or so. The incident is forgotten. The individual makes no effort to find out what caused the bleeding. Five years slapse, and again the bleeding occurs. This time it is more severe and lasts longer. A physician is consulted. He finds a cancer of the urinary bladder or kidney, which was perhaps only a small tumor and which was not a cancer five years before. The small tumor could have easily been taken care of and the danger eliminated. However, after five years of tumor growth and cancer degeneration, without producing any symptoms, the situation is indeed grave.

There are many cases for blood in the urine, but some form of tumor is the most common. Do not treat blood in the urine as an unimportant symptom—it is extremely important and should be investigated as soon as it appears. The danger lies in the fact that blood may not appear again for years, but the disease progresses during this time in an insidious manner, without warning.

There are very few diseases of the kidneys and urinary bladder which if taken care of in time, cannot be controlled. Abnormal findings in the urine occur in most all of the cases. Consequently, if the urine is examined routinely, at least once a year, there is every reason to believe that these abnormal conditions can be discovered early and life indefinitely prolonged.

Stories That Recall Others

Peach Bone.

It was the first time in her young life that a whole peach had been given to Helen. She ate it with pleasure, then brought back the seed. "Mother," she said, "I ate all but the bony part."

Little Corn Story.

Mary, age five, was told she could not have a second roasting ear for dinner. Later in the evening the mother went to the child's bed to see whether she had taken too many toys to bed and was astonished to see her small daughter sleeping very contentedly with a half eaten roasting ear clutched tightly in her small hand. The corn, no doubt, had been taken from the refrigerator.

Men eager to meet her
... but quickly lost interest

It was maddening. "What can be wrong?" she sobbed despairingly one day. Touched by her anguish, her chum decided to put aside all delicacy and tell the truth. "B. O."—Body Odor.

Today the girl who couldn't hold her admirers has discovered the charm that attracts most men—daintiness. And she has found, too, that the simplest way to keep safe from "B. O." is also the most delightful. Let her tell you all about it.

Stop "B. O."—it's easy!

"I don't suppose any girl likes to admit she could ever have 'B. O.'

"I know I didn't. But that mistake cost me many friends and good times. You see, we have to perspire all the time. Our doctor told me that even when it's cool our pores give off as much as a quart of odor-causing waste a day. We get so used to the unpleasant odor that we don't notice it—but it does offend others.

"Now, I use Lifebuoy—and never worry about 'B. O.' Just frequent baths with this wonderfully refreshing toilet soap—and I know I'm safe. Lifebuoy's antiseptic lather deodorizes pores.

So kind to the skin!

"Lifebuoy lathers marvelously, and it's so gentle, I just love it for my skin. It keeps my complexion so soft and smooth. Because its antiseptic lather removes germs, Lifebuoy also makes us feel better protected against disease.

"Lifebuoy has such a pleasant and clean scent, yet it vanishes so quickly. We all like to use it. It's the only toilet soap in our house."

Use Lifebuoy a week and you'll use it for life. Get some today.

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grownups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless, Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

RUNAWAY ELECTION AUTO KILLS MYSTIC WOMAN

MYSTIC, Oct. 1—(AP)—Gathering speed as it coasted down a steep incline, a driverless car tonight ended the life of Mrs. Anna Edwards, 99, of this place. Mrs. Edwards, one of three women in the path of the car when it suddenly started moving of its own volition from the curb where it had been parked, was the only one of the trio who failed to get out of the way. She was thrown to the pavement but an examination later revealed that she suffered only a slight bruise on the cheek. Shock is thought to have contributed to her death.

The machine is owned by Selectman Conrad Kretzer and was being used by Ferguson—Rennie, Jr., to bring voters to the polls for the town election. While Rennie was inside the polling place, a woman whom he had brought to the polls came out after voting and climbed in the car. It started to move almost immediately and she hastily climbed out. The car, gathering momentum as it rolled down the hill on which it had been parked, struck Mrs. Edwards and several feet further on came to a stop.

At the weekly meeting next Monday evening William M. Citron, democratic candidate for congress from this district will be the speaker. It is expected that Rev. Mr. Gilbert of Middletown will also be a speaker.

COMMON COUNCIL QUICKLY DISPOSES OF BUSINESS

The October meeting of the common council disposed of its business in 30 minutes Monday evening after the members had been in conference for an hour in the mayor's office, and had also attended the annual town meeting in the town hall.

When Mayor Lee Roy Robbins called the meeting to order at 9.30, Clerk Weston C. Pullen read several petitions upon which action was taken as follows: Mrs. Minnie Noyes for bug light on Garfield avenue; Mrs. J. Kowalchuk, for electric light at Peck street extension; Nicholas Scarlato, for removal of a tree at 223 Broad street; Wesley J. Calkins, for bug light on Hammond avenue. These were referred to the appropriate committees.

For Sewer Pipe Taken.

Ring Bros. presented a claim for 2,275 feet of pipe at 15 cents a foot which had disappeared from a building where it was stored prior to June, 1928. It was represented that the public works committee of the city under the democratic administration had taken the pipe and had used it in concrete highway work. The claim was referred to the finance committee and the corporation counsel.

The council accepted the invitation of Norwich lodge of Elks to attend the opening night, Oct. 17, of the charity fair.

Traffic Ordinance Hearings.

After Mayor Robbins had formally opened and closed hearing upon traffic ordinance amendments, at which nobody appeared, the council voted adoption of the amendments. These make a parking limit of 10 minutes on the southerly side of Main street from Ferry street to Rose place, make a no parking territory on the Main street side of the Shannon building, and no parking on the northerly side of Main street from Broadway to Washington square and from Cliff street to Franklin square, except that from Myers alley to Franklin square the limit is ten minutes.

A resolution was adopted to amend the ordinance on sale and inspection of milk by making the license fee $2. At the present time the fee is 50 cents. There will be a hearing at the November meeting of the council.

Alderman Richard P. Gregson reported for the police commissioners that Milton H. Sauter's petition for a bug light had been granted and the commissioners recommended that petitioners be given leave to withdraw in the case of Frank E. Fitch and others who asked for repeal of the ordinance providing a fine for harboring a rooster.

The council voted favorably upon a resolution presented by Alderman Harold Dahl empowering and directing the public works committee to adopt a schedule of rates for work performed by the cemetery department.

Road to Reservoir

The council adopted a resolution presented by Councilman Hagberg approving the action of the water board in acquiring a right of way to the Deep River reservoir from Anthony Harasimowitz for $500 and authorizing the payment therefor.

It was stated by the councilman in reply to an inquiry that the right of way was needed in order that the reservoir could be reached as without this right of way the water department was shut off from using the road which gives access to the dam.

The meeting also adopted a resolution that the city acquire for $100 from Gilbert C. Bowers a small parcel of land at the northerly end of Tyler avenue to extend the street.

The council meeting adjourned at 9:55 after approving the following department bills:

The Woman's City club of Norwich inaugurated its social programme for the season with a garden party for "open house" for its members from 4 to 8 o'clock Monday afternoon in the Wauregan hotel ballroom. This was transformed into a charming garden with birds' bath in the center, boxwood and English ivy with huge jars of helerium, marigolds, golden rod, fall asters, dahlias and hydrangeas, all set off by fir trees in the background, sun umbrellas and peacock chairs.

FIRST COMMANDMENT MISSION FATHER'S THEME

The women and elder girls of St. Patrick's parish are attending in large numbers their special mission exercises at the church this week. A congregation of good proportions assisted at the 5 o'clock mass Monday morning—a service put at this hour for the convenience of those who go to work early. The instruction was given by Rev. Father Gilbert, one of the three Passionist fathers from Baltimore who are preaching during the week.

At 8 o'clock there was another good sized congregation, when, after the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May had read the low mass, Rev. Father Mark gave the sermon. After invoking the inspiration and aid of the Holy Ghost, Father Mark expressed the hope that the women would continue their earnestness and enthusiasm during the entire week. He exhorted his hearers to pray especially for the negligent and careless, that the grace of God may touch their hearts. He recommended to all the practice of following the Way of the Cross some time each day during the mission, as well as every day, if possible, meditating on the passion of Our Divine Lord as depicted in the fourteen stations of the Cross. Many waited to practice this solemn devotion, following the service.

Father Mark's brief sermon was on the Ten Commandments. If we fulfill all, the preacher declared, we are preparing our souls for a happy eternity.

He took up the First Commandment—"I am the Lord, thy God; thou shalt have no strange gods before Me." God should be the sole object of worship, a fact which He made known following the ancient era when men worshipped even the birds, the fishes, made themselves idols to worship, etc. His first commandment means, "Give Me the homage of thy heart." It tells the obligation of His creature to worship Him. In this, man is following all nature; but man being intelligent worships with faith.

Ignorance is one of the first means of losing faith or weakening it. Not being firmly grounded is likely to lead to a virtual denial of faith, through words and acts which give scandal to those outside the church. For example the late Chief Justice Edward Douglas White, of the supreme court, one of the most illustrious citizens of Washington, was one evening invited to a dinner in his honor. It chanced to be Friday night. The officials noticed that he was not touching the various meats offered him, and deeply concerned, inquired why. Chief Justice White replied, "I am a Catholic—my church asks me not to eat meat on Friday."

The preacher humorously touched up the various ways in which some credulous women disobey the First Commandment through belief in signs, fortune tellers, etc. Then he vigorously condemned all seeking to peer into the future—a knowledge of which rests with God alone. He declared that in many instances so called "predictions," by working on the minds of credulous patrons of fortune tellers had ended in insanity.

YANKEES HAVE EDGE ON CARDINALS IN OFFENSIVE STRENGTH FOR THE SERIES

By ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—(AP)—If the long range firing is anything like it was when the Cardinals and Yankees fought it out two years ago, the reverberations will be heard as far as the radio reaches in the 1928 world's series, starting this Thursday in the Yankee stadium.

Babe Ruth, who led the bombardment of 1926 with three home runs in a single game at St. Louis, will be back doing business at the world's series stand for the ninth time, along with his companion in clout, Larrupin' Lou Gehrig and a strong supporting cast.

The Cardinals have lost two of the big guns of their winning drive of two years ago, Billy Southworth and Lester Bell. A third, Tommy Thevenow, though still with the club, is unlikely to see much action. But the big bats of Jim Bottomley and Chick Hafey, mightiest in the pennant struggle this year, pack more dynamite than ever.

Bottomley, the National league's leading cleanup hitter, has just finished his greatest pennant season. He is just as likely as Ruth or Gehrig to break up a ball game and so is Hafey, regarded by many critic as the hardest "line hitter," in the senior circuit. Hafey is not so colorful as the Babe, Lou or Jim, but he clouts 'em far and often.

Two years ago the Cardinals as a club, not only outplayed and out-pitched the Yankees, but outhit the New Yorkers by a 30-point margin. The series marks showed a team batting average of .272 for the Cardinals in seven games and only .242 for the Yankees.

It is an odd circumstance that the hitting pace-setters of both clubs in 1926, Earle Combs and Tommy Thevenow, are slated to spend most, if not all of their time on the sidelines this year. Thevenow has failed to reach his 1926 form since recovering from a broken leg while Combs has a wrist injury that will handicap him if it does not keep him out of action altogether.

This year, although the Yankees have a margin on the attack, as exhibited by the respective team marks of .295 and .282 for the season, the actual difference is not so conspicuous. There is perhaps a more sustained threat right down the batting order of the Yankees, even with some reserves in the lineup, than the Cardinals boast. Both clubs, however, possess the punch, either is apt to break loose with a big cluster of runs at any time the attack gathers headway.

At one time or another this season, injuries and illness have reduced much of the Yankee power at bat but it has a habit of being turned on in full force when needed most. Ruth, after a prolonged slump and a bad knee, shows signs of recovering his form for the main battle. Gehrig, is a much more consistent slugger than he was two years ago, so is Mark Koenig but Combs, Tony Lazzeri, another semi-casualty, and Joe Dugan, nearing the end of his brilliant career, will be questionable factors.

Except for Hafey and Bottomley, the Cardinal offensive is somewhat erratic and difficult to figure. Douthit has improved and his speed counts on the bases, but his long suit is defense. George Harper wields a dangerous bat upon occasion. Frankie Frisch, who shares with Ruth the distinction of having batted .300 or better in four world's series conflicts, must snap out of a bad slump if he is to add to this record.

BOTH TEAMS WORK OUT IN YANKEE STADIUM

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—(AP)—Pitchers worked out all over the field and batsmen batted line drives against the bleachers and even in the empty seats at the Yankee stadium today, but the gestures did not mean anything. The Yankees and Cardinals were tuning up for the world series opening Thursday.

The National leaguers assert there is no worry in the St. Louis camp over condition. "Not a bruise in the bunch" was the proud boast of the trainer and the actions of the Red Birds backed him up.

The reverse is true of the Yankees, in spite of optimistic reports as to Earle Combs. The player himself and Manager Miller Huggins while hopeful, were by no means certain that he can take his place in center field for the first test. Combs was at the stadium for treatment for his injured wrist, instead of practice. Not until Wednesday, Manager Huggins indicated, will the Yankees know if their regular center fielder and leadoff man is to start.

If Combs can not play, Ben Paschal will take care of center field and leadoff against left handed pitchers with Cedric Durst performing the same functions against righthanders.

The rest of the Yankee team as a whole is in better shape than during the final drive of the season.

At batting practice Bill Sherdel, Jess Haines and Clarence Mitchell all took a turn on the pitching mound. It was conceded that one of the first two would start the opening game.

Henry Johnson, Fred Heimach and Tom Zachary worked for the Yankees and Waite Hoyt, regarded as the most likely choice of Manager Huggins, took a long warming up exercise on the sidelines.

The two teams will practice at the stadium again tomorrow and taper off Wednesday with the diving out to follow before Thursday afternoon.

LURGIO AND HERMAN SIGNED FOR FRIDAY AT DANIELSON

In addition to the appearance of Jack Delaney in a three-round exhibition and the previously announced star bout between Frankie Curcio of Providence and Eddie Williams of Worcester, Matchmaker Frank Barber has signed up another pair for the opening show of the Armory A. C. in Danielson Friday night who may prove to be the sensation of the evening. Tiny Lurgio of Providence and Billy Herman of Worcester are the boys who are expected to give the fans an unusually fast and clever fight in the bantam division. Herman is a former Massachusetts amateur flyweight champ who recently turned pro and who has earned well deserved popularity in the Bay State. Lurgio's cleverness was demonstrated in a recent decisive victory over Harry Soo, a Chinese youngster who has in his bag about every trick known to the boxing game. He has been frequently put on in the headliners in Providence and has made a hit with the fistic followers in that city. Besides these two bouts, which are slated to go six rounds each, there will be three four-round encounters in which several eastern Connecticut boys will participate.

TUNNEY SAYS WEDDING MUST BE IN ROME OR NAPLES

NAPLES, Italy, Oct. 1—(AP)—Gene Tunney radioed his fiancee, Miss Mary Josephine Lauder, tonight that their marriage must take place in either Rome or Naples unless she wishes to have it delayed by further red tape.

Miss Lauder had sent him a message from the motorship Saturnia suggesting that he join her on board the ship and continue on to Trieste in an effort to avoid publicity. Tunney, who has been battling for several days aided by the American ambassador and consuls, to obtain the necessary permissions for an immediate marriage here or in Rome, appeared a bit staggered at the prospect of having to repeat the waiting upon civil and Catholic authorities in another province.

Radio discussion of their plans no longer satisfied the retired pugilist. He attempted tonight every means possible to obtain permission to board the Saturnia on her arrival, which is expected at midnight. It appeared that he would be unsuccessful and that at least a mile of water would separate the lovers until the ship docks tomorrow morning.

HEILMAN AND MANUSH HAVE UNIQUE RECORD

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—(AP)—Regardless of whether Heinie Manush finally noses out Goose Goslin of Washington for the championship in the official American league batting averages some weeks hence, the St. Louis clubber has added a fourth campaign to the Alphonse-Gaston act he and Harry Heilmann began back in 1925 when both Harry and Manush were with Detroit.

The odd years are Harry's, the even Heinie's. In 1925, Heilmann won the batting crown with .393 as Manush struggled along down at .303. Heinie won the title in 1926 with .377, and although Heilmann hit .367, he never seriously threatened.

Last year, odd of course, 'Andsome 'Arry regained the top with .398 while Manush had to be satisfied with .299. Heinie soared to a semi-official .378 in this even season, and either won the title or scared Goslin to death. Heilmann had a hard time hitting .324.

HARVARD SQUAD SETTLES DOWN TO SERIOUS WORK

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 1—(AP)—Teams A and B of the Harvard varsity football squad, went through a 30-minute dummy scrimmage today, beginning the last week of practice before the season's opener with Springfield on Saturday.

The first string men concentrated on the essentials of the running attack, off-tackle plays, end sweeps, and long forwards, under the direction of Assistant Coach Duke Dunne, who was in charge in the absence at New York of Head Coach Horween. The varsity backs also were divided into groups and given a stiff session on defense against the forward pass, while the linemen were working on defeat against running plays.

There will be regulation scrimmages tomorrow, Wednesday and probably Thursday. Douglas, Crawford, W. Ticknor and Grant, whose names had been on the crippled list, were back in uniform today.

STEVENS PUTS SQUAD THROUGH STIFF DRILL

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 1—(AP)—Mal Stevens put Yale varsity football team through a 15 minute scrimmage today principally for the development of the forward and lateral passing attack. Garvey and Decker scored touchdowns against the scrub team after a succession of passes most of which were successful.

Hoben, Garvey and Decker were in the backfield today as they have been since the practice season opened, and Hoben and Garvey did the major part of the passing.

Spiel will probably start at left guard in Saturday's game against Maine. Pirpo Greene, regular guard has been out almost since the first practice. Elmer Kell, right guard has been out of the line for the past few days but will be back tomorrow.

Loud, back; Godman, end, and Stewart, guard, were elevated to the Blue squad today.

BOSTON COLLEGE TO SEND STRONG TEAM AGAINST NAVY

BOSTON, Oct. 1—(AP)—The Boston college football team will be at its full strength next Saturday against the Navy although three of the varsity players rested during practice today, because of slight injuries. They are Marr, Anderson and Morelli, of team A, who are all expected to be ready for action again by Wednesday.

Creedon and Weston, the backs who were outstanding in last Saturday's opener with Catholic university, showed no ill effects in the signal drill today. Team A lined up with Myrley at halfback for Marr, Wilcewski at right guard for Morelli and Kilroy at center for Anderson. No permanent change in the lineup which started Saturday is expected before the Navy game.

MISS LAUDER HAS ARRIVED AT NAPLES

NAPLES Italy, Oct. 2—(Tuesday)—(AP)—The motorship Saturnia, bearing Miss Mary Josephine Lauder to Italy for her marriage to Gene Tunney, former world heavyweight champion, arrived here at 1 a. m.

Although the vessel proceeded to its dock, the passengers were held aboard until the medical examination and other formalities are completed. They will be allowed to leave the ship in a few hours.

ROUTIS, FIRST FRENCH TITLEHOLDER SINCE CARPENTIE

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—(AP)—Andre Routis will return to France bearing the first world pugilistic title held in the land of the Fleur De Lys since Gorgeous Georges Carpentier went back eight years ago with the 175-pound crown after flattening old Bat Levinsky in four rounds. The new featherweight king will sail immediately for France after keeping his non-championship engagement against Honeyboy Finnegan at the opening of the new Madison Square Garden in Boston.

The date for the Finnegan fight has been advanced from November 16 to November 15 to permit Tex Rickard to attend both that bout and the Thompson-Dundee meeting in New York on the sixteenth, according to Joe Jacobs, Routis' manager. The new champion, and other Jacobs fighters, will remain two months in France, but Routis will defend his title only after returning to the United States.

EASTERN COACHES START PATCHING UP WEAK SPOTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—(AP)—Coaches of the east's leading college elevens spent most of their time today pointing out that mistakes that cost little in opening games will be extremely expensive later.

Up at West Point, "Biff" Jones, leader of the Army's football destinies, had his squad busily engaged in breaking up lateral and forward passes. Boston university was extremely successful with this method of offensive last Saturday and the Cadets' next foe, Southern Methodist university, specializes in the same thing.

The Navy was given a stiff workout for the Boston college game this Saturday as a penalty for the midshipmen's defeat at the hands of Davis-Elkins.

Although three regulars were injured slightly in the game with Catholic university, the Boston aggregation will be at full strength for the Navy game.

Princeton, preparing for the opening of her season against Vermont, returned to the old system of having the quarterback call the signals. The new rule, requiring the players coming out of the huddle to halt at the line of scrimmage for a full second before the ball is snapped, was responsible for the change, Bill Roper said.

Yale's varsity, with the aid of a fine passing attack, scored twice on the scrubs. Hoben and Garvey probably will do most of the Eli's aerial work against Maine on Saturday.

Even such a confirmed pessimist as Gil Dobie felt a bit encouraged when Tom Davies, Cornell's only dependable punter, got back in the lineup. Davies was out of the game against Clarkson but will do the punting against Niagara.

Lou Young spent his time trying to pick two ends for his Pennsylvania eleven which faces Franklin and Marshall on Saturday.

Olexy is a certainty at one wing but there are three evenly matched candidates for the other.

Jock Sutherland told his Panthers just how bad they looked against Thiel in the opening game. The squad, said Jock, must do better against forward passes, furnish better interference and quit fumbling if Bethany is to be beaten decisively.

Penn State got a vacation from scrimmage but there was a long signal drill and dummy scrimmage in preparation for Gettysburg. Collins moved into the first-string backfield replacing Wolff.

MOTHER LEAVES SICK BED TO GO TO INJURED SON

Goodreau was injured so severely in football practice Friday that physicians have abandoned hope that he will recover. His death, they said, may occur at any moment. Two brothers of the injured youth came here from Haverhill Saturday, but Mrs. Goodreau, herself seriously ill, was unable at that time to travel. She arrived today after receiving a telegram that her son was near death.

Goodreau is a sophomore at Villanova, and, according to Coach Harry Stuhldreher, was rapidly developing into a star quarterback. He was carrying the ball in practice against the freshmen when he was injured. Goodreau has not been told that his neck is broken and although suffering much pain, believes his injury will keep him out of the game only a few days.

WALTER DEAR WINS THE LEXINGTON STAKE

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 1—(AP)—Some of the best racing of the Grand Circuit meeting in progress here was seen today in a splendid card featured by the $8,000 Lexington Stake won by Walter Dear The victory makes him the leading money winner of his age for the year. He is the property of the Good Time stable of Goshen, N. Y., and was driven by the regular trainer, Walter Cox.

The Kentucky resulted in the victory of Nellie Signal, owned by E. M. Stout, of Pontiac, Mich. It is the oldest three year old stake trotted each season.

Mr. Stout had a second winner of the day in the 3 year old mare Rose Morgan which won the 2:12 trot in straight heats. The horse entered the 2:05 list in the second heat.

Nat Ray led the drivers for the day, winning the first race with Freddie Capp, in addition to his victory in the Kentucky. One of the hardest fought races of the meeting was in the 2:17 pace in which the three year old Dean Wilson fought out a stiff battle to win in a field of fast pacers. Another three year old, Direct Braden, was second.

MYLES LANE TO PLAY WITH PRO HOCKEY TEAM

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—(AP)—Professional hockey today claimed Myles Lane, all-round Dartmouth athlete and one of the few college puck chasers considered proficient enough to play league hockey.

Lane signed a contract to play defense this season for the New York Rangers, world's professional champions. At Dartmouth, where Lane is now an assistant football coach, the Melrose, Mass., star last season captained the hockey team, led the eastern football high scorers with a total of 125 points, and batted an even .400 on the baseball team.

Lane is the first college player to enter the national hockey league ranks where Canadians or Canadian-bred skaters provide most of the material. He intends to play professional baseball next spring.

ARMY HAS ONLY LIGHT SIGNAL DRILL

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 1—(AP)—Football practice here today in preparation for Southern Methodists' invasion this week was limited to signal and light group work, in which Coach "Biff" Jones devoted much time to discussion of Saturday's mistakes against Boston university.

No serious injuries were suffered by the army squad from the Boston game. Group work today was with special attention to ends and secondary defense, breaking up forward and lateral passes. In the Boston game every lateral pass used against the army was successful and resulted in gains. Army coaches are worried for the reason that Southern Methodist university is reputed to specialize on an aerial game.

AL ESPINOSA LEADS FIELD WITH 142 IN NATIONAL PRO QUALIFYING ROUND

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 1—(AP)—Al Espinosa, bubbling over with confidence and hitting his shots as true as a bell, won the qualifying medal in the eleventh national championship of the Professional Golf association which got underway today.

The smiling young pro from Glencove, Ills., turned in a dazzling 142 over the difficult five farms course of the Baltimore Country club to lead his nearest rival, Tommy Armour, by four strokes in the 36 hole qualifying round.

Gene Sarazen in third place, with a 149 finished ahead of his particular rival, Walter Hagen, who won the medal and the championship last year, but could get no better than a card of 150 today.

George Christ, of Rochester, N. Y., and Horton Smith, of Joplin, Mo., tallied the same as the Haig.

Low scores were fed and 160 was good enough to qualify. Before the day was over most of the players and spectators were ready to concede a moral victory to the picturesque and surpassingly difficult course, a comparatively new layout entertaining its first national championship event.

Espinosa meets Johnny Golden while Hagen is pitted against Willie Ogg in the draw for match play which gets under way at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning with 36 holes. Sarazen plays Bill Mehlhorn and Armour encounters Jim Barnes.

Thomson scored 151 but was disqualified on the 14th hole of the second round. Thomson went into the rough with his tee shot. He looked at it for only about two minutes instead of the requisite five and then drove again from the tee. Walking down the fairway he found the first ball and played it. Professional Golf association executives ruled that he should have continued with the second ball.

The cards included:

Louis Chiapetta, Hartford, Conn., 82-85—167.

Willie Ogg, Worcester, Mass., 76-79—155.

BROWN SQUAD HAS ONLY LIGHT WORKOUT

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 1—(AP)—The Brown varsity football squad took things comparatively easy today as it began the work of tapering off for the opening contest with Worcester Poly Saturday afternoon. The players were sent to the showers after a dummy scrimmage sandwiched between two signal drills.

A short scrimmage on special plays today and one conducted in regular game fashion tomorrow, probably will be all the hard work that will be done during the final week of the month of practice before the first game of the season, Head Coach Tuss McLaughry said.

T. G. Anderson, of New Haven, promising sophomore lineman who has been alternating between the A and B teams, received a severe laceration on the forehead when he collided head-on with E. P. Hapgood during the first signal drill. Both were playing on the B team while Hapgood mistook a signal and started out of the line in the wrong direction.

Several stitches were required to close the wound above Anderson's right eye and it will be at least a week before he can don a uniform.

The team lined up with Morrison and Fowler, ends; Moore and Levine, tackles; Joe Caldwell and Barfield, guards; Howe, center; Norman, quarterback; Wittmer, Miles and Jones, backs.

DARTMOUTH HAS EASY PRACTICE SESSION

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 1—(AP)—The Big Green football squad took things easy today after their partly satisfactory showing against Norwich university Saturday. Coach Hawley gave the Dartmouth gridsters a talking to to start practice today and then worked the ends and backs in light scrimmage. He praised the work of Dromberg, a substitute guard, and Ryan, a substitute end.

"Chuck" Robinson, backfield candidate, returned to the squad from an injury early in the season, and Poehler, substitute center last year, who has been resting in an effort to pick up weight, came back. The only casualty reported from Saturday's game was to Strong, tackle, who received a slight injury.

EAGLES' OPEN MEETING HEARS ELOQUENT SPEAKER

Edgar Bigelow, widely known Eagles' orator from the state of Washington, addressed a largely attended open meeting held Monday evening by Norwich lodge, No. 867, F. O. E. at the Eagles home. Mr. Bigelow spoke on the accomplishments of the order and of its advocacy of the old age and widow's pensions. James Dwyer, worthy president of the local lodge, presided at the meeting and introduced Mr. Bigelow.

In opening his address Mr. Bigelow said that the Fraternal Order of Eagles has 600,000 members. Its real estate exceeds $22,000,000. Its invested funds have passed the $10,000,000 mark. Cash on hand, lodge furnishings and club fixtures are worth $10,000,000 more. During the year ending June 1, 1927, 90,000 men joined the F. O. E. More than half a million have come into our ranks since 1920. In finances and in membership ours is today the fastest growing fraternity in the U. S. A.

He went on to speak of the American principles which the organization follows, liberty, truth, justice and equality, and he spoke of the social side which is fostered by the hundreds of Eagles' club houses, and the $1,250,000 temple erected by the Eagles of Milwaukee. He spoke also of the free medical care which is furnished to Eagles and the members of their families, as well as the sick and death benefits which are paid. Since 1898 the fraternity has paid over $30,000,000 in sick benefits and more than $10,000,000 for medical services.

In conclusion, he spoke in part as follows:

Well, among other things, there are two matters of record that every Eagle is proud of: First, our campaign for mothers' pensions and pensions for the dependent aged, and, second, the many activities of the F. O. E. in the war.

Certainly there is no movement that should make such a stirring appeal to the average man as that which would serve to do away with the worries and fears of the penniless and dependent old men and old women. To better this condition is no small problem. Every primary nation on earth today is concerned with its solution. Here in America, the Eagles for six years have been urging a plan whose principles have been accepted in the laws of six states and several Canadian provinces.

Today, as leaders in such legislation, are the states of Wisconsin, Nevada, Montana, Kentucky, Colorado and Maryland, the territory of Alaska and several provinces in the Dominion of Canada. Governors, in signing O. A. P. bills, have unstintedly given credit to the Fraternal Order of Eagles. The pens used in signing the statutes are among the treasured possessions of our order. Our efforts will not abate until every state in the union has on its statute books such a benign law.

Mothers' Pensions

Of a kind with our efforts in support of old age pensions, are our services in behalf of mothers' pensions. It was an Eagle who drew up the mothers' pension law that was first enacted—Judge Edward Everett Porterfield, a member of Kansas City aerie. The state is Missouri. Of all the legislation ever adopted by an American commonwealth, this law comes closest to touching the heartstrings of our people. It keeps at the knee of the mother the child orphaned of its father. For it is the mother who knows best, and most unselfishly loves, her own child. Mothers' pensions enable the country's mothers, under trying circumstances, to carry on. Even if the cost were great, it would be waved aside as a small matter, when compared with what it buys in happiness, in the proper training of children, in the fruits of fine manhood and womanhood cultivated for the state.

World War Record

The second fine patriotic achievement of the F. O. E. is the war record of the order. In 1917-18, out of a membership of only 325,000 Eagles on our roster at that time, 47,000 were in service. The outstanding act of our national convention in 1918 was to create a fund known as the patriotic fund. This was to insure a payment of $1,000 to the dependent mother, wife and children of every member of the order who should answer the call of death while in service. Out of this fund there have been paid to date some thirteen hundred checks, totaling $1,300,00.. This money cannot replace life. But it could, and did, temper the ill winds of poverty that blew over many a family. These gratuities are still being paid. And we shall continue to pay them, so long as any Eagle, in good standing when he entered service, loses his life from wounds or illness received in the line of duty, the patriotic fund and the F. O. E. will "carry on."

The address was one of the most interesting and instructive talks ever delivered at the Eagles home. The officers of the lodge announced late Monday evening that an effort will be made to bring Mr. Bigelow back to Norwich for another address on Thanksgiving Eve when the Eagles will have their annual Thanksgiving turkey supper.

Clarence A. Barnes, unsuccessful candidate for republican nomination for attorney-general of Massachusetts who engaged in a controversy with Gov. Smith, democratic presidential nominee over the Albany baseball pool, again addressed a letter to Gov. Smith accusing him of "wanton failure to enforce the laws of New York state".

Burgess Bedtime Story

Jerry Muskrat Is Worried
By Thornton W. Burgess

Worry never helps you win;
It will, however, make you thin.
—Old Mother Nature.

Jerry Muskrat's new house was about half completed when the great rain fell. It began raining early in the morning. Jerry didn't mind it. He likes rain. It didn't interfere with his work at all. He could work just as well in the rain as if jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun was shining. It rained and it rained and it rained. It rained all that day. The water in the Laughing Brook began to rise and, of course, it rose in the Smiling Pool. At first Jerry didn't mind this. Of course, there is always more water in the Laughing Brook when it rains. Jerry didn't pay any attention to it.

Jerry worked hard that day and he was tired. He went to bed in his new house; and, because he was tired, he soon went to sleeep. He was awakened by water. Yes, sir, he found that he was sleeping in water. There was water all over the floor of his new house. Instantly Jerry was very wide awake. He dived down through the little tunnel that led out from his house, and the minute he was outside he knew that something was wrong. There was a strong current in the Smiling Pool. There should have been hardly any current at all. When Jerry poked his head above water he found that it was still raining, and raining hard. The Laughing Brook was no longer laughing. The noise it made was a roar rather than a laugh. Jerry climbed up on top of his house. Only half of his roof was above water now. Only in the spring had he ever seen the Smiling Pool as big as it now was.

"This is bad" said Jerry. "I hope the water will not rise any more. I guess it won't do any harm to my new house, but if it should get much higher I wouldn't like it."

But Jerry wasn't very much worried. This wasn't the time of year for floods. If it should stop raining the water would soon go down, Jerry knew this. So he sat on top of his house and watched. Little by little, little by little, slowly but steadily, the water crept farther up the roof. By the time day light came and Jerry could see around, only the top of his roof, like a little island, was above water. Now Jerry did begin to worry in earnest.

"I can't stay here much longer," said Jerry. "If the water keeps on coming up it will soon be over this house and I don't know what will happen. It looks bad. It looks very bad."

It did look bad. Both the Smiling Pool and the Laughing Brook were over their banks. The Green Meadows were being flooded, just as so often happens early in the spring. And still it rained! Now that the water was flowing over the Green Meadows it didn't rise quite so fast. But it was still rising just the same. Jerry clung to the top of his house. There was now only a few inches around him that the water had not covered. Jerry began to wonder what he should do. Little by little, little by little, the water crept up. His feet were wet now. He was sitting in water. His splendid new house was entirely covered by water. There was no use in sitting there any longer. Jerry pushed off and began to swim. He headed toward the nearest land he could see.

"Oh, dear!" thought Jerry. "I hope my new house won't be swept away. Yes, sir, I hope my new house won't be swept away. This is dreadful!"

POETRY

The Good Inn

What care if the day
Be turned to gray,
What care if the night come soon?
We may choose the place
Who bow for grace
At the Inn of the Silver Moon.

Ah, hurrying Sire,
Drive deep your spurs,
For it's far to the steepled town—
When in wallet's weight
Shall fix your state
And buy for ye smile or frown
Through our files of green
Do the stars between
Laugh down from the skies of June,
And there's naught to pay
For a couch of hay
At the Inn of the Silver Moon.

You laboring lout,
Pull out, pull out,
With a hand to the creaking tire,
For it's many a mile
By path and stile
To the old wife crouched by the fire
But the door is wide
In the hedgerow side,
And ye ask not bowl nor spoon
Whose draught of must Makes soft the crust
At the Inn of the Silver Moon.

Then here's to the Inn
Of the empty bin,
To the Host of the trackless dunes!
And here's to the friend
Of the journey's end
At the Inn of the Silver Moon.

—Herman Knickerbocker Viele, in "The Inn of the Silver Moon."

"Great Nature Is an Army Gay"

Great nature is an army gay,
Resistless marching on its way;
I hear the bugles clear and sweet,
I hear the tread of million feet.
Across the plain I see it pour;
It tramples down the waving grass;
Within the echoing mountain-pass
I hear a thousand cannon roar.
It swarms within my garden gate;
My deepest well it drinketh dry.
It coin not real; it doth not wait;
By night and day it sweepeth by;
Ceaseless it marcheth by my door;
It heeds me not, though I implore,
I know not whence it comes, nor where
It goes. For me it doth not care—
Whether I starve, or eat, or sleep,
Or live, or die, or sing, or weep.
And now the banners all are bright,
Now torn and blackened by the fight.
Sometimes its laughter shakes the sky,
Sometimes the groans of those who die.
Still through the night and through the livelong day
The infinite army marches on its remorseless way.

—Richard Watson Gilder.

WESTERLY

TOWN COUNCIL COMMITTEE INSPECTS DETENTION ROOM

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 1—The Westerly town council, Horace E. Burdick, president; George E. Broughton, James Naccarata and Isaac G. Smith, recessed from the regular October session in chambers to visit police headquarters. Here they were shown by Chief Thomas E. Brown the rather unsanitary and dismal detention room for women and juvenile prisoners. They were also shown the good points of a gas gun which Chief Brown had witnessed in successful operation at the recent Bridgeport convention.

M. Walter Flynn, Jr., appeared before the council relative to a change in the zoning section off Narragansett avenue, where Thomas Morrison, a Westerly contractor, has requested a change in designation. By vote of the council, the Westerly zoning board has been invited to meet with them jointly the middle of this month to consider changes in this section, as well as along Westerly-Bradford highway.

To canvass the Westerly voting list to be used in the next election the council set the date for 5 p. m., Wednesday, Oct. 10. A letter received from Chairman T. V. B. Clancy of Westerly democratic party, recommending election officer appointees, will also be taken up at this meeting.

President Burdick brought up the matter of the South County Public Service Co., ordering all street lights off buildings, when he asked for council action to have the street light over the door at the Watch Hill fire station off Bay street continued as heretofore. The matter is to be adjusted by the council light committee and the lighting company. The council were also in favor of continuing all-winter lights in some places at Pleasant View Beach where Fire Chief Charles M. Lamb is to live all winter to care for cottages and be at hand for fires. The additional Watch Hill summer electric lights are to be turned off for the winter, Oct. 10.

When the reading of council records brought out that $840.34 had been paid R. B. Wray as investigator of the Westerly Automatic Telephone Co. in its charges for service to Westerly beaches, an investigation begun when Clifford W. Campbell was president of the town council, and continued through the two previous councils, explanations were asked for by Councilman George E. Broughton and President Burdick. The original bill amounted to $1,200, but there was a compromise made after certain charges in the bill had been considered excessive. A telegram was received stating that the counsel would accept $840.34 and if the bill was not paid a lawsuit was feared.

Warren T. Sheffield, 43, of 30 Cross street, applied for appointment as patrolman on the regular police force. Referred to police committee.

No cases of contagious diseases were reported by Dr. Samuel C. Webster, health officer. A victualling license was granted Gennaro Grispino, 24 Main street. A license was granted Frank Capalbo for a pool room on Main street, Bradford. A milk license was granted Oscar Niemi.

Parking lights will not be required in the future on Main street from Commerce street to Broad street; on Broad street from the river bridge to Elm street; on Granite street from Broad to Grove avenue; on High street between Broad street and Grove avenue; on Grove avenue from High to Granite street, and on Union street from Main to Broad streets. Councilman Broughton stated that more lights should be placed on High street and Grove avenue and this matter is to be taken up by the lighting committee.

Thomas Wills, building inspector, reported 45 building applications granted and 28 inspections made during the past month. Councilman Joseph Fraser stated that he believes something should be done to Granite street to relieve the rough condition of the road.

The council voted to establish a building line as previously recommended on the south side of Broad street from Main to Elm street, cutting through the Rhode Island hotel, Welch block, town of Westerly, and Christ Episcopal church lands.

In the Washington county superior court in Westerly, Monday morning, witnesses continued were heard but pleas will not be completed until today (Tuesday), in the three cases of Andrew T. Whaley, William O. Whaley and John L. Rose, Peace Dale residents, against S. Hinman Bird of New York.

CITY ARTIST SANTA CLAUS TO MAIL CARRIER ASHBEY

John Ashbey, local mail carrier, has been on the job without a vacation, never missing a mail, going on 32 years. He has had a green cart for four years, carrying heavy loads of mail to the post office from the railroad station. The wheels of the cart are about ready to fall off. A summer boarder, Sherman Potts, of New York, who paints pictures in large studios, spends the summer in the village and was looking at the mail carrier's cart. On leaving for his home in New York Saturday morning he told the mail carrier that he was going to give him a Christmas present, although it was rather early for them. But Saturday noon, by the steps of Mrs. Jane Carson's store, there was a big crate and the tag read, "John Ashbey, village mail carrier." All smiles was Carrier Ashbey, opening the box and finding it was a new cart—came from Boston and had the name Harvard on the side. He was as joyful as a chap with a new Ford sedan over his present. "I wear out more carts than mail cars, taking 40 bags of mail on the cart, from things like a kitchen stove up to a piano, every day in the week! It would take the life out of any good cart!" John Ashbey is going to write Mr. Potts, thanking him 1,000 times for the fine present.

Head Clerk Roy Scaplan, at the A. & P. store, East Main street, was weighing out sweet potatoes Saturday and they were cheap as water on a duck's back. A steady line of people was taking in the bargain sale of southern sweet potatoes. He came across a queer potato that was six inches long three inches wide and had a head with two eyes and a tail, a perfect picture of a duck. Had everything but the quack. Putting the duck potato in the window of the store on exhibition, he found another potato that had him guessing. The last one looked like a mud turtle and looked as if it was ready for a race with the hare. That was placed beside the duck in the window so the people could see them as they passed by.

The Baptist church was in need of repairs and the steeple roof leaked and the bellows roof also leaked. The trustees of the church held a special meeting and got bids on fixing over the church. Contractor Eugene McDonald put on four men to rush the work before cold winter comes. J. H. Webster has the roof work. That will be of copper, something that will last forever.

Capt. E. Frost and Mate Clifford Grant of the boat Gladys were out flatfishing on the off side of Fishers Island Saturday morning and in one drag had seaweed and a little bit of everything and not many fish. They threw the load on the deck, picking out the fish and coming back to the North dock with five barrels of fish. Mate Grant started to clean off the deck for the day and saw something in the seaweed. It proved to be a small lobster, but was dead; only four inches long, but with perfect nose and head, with the two long whips on each side of the nose. Letting it dry out in the sun for a few hours and then putting it under a tin can to keep it, Captain Frost will have it mounted. Several lobstermen saw it and claimed it was the smallest lobster for a perfect one ever caught in the salt water. They think that the cold water killed it, being so small. If it was not for the seaweed in the net, Captain Frost would never have landed it from the bottom of the ocean.

Brander Tourjee was dismissed from Home Memorial hospital, New London, after a surgical operation.

WAITING AT THE CHURCH—THERE WAS A REASON

When the people in the village went to bed Saturday evening they turned back their watches and Big Ben clocks to standard time, kissing daylight saving time good bye for a year, and getting back the lost hour's sleep since last spring, gaining it on Sunday morning. Now the village is being run by the only exact time where the sun and tide never change. Mike Tassi forgot that old time had come back and started for church Sunday at 8 o'clock, daylight time. He was waiting in the rain for the door to be opened when along came George White and said, "Why so early to church? You have one hour and a half to wait before it starts!" Looking at his watch, he said, "Gee! I forgot old time!—I've lost two hours' sleep!"

Lewis Lamb has returned to Fishers Island, after spending the week-end in the village.

Mrs. Lewis Martin of Crossways cottage, Groton Long Point, has gone to New York for a week's visit.

Carl Ashcroft has returned from a short visit in Occum.

Harry Robertson was in Eagleville recently, calling on relatives.

In Five Million Homes Tonight

What will happen in your household tonight if Baby can't sleep, and won't stop crying? It may be serious, if you've only medicines meant for grown-ups. You needn't worry, if you have a bottle of Castoria. A few drops, and the little one is comforted; a few moments, and all is serene once more. Yet you have given nothing but a vegetable product which doctors approve for the tiniest babies. Just a gentle, soothing preparation the very taste of which tells you it is harmless.

Castoria is always a boon in the home where there are children of any age; for the little everyday ills, fretful spells, or any upset. And a blessing when a sudden attack of colic or acute constipation demands relief. Never be without Castoria; some mothers keep an extra bottle put away. Buy yours now, and have it always ready. But don't regard it as something you must save for emergencies. It is one thing a mother may use freely, as often as needed. A safe and sensible form of comfort for any baby, or twenty-five million bottles would not have been bought last year!

Children Cry for Fletcher's CASTORIA

SPECULATIVE ENTHUSIASM IN STOCKS DAMPENED BY 10 PER CENT CALL MONEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—(AP)—Ten per cent. call money, making its second appearance of the year, dampened speculative enthusiasm in today's stock market but failed to bring out any extensive liquidation. Prices opened higher but turned irregular as banks called loans and the call rate was successively advanced from 7 to 7 1-2, 8, 9 and 10 per cent., trading showed a tendency to turn dull on the decline, the day's sales aggregating 3,381,600 shares.

The rise in money was regarded as incidental to the withdrawal of about $50,000,000 from the money market in connection with quarterly settlements. Easier call money is expected later in the week when the dividend and interest checks return to the banks. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged. The decline in sterling to the year's low again revived hopes of further gold imports from Great Britain to relieve the credit situation here.

The day's business news was generally favorable in character. Woolworth and Sears Roebuck reported large gains in September sales, which, it is expected, will be matched by other chain store and mail order concerns. Authorization of a 4 for 1 stock split up in Coty, Inc., stimulated talk of other recapitalization plans. Several new merger rumors also were in circulation, one of which reached fruition in the announcement that the National Bellas Hess company had purchased Charles Williams Stores, Inc., steadily expanding business also was reported from the steel and copper industries.

The stability of the market in the face of a call money rate that has been equalled only once since 1921 had a favorable effect on speculative sentiment. Pools conducted their operations with confidence and in some cases, notably Chrysler which reached a new high record at 124 7-8, up 5 points, the best prices of the day were recorded after call money had reached the maximum figure.

Coty ran up 5 1-2 points to a new peak at 26¾, on more than double the year's low, on the announcement of the stock split-up. National Bellas Hess soared nearly 15 points to a new peak at 128 3-4, but sold down to 120 1-8 on the traditional "selling on the good news". Kaufman Department Stores climbed more than 3 points to a new peak at 34 on rumors of an early increase in the dividend, and reports of large current sales.

Among the many other issues to reach new high ground for the year were Brockway Motor common and preferred, A. M. Byers, Warren Pipe & Foundry, Eisenlohr, General Ice Cream, Gillette Safety Razor, Grasselli Chemical, Federal Mining & Smelting, Kelly-Springfield preferred issues, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Paramount Famous Lasky, Lehn & Fink, Lambert Chemical, Commercial Investment Trust, Murray Corporation and First National Stores.

General Motors advanced to within a fraction of its record high at 218 1-2, dipped to 214 and closed at 215, off 1 3-8. U. S. Steel also climbed to within a fraction of the record top but lost most of its gain. Selling pressure was most effective against Advance Rumely, Du Pont, Greene Cananea Copper, International Telephone, F. W. Shattuck, Montgomery Ward, all off 2 to 4 points.

Foreign exchanges drifted lower. Sterling cables were again quoted below $4.85 and the Canadian dollar was again at a discount in New York. Spanish and Japanese currencies each reacted about 7 points.

Commodity prices were mixed. Wheat sold down more than a cent a bushel on reports of better crop prospects in the southern hemisphere. Cotton rallied 50 cents to $1.50 a bale on bullish private crop estimates. Coffee and sugar quotations showed little change.

DANIELSON

ANNUAL BUSINESS MEETING OF TOWN PASSES QUIETLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 1—Approximately 200 people sat through the annual business meeting of the town of Killingly in the town hall building this afternoon, the session lasting 25 minutes. There were no controversial subjects, so the routine matters that made up the articles in the warning were promptly passed upon. Reports of all officials as printed in the town reports were accepted.

On motion of Henry W. Babson, a veteran of the Civil war, an appropriation of $425 was made for Memorial day. Of this amount $100 is for use in the observance at Dayville, $100 for East Killingly and $225 for Danielson. John A. Gilbert moved an appropriation of $175 for the observance of Armistice day and the motion was unanimously approved.

Articles in the warning ertaining to the budget of the selectmen and of the town school committee for the current fiscal year were tabled until the adjourned annual town meeting is held on the third Monday of next March. That a like sum may be obtained from the state library grant, the meeting approved an appropriation of $115. Representative William S. Hunter moved that an appropriation of $1,450 be made to meet the cost of musical instruction in the public schools of the town and this received the approval of the meeting. An appropriation of $800 to defray the cost of caring for Killingly poor in the Day Kimball hospital for the current year was moved by N. Lorne Greig of Dayville and made without dissent.

In presenting a motion for an appropriation of $700, for the care of the graves of soldiers in the town of Killingly, Attorney E. L. Darbie explained that such an appropriation is new in the town of Killingly. He said that a statute of the legislature of 1922 requires that the selectmen of Connecticut towns see that the graves of the veterans of all wars, from the Colonial conflicts up to and including the World war, are given proper care, where such care has not been provided for by relatives, friends or cemetery associations. The act further specifies that the sum that may be expended for the care of such graves by the selectmen shall not exceed what the cost would be if cared for by a cemetery association.

Available figures show the graves of 425 soldiers in Killingly. Of this number 200 are cared for by relatives or friends or are under perpetual care by cemetery associations. This leaves 225 graves requiring care by the selectmen. For the first year the care of these 225 graves is estimated to cost just under $700. The meeting unanimously passed the motion making the appropriation available.

At this point the meeting was recessed to await the counting of the votes cast in the annual election, the result of which is given elsewhere in this column.

OBITUARIES

Harold E. Horton

An unexpected death at the home on Riverview street this morning was that of Harold E. Horton, 30, a veteran of the World war and for several years with the French Cable company at their test station at Dayville. Though Mr. Horton suffering the effects of some of his experiences in the World war, had been in a precarious state of health for a number of months, he was down town the past week end, and there was no indication that the end was so near at hand. He died during the very early hours of this morning, and the announcement came as a great shock to his friends.

Mr. Horton was a native of Taunton, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Horton. He had made a great many friends during his residence in this town, and their regret over his untimely death is deep. Mr. Horton was a member of the American Legion and of the I. O. O. F., which he had served here as an officer. He is survived by his wife, his father and mother and by two sisters, the family resident in Taunton.

Mrs. Joseph Paquin

Mrs. Virginia Paquin, 76, for half a century a resident of Danielson, died this morning at her home on Dyer street. She had been in failing health for a long time. Mrs. Paquin, a native of St. Marie, P. Q., was the widow of Joseph Paquin, who died here a number of years ago. Mrs. Paquin leaves a son, Delor, of the West Side, and three daughters, Mrs. Alma Rainville, Misses Julia and Alice Paquin, all of Danielson.

FUNERALS

Joseph Lindley

At the funeral home of A. F. Wood, Mechanic street, yesterday at 11 a. m. funeral services for Joseph Lindley were conducted by Rev. J. Rees Jones, rector of St. Alban's church. Burial was in Oak Grove cemetery at New Bedford, where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Arthur M. Butterfield, pastor of the First Primitive Methodist Episcopal church of that city. The bearers were Peter Boose, Stephen Sutton, Frederick Taylor and Joseph Greene.

C. H. Crossman

The funeral of Clifford H. Crossman was held from the home in Foster yesterday with funeral services at the Foster Center church, Rev. F. M. Buker of Anthony having charge. Burial was in the Spears cemetery. The bearers were Walter Collins, Charles Sahlen, Ralph Nichols and Russell Wells. A. F. Wood had charge of the arrangements.

When 2015 electors came out to cast their ballots in today's town election they established a record all-time high vote for the town of Killingly. Estimates of those who watched the voting during the first hours the polls were open estimated that the vote might run up to 2000, and the total reached was a very general surprise. Good weather, the large number of new voters and the political inspiration that the electorate usually takes on during a presidential election year all appear to have counted as factors, in piling up the unusual total for this town. Yet there are those who are predicting that this record will stand only until November 6. More than 1,000 entitled to vote in this town did not do so today. One reason for this lack of real contests in the town election. It will be different in November, experienced observers of both parties allow.

Still more voters are to be made this month, probably bringing the total enrollment in Killingly close to the 3,300 mark.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cloutier motored to Brockton today to attend the fair.

At fullback for the Providence Steam Rollers in the Sunday game with the New York team Arthur Williams, former Connecticut state back, was the star of the game, getting two touchdowns and paving the way for another through intercepting a forward pass.

Arthur Dupre, who has been in the employ of John M. Dowe for several years has resigned to enter business for himself.

Claude Moran, representing the Democratic party, was moderator at today's town meeting. Mr. Moran is a resident of East Killingly.

Observers of voters at today's election noted that the new voters showed practically no confusion in casting their first ballots. Another observation was that many of these new voters were young women.

President M. H. Berthiaume said today that he anticipates the largest attendance in months when the chamber of commerce holds its monthly meeting at the Attawaugan hotel Tuesday evening of this week. It is to be a ladies' night gathering followed by attendance at the Orpheum theater as guests of Manager Henry Johnson.

The open season for hunting game birds protected during the greater part of the year begins next Monday, October 8. An exception this year is that woodcock may not be legally killed until October 20.

Repairs to the Main street crossing will be completed this week by the N. Y., N. H. and H. R. R. company. Planking in present use at the crossing is there only temporarily.

Edward J. McBride will be in attendance at the Brockton fair Wednesday and Thursday.

Everill James of the Green Hollow road has been spending a few days visiting with relatives in Boston.

Upwards of 1100 of Killingly's voters failed to participate in today's town election, though the vote cast was the largest in the history of the town.

A small square of gold braid on the sleeves of several of the state officers at the Danielson barracks indicates four years of service with the department. The insignia is a new one recently introduced in the department.

Three ballots cast in today's election got into the ballot box with stubs attached, and one ballot found its way into the stub box, while the stub went into the ballot box.

REPUBLICANS SWEEP TO VICTORY IN KILLINGLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 1—The republicans of Killingly elected all of their candidates in today's town election, which was featured by what proved to be an extremely close contest for the berth of first selectman. Charles A. Tillinghast, the republican candidate, was elected by the narrow margin of 15 votes, although the relative strength of the republicans against democrats as shown in other places on the ticket was about 300 in favor of the former. There were 2015 votes cast in the election, a new high record for this town. About one-third of these were split tickets, while the straight republican ballots were 760 and the straight democrats, 606. The detail of the vote is as follows:

PUTNAM

ICE BOX BANDITS TO RECEIVE SENTENCE TODAY

PUTNAM, Oct. 1—Albert Raymond and Roland Lalone, the convicted slayers of Officer Irving Nelson will receive their sentence in Putnam tomorrow, Sheriff Charles A. Gates announced today that only officials of the court, police officers and newspaper representatives will be allowed in the courtroom when the so-called "ice box" bandits receive their sentence. The sheriff has asked Captain Jarvis of Putnam to provide some extra men for him tomorrow morning to help handle the crowd that is expected to collect in front of the courtroom. The sentence will be given by Judge Yeomans, who has officiated at the trial. The Connecticut law requires that Raymond and Lalone be given a sentence of life. The prisoners are not expected to appeal the sentence.

Forty people are to become naturalized citizens of the United States tomorrow when they appear before Judge Yeomans in the superior court. This is to take place after the sentencing of the ice box bandits.

WEDDING

Marois-Baker

One of the prettiest weddings of the year took place this morning when Miss Elenora Baker of Middle street was married to Stanislaus Marois of Webster at St. Mary's church. The bride wore a white satin period dress trimmed with silk Spanish lace and a veil which was caught up with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley with drops of lilies of the valley and maiden hair fern. The bridesmaid was Florence Marois, a sister of the groom. She wore a pink silk taffeta dress trimmed with pink silk meline and a hat to match. She carried a bouquet of pink tea roses. The best man was Leo Marois, a brother of the groom. The nuptial mass was sung by Rev. U. O. Bellerose. During the mass Mrs. A. Beaudreault sang Ave Maria as a soprano solo.

After the ceremony a reception was held in Odd Fellows' hall for relatives and friends of the couple. About noon the couple left for Providence and Boston on their honeymoon. For a traveling outfit the bride wore a grey georgette ensemble. They will be gone about two weeks after which they will return to Webster.

Mr. Marois is employed at the Slater company in Webster and Miss Baker is an employe of the Bloom Silk company of Putnam.

Many relatives and friends of the couple from Worcester, Boston, Westerly, R. I., Auburn and Oxford, Mass., were at the wedding. The bride received many useful and valuable presents.

The sharp curve at the Grove street cemetery was the scene of another accident last night when a car driven by Ellen Chisbane of Putnam sideswiped the car owned and operated by Louis Woisard of Danielson, in the car operated by the girl was Henry D. Sistare of Putnam who was giving Miss Chisbane a driving lesson. The car operated by Miss Chisbane was coming toward Putnam on the extreme left side of the road. At the corner they met the car operated by Woisard. Mr. Woisard tried to avoid the accident but there was not enough room for him to get by and Miss Chisbane sideswiped him. Mr. Sistare who was responsible was given a summons to appear in court this morning where he was fined $5 and costs of $9.77 when he pleaded guilty.

Two cars sideswiped each other last night on the road from the Children's Home to the town of Thompson. A Rhode Island car driven by W. Merriweather of Providence ran into the car owned and operated by Ernest Aillant of West Springfield. There were no personal injuries to any of the occupants of either car. The car owned by Merriweather ran off the road, over a wall and down a ten-foot embankment. The car was quite badly damaged but it is thought that a settlement will be reached out of court.

PUTNAM ELECTS REPUBLICAN TICKET INTO OFFICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 1—The republican ticket was elected here today with an average majority of 200 votes. There were 918 votes cast, of which 542 were straight republican and 221 straight democratic. The remaining votes were split. The vote in detail follows:

Assessor—*Ulric Beausoleil, r, 590; Daniel Labossier, d, 292.

*—Elected.

In the city court this morning the case of Joseph Mason, who was arrested on the charge of driving under the influence of liquor, was continued until Saturday morning on the motion of Mr. Johnson, the prosecuting attorney.

Gordon Winslow, former track and football star of Putnam high school, has returned to school to take a postgraduate course before going to Syracuse university. He has been working in the New Departure plant in Meriden.

Stephen Lee, who was in the accident in Thompson last Saturday, is still on the danger list at the Day Kimball hospital. William Palmer, who was driving the car is in the hospital but his condition is not serious. When Palmer leaves the hospital he will have to stand trial in Thompson on the charge of reckless driving.

A great deal of interest is being shown in the town elections today as Mrs. Saretski who opposed Mrs. A. McDonald in the republican caucus a short time ago for the nomination as a member of the school committee, is opposing Mrs. A. McDonald on an independent ticket. At the caucus Mrs. McDonald defeated Mrs. Saretski by a margin of six votes. As this was only the republican choice many people are anxious to see what the choice of the whole town will be.

A large number of people were seen going to church yesterday an hour too early. This was due to the fact that they had forgotten to set their clocks back an hour as they should have.

The fifth and deciding game of the Putnam girls Soz-North Grosvenordale American Legion series was postponed yesterday because of inclement weather. So far in the series both teams have taken two games and a good game was expected yesterday as both managers had strengthened their lineup. The game however will be played next Sunday.

An international code is being evolved so that directions for emergency medical treatment can be radioed to small ships at sea.

—and New England Farmers can Make MORE Millions

WHY will it be a surprise to almost everyone who reads this to learn here and now the official fact . . . that the farms of New England produce Four Hundred Million Dollars Worth of marketable merchandise Every Year?

Partly, because New England began "taking farms for granted" about three hundred years ago . . . Principally, because the agriculturalists, orchardists, poultrymen, dairymen, and farmers, themselves, scarcely realize as yet how . . . and how much . . . their own total farm production, plus that of all their New England neighbors, can add to the economic wealth and potential resources of these states that have become famous for so many other forms of enterprise!

FARMERS' OPPORTUNITY

Four hundred million dollars worth, total annual farm production in New England! In spite of this respectable annual volume of production, the real surprising fact is that New England actually has to spend other hundreds of millions elsewhere to get enough farm-grown products to supply the primary daily needs of its own prosperous population. Here's a spectacular opportunity for New England farmers to develop better marketing methods and still greater production.

Two years ago, with the co-operation of the Commissioners of Agriculture in the six New England states, the New England Council's Agricultural Committee was responsible for the adoption of the "New England Farm Marketing Program." Since then, the leading New England farmers and farm organizations have met annually for mutual counsel and co-operation in the New England Farm Marketing Conferences. Five of the six New England states during 1927 enacted laws creating authority for the establishment of uniform grades and standards under which the quality products of New England farms may be marketed with definite advantages for both producer and consumer. The extension of power service into rural areas has been expedited. Notably beneficial improvements have been brought about by studies of milk-marketing conditions in every New England state, and the creation of the New England Dairy Conference Board.

BENEFITS FOR YOU, TOO

Whether your major interests be concerned with dairy products, vegetables, poultry products, fruits, tobacco, or maple syrup, the first thing to do is to get yourself and any agricultural organizations to which you may belong, in gear with definite plans for progress by consulting and co-operating with the New England Council.

Agriculture is a basic industry. Its dependable local food supplies are essential to all our other industries. The success and prosperity of those interested in agriculture is reflected in all other lines of business. If we can add millions more to the total annual New England farm production, it will benefit all New England . . . and you.

Within an overnight ride from Boston live 15% of the total population of the United States. These people prefer native farm products standardized and graded. They know that a short journey from farm to market leaves natural freshness, appetizing qualities and nutritive values unimpaired.

The New England Council is now developing comprehensive plans for the general improvement of agricultural conditions throughout New England. Write to the Agricultural Committee for detailed information. For a summary of all N. E. Council activities, ask for the N. E. C. 1928 Blue Book.

FLOWERS FOR MAYOR SCOTT AS MAYOR MAY RETIRES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 1—The newly-elected city council met this evening and organized. Malcolm M. Scott, by reason of having received the highest vote at the election, automatically became presiding officer, the mayor, and he assumed the duties of the office as soon as he, Robert B. Chappell, William C. Fox and John F. Murray were sworn in. Mayor May, retiring, presented Mayor Scott a basket of flowers and expressed the hope that the business of the city would be harmoniously transacted and that the prosperity of New London would be advanced. Councilor Scott replied graciously and thanked the citizens whose votes placed him in the presiding officer's chair. He promised to do his best to advance the interests of the city and asked for the cooperation of all members of the council.

The rules that governed the council of 1925 were adopted for the government of the council of 1928.

Fifteen applications for building permits were granted. Appropriation to meet the obligations of the city till taxes are paid were authorized and the director of finance was given authority to borrow such sums of money as would be needed till tax payments are made. The employment of an auditor to check up the accounts of city employes was left to the finance committee as Councilor Fox objected to advertising for bids to do the work, since the employment might thus go to some out of town auditors.

A proposition to foreclose on property of Charles L. Keeney, was referred to the committee on administration, as the matter is somewhat involved.

A proposition was made by attorneys for Patrick Harkins as to a settlement for land taken from him at the corner of Jay and Huntington streets. Referred to committee on administration.

Ordinances were adopted providing for sewers on Thames street extension and Gorton street, and for the extension of Beckwith street. It was voted to accept Woodland Terrace.

The Garde theatre management was given authority to extend the time of the performance next Saturday evening to midnight or a little later that a special program may be put on.

Mayor Scott appointed the following committee heads: Administration, Fox; public works, Chappell; education, May; finance, Whiton; welfare, Twomey.

The Negro Welfare council was given permission to have a tag day on the 13th inst. The council accepted an invitation to attend the dedication of the Columbus monument in Tyler square.

Miss Lina Beckwith asked the council to have merestones placed to define her property on Broad street and protested that she was not fairly treated. Referred to city manager, with instructions that a previous agreement of the city be fulfilled.

A proposal to grade and curb Raymond street was favorably acted on in so far as the first steps toward the accomplishment of the work were taken, the property owner waiving any claim they might have for any change of grade. Councilor Whiton commented that it was like the changes that must be made in many other streets that have not been formally accepted by the council.

An automobile driven by Richard F. Crandall, West Mystic in passing through Walbach street this afternoon was struck by a bicycle on which were two younthful riders. The cycle struck the rear of the automobile and one of the occupants of the cycle, Delbert West, 175 Howard street, sustained slight injuries to his back.

Joseph Busetta, 9 Steward street, in the police court today charged with violation of the liquor law in manufacturing alcohol on the premises, 111 Ocean avenue, pleaded guilty and was fined $200 and costs. He paid. The charge against Samuel Shapiro, owner of the building was nolled today.

Earl H. West, 24 Vernon street, Hartford, employed as a clerk, was arrested at 1 o'clock Sunday morning charged with indecent assault, but today he was discharged as the prosecution did not consider that sufficient evidence was at hand to warrant a conviction.

Charles Carlson, 36, of Graniteville, Waterford, a truck driver, was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and William Burgess, of the same address was charged with intoxication. The complaint against Carlson was amended to that of simple intoxication and he and Burgess were fined $10 and costs each.

Richard Beckman, 633 Main street, Pawtucket, R. I., charged with wearing the emblem of a secret society and passing three fraudulent checks, was sentenced to 10 days in jail for the former offense, but the latter charge was nolled, as Beckman assured the court that he could provide a way to return the money he obtained by negotiating the checks. Beckman, who claims to have been employed by a Providence newspaper, obtained the endorsement to the checks of George MacDougal, assistant probation officer, several days ago.

Robert Bradley, United States coast guard, charged with intoxication and breach of the peace was fined $10 and costs on each count.

John A. Monty, 38, a carpenter residing at 8 Farnsworth street, was charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. The case was continued to Oct. 3.

Joseph Hedge, 116 Shaw street, charged with violation of the state motor vehicle laws in failing to grant right of way was fined $10 and costs.

A lease was received for record at the office of the city clerk today from Ralph Tashes to the First National Stores, Inc., for the occupancy of the store, 618 Main street, by the chain grocery store, for one year from last June 15 at an annual rental of $600.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES

To Fido the Faithful.

So much of love in your deep eyes,
O read, O friend of mine.
So much of loyalty supreme,
So much of courage fine.
I think I never can repay
The debt I owe to you—
The gift of your great loving heart,
O friend, so fond and true!

Alas, I do not feel so sure
For sometimes friendship tends, I fear,
Of some I call my friends,
To mercenary ends.
And too exacting oft are found,
Too quick to take offense,
Are some whose love we've sadly found
—Was but a mere pretense!

But you are quite incapable
Of falseness and deceit.
And when I hear your joyous bark,
The patter of four feet,
That greet my home return, and gaze gave
Into your eyes so clear,
I know I have at least one friend—
True, faithful, and sincere.

Louella C. Poole.

Bird Trades.

The swallow is a mason,
And underneath the eaves
He builds a nest and plasters it
With mud and hay and leaves.

Of all the weavers that I know
The oriole is the best.
High on the branches of the tree
She hangs her cosy nest.

The woodpecker is hard at work—
A carpenter is he—
And you may hear him hammering
His nest high up a tree.

Some little birds are miners:
Some build upon the ground;
And busy little tailors, too,
Among the birds are found.

Meadowlarks.

In the silver light after a storm,
Under dripping boughs of bright new green,
I take the low path to hear the meadowlarks
Alone and high-hearted as if I were a queen.

What have I to fear in life or death
Who have known three things: the kiss in the night
The white flying joy when a song is born
And meadowlarks whistling in silver light.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES.

The ant is a very common insect. Every boy and girl has seen the ant scurrying back and forth across the ground during the spring, summer and fall months. The ant is a very busy creature. It is interesting to know that there are about 5,000 varieties of these tiny insects and it is also interesting to know that they keep servants, have soldiers, and are slave owners.

The king is a figurehead. He does little work and acts, perhaps, as advisor to the queen. Her Mayesty is larger than any other member of the colony and she supports a pair of wings. While there may be a number of other queens in the household the ruling matriarch exercises undisputed authority in all matters. Her life often extends over a long period of time and there are numerous instances on record where queens have lived more than a decade and a half. She lays large numbers of eggs, but only one-tenth of them are hatched the rest of them being used for food.

The work of the ant colony is done by a host of unmarried females known as the laboring class. These intelligent insects possess such emotions as love and hatred. They also have the power of remembrance for when their queen has been kept from them as long as sixty days, upon her return, they have recognized her.

Manufacturing industries are carried on in the colony. One of their chief productions is an excellent quality of silk tissue paper which closely resembles the man-made article. Ants also make bread from weed seeds which have been thoroughly masticated and formed into tiny loaves. Fungus beds are cultivated on the dead wood of trees and stumps. This growth is a valued article of diet.

Ants have herds of cattle. These are aphides or plant lice. The older ones are placed on grazing lands, some distance from the colony, while the younger ones are kept under the close supervision of shepherd ants. With the approach of cold weather these older aphides are brought home and placed in specially constructed corrals. The milk obtained from these cows is a honey-like substance and is an important article of diet in antdom.

Not all ants are producers. Some of them follow the military life and are known as warriors. They make conquests on other colonies, bringing home plunder and slaves. These slaves are forced to labor as nursemaids, servants and farmhands. The warrior ant is an arrogant creature. When at home his time is devoted to grooming himself and to the leisurely enjoyment of life.

The ant is a cleanly insect and carries his brushes with him. They consist of small, bristly hairs growing on the inside of the fore legs. With these he brushes and cleans himself. The duty is sometimes done by servants and slaves. The ant's ability to find his way about is a remarkable trait and is accomplished by the use of one of his numerous noses. He has four or five of such organs, located at the joints of his antennae. Each one serves for a different purpose and locates his home, children, eggs and distinguishes his friends from his enemies. They also help him to find his way about.

The strength of the ant is astounding for he lifts many times his own weight. If a man were as strong in comparison to his size as is the ant he could lift his automobile about with ease and carry telephone poles without assistance.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES.

Patrasche.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you the story about Patrasche, which I read. Patrasche was a big Flemish dog. Before he was fully grown he was bought by a tinware peddler, who made him draw a cart full of pots and pans and other wares. It was fortunate that Patrasche was strong, otherwise he would have died under the heavy burdens, the severe lashings, the hunger, the thirst and the blows with which the peddler repaid his hard work.

One day, after two years of agony, the dog was wearily dragging his heavy load along in the blazing sun, when, for the first time in his life, he staggered, foamed at the mouth and fell. His master gave him the only medicine he ever administered to him—Kicks, oaths and blows with a club—and finally left him beside the road to die.

After a time there came along a little old man named Jehan bent and lame and very feeble. He looked at the dog, found that he was still alive and carried the sufferer home. The old man tended him with so much care that sickness gave way to health and Patrasche finally stood up again on his four stout legs. He seemed surprised to hear no curses and to feel no blows.

The first day after the dog got strong he watched the old man as he started off with his milk cans. The next morning, before his master had touched the cart, Patrasche walked to it and placed himself between the shafts.

At length Jehan allowed the dog to draw the cart, and never did a dog go more joyfully to play than this animal went to his daily task.

The Indians.

Dear Uncle Jed: The Indians lived in the United States before the white men. The Indians have dark skin, the color of copper. They have black hair, black eyes, and high cheek bones. In summer the Indians wear an apron. In winter they are glad to wrap a bear skin around them. The Indian wigwam is made out of skins from the animals. Some of them are made of birch bark from the trees. The Indian men go fishing and hunting. The women take care of the gardens which have corn and other things in them. They skin the animals and cook; take care of the children and take down the tents when they move.

Won Two Games.

Dear Uncle Jed: My baseball team won two games in one day. One afternoon we played two teams and won both games. We played the Giants first and the score was 11 to 9 and we played the Farmer second and won 14 to 6. They were good games and exciting. I pitched both games and Eddie was the catcher for our team. I made four runs. We played all afternoon until nearly 6 o'clock. Then it was time for supper so we had to go home. It was a Saturday afternoon that we played. I help my brother to look after the chickens and sometimes I ride with my father when he goes to the city. I like to go to the city.

Her First Letter.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have ever written to you and the Wideawakes. I saw where other little boys and girls have won books and I would like to win one too. I like to read books, especially books like Telegraph Tom, Bound to Rise, The Auto Boys on the Road and lots of others. I have several books. The names I have told you in this letter, so if you send me a book, please send me one that I haven't read. I go to school every day.

Has Two Cats.

Dear Uncle Jed: I have two cats. They are young ones. I have had them since last summer. One of them is black and I call him Blackie and the other I call White because he is white. They like to play with strings and paper bags attached to strings. One of them got lost last week and I found him in the field near to ours. I guess he was looking for birds and didn't know the way home. It was Blackie that got lost.

EVERETT OLLSEN, Age 9.

At the Seashore.

Dear Uncle Jed: I wonder if many of the Wide-Awakes had as nice a time at the seashore as I had this summer. I live near Danielson and I went to Ocean Beach one day with my brothers and mother. We left Danielson on the bus and at Norwich took the trolley car for New London. At New London we got out and went on a car for Ocean Beach. It was a nice ride to Ocean Beach after we got out of the city. We had a nice time at the beach. I went in the water but can't swim. We saw a lot of boats arrive at the dock and go out again. They were taking people for rides on the water. I wanted to go but my mother wouldn't let me. We saw two airplanes. We went back home the same day we came to the beach.

My Vacation.

Dear Uncle Jed: I want to tell you about my vacation. It was in August. My father and my mother and two sisters and myself went on an automobile tour to Maine. We left early in the morning and drove about 200 miles. That evening we stayed at a house in Portland. We stayed with friends and the next day we went on about 50 miles more to a little place where we stayed about 10 days. It was on the shore and there were lots of nice woods right nearby. I went fishing off the dock and caught quite a lot of little fish. They were too small to cook but I had a good time getting them. I also went rowing and twice I went for rides in a motor boat. We had picnics on the shore and had a great time while we were there. I expect to go again next summer. We were there the year before last.

MICHAEL SULLIVAN, Age 13.
Mystic.

Likes to Play Baseball.

Dear Uncle Jed: Do you like to play baseball? I do and I play catch on our team. The last game we had was with the Pioneers and we beat them 10 to 4. It was a great game. Two of our players got hit with the ball but they were not hurt. I made two home runs and strick out once. We had an umpire and a score keeper and there was a good crowd of our gang to see the game. We are going to organize a football team and a basketball team this fall. I like football but I got hurt last year playing it and so I like baseball better. My mother says football is too rough for little boys.

JOHN COUGHLIN, Age 9,

A Clever Dog.

Dear Uncle Jed: My dog is a clever dog. We call him Dan. He is a police dog and we have had him since he was a puppy. He is nearly a year old now and is a big dog. He is gentle and the neighbors like him. He never snaps or bites but he won't let any strangers around the house. He carries papers for me when I go to the post office. I get the paper every afternoon and Dan put it in his mouth and carries it all the way home for me. He growls when other dogs come around. I guess he thinks the other dogs want to steal the paper. He is a good dog. He likes me.

JEAN SCHAFFER, Age 11.

Lives on a Farm.

Dear Wide-Awakes and Uncle Jed: I live on a farm and like it. We used to live in New York and I liked it there too but when my father bought the farm up here I was lonesome for a while. But there are quite a lot of boys and girls around here and I soon got acquainted with them. We have great times. Last summer we went on walks through the woods and I helped plant the farm. We planted potatoes, turnips, squash, cucumbers, radishes and cabbages and other things. I like to watch them grow. We had lot of corn too. I think I like living in the country better than I did in New York. I didn't have any place to play in New York but I have lots of places to play here.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

Those who have not yet seen "The Play Girl," which has been delighting audiences at the Breed theatre for the last two days, have one more opportunity of doing so tonight, when this comedy drama will have a final showing.

Local patrons are in accord with metropolitan critics in pronouncing this picture the best starring vehicle in which the dainty comedienne, Madge Bellamy, has yet appeared.

Johnny Mack Brown, who plays the masculine lead opposite Madge Bellamy in "The Play Girl," is the same Johnny Brown who was named as the All American halfback of 1926. It was while he was playing with his team, Alabama college, in California that producers saw in him a possible future leading man. Screen tests confirmed this opinion and Fox Films gave him the opportunity in minor roles. His histrionic talents were so marked that he was given a real opportunity in "The Play Girl." Those who have seen this production agree that Brown has made good and looms as a future star.

ANNUAL TOWN MEETING VOTES
APPROPRIATIONS OVER $660,000

The annual town meeting, at a 35 minute session, at the town hall Monda evening, authorized appropriations totaling over $660,000 for the ensuing year. This figure includes the $256,650 for the regular estimated expenses of the town, as submitted by the board of selectmen, $307,312.92 for the maintainence of the public schools of the town and approximately $97,550 for "extras". Every item on the list, including all "extras" was voted, the meeting being a very harmonious one. Other than a brief explanation as to the reasons for some increases in this year's appropriations, there were no remarks on any of the items. One question, regarding a minor item, was asked and answered and the item, like its predecessors was quickly voted.

When the meeting was called to order, promptly at 8 o'clock by First Selectman William S Murray, there were approximately 100 men and women in the hall. After the town clerk, Harold S. Burt, had read the warning, Selectman Murray asked for action on the annual reports of the town officers.

The reports of the board of selectmen, the town treasurer, the sinking fund committee, the town health officer, the town school committee, and the trustees of the Otis library were accepted as printed in pamphlet form.

Salaries Voted.

On resolution of Tyler D. Guy the salaries of the town officials were voted as follows:

First selectman, $3,000; second and third selectmen, $200 each; clerical assistance for selectmen's office, $1,200; town clerk, $200; town treasurer, 1,000; board of assessors, $1,800 each; clerical assistance for assessors' office, $1,500; secretary town school board, $400; collector of taxes, three-quarters of one per cent. of taxes collected.

Selectman Murray inquired as to what proceedure the meeting wished to follow on the regular estimated expenses of the town, whether the meeting wished to act on each item separately or on all the items collectively. As no suggestion was forthcoming from the meeting, Selectman Murray announced that, if there was no objection, the items would be acted on collectively. No one objected to this proceduze.

Selectman Explains Increases.

Selectman Murray called attention to the fact that there were a number of increases in the regular list this year. There is an increase of $1,000 in the almshouse appropriation and an increase of $1,000 for the care of the outside poor. Last year $7,000 was voted for the care of the outside poor and the net expense to the town was $7,500. There is no prospect that it will be any less the coming year and there is a prospect that it will be more than last year.

An increase of $500 appeared in the highway item this year. The town is finding considerable difficulty now in taking care of drainage water. The town now has to drain the water through culverts and pipes to the river. One culvert built last year cost about $1,000 and there is another culvert to be built this year at a similar cost.

The increase of $500 for oiling roads is made necessary because of the increased number of requests to have roads oiled.

The contingent fund was increased $1,000 this year over last. The city at its last annual meeting voted an increased appropriation for repairs and maintainance of the court house building and the town will have to pay its proportionate share of the cost of this work.

The increase of $1,000 in the election expense item is necessary this year to take care of the increased election expenses, incidental to the coming presidential election. An increase has been necessary every fourth year, because of the national election.

Two New Voting Machines.

Selectman Murray announced that the town has purchased two voting machines from a town in the state, for $1,000. They are the same machine as is used in local town and city elections now. This type of machine is no longer made and should the town be faced with the need of purchasing additional voting machines, it would be necessary to replace all the present machines with the new machines now being built.

The sinking fund was increased $5,000 this year to retire school bonds coming due. In the probate court item there is an increase of $5,500. This increase is necessary as the state laws now require probate district courts to index all their records up to the present time. The cost to the local district is $7,500. Norwich being the largest town in the district, must bear the greater burden of the expense, the distribution of the expense being based on the grand list of the town.

There is also an increase of $500 in the street lighting item. This includes a bill of $300 owed the Eastern Connecticut Power Co., for the Occum lights authorized last year.

The $500 increase in the item for the assessors' office is required by the extra expense in the revaluation of property. It will be necessary to notify practically every taxpayer that there will be an increase in his list this year. Most of this extra money will be required for postage.

Appropriations Voted.

Following the explanation of the various increases, Rev. Alexander H. Abbott moved that the appropriations be made. The motion was seconded, and it was unanimously adopted, without remark. The appropriations made for regular expenses follow:

Alms house $11,000, outside poor $8,000, insane $12,000, neglected and dependent children $5,000, widows' pension $6,000, highways (city of Norwich) $23,000, highways (town of Norwich) $32,500, macadam repairs $3,000, oiling roads $5,000, bridges $5,000, contingent $16,000, interest $13,500, National Guard $5,000, election expense $6,000, registry of vital statistics $2,000, town clerk's office $1,000, state aid roads, re-appropriate $3,250, town property tax $10,000, sinking fund $20,000, tuberculosis $6,000, probate court $6,000, street lighting $9,000, state tax $25,000, county tax $15,500, assessors' office $3,300, Chelsea parade $900, town health officer $1,200, Taftville Fire Engine company $800, Yantic Fire Engine company, $700, total, $256,650.00.

Appropriation of $10,500 for medical inspection and general health work in the schools. Resolution introduced by Edward J. Graham.

Appropriation of $1,000 for treatment station for venereal diseases. Resolution introduced by F. L. Woodard.

Appropriation of a sufficient sum to provide for the installation and maintenance of three street lights from Otrobando road to the foot of Wauwecus Hill. Resolution introduced by William Stott.

Miss Lucas inquired whether anyone could apply for a hydrant on private property. Selectman Murray said they could. This is a private street but there is considerable traffic over it. There is a six inch water main running in about 100 feet on the road and the hydrant would be placed at the end of the six inch line. There is considerable property in that section. Following the explanation by Selectman Murray the resolution was unanimously adopted.

Defers Laying Tax Rate.

Selectman Murray stated that the matter of laying the tax would, as usual, have to go over until March. He said the board of selectmen did not feel ustified in recommending a tax rate, in view of the fact that when the tax is laid, the town will probably be operating under the revaluation of the town property which will be completed by December 31st. However, the new grand list will not be available until the first of March. The meeting adjourned until the first Monday in March at 8 o'clock for laying the tax.

NORWICH TOWN AGED ARE ENCOURAGED AT METHODIST SERVICE

"Happy Ol' Age" was the theme at the Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church Sunday morning. In view of the very stormy condition of the weather the congregation, which numbered over 50, gave evidence of the interest shown in the subject. The Johnson Home and the Sheltering Arms Home were represented. The pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter, said in his sermon, "It is the purpose of this service to bring you who are growing old and harboring thoughts that your work is done, back to the joy of service, and the thrill of living. Old age has three claims of especial interest on a servant of God—old age is a witnessing period, a finishing period and a signalling period. In the book of Samuel we read how Barzillai, who was 80, was ready to die, while in the book of Joshua we read how Caleb, who was 85, was buckling on his armor to finish a great task. There is much for you to do, the joy of service is still yours. God's gifts of grace are flowing through you a little freer and easier than through most of us in this old world. Your contribution to life is vital still." The choir, under direction of Mrs. Lewis Aldrich, sang a special selection and a duet was given by Doris Rose and Virginia Ward. Mrs. Helen Haviland Potter told a children's story, how a small cake of soap was the means of bringing a whole family of Chinese to Jesus Christ.

There was a good attendance at the C. E. meeting, which was led by the president, Effie Ladd. A number took part in the discussion of the subject, "Goals for Our Society." The pastor preached on "The A. B. C. of the Gospel" at the evening service. Lewis Aldrich was soloist at this service.

There was an attendance of 14 at the meeting of the Boy Scouts held at the Norwich Town Methodist parsonage Friday evening. Rev. George Warren Potter, acting scoutmaster, had charge of the meeting. The opening ceremony consisted of a salute to the flag and the repeating of the Scout Oath and Laws. A number of Scout games played were in the nature of instruction as well as play. Rev. Potter gave the boys a talk on the meaning of the Scout laws, especially stressing the friendly spirit shown by the Scouts of various races and creeds.

The Wolf Cub Scouts held a meeting Saturday afternoon with their Cubmaster, Rev. Mr. Potter, at the Methodist parsonage. Following the opening ritual, the eighth bite of their instruction was discussed. A game period followed. A dart contest, between two teams captained by Frederick Miller and John Gibbs, was won by the latter team, score 112 to 102.

Kirk Shivell of Melrose, Mass., and Elmer Olson of Cleveland, Ohio, two young men employed by the government as entomologists, were dinner guests at the Methodist parsonage Monday.

The C. E. society is to hold a free public entertainment Wednesday evening at 7:45 in the vestry of the Methodist church. Music will be furnished by Swain's orchestra. There will be readings by Mrs. Grace Manning. An invitation has been extended the members and friends of the church to attend. During the past few weeks the vestry has been redecorated and painted.

FARMER HAS POLITICIANS GUESSING AND WORRYING

Farm Relief and Tariff Are Paramount to Prohibition and Religion—The Farmer of Idaho, Montana and the Dakotas is the Man to Whom Republicans and Democrats Alike Are Pleading Their Cause—Mr. Hoover Has Been Advised by Frazier That the Farmers of South Dakota Are Quite Unsettled.

By D. FIELD BRITTLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

HELENA, Mont., Oct. 2—(AP)—Whatever may be the farmer's place in the political scheme of things, past and future, just now he is having his inning, a moment of pleasure perhaps that comes with the knowledge that he has the politicians guessing and worrying.

A. in the farmer's belt of the midwest, here in this north and western neighborhood of states, the farmer of Idaho, Montana and the Dakotas is the man to whom republicans and democrats alike are paying ardent court.

It is true that normal party affiliations are to be retained or cast off because of prohibition and religion and the other issues springing from platform and candidates, but in this campaign the big thing is farm relief, with the tariff standing close by.

The farmer and his brother—the livestock raiser—are the aristocrats of the series of small cities and expansive ranges and it is to them that leaders of both parties are making their bows. They do so, well aware that while the quarry ordinarily is republican in normal politics, he at times follows an independent course, and also that a great many of his usually republican kinfolk wanted former Gov. Lowden of Illinois, not Herbert Hoover, as their candidate.

The division between Lowden and Hoover is a family matter that republican leaders declare they have smoothed over satisfactorily in most cases. Some Lowden supporters now are members of the Hoover organization, but in other places Gov. Smith is being made the beneficiary of republican discord.

In Montana the election of John W. Schnitzler, one of the state's biggest farmers and a Lowden delegate to Kansas City, as republican national committeeman, evidenced the play for harmony here while on the other side of the picture, Mr. Hoover has been advised by Senator Frazier of North Dakota that the farmers of his state are quite unsettled.

Complicating the picture there is the fact that a big political force in the state is the Non-Partisan league, whose members of the republican state central committee recently refused to endorse Hoover, although the anti-league faction did.

On his trip through North Dakota, Gov. Smith was told by Gov. Maddock, who is running for re-election as a democrat, although he has leaned to the republicans as a non-partisan leaguer, that 80 per cent of North Dakota's farmers are ready to vote for Smith.

The farmers of South Dakota, Idaho and Montana also are inquiring about farm relief prospects and have been told by both parties that relief is to be forthcoming.

Democratic spokesmen are assuring the livestock ranchers that the tariff protection they insist upon can be as easily had under Smith as under Hoover, and that the tariff is no reason for voting against a democrat.

The same tariff argument is advanced to farmers who produce the sugar beet crops. In Montana prohibition also is in the mind of the voters, who two years ago repealed the state prohibition law by a vote of 83,223 for repeal, and 72,982 against. There are some democrats here who say they would have preferred to have heard Gov. Smith discuss prohibition and farm relief on his Helena visit recently, declaring them to be of more vital local interest than the subject Smith chose—Political Corruption and Party Responsibility.

NOTORIOUS BANK ROBBER ESCAPED FROM PRISON

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 2—(AP)—Roy Dickerson, notorious bank robber escaped from Kilby prison with two other prisoners by scaling the wall here tonight.

His confederates in the escape were Frank Cook and Ivanhoe Silver, both of Birmingham.

Cook was convicted of robbery and Silver was known as the "king of rum runners" of Birmingham.

Dickerson, who has figured in more than a half dozen bank robberies from coast to coast was captured on December 24, 1927, in Tacoma, Washington, while in the act of burglarizing a department store. He was returned to Alabama to complete a sentence of 20 to 25 years for his part in the Girard-Phoenix City Alabama bank robbery.

Dickerson and his companions overpowered A. G. Richards, a guard on the prison wall, in their escape tonight, attacking him as he walked his post on the wall. They bound him with strips torn from blankets, and placed adhesive tape over his eyes and mouth. They squeezed through the charged wires on the wall and descended by means of a ladder, which prison officials said apparently had been provided by confederates on the outside of the wall. Richards' shot gun was taken by Dickerson.

PLAY "PLEASURE MAN" AGAIN ON IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—(AP)—Mae West's play, "Pleasure Man" was presented for the second time at the Biltmore theatre tonight under protection from police interference by an injunction by a supreme court justice. The injunction is returnable Friday.

Police arrested the entire cast and the author of the play after its opening last night. Standing room was at a premium and several hundred persons gathered in front of the theatre tonight watching for another police raid.

When the members of the cast reached the theatre for the evening performance, after adjournment of the charges against them of appearing in an indecent performance, they were met by representatives of the Actors' Equity association who read a letter from Frank Gillmore, executive secretary of Equity, advising them against appearing again in the play except by permission of the couts. The injunction, returnable Friday, was held to convey such permission.

Police officers went to the theatre tonight with the intention of preventing the performance. The supreme court injunction was served on them by Harry D. Kline, manager of the theatre.

TO DISCUSS SUBJECT OF PRISON CONTRACT LABOR

HARTFORD, Oct. 2—(AP)—The whole subject of state prison contract labor, the future of which is threatened by the Hawes-Cooper bill in the United States senate and opposition from manufacturing interests in Connecticut, will be discussed tomorrow at the Wethersfield institution at a conference between representatives of the Connecticut chamber of commerce, the Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut, Inc., and the board of prison directors.

The meeting has been arranged by Col. Norris G. Osborn, chairman of the prison board of directors, and will take place at 1 p. m., following the annual board meeting for the consideration of paroles and other business, and a luncheon served at the institution. It followed a conference between Col. Osborn and President Arthur R. Kimball, of the state chamber, after Frank Goodchild, vice president of the J. J. Cash company, of Norwalw, made a slashing attack on convict labor as "mean competition protected by the state, a cause of deterioration of intrinsic values and a creator of unjust competition between manufacturers."

United States Senator Hiram H. Bingham and Congressman E. Hart Fenn have been invited to attend the conference and are expected to be present. Senator Bingham opposed the Hawes-Cooper bill and declared, "it would be in the nature of a catastrophe for Connecticut and other small states to have this bill made a law."

MYSTERIOUS BURNING OF RACING STABLES

CHICAGO, Oct. 2—(AP)—Officials of two counties tonight were trying to unravel the mystery surrounding the burning last night of John Hertz' racing stables near Cary, Ill., with a loss of eleven thoroughbreds valued at more than $200,000 and the bombing the previous night in Chicago of two garages of the Yellow Cab company of which Mr. Hertz is the head.

Officials of McHenry county where the stables are located announced there was no doubt but the firing of the stables was incendiary, and Chicago authorities inquiring into both the bombings and the fire declared that all were the work of one band of Chicago gangsters, and attributed the acts to trouble between the Yellow Cab company and one or more of its rivals here.

Among the animals saved was Reigh Count, Kentucky Derby winner, led from the burning building after being blindfolded by a stable boy, and seven other animals. Among the animals that perished, however, was Sandalfan, a two year old valued at $50,000 and looked upon as a sensation of the race tracks next year.

SAYS REP. PARTY OF TODAY IS OLD PROHIBITION PARTY

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—(AP)—John J. Raskob, democratic national chairman, said today that the republican party today is the old prohibition party.

"It is awfully difficult to understand why the republican party should have gone prohibition the way they have," Raskob said. "With no reference between the parties on the tariff, all you have in the republican party is the old prohibition party. Some very good republican friends of mine have so defined the present republican party."

IN BARE FEET CHASED AND CAUGHT PROWLER

PALMER, Mass., Oct. 2—(AP)—Arthur H. Powers ran 150 yards in his bare feet early this morning to catch a prowler who had attempted to enter his home. Mr. Powers had been sitting up with his wife, who is ill, when a man who gave his name as Henry W. Wilson with no residential address, raised a window and attempted to enter.

In district court later in the day, Wilson, charged with an attempt to enter, was held over for the grand jury under $2,000 bail.

Gov. Smith Assures Fitness Of Roosevelt

Declares Democratic Nominee for Governor of New York is Mentally as Good as He Ever Was.

GOVERNOR SMITH'S TRAIN EN ROUTE TO ALBANY, Oct. 2—(AP)—Near the end of a journey into the heart of the west, Gov. Smith this evening welcomed the prospect of a few days rest in the peaceful surroundings of the executive mansion at Albany.

There, as he puts it himself, the democratic presidential nominee intends to catch up on sleep and get himself primed, both physically and with material for speeches, for the final weeks of the campaign.

The governor's plans are indefinite. He reiterated today, after leaving Rochester and the democratic state convention, that he did not know how long he would remain in Albany, where he would go on his next stumping tour or what he would discuss in the dozen or more speeches he will deliver before election day.

A little more than an hour after the democratic convention had adjourned today the governor's campaign special was on its way again, with Albany about five hours away. A press conference held in the club car, the presidential nominee appeared elated over the state ticket put in the field by his party and over the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt, for governor.

"The convention nominated Mr. Roosevelt with full assurance that he would take the post of state leadership," said Smith. Relating how he had urged Roosevelt, now in Georgia, over the telephone to alter his decision not to become a candidate.

"I simply told him that the convention was unanimous for him, that the democratic party needed him and that I didn't see how he could refuse.

"There's a story going around that I want you fellows to get right on," Smith told the newspapermen. "It's to the effect that something was said that he did not have to do the work. Of course, that is on its face an absurdity.

"The real fact is this: Franklin Roosevelt today mentally is as good as he ever was. Physically he is as good as he ever was. His whole trouble is in his lack of muscular control of his lower limbs. But the answer to that is that a governor doesn't have to be an acrobat. We do not elect him for his ability to do a double back flip or a handspring."

ROMANCE OF HIGH SEAS IS TO RESULT IN MARRIAGE

LIVERPOOL, Eng., Oct. 2.—(AP)—A romance of the high seas is to result in the marriage on October 10 of Francis Lee Higginson, III, the 23 year old son of the Boston banking family, and Miss Dorothy Lucas of Blundell Sands, a village near Liverpool.

Miss Lucas, who is the same age as Mr. Higginson, is the daughter of the marine superintendent of the Furness Withy Steamship line. She is an attractive brunette and was swimming instructress on the Cunard Liner Franconia during a world cruise last winter. She met her future husband on that vessel.

The wedding will take place at the little suburban church of St. Nicholas in Blundell Sands. Mr. Higginson arrived in Liverpool two days ago to prepare for the wedding and for the honeymoon trip, which will be a motor tour of England.

The couple intend to reside in Boston. The date fo rtheir departure to their future home has not been fixed.

THREE CHILDREN CAUGHT FLEEING IN STOLEN CAR

INGERSOLL, Ont., Oct. 2.—(AP)—A 13-year-old boy and two sisters, aged 10 and 11, were under arrest today after fleeing in a stolen car at 60 miles an hour through traffic. They were finally halted by shots fired by the police.

The car was stolen here Sunday night and was located by the police in Woodstock last night. While the chase was in progress and the car was doing 40, the 11 year old girl, who was driving, changed places and gave the wheel to the boy.

At 60 miles an hour they passed safely through mile after mile of traffic. Once when the police car was drawing close a door was thrown out of the fleeing car in the path of the pursuers.

When the car was finally brought to a halt at Paris, the two girls jumped into the ditch and the boy dashed into a field but all were captured.

Lone Bandit Robbed A Canadian Mail Car

Covered the Clerk With a Revolver—Jumped Off When Train Slowed Down—Later Captured.

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 2—(AP)—A lone bandit robbed the mail car of a Canadian National Railway Toronto to Windsor express late today and escaped.

The robber boarded the express at Chatham station, and walked through the passenger cars to the baggage car. Opening the door of that car, he covered the clerks with a revolver, and ordered them to place their hands in the air. A clerk, under threat of death if he refused, slit open sacks designated by the man. The bandit selected certain of the mail, and when the train slowed at Prairie Siding, jumped off.

Immigration officials and local police had been wired a description of the robber in the expectation he would attempt a crossing to American soil.

Although armed with two pistols Gibbs did not offer resistance and readily admitted the robbery. He was taken to jail to await arrival of provincial authorities from Windsor.

EDITOR WHITE DENIES ROBINSON'S STATEMENT

EMPORIA, Kas., Oct. 2.—(AP)—William Allen White, Emporia editor and author, in a statement tonight offered to contribute $1,000 to the democratic campaign fund if Senator Joe Robinson, democratic vice presidential nominee, can cite the date and place where the Kansas editor described Herbert Hoover as a "fat nudny canon, sitting on eggs."

Senator Robinson attributed the phrase to Mr. White in an address last night in Wichita, and added that Mr. White had referred to Senator Curtis as a "nitwit."

"Senator Robinson," Mr. White said, "gives me more trouble than all my money. He keeps quoting things that I didn't say."

"If Senator Robinson is so keen about quoting my immortal prose, here is a line for him—in the present sloppy democratic shambles. Dry Joe Robinson wears the harrassed look of an Anti-Saloon League preacher sitting timorously on the edge of his chair at a bartenders' convention. Let him turn that on one of his audiences and then try to sizzle out of the applause.

"As for Senator Curtis, I have always found, sometimes in sorrow, that he is amply able to take care of himself."

VICE SQUAD DETECTIVES ARRESTED IN PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Three vice squad detectives and a district detective were arrested by order of District Attorney Monaghan tonight after having been questioned for several hours by the special grand jury investigating gangsters, bootleggers and police collusion.

The prisoners, John Casey, Warren Robinson, James Kelly and William Dixey, were charged with bribery, extortion and conspiracy. After a preliminary hearing they were held in $2,500 bail each for court.

Dixey, Kelly and Robinson are members of headquarters squad No. 2, and were especially detailed to suppress vice. They are alleged to have "shaken down" the proprietress of a disorderly house, who testified against them at their hearing.

This development, Monaghan said, revealed a system of alleged police graft hitherto undivulged and which the prosecutor said he believed had netted large sums.

CURTIS TO CAMPAIGN IN THE NORTHWEST AREA

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Another drive into the northwest area was assigned to Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, the campaigning republican vice presidential nominee, upon his return here today to western party headquarters from an arduous trip through the west.

Tired, crippled and almost voiceless from the heavy campaigning he encountered in the west, Senato. Curtis gave his assent to the program sending him into North Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin next week with the understanding the he be allowed to rest for the remainder of this week here.

The itinerary approved today by Curtis for next week calls for his departure from Chicago on Sunday for Devils Lake, North Dakota, where he will speak Monday night. Tuesday he will speak at Duluth, Minn.; Wednesday at St. Paul and Thursday at Janesville, Wis. From there he will return to Washington to open a tour of the east beginning at Raleigh, N. C., probably on Oct. 15.

REVISION OF THE HOOVER ITINERARY PERFECTED

Republican Presidential Nominee Will Speak in Mechanics' Hall, Boston, Oct. 15—Mr. Hoover Will Close His Drive in the East Next Week With an Address in Madison Square Garden, New York—His Final Stroke of the Campaign Will be Made by Radio From His Home in Palo Alto, Calif., on the Night of Nov. 5.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2—(AP)—Revising his entire itinerary for the remainder of the campaign, Herbert Hoover today mapped out a new program which will see him in action on the speaking platform once a week between now and the close of the campaign for the presidency on election day, November 6.

This week-end, the republican nominee will journey to Elizabethton, Tenn., to speak in the southern mountain town on Saturday. The following week he will move up on Boston where he will speak in Mechanics hall, October 15.

He will close his drive in the east the next week with a speech in the home town of his democratic opponent, Gov. Alfred E. Smith. The date for this speech in Madison Square Garden was changed to October 22 because of the conflict of his previous speaking date, October 13, with election registration in New York city.

Later in that week he again will face westward to journey across the continent to vote at his home in Palo Alto, Calif., stopping en route to make a speech in the middle west. His final stroke of the campaign will be made in a radio address from his home on the night of November 5.

Although he was late in arriving at his personal headquarters today, the candidate cleaned up a number of campaign details at his home before turning to the daily round of conferences at his headquarters.

Among his callers was E. F. Yoakum, a life-long democrat and a prominent railroad construction man. Yoakum, who in recent years has made a study of the farm problem, said after his conference with the nominee that the farm issue was the supreme one of the campaign.

Declaring that farm products were selling below the cost of production, Yoakum declared that "the farmers are tired of talk and demand action."

"The only real way in which the American farmer can conduct his own business profitably and retain his independence, can distribute and sell his products on an equality with other industries, is to establish a nation-wide farm commodity marketing system founded on a solid business basis—farmer-owned, farmer-controlled, farmer-operated, established with government aid but without government dictation.

"That is what Mr. Hoover has pledged himself to establish and what I believe if elected he will do," he concluded.

Among other callers were Mrs. Silas Strawn, of Chicago, and Mrs. Reginald Baker, national committeewoman for New Jersey who had an unusually informal visit with Hoover.

SENATOR ROBINSON IS PUSHING RELIGIOUS ISSUE

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 2—(AP)—A challenge to the voters of the nation to cite a single instance where Alfred E. Smith has permitted his membership in the Catholic church to influence his actions as governor was issued today by Senator Joe Robinson, the democratic vice-presidential nominee, upon his arrival in this state.

Advised by Oklahoma party leaders at Claremore that religion was one of the paramount issues to be thrashed out, the senator in a brief speech made from a truck in the middle of one of the streets, declared that no one would know from Smith's actions to what church he belonged.

Moving on to Tulsa for a speech tonight, he again turned to this issue along with farm relief and what he described as "so-called republican prosperity," as subjects for attack. In addition, the senator took advantage of his presence on Oklahoma soil to reply to thrusts Robert L. Owen, a former democratic senator from the state, has taken at the Smith-Robinson ticket.

SEES DANGER IN GROWTH OF BRANCH BANKING

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2—(AP)—An International Association of Bankers which would bring the world "a better understanding of the problems which beset every country and would make for a more cordial and sympathetic understanding among nations," was advocated today by Thomas R. Preston, president of the American Bankers' association.

Mr. Preston, who is president of the Hamilton National bank, Chattanooga, Tenn., made the suggestion in an address at the first general session of the 54th annual convention of the association. Group discussions on various technical subjects connected with banking held the attention of the delegates.

In alluding to the political situation, Mr. Preston said, "We are coming to a new era in political life," and added that there would be no disturbance of business, either large or small, regardless of whether Governor Smith or Herbert Hoover were elected.

The growth of branch and chain banking throughout the country was declared a menace by R. S. Hecht, president of the Hibernia Bank & Trust Co., of New Orleans.

TUBERCULAR CONVICTS SET FIRE TO PRISON

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Tubercular convicts irate because prison officials had discovered a tunnel under the building in which they were housed on the Wynne state prison farm near here, today set fire to the building and the flames destroyed it as well as four other structures.

None of the convicts escaped, and none was injured. The 56 prisoners were herded together in a yard by eight guards when the blaze was discovered.

The fire started when one of the tubercular prisoners touched a match to paper which had been stuffed in the walls of the building. Before the guards and other convicts could interfere, flames had spread to the building for blind prisoners, the laundry, the power house and the water tower. Undermined, the water tower collapsed, leaving firemen without water with which to combat the blaze.

The able bodied prisoners tonight were in the state penitentiary at Huntsville, while the sick men were under guard in a storage house at Wynne farm.

Seven previous attempts had been made in the last year to burn the tubercular building.

DEMANDS APOLOGY FOR CALUMNY AGAINST JEWS

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Through the Jewish Telegraph Agency, Louis Marshall, president of the American Jewish committee, made public today a lette he had sent Mayor W. Gilbert Hawes, of Massena, N. Y., demanding a public apology for what Mr. Marshall called an unspeakable calumny against the Jewish race.

The letter recites that on Saturday, Sept. 22, two days before Yom Kippur, the Jewish "Day of Atonement," Mayor Hawes "arranged" for the interrogation of the local rabbi by a state trooper "on the intolerable assumption that the Jews required the blood of Christian children for their holy days" and that this requirement had had some connection with the disappearance of 4-year-old Barbara Griffith from her home. The child subsequently was found, unharmed, in nearby woods.

OVER $100,000 SPENT ON WINDHAM SCHOOLS LAST YEAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 3—The thirty-first annual report of the Windham town school committee for the year ending September 15, which has just been put into the hands of the public, shows that the total expenditures for the year amounted to $181,956.53. The different items show very little departure from the estimates submitted in the last annual report. Additional cost to the specific appropriation made was encountered in the modification of the building now used as a trade school, but these requirements were met for the budget appropriations. The largest items are the salaries of teachers, $89,054.00 and the model school tuition of $49,193.06. The summary of school income shows tuitions paid by parents from 14 surrounding towns for high school is amounting to $27,298.85, which amount, plus miscellaneous income including income from local taxation, $144,622.00 balances with the total expenditure. The gross expense for an average attendance of 521 pupils at the Windham high school totals $58,443.97, setting the cost per pupil at $110.06. The average cost per pupil last year, with an average attendance of 588 and the gross expense the same was $99.21. This compares favorably for the average cost per high school pupil in the state which is $163.19, indicating that Windham high school paid $13,000 less than other towns for instructing the same number of pupils.

A compilation of figures by Superintendent of Schools Egbert A. Case places the proposed budget for the school year 1928-1929 at $191,000. The proposed budget makes provision for the following items which were not in the budget of the previous year, nor provided for by special appropriation: School nurse and supplies, $1,800; trade school expense $800; salary increases, $3,100; additional teaching $300; additional model school tuition, $500; insurance $1,200. Offsetting part of this will be an increase in high school tuition income of about $2,000, there being 279 tuition pupils, an increase of 23 over last year, now registered at the high school, bringing the total tuition to $29,500. Out of a list of 16 average towns Windham is shown as being the lowest in the number of tax mills required for school support in 1926-'27. Plainfield stands highest with 15.32 mills and Windham low with 9.11. The report concludes with the making of four recommendations: 1. Authorize the selectmen to dispose of the buildings on school property adjacent to the high school to allow more standing room. 2. Authorize the selectmen to purchase land adjacent to the North Windham school and appropriate a sum of not to exceed $400 for that purpose. 3. Appropriate a sum not to exceed $4,500 for the purchase of Hayden Field and a sum not to exceed $3,500 for suitable improvements for an athletic field. 4. Submit to vote the question of providing free textbooks and supplies.

E. J. ARNOLD TALKS ON "THE FUTURE WILLIMANTIC"

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 2—Earl J. Arnold, executive secretary of the chamber of commerce, appearing in a Public Relations' program at the weekly meeting of the Willimantic Rotary club held in the Nathan Hale hotel this noon gave a most interesting talk on The Future Willimantic. The meeting was well attended, Irving G. Davis, in charge of the experiment stations at Connecticut Agricultural college, who was voted a member of the club earlier last month was presented with the framed code of ethics of Rotary by President Raymond A. Parker who characterized Rotary as a bank account in which a member should put more into than he takes out in his brief presentation remarks. The resignations of Valentine L. Murphy and Ronald M. Cooke which were effective last month were accepted with regret. Sumner A. Dole, coach at C. A. C., was appointed to the boys' work committee under Chairman Kenneth N. Hillhouse to succeed to Ronald M. Cooke, removed to Hartford. Announcement was made that Past District Governor John Alison, D. D., of Holyoke, Mass., will be the speaker at the non meeting Tuesday, October 16. Several Rotarians from neighboring clubs are expected to attend this meeting which will come under the chairmanship of Justice George E. Hinman of the Club Service committee.

Secretary Arnold was introduced by John F. Ahern, chairman of the day's program. The text of the chamber of commerce secretary's talk was a vision of what Willimantic should and probably will be some years hence. While not attempting to fix the Willimantic of tomorrow as a modern Eutopia, Secretary Arnold found occasion to mention several matters of importance that might be corrected or improved in an endeavor to perfect the community. In this connection he touched frequently on the part Rotary has and will play in rendering whole-hearted community service, and he asked the members to appreciate the opportunities offered in "public relations" work. In part he said: "I am thinking of Willimantic as a city of attractive homes, well painted, well appointed and with carefully cared for lawn areas; I can see this city as a community having diversified industries, where men and women, but few children, will be happily employed, earning satisfying wages, enjoying their work and happy because they can work.

"And while fathers are at work I can visualize Willimantic in the future with schools which children will be anxious to attend. These schools will have attractive courses, rooms in which small numbers are taught daily recreational spaces both within and without. There will be no school building of four or more rooms without an auditorium. There will be school nurses, the school doctor, the dental hygienist. There will be in all schools musical and art instruction for all. Text books will be free to all. No stinting on the daily dining room table for weeks after the three or four children have had to be supplied with books.

"I visualize Willimantic in the not too distant future with a park system created because Rotarians and others have recognized their Public Relations obligation. Such recognition will mean restful parks, with shade trees and beautiful flower beds, green grass and settees where the aged or the weary may rest. There will also be the associated playground areas for children to occupy themselves while they breathe in good fresh air. And the play periods of the children will be under proper supervision of trained men and women.

"In the vision I see our churches the centering places for the family. There will be charity and tolerance and friendship in that city which is to come even to a greater degree than we now enjoy it. Tin cans and other receptacles offering breeding places for germ-carrying insects and vermin will not be allowed, but in their places will be green grass and vines and rose bushes. A full-time health officer making periodical inspections will make the city of our dreams a sanitary one."

Other matters mentioned by Secretary Arnold as in need of improvement included the milk supply and better library facilities.

CONVENTION OF 29TH DIST. TO BE HELD SATURDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 2—The call for the convention of delegates from the nine towns of the twenty-ninth senatorial district to be held at the Nathan Hale hotel here at 12 o'clock noon Saturday of this week has been issued by A. Linn Weatherhead of Windham, Frank M. Bedard of Plainfield and Albert L. Mills of Hampton, members of the republican senatorial committee of the district. The convention will place in nomination a candidate for state senator and will transact any other business proper. The nine towns in the district are: Brooklyn, Canterbury, Chaplin, Hampton, Sterling, Pomfret, Scotland, Plainfield and Windham, and they are to be represented by a total of 26 delegates. Urgele LaFrance of Plainfield is the present incumbent of the office, but it is understood that he refuses to make another run for the office. Prominent mention has been made of Andrew T. J. Clarke of Canterbury as a possible candidate. Mr. Clarke was one of the two representatives of the town of Canterbury in the last general assembly and had served in the legislature during the previous two terms. He was a member of the Canterbury school board for 20 years up to a few years ago. Mr. Clarke is 67 years of age, a farmer by occupation and widely known and popular throughout the district. While no contest is expected to develop in the convention, friends of A. Linn Weatherhead, representative in the general assembly from Windham for the past two terms, are pointing to him as a likely candidate. This was not confirmed by party leaders, however, although note was made of the strong support Mr. Weatherhead would receive in the event that he did announce himself as a candidate.

COLCHESTER

COLCHESTER, Oct. 2—The town election held in Grange hall, Monday, brought out the largest vote in many years. Out of 787 people eligible to vote, there were 565 votes cast. The result of the vote was: Selectmen, C. A. Kramer, r, 287; James Shugrue, d, 269; Edward T. Peck, r, 273; Chauncey Markham, d, 276. Assessors for three years, A. H. Foote, r, 295; A. H. Foote, also on democratic ticket, 253; assesor for one year, John Nelkin, r, 291 (no nomination on democratic ticket). Board of relief, Abraham Jaffee, r, 286; Allen H. Brown, d, 264. Agent of town deposit fund, Cyrus E. Pendleton on both tickets, d, 256 and r, 284. Auditor, A. L. Schuyler, r, 283; Harold Wade, d, 259. Grand jurors, F. R. Abel, r, 270; Charles F. Brown r 280, Benj. Maiotes, r, 280; Louis Neleber r, 285; Edward H. Norton, d, 274; Samuel Gitlin, d, 262; Elias Fedus, d, 264; Harry Solomon, d 254. Collector of taxes, Harold Clark on both tickets, d, 280, r, 284. Constables, Curtis P. Brown, r, 280; J. M. Riley, r, 271; Samuel Mintz, r, 271; Frank Wasnieski, r, 270; Harold Clark, d, 276; Jerome Sullivan, d, 271; Herman Conrad, d, 261; Michael Serafin, d, 258. Registrars of voters, Samuel Friedman, r, 281; Jerome Sullivan, d, 259. Town school committee, Anna W. Avery, r, 282; David Shea, d, 262.

The polls opened at 8 a. m. and closed at 8 p. m. William E. Adams was moderator. After the polls closed, the regular town meeting was held, nearly 100 being in attendance. The budget for 1928-1929 was considered; $4,200 was voted for the repair of Colchester roads and $3,000 for repair of Westchester roads. Fred B. Clark, J. F. Purcell, F. O. Brown and W. K. Raymond were elected a committee to assist the selectmen in formulating plan for more effective road repair work during the coming year. The budget for the salaries of the assessors and board of relief was $200, which amoun was the cause of much discussion. James S. Case, who has been assessor for the past three years, stated that the salaries of the assessors and board of relief should be increased. The salary allowed Colchester assessors is the lowest in the state and the immense amount of work attached to the office is not fully realized by the townspeople. Mr. Case explained that during the past year, he has traveled to remote sections of the town and has found several pieces of property which have never been in the tax lists. A tract of land in Westchester, formerly owned by Berbe Bros. and recently sold to the East Haddam Fish and Game club, was one of the pieces of property which has not been shown on the tax lists until this year. Mr. Case stated that as he is retiring from the board of assessors he feels in a position to impress upon the townspeople the fact that the salary allowed is altogether too small, considering the vast amount of work attached to the office. There are over 700 tax lists which have to be checked over annually. Dr. E. M. Clifford, E. H. Norton, S. P. Willard and C. A. Kramer were elected a committee to consider the advisability of increasing the salaries of the assessors and board of relief and are to make a report to the next town meeting in March.

Among the townspeople to cast their vote during the day was Hon. James Gillilan, one of the oldest men in town, and a former United States treasurer.

DANIELSON

ALTHOUGH REPUBLICANS WON DEMOCRATS SHOWED STRENGTH

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 3—The aftermath of the election engrossed the attention of many citizens today, particularly that phase of it indicating such unusual democratic strength in a town regularly republican from time out of memory. While the majority party emerged from yesterday's balloting without having a candidate defeated the margin of victory was so close in one instance as to be uncomfortable, and the general increased strength of the minority so pronounced as to suggest to republicans the need of a real driving campaign in the interest of the party candidates in the November election.

Wednesday afternoon the newly elected selectmen, Charles A. Tillinghast and Napoleon P. Gingras, republicans and A. D. Sayles, democrat, will meet at the town hall building to organize for the ensuing year. Mr. Tillinghast, the only new member of the board and never before a holder of public office, will head the board as first selectman, replacing A. D. Sayles, filling that position the past year.

While new in public office Mr. Tillinghas is a fixture, and has been for years, in the life of Danielson and of the town of Killingly. As a successful lumber manufacturer for years, he has established in no uncertain manner his capabilities as a business man and administrator. His talents are now made available to the town, a fact regarded as a decided asset to its interests, and he has sai dthat he will give his most careful attention to the duties of his new office.

OBITUARY

Sidney S. Stone

Early last evening the death of Sidney S. Stone occurred at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam, where he has been a patient for several weeks. His passing takes from Danielson another of its citizens who have figured in its activities for decades and of that substantial type who by their works and their daily lives have contributed to that traditional strength and soundness of the people of New England.

Mr. Stone was a native of the nearby town of Foster. He was born August 22, 1856, a son of Hiram S. and Susan Simmons Stone. In early years he became an apprentice carpenter, and developed into one of the most skillful tradesmen in his line in this corner of the state. He had been a resident here the greaer part of his life, and for many years was engaged in contracting. Mr. Stone was a member of the Danielson Methodist Episcopal church and chairman of its board of trustees for years.

In charge of Undertaker A. F. Wood, Mr. Stone's body was removed from the hospital to his home on Prospect street. He leaves his wife, a stepdaughter, Miss Ruth A. Fiske, and two nephews, Ralph Shakelton and Frank Shakelton, both of Hartford.

Shortly after 8 o'clock last night, soon after he had completed his duties as a counter of ballots at the town hall, William A. Graves of Mechanic street was struck by an automobile driven by Ernest Malo of 41 South Main street, and quite seriously injured. Mr. Graves sustained two severe scalp wounds, a broken nose and a possible slight fracture of the skull.

At the time of the accident he was crossing Mechanic street from a point near his home to a point near the yard of Young Brothers. Mr. Malo later said he endeavored to avoid having his car strike Mr. Graves, but did not succeed in doing so.

Emil Bourque, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bourque of the West Side, died during last night at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam. The young man had been a patient at the institution for about ten days and had undergone an operation for an aggravated case of appendicitis. He was born in the town of Brooklyn, on the West Side, and had been a resident of this territory since birth. He was one of seven children, and his death is the first to occur among them. The body was taken in charge by Undertaker L. E. Kennedy and conveyed to the home.

For the second time within four days an automobile driver who had been to a wedding has been so indiscreet as to turn his car over in this territory, the first case of it happening in the town of Thompson Saturday afternoon, and the second case in Killingly, with the resultant appearance before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court this afternoon of Urgele E. Charbonneau of Worcester. Charged with operating a motor vehicle while he was under the influence of liquor, Charbonneau was fined $100 and costs. He was ordered into court by State Officer Donald J. Geddes.

By a very considerable margin the democrats of the town of Brooklyn were victorious in yesterday's election. The detail of the vote is as follows: Assessor, Homer G. Beecher, r, 155; William N. House, d, 197; board of relief, Sidney W. Bard, r, 111; Fred F. Maynard, d, 196; selectmen, E. M. M. Marlor, r and d, 304; C. A. Parker, r, 108; Hugh Gorman, Jr., d, 210; auditor, E. C. Babson, r, 113; E. L. Baker, d, 196; grand jurors, S. W. Bard, r, 111; Frank M. Bedard, r, 106; Miss Laura Pike, r, 110; John M. Bessette d and r, 308; H. H. Bernier, d, 193; Romeo Maynard, d, 196; Daniel Smith, d, 196; constables, Stephen Coffey, r, 112; E. M. Bennett, r, 112; Arthur Whitman, r, 110; Elmer Brindamour, d, 191; J. M. Bessette, d, 196; Henri Fournier, d, 193; Walter H. Evans, d, 200; registrars, Charles H. Blake, r, 108; Frank A. Moore, r, 10; John M. Bessette, d, 196; Walter H. Evans, d, 196; town school committee, Joseph B. Stetson, r, 117; Helen J. Harrington, d, 191; Addie C. Hyde, d, 191.

Today employes of the New Haven road completed the work of repairing the Main street crossing so that traffic will pass over the two tracks smoothly. This has been accomplished by removing the old material at the crossing, putting in new ties, a base of crushed rock, guard rails and with a surfacing of an asphalt like material that should wear well. The traffic over this crossing is heavy and almost continuous, as it is on the route of the two main trunk line highways in this part of the state.

Tonight there was an interesting gathering of members of the Danielson chamber of commerce and their guests at the October meeting of the organization at the Attawaugan hotel. It was ladies' night, and the guests were numerous. President M. H. Berthiaume presided, and following the supper and business meeting those attending adjourned to the Orpheum theatre, by invitation of Manager Henry Johnson.

Wednesday of next week the republicans of Killingly are to caucus for the purpose of naming candidates for representative and for judge of probate. Next week also brings the caucus of the Killingly democrats to name their candidates for these offices.

A very successful whist party was held recently at the home of Mrs. Helen Dowe with Mrs. Earl Holt assisting. There were ten tables in play and the proceeds going to the Order of the Amaranth. Refreshments were served late in the evening of sandwiches and coffee. The first prize was won by Mrs. Walter Anderson and the consolation prize going to Mrs. Lizzie Withington. The first prize for the men was won by Louis E. Kennedy and the consolatios was given to Edward Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney W. Bard, Mrs. Lizzie E. Withington and Mrs. Louis S. Ingalls attended a bridge whist party held at the Professional Woman's club and given by the Order of the White Shrine of Hartford last Friday evening at Hartford.

Miss Priscilla Gingras of St. Francis hospital training school at Hartford is spending two weeks visiting at her home on Reynolds street.

When Mrs. Charles Rowe Vickery addresses the members of the Killingly Woman's club at their first meeting of the fall season in the vestry of the Westfield Congregational church Wednesday afternoon her subject will be India.

Salem Choquette, who sustained a broken leg while he was acting as flagman where highway construction work was going on at Attawaugan a number of weeks ago, is now nearly well again.

The season's first meeting of the Ladies' Reading circle was held yesterday afternoon with Mrs. A. C. Green of North Main street.

Mrs. Annie Anderson has been elected president of the Roundabout club for the ensuing year.

A cooking demonstration by Mrs. Carolyn W. Bailey, is scheduled to be held Thursday afternoon in the Congregational church vestry.

Mrs. Harry Brearley will be the leader when the Woman's Missionary society of the Dayville Congregational church meets with Mrs. Fannie S. Bennett Thursday afternoon.

The canvass for prospective new voters in Killingly continues through representatives of both political parties and the assurance is that there will be many candidates for admission to the electorate later in the present month.

Chief A. P. Woodward has prepared a map on which colored-headed pins are used to show where fires have occurred during his administration as active head of the fire department, and the nature of the fires. The map contains hundreds of pins.

Several from Killingly were candidates for admission to citizenship at a session of the superior court for naturalization purposes in Putnam today.

In these final days of the closed season, game officials are keeping close watch for those who would go ahunting prior to the beginning of the open season next Monday

PUTNAM

RAYMOND AND LALONE STOICALLY RECEIVE SENTENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 3—Sentences of life imprisonment were imposed by Judge Edward M. Yeomans on Albert J. Raymond, and Roland G. Lalone, the "ice box" bandits, for the murder of State Officer Irving H. Nelson of the Danielson baracks, at a session of the superior court this morning.

The procedure was simple and brief, but momentous: Sheriff Charles A. Gates called the court to order as Judge Yeomans emerged from his chamber. State Attorney Howard C. Bradford moved for sentence as Raymond and Lalone were brought out from the prisoners dock to face the court.

Seated at the counsel table was the entire array of attorneys for the accused—John M. Thayer, Frank B. Hall, John J. Monylhan, John C. Mahoney and Frank H. Foss.

Addressing the court Attorney Foss said that "in view of the fact that the jury has found the accused guilty there is nothing we can say."

Immediately and without comment Judge Yeomans sentenced Lalone and Raymond to the state prison for the remainder of their natural lives, and then recessed the court.

Up to late this afternoon attorneys for the defence had filed no motions in the interest of their clients.

After sentence Raymond and Lalone, heavily guarded, were taken back to the county jail at Brooklyn, where they will be kept only so long as may be necessary to complete arrangements for their transfer to Wethersfield.

Outwardly at least, Raymond and Lalone took their sentence as calmly as though the court had imposed upon them a fine of $5 and costs for some minor misdemeanor. Raymond's face was a sullen mask, while Lalone's bore the faintest trace of a smile. There was something about their attitude recalling a recent remark that all interested in them regarded them as fortunate to have escaped the death penalty, a prospect which they have faced for the past few months.

Both the mother of Raymond and the mother of Lalone and Raymond's sister, Florence, sat among the spectators as sentence was pronounced. They showed no particular emotion, being fully aware that it was mandatory upon the court to impose life terms, but there was a tearful farewell as they were given permission to speak with the prisoners before they were removed from the court room to be taken back to jail.

During the few minutes they were in the court room awaiting sentence, prior to the opening of court, Raymond and Lalone conversed with each other and with their guards, meanwhile smoking cigarettes and apparently giving no concern to the appalling fact that prison doors were soon to clang shut behind them for so long as they may live.

No chances were taken this morning on any untoward circumstances developing that might in any way work out to the advantage of the prisoners. A curious crowd of 100 or more waited on the sidewalk at the entrance to the courthouse block. Mingling with them were officers of the Putnam city police department. Other officers were stationed on the stairway leading to the courtroom, still others at the head of the stairway and still others, with a group of deputy sheriffs and Lieut. R. V. Urquhart of the state police department and Captain William Jarvis of the Putnam police inside the court room. In addition to these were the guards that have kept day and night vigil over Raymond and Lalone ever since they have been held at the county jail.

The court room was not crowded as sentence was passed, and among those who were present none were unknown to those who admitted them.

Thomas Kelly of Thompson was fined $100 and costs in the Thompson court last night on the charge of driving under the influence of liquor. The case had been continued from Sept. 17. Kelly was driving on the road from Thompson to Webster when he collided with the car owned and operated by Elmer Maynard on the night of Sept. 15. The car driven by Maynard was quite badly damaged by Kelly's car. Kelly was driving a car owned by Mrs. Newell Weed, for whom he is a chauffeur.

Sidney S. Stone, a well known resident of Danielson died last night in the Day Kimball hospital. Mr. Stone has been a contractor in Danielson for years.

A large crowd of spectators were in front of the court room this morning trying to get admittance to hear the sentencing of Albert J. Raymond and Roland G. Lalone, who were convicted of the murder of Irving Nelson, Connecticut state trooper, on the evening of April 6th. They were disappointed as the police would not allow anyone in the courtroom but the people who had business inside.

There were 42 applications for naturalization as American citizens before the superior court this morning. Four people didn't appear, one was not of age and four were not able to read the English language well enough to become citizens. The people who were accepted were Kani Kasim, Kalli Kallio, Peter Kazes, Ruth Johnson, Vandella Anderson, Louis Dugas, Frank Cwynar, Michael Dzikl, Wilbrod Levesque, Andrew Molek, Albert Demers, Bridget Harold, Victoria Kociolek, Mary McKinnon, Leah Solomon, Harriet Seaton, Adam Moffett Edgar, Abraham Zipkin, Sylvia Ledger, Harry Strand, George Caouette, Paul Caouette, Emilie Kaiser, Frotz Anderson, Louise Asal, William Asal, Shaban Adam, Harry Walker, Sarah Mullen, Teresa O'Neill, Katie Gabrys, Anna Coolick. Anna Coolick was refused at first but she pleaded that she wanted to return to Lithuania to bring back her two young sons who were in need of help and she was afraid that she would not be a ble to return to this country if she once left it. After Judge Yeomans heard her story he said that she could be admitted. Peter Vangel had filed his application for citizenship and was to receive his third papers today but it was found out that he was under age when he filed his application.

The funeral of Amedie Maynard was held this morning at nine o'clock at the St. Mary's church. The requiem mass was sung by Rev. U. O. Bellerose. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. Mr. Maynard left two daughters and one son, who is a contractor in New York. His son left home about twenty years ago and when last heard of was in New York. The funeral was held from the home Mr. Maynard which is situated on the Senexet Road. Woodstock.

The condition of Stephen Lee of Port Washington, N. Y., was reported today as just about the same. Mr. Lee was in an accident in Thompson last Saturday night.

Emil Bourque, 15, of 36 Front street, Danielson died this morning at the Day Kimball hospital. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bourque.

The European corn borer, a pest which threatens to ruin the corn crop of the United States, is gradually working its way into Connecticut. This year in New London county it has sp read from four towns to about eight or nine, and in Windham county it has spread into five different towns—Windham, Canterbury, Sterling, Killingly and Plainfield. The federal scouts are still in the field and are more or less expectant of finding more in each of the two counties.

This insect has made it impossible to grow corn economically in some of the counties in Ontario and unless control measures are used by the farmers, in time it may be the same here.

At a meeting of the county agents from the infected towns with men from the New Haven experiment station and federal men working on this project, arrangements were made for demonstrations of control methods to be held in each county. The demonstration in Windham county will be held on October 31 in or around Brooklyn. If the farmers of this section realized the damage that this insect is doing in other sections they would surely be interested enough to attend this demonstration and learn how to control this pest. The control methods can be worked into the farming operations without much upset to farm business and with little extra cost. It seems that it would be a great deal better to be able to grow corn with a little extra trouble than not to be able to grow it at all.

JEWETT CITY

DRIVER PLANNED EARLY START—AND THIS TIME HE GOT IT

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 3—Elphige Chenette loaded one of his big trucks it into Miss Beauregard's garage, for with ice Monday afternoon and backed an early start in Tuesday's business. When the driver sparked up Tuesday forenoon, as the front wheels cleared the sill, the rear end broke through the floor and dropped into the cellar, ice and all, shooting the front wheels toward the roof. The driver was catapulted from his seat and landed in a soft place on the floor, unhurt.

Another hard frost Tuesday morning, put the finishing touches on most of Last year, locally, the early freezes the flowers that had escaped until now came in streaks. The big Pilgrim gardens in Newent were ruined early. In October, while dahlias in some parts of the borough remained untouched for ten days later. W. R. Palmer's beautiful rows of gladioli, being on a flat near Pachaug river, were spared until late in the month. After the first frosts in 1927, there followed 20 days with temperature always above 33.

A white biplane that has made semi-regular trips over the borough all summer, paid another visit Tuesday forenoon. The big airship passed directly over the Baptist church, where Matthew Exley has a gang of men painting the top terrace of the steeple. The flying pilot was not so far above them, and as he roared passed the men were seen to exchange greetings.

The new motor-driven pumper at the Baptist church was put into commission Monday. The final tests proved the machine noiseless and efficient, with the pressure gauge showing plenty of reserve with the big brass pipes all open.

GROUSE IN CONNECTICUT

When Superintendent Titcomb of the state board of fisheries and game calls attention to the situation which surrounds the grouse and woodcock in this state and makes an appeal to the sportsmen to give heed to the situation and meet the conditions he deserves a careful hearing.

Disease has been raising havoc with the grouse or partridge. It is no secret. Last year and the year before all persons were asked to forward the carcass of any dead or diseased bird that might be found to the authorities for study in the hopes that something might be learned as to the cause and through that a remedy be found. The depletion in the number of grouse has been noticeable, so much so that not a few hunters have recognized the advisability of refraining from doing anything that would hasten their extermination.

Perhaps it is asking considerable of hunters to refuse to shoot partridge when they see them, and yet when it comes to a question of a bit of self denial now or the quick ending of all such hunting there ought to be little hesitation as to what should be done.

Getting the cooperation of all who go into the woods with guns is a tremendous task. It is next to an impossibility. Unfortunately there will be some who will not see the apeal. There will be others who will refuse to be guided by it and there will be the reply that "so and so is still shooting them so why should I refrain?"

It is a matter which is strictly up to the hunters. When the superintendent shows that there were over 60,000 partridge shot in three years regardless of the havoc wrought by the disease the inroads into the possible supply has not only been heavy, but increased as the effects of the disease became known. That can continue only a short time if there is to be any partridge left. The state board now holds hunters responsible for the serious decrease in their number. It therefore rests with the hunters to say whether they are going to do their part in having the number replenished through refraining from hunting them this fall. The plea is a pointed and sensible one.

AIR MAIL SERVICE

Not so long ago it was demonstrated by no less a figure than Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh that it was possible to connect this country with Central and South American republics by airplane. He made the trip to show that it was not just a matter of talk.

The outcome of that trip was to establish better relations between the countries visited and the United States but it also developed a new line of thought in regard to mail service over the same or similar routes. What must be regarded as a direct outcome of that pioneer flight is the establishment of an air mail line between Mexico City and Neuvo Laredo, New Mexico, where connection is made with other air lines serving this country.

Equally interesting was the establishment of an air mail route between New York city and Montreal. Colonel Lindbergh had also made a flight to Canada after his famous trip across the Atlantic, but it was not the first one made in that direction as was that to the south. Nevertheless the opening of a mail line between the two largest cities of the United States and Canada means much in the elimination of distance.

With new lines reaching into Canada and Mexico added to the fast increasing network of air mail routes in this country, it means an important extension of such service. It isn't exactly the opening of international service, for mails have for some time been carried between Key West and Havana and on the Pacific coast from points in the United States into British Columbia, but such lines indicate a response to the demand and give promise that they will be only the first of other and more far reaching lines in the future.

The demand for quick service is being met by carrying the mail through the air. With more than 37 hours saved in reaching Mexico City and with eight hours cut off the time between New York and Montreal it can be appreciated that there is a valuable saving which is going to be taken advantage of by those who require it. That it should appeal to an ever increasing number will not be surprising. It unquestionably marks the beginning of an air line between North and South America.

STATE AND PRIVATE WOODLAND

In states where there is waste land the idea of state forests and the planting of trees is being more and more advanced. Efforts in this direction have long been under way in Massachusetts. Connecticut has many acres of state forests and there are not a few demonstration plots. In New Jersey the state plants more than a million seedling trees in the course of a year, and the number increases a little each year. In the state of New York there are state nurseries for the purpose of supplying the trees that are needed for planting, while in the state of Nebraska the planting of trees is said to be carried on by the wholesale.

In Indiana there is a state forest but it is being set forth that there are a million acres of usually regarded as worthless land which could be utilized for the growing of a timber crop, and half of the amount would lend itself to state ownership.

Wherever the state goes into this business it invariably obtained land that is not being used and put it to work. It is obtained at small cost because it is held at a low value, but at its just such land which holds large possibilities in the growing of trees. Where the state can set an example that will be instrumental in getting others to go and do likewise it is working to its own advantage.

This method of education is taking some time but the evidences that it is getting in its good work continue to increase. It is quite logical for the possessor of waste land to conclude that if it is possible for the state or others to develop woodland in such a manner that it will increase their assets there is no reason why he could not do the same thing. That, in fact, is the very purpose of state activities in this direction. Many people demand that they be shown. They must have demonstration and when they get it, even though they had had no previous interest in such efforts, they are invariably so much impressed that they hasten to apply such methods to their own benefit. It is action which should mean much for the future timber supply of the respective states, only more should get the habit.

BYRD STARTS

Commander Byrd hasn't left the country yet but he has started for the Pacific coast from which he will sail. He goes on one of those adventurous trips where comparatively few would care to go, and yet there are many who are only too eager to share in the dangers.

He goes for the purpose of flying over the south pole, even as he did over the north pole. He goes fully aware of the perils and fully conscious of the fact that there are dangers in connection with the coming trip which did not exist in the north. There is enough known about the region around the south pole to warn the explorer what must be expected.

Probably no expedition has ever set out which has been favored with more elaborate preparations. The aim is to have each and every one who goes come back. Preparations have been made to that end. The equipment is of the best and Commander Byrd has surrounded himself with some of the best assistants, instruments, sleds tractors and planes to be had. His plane have been so shaped as to bring about success. He fully expects it and he will go with the greatest confidence that nothing has been left undone to insure it.

From every quarter of the globe there will be keen interest in such progress as he makes. The world will be eager to learn through the radio of what he is accomplishing. It will follow him not only to his base but as much beyond as it is possible to keep in contact, knowing full well that it is a region of ice and mountains calling for high and dangerous flying to which fog may add its very serious handicap. Commander Byrd has had much experience as a flier but never before has he undertaken anything that can equal what he is about to attempt.

REPEAL NOT REQUIRED

In connection with the law for the protection of the public against the habitual criminal, Michigan is discussing a new case not so different from others which have been used in efforts to have the law repealed.

It is the provision of this law that upon conviction of a fourth felony the person shall be sentenced to life imprisonment. The law itself seems to be a fair warning to the criminal. It is entirely possible for him to take chances up to and including his third conviction but thereafter he should be duty bound to be careful if he values his freedom. When the law is held in contempt there is no reason to expect that more consideration is going to be given to the confirmed criminal than to the law abiding public, and yet that is the appeal which is frequently made.

The great trouble in connection with the application of the law in Michigan seems to be that it is a felony to violate the law concerning liquor and several who have served three terms in prison have been caught engaged in violating the liquor law, have been convicted and have been sentenced to life imprisonment, not solely because of the liquor law violation but because they knowingly proceeded to commit a felony after they had a record of three convictions against them.

Now it is entirely possible that it was never intended that those who violated the liquor law should be considered as coming under the provisions of the habitual criminal law. Undoubtedly it was intended to cover the robber, the highwayman, the gunman and the desperado. If that is so and the experience in connection with liquor law violators has brought it to attention there is an opportunity for the legislature to change the law, but there seems to be no ground for claiming the law should be repealed. Michigan like other states unquestionably needs the law.

SUSPICION SPRINGS ETERNAL

It does not matter what books Gaskins had been reading or what lectures he had attended—the fact remains that after penciling much paper with rows of figures and furrowing his brow, he gave orders that rents should be reduced in the 12-flat building, which represented his extra possessions on earth.

"But why?" Helen asked when he told her. It was, at the time, all the speech she could manage. She was too appalled to form words. Helen was one of those girls who believe that money was made to spend.

"Dearest," said Gaskins, who was very good looking, "we'll still have enough to live on when we get married, and I've no right to make such a large return on my investment! The world will never be what it should be until we stop gouging the other fellow! Think what 12 families can do on $10 extra every month!"

"One hundred and twenty — nearly $1,500 a year!" gasped Helen, who could figure in her head quite well, like most girls accustomed to computing the cost of attractive remnants on the bargain counters. "Go away, Edward, at once, because I feel I am about to smash something in my despairing rage!"

"Why, I thought you'd sympathize with my ideas!" stammered Edward with an actually seeing look at his peaches-and-cream fiancee. Tears hung on her long lashes and she tapped one foot on the floor as she stared at him. Was it possible that Edward was going to develop into one of those wild-eyed reformers and shabby-coated individuals keen on making better a world quite satisfied as it was?

When a homely man looks injured, he inspires no remorse, because he looks so much worse than one would dream possible; but when a handsome man dons the expression, even a marble heart will melt. So Helen swallowed the remarks which were crowding her throat and decided to let time do the work. Certainly, something would come to hand to help a poor girl struggling to save a man from his better self. She even refrained from mentioning that his rents were no higher than those paid all over the city. So why should she and Edward be cheated out of a yearly California trip or a new car?

But nothing happened. Twelve tenants got surprising communications from their landlord who visualized the affecting scenes in 12 living rooms that evening and felt descend upon him a golden glow. Nothing quite equals the satisfaction of bestowing largess. And he would not have to worry over the possibility of removals and vacant flats in May!

In odd moments he amused himself deciding just what a family would do with $120 a year if had not expected to have. The news that he must have a new roof put on, somewhat jolted his pleasure. And then, inside of a few weeks, Gaskins received notices from ten tenants that they should not want their apartments after May 1. They were moving. He interviewed them all, such was his mental turmoil.

"The Joneses, on the ground floor," he poured out to Helen, who held his hand and turned on luminous sympathy in her eyes, "said they really had not realized how old fashioned the building was getting until I reminded them of it by reducing the rent! They are going into that new apartment across the way. Mrs. Cloomer, the widow with three children, told me that a woman with nobody to protect her nor look after her best interests must always be on the alert and that she was certain that something was radically wrong with the building or I wouldn't be so eager to hand out a bait of smaller rentals! Maybe the plumbing inspectors were after me or I was afraid a staircase was likely to fall down! No, nothing would induce her to stay.

"The Courtneys said they never in the world would have thought it of me when I was always so generous about redecorating! There must be something quite terrible about the building, or I wouldn't have done this and no, they didn't want to hear any explanations whatever! They would feel better to move elsewhere and have trust in their landlord.

"Old Smythe shook a finger in my face and growled darkly that I might fool others but that I'd never fool him and that he was going to get out in April, early! The rest of them somewhat elaborated on these standpoints Doggone 'em! They just can't believe in a kindly impulse. I'm going to put those rents slapbang right back where they were! Ten dollars a month more!"

"Make it 15, and then they'll think they're getting something," said Helen sweetly. Oh, how kind was fate to a girl who had known enough to hold her tongue in an emergency!

"You're right," said Gaskins gloomily. "You're the only person in the world with a particle of sense. I'll add Japan to Honolulu to our wedding trip."—Exchange.

YOUR HEALTH

Varicose Veins.

By G. de Takats, M. D., Chicago.

When man stood up on his hind legs a great stress was thrown on the lower extremity. The blood must flow against gravity from the toes to the heart, a distance of four to five feet. As soon as the flow of blood stops in some of the veins, or flows backward in the wrong direction, the veins become useless for the patient, or even harmful. The wall of veins is much less elastic or muscular than that of the arteries; it dilates under the back pressure, becomes tortuous, and the progressing disease of varicose veins is before us.

Small venous dilatations, particularly on the calves and around the ankles, may be seen in the early twenties. Anything that will hinder adequate emptying of such veins will contribute to the progress of this seemingly insignificant symptom. Constipation, pregnancy, till the abdominal vessels; prolonged standing, constructing garters, lack of muscular exercise hinder the emptying of the small enlargements. The legs become tired in the evening and an urge to elevate the feet to a horizontal position becomes more and more frequent. Later severe continuous pain or cramps occur which are relieved during the horizontal position at night.

The veins may enlarge to considerable size, rupture through the skin, and give rise to severe bleeding, or they may become infected and stand out as hard, swollen cords. The tissues around such veins are flooded with waste products that should have been carried away with the normal flow of veins. They become poorly nourished; the skin is scaly, itches and breaks at the slightest injury. A small scratch that would ordinarly heal quickly becomes infected and enlarges. This is the varicose ulcer, which takes many months to heal, even with expert care. Amputation may be the result if the poisons in such a leg endanger the life.

Early discovery and adequate treatment of varicose veins alleviates later complications. All construction must be carefully avoided, bowel movements regulated and exercises instituted. Injections made into the dilated veins switch the circulation into the deeper veins from which the blood is squeezed toward the heart by muscle action. In very advanced cases it is advisable to remove the veins and rely on the deep circulation for venous return.

Elastic bandage and rubber stocking are used by many. They give temporary relief but do not remedy the condition. In hot weather they may irritate and hasten the breaking down of the skin. The earlier the treatment, the simpler the remedy and the more rapid the relief. If neglected, the disease progresses, and in later life becomes areal problem, incapacitating the patient and throwing an immense burden on both his family and on the community. A conservative estimate would indicate that twenty per cent of the population above twenty suffer from varicose veins of various degrees.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Pay the Bills or Sell Out

Mr Editor: When the late Hon. Chas. T. Thayer back in 1902 proposed by municipal ownership of public utility to produce a city without a tax list or a taxpayer he made his first move in gas and electricity. He called in his brother, John M., one of the most prominent attorneys in the state of Connecticut and between them they formulated a charter that was approved by the legislature of the state that gave absolute control of the gas and electric department to the board of gas and electrical commissioners to be appointed by the mayor and confirmed by the court of common council and this is as far as their authority goes. The only redress of the taxpayers that own the plant is either to submit to what they hand out or vote to sell out. If it was a private corporation it would have to be in the taxlist and pay a city and town tax and be subject to the public utility commission of the state of Connecticut while under the present state of affairs they are subject to no one but themselves.

As the forerunner of a taxless city it has made great progress and as far as the burden of municipal ownership of gas and electricity is concerned the sooner we get out of it the better it will be for the taxpayers who received the benefit of $50,000 last year from an investment of $2,400,000. So Mr. Voter pay your light and gas bill and say nothing or vote to sell it.

I would like to ask a question. Do the gas and electrical commissioners know what benefit the merchandising department of the gas and electrical department is to the taxpayer? Is there a separate account of expenditures and receipts kept to show whether it is a benefit for the owners or just the help that are drawing fat salaries out of that department. They tell us how much they get for gas and electricity and it would be a nice thing to know how much they get for stoves, gas heaters, vacuum cleaners and electric light bulbs and how much they cost us taxpayers.

Stories That Recall Others

No Kidding

Katherine, a golden haired miss of three, is fond of a neighbor, Mr. D. She always expects some attention when he is at home and she is seldom disappointed. But one day Mr. D. sat on his porch, apparently absorbed in his own affairs, and did not see the little girl who was patiently waiting on her own porch for him to speak to her. When she could keep quiet no longer she called out, "Mr. D., quit joking me!"

Merciful

John was very fond of Nicholas, the infant son of one of his mother's friends. One very chilly day the baby was asleep in his buggy, on John's porch, which worried the youngster considerably. Every so often he would make a remark about "Nackus" being cold, or the like, but still the baby remained in the buggy. Finally the little fellow could stand it no longer and bringing a brick to the baby's mother said: "Here's a brick. Aunt Agnes, if you want to kill Nackus."

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—Cries of resentment from supporters of Governor Smith's candidacy over the pro-Hoover activities of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, serve to draw attention sharply to the fact that folks on the government payroll do not all enjoy the same rights to political life, liberty and the pursuit of the thrilling pastime of stump oratory for a favored office seeker.

There is a regular crevaasse, more than a simple line of cleavage, between the so-called "political" employes o Uncle Sam and those permanently in his service under the general title of 'federal classified employes," as to what they may or may not do in the way of partisan politics and get away with it. If the civil service employes have any doubts about it, all they have to do is look about their offices and they will observe posters sent out by the civil service commission headed "WARNING" in large and glaringly red letters, followed by the subhead: "Political activity of federal classified employes."

Political Don'ts

The "warning" supplemented the routine circular of the commission broadcast in April, cautioning them as to legal restrictions on their political activities. Inquiries from such employes for more detailed information and "the near approach of a presidential election" prompted the supplementary "warning." It includes 14 paragraphs of political don'ts, summed up at the top by a statement that a classified employe 'of course, may vote as he pleases," may express his political views "privately" and may make political contributions provided he does not pay them over to any fellow federal employe or make them while on government promises. In conclusion, the warning uses this language:

"The restrictions against political activity . . . prevent him (the employe) while in the service of the whole public from turning his official position to the benefit of one of the parties into which the whole public is divided, or from becoming perniciously active in politics."

Active Part Forbidden

The civil service rule is quite general, merely forbidding any "active part" in political campaigns or their management. Supplemented by the 14 specific prohibitions added by the commission's warning as "some of the forms of activity held to be forbidden," however, the regulations seem to leave the federal classified employe little outlet for his political feelings. He may not, for instance, serve on any political committee, be an officer or committee member of any political club, have anything to do with political rallies, "except as a spectator," express his own views publicly or canvass for votes "for any party, faction, candidate or measure," be in any way active at the polls "except marking and depositing the employe's own ballot," serve as an election officer "unless the election laws of the state requires service regardless of federal employment and provides a penalty for refusal to serve," or be in any way connected with publication of political matter, "signed or unsigned." He may not be himself a candidate for or hold local office, distribute or wear campaign buttons, adorn his automobile with campaign stickers or signs, or circulate, even without signing himself, political petitions "including initiative and referendum, recall and nomination petitions." And just to tuck in any position loosens. Don't No. 14 forbids:

"General political leadership or becoming prominently identified with any political movement party, or faction, or with the success or failure of any candidate for election to public office."

So much for the freedom of political action of the classified service folks who make up a large part of the population of Washington, D. C.

Burgess Bedtime Story

Mrs. Muskrat Joins Jerry

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Misery makes one forlorn;
By two it is much better borne.
—Jerry Muskrat.

Jerry Muskrat was sitting on the edge of the water out on the Green Meadows as discouraged and unhappy a Muskrat as ever lived. It had stopped raining, but the water was still rising. The Smiling Pool was now a small lake on the Green Meadows. Not even the top of the bulrushes were to be seen. Jerry's fine new house that he had worked so hard to build was entirely under water. Jerry had nowhere to go and he didn't know what to do.

By and by Jerry discovered a little brown head, or, rather, he discovered a nose and just the top of a little brown head coming his way. He began to feel better. Misery loves company, you know, and he had recognized Mrs. Muskrat. Presently she swam ashore beside him.

"I was wondering about you, my dear," squeaked Jerry. "Did the water get up in the hole in the bank?"

"Of course it did," replied Mrs. Muskrat in the same squeaky tone of voice. "Did it get up in that brand new house of yours?"

Jerry nodded miserably. "It covered it," said he. "For all I know, it may have washed away."

"Well, there's one satisfaction, it can't wash away a hole in a bank," declared Mrs. Muskrat. "I always did thing you were wasting your time building that new house. But the question now is, what are we going to do next? We can't sit here, for the first thing we know Reddy Fox will be sneaking over here. It isn't safe. We have got to go somewhere where we can keep out of sight."

"Quite true, my dear, quite true," said Jerry. "Or, if we can't keep out of sight, we have got to go where the water is deep enough so that we can dive or swim. There's a log floating out there. Let's swim over to that and sit there until we decide what we want to do."

So Jerry and Mrs. Muskrat swam out to the log and climbed up on it. Out there they had nothing to worry about from Reddy Fox or from Old Man Coyote. In fact, they were quite safe from any of their enemies. But they didn't like it. They didn't like sitting right out in the open that way. Then, too, they were hungry, and they didn't know where to go to get anything to eat. You see, all their usual

"My, but I'm hungry!" said Mrs. Muskrat.

"So am I!" said Jerry. "Look, my dear! The water is almost over to Farmer Brown's cornfield. If I remember rightly, there are carrots at one end of it—the end nearest the water."

"Carrots! Did you say carrots?" exclaimed Mrs Muskrat. "Are you sure there are carrots over there? If there are carrots I am going straight over there this very minute." She plunged from her end of the log and started to swim in the direction of Farmer Brown's cornfield. Jerry hesitated a moment or two and then followed Together they swam until once more they felt the ground under their feet. They were almost, but not quite, over to that field. They would have to travel over ground a short distance and this they didn't like to do. But carrots were carrots and empty stomachs were empty stomachs; so, after hesitating a few moments, they started.

Little Talks on Thrift

MOST WEALTH ACQUIRED THROUGH THRIFT

Reference frequently is made in newspapers and magazines to instances of spectacular success in acquiring wealth. Men are frequently credit with having amassed fortunes over night in the stock market, in the oil fields, in grain speculation, in real estate, as well as in other lines of activity.

It is not to be denied that these instances exist. The number of persons, however, who have been fortunate in the manner referred to is very small compared with the number who are steadily getting ahead in the world by slower and more dependable means. The vast majority of those who are prosperous today are enjoying the results of patient thrift. Only a negligible percentage of the total are acquiring wealth in any other manner.

It is well to have these facts emphasized in order that persons may not be swept away by occasional stories of meteoric success. Because some man now and then gets a very lucky break and acquires a fabulous sum of money in a short time, is not sufficient reason to believe that others can do the same thing. The slower methods of saving systematically and investing safely are sure to bring results, while the chances of acquiring wealth by some magical process are so remote as to justify the removal of these ideas from any well ordered plan of personal advancement.

The majority of men who have built fortunes, though they may have risen rapidly, owe their success fundamentally to practices of thrift, and it is a dangerous experiment to try to get ahead otherwise. So-called cleverness and daring will sometimes achieve temporary results, but only through the more matter-of-fact methods of building little by little, day by day, may anyone be assured of arriving at the goal of his ambition.

Do not, under any circumstances allow yourself to be swept away from practices of thrift, for they comprise the only dependable plan of placing yourself in a position of financial independence and wealth.—By S. W. Straus, President American Society

Proposals!

A glance at her blonde loveliness tells better than words why this beautiful New York City girl has received such flattering proposals from kings of movie and stage land. She's Collette Francis of 255 East 25th St., Brooklyn; now one of the charmers in the Broadway hit, "Rio Rita."

Miss Francis says: "Since I've been on the stage, so many people have asked me what I do to get the beautiful golden gleam and sparkle in my hair that I am beginning to think I'm really taking wonderful care of it. I really never thought much about it. What I do is so simple. Like so many of my girl friends here in New York, I just put a little Danderine on my brush each time I use it. That keeps my hair silky and gleaming, makes it easy to dress and holds it like I arrange it, for hours. My scalp was very dry and I had a lot of dandruff when I first started on it, but all of that trouble stopped quickly. And Danderine keeps my hair so clean I don't need to shampoo half as often now."

Danderine removes that oily film from your hair and gives it new life and lustre. It isn't oily and doesn't show. It gives tone and vigor to the scalp. The generous bottles are just 35c at any drug or toilet counter. A delicately fragranced necessity for the well-groomed girl.

U. S. MARINE BAND GIVES SPLENDID CONCERT UNDER ROTARY AUSPICES

Two big houses at the Palace theater Monday—1,100 children in the afternoon and a crowd of close to the 1,400 capacity in the evening—enjoyed to the utmost the splendid concert programmes given by the United States Marine band, under the auspices of the Norwich Rotary club for the benefit of the Dr. John S. Blackmar memorial fund for boys' work. It is estimated that a substantial sum will be realized for the fund.

The coming of this famous band made an outstanding musical event for the season, especially for the school children to whom the Rotary club gave the privilege of hearing the band at a special low rate and they trooped to the theater in solid ranks, making an inspiring and enthusiastic audience for the bandsmen who gave the children extra measure by the numerous encore numbers.

Again in the evening the bandsmen were most generous in encores and the concert programme was of sustained interest for its variety, the perfect balance of the ensemble, beauty of tone and spirit with which the musicians responded to the leadership of Capt. Taylor Branson.

The band numbers on the evening programme were the following: Overture—Carneval, Opus 92 (Antonin Dvorak); nocturne, Dreams of Love, (Franz Liszt); grand scenes from "Andrea Chernier, (Umberto Giardano); rhapsodic dance, Bamboula, (Tavner); prelude in G minor (Rachmaninoff); Carneval in Paris, (Svensden); Star Spangled Banner.

Among the encore numbers were Sousa's Star and Stripes, Reeves' Second Connecticut march, a potpourri of Victor Herbert's popular numbers, On the Road to Mandalay, and Jolly Coppersmith in which the bandsmen added a singing and whistling novelty.

The soloists were John P. White, cornet, and Robert E. Clarke, trombone, both artists of the first rank with their instruments. Mr. White's concert number was Herbert Clark's cornet solo romantique, The Southern Cross, and as encore numbers he gave Herbert's beautiful Dream Melody and Berlin's The Song is Ended.

For his trombone solo, Mr. Clark played Arthur Pryor's Love's Enchantment and followed this with On the Road to Mandalay and other encores. Both soloists showed themselves masters of tone and technique which made their parts in the programme among the most delightful features of a rarely enjoyable musical entertainment.

REGISTRARS WILL RECEIVE TO-BE-MADE APPLICATIONS

The registrars of voters are giving notice that they will be in session in the several districts on Tuesday of next week to receive the applications of those wishing to be made voters.

Those who are made voters at any of these dates will be privileged to vote in the national election in November. It is anticipated that there will be an unusually heavy list of to-be-mades this year and the selectmen are hoping that those who are to appear before them will not all wait until the last two assigned days, but that a good proportion will appear on the first day so that the work can be handled much more easily.

CHRIST'S OWN COMMAND CITED BY MISSIONARY

Having spoken on Faith the day before, Rev. Father Mark, one of the three Passionist fathers from Baltimore giving a mission at St. Patrick's church this week took up at the 8 o'clock mass Tuesday morning the subject of Charity. The thought which he left with his large number of hearers was the fact that love of neighbor—for the love of God—is the distinguishing mark of a Christian.

When the doctor of the law sought to confound Christ by his questioning, the Saviour summed up in two sentences man's duty—the first and greatest commandment, love of God, the second—like unto the first—"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." These embrace the entire Ten Commandments, the first three of which deal with man's duty toward his Creator, the other seven to his duty toward his neighbor.

"Unless you love one another you cannot be My disciples" was the constant preaching of the Redeemer. After His ascension it was the constant preaching of His disciples. St. John continued to admonish them, "My little children, love one another," although listeners then as now often grew impatient because the preacher said nothing new. Yet in the main they so closely followed their Lord's precept as to draw from the wondering Pagans the exclamation, "See how these Christians love one another!" "As you do unto the least of these my brethren you do unto Me," was Christ's declaration; hence we are not obeying His command unless we see in every one of our neighbors—whether they love us or hate us, the image of Christ Himself. "This is My commandment—that you love one another as I have loved you."

We do not fulfill his command of love, charity, as Christ laid it down for us unless we have a true, spiritual, whole-hearted love for all mankind. And this Christ-enjoined charity cannot exist where there are such faults as those which prepare the way for mortal sins, as gossip and the like. The vigorous sermon was a condemnation of detraction—repeating the truth about others' misdeeds—and calumny, —lying about one's neighbor. "Guard your tongue" was the missionary father's admonition. "It is as bad to listen to detraction as to repeat it. Bury the lapses of others in your own heart—do not talk about them. Tell family secrets to nobody, in your desire for sympathy. Speak about others only as you would wish them to speak of you. A woman knowing of the fault of another should not tell it even to her husband. Remember, you cannot be a disciple of Christ unless you love one another." Giving point to the answer of the query "Who is my neighbor?" Father Mark told the story of a poem in which a zealous Christian young woman who was hoping that the Saviour would honor her home by a visit, turned away in disappointment first a beggar, then a crippled child, only to vision in a dream that it was really her Lord whom she had refused to admit under her roof.

The preacher at the 5 o'clock mass Tuesday morning was Father Mark also, his theme being "The Passion of Our Divine Lord." At the evening service Father Mark again spoke, on "Preparation for Death."

The children's three-day mission begins at 4 o'clock this (Wednesday) afternoon.

DEMOCRATS WERE WINNERS IN PLAINFIELD ELECTION

The democratic party scored a victory in the Plainfield town election Monday. The town officers, all democrats, were elected as follows:

Assessor, William E. Doyle; board of relief, Joseph E. O. Dupere; selectmen, Henry J. Bessette and Louis Gendron; auditor, John T. Goven; collector of taxes, Frank Bodo; constables, John J. Robidoux, William Vincent, Dan Russell and Ernest L. De Forge; registrar of voters, first district, Clarence V. Reid; second district, Joseph E. G. Dupere; third district, Joseph P. Smith; town school committee, Stanislas A. Bouvier and George Desnathy.

The town meeting was held in the town hall, Central Village. Appropriations totalling $155,356 were voted. This sum was recommended by the board of selectmen, for the ensuing year.

A suggestion was made to eliminate an appropriation of $100 for fire warden. The matter was left to the selectmen. A part of the town's Memorial day fund was asked for care of isolated graves of soldiers of the Revolution, but no action was taken. The sum of $15,000 was approprited for highways.

The meeting accepted the report of the selectmen, showing an expenditure of $55,314.01.

The treasurer's report shows the town to have assets of $65,264.99; liabilities of $320,537.45 and indebtedness of $285,072.46. The sum of $18,000 was paid on town bonds during the past year. The schools cost $86,032.43, according to a report of the school committee. Voting in each district of the town's three districts was small.

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT HAD MOST EXTENSIVE PROGRAM

During the past summer, the Connecticut highway department has had under construction a greater road milage than at any time during its 23 years of existence, according to a statement made by Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald. At the midway point of the summer paving season, July 1, there were 155 miles of Connecticut highway either being paved or being prepared for paving a total which exceeds by nearly 50 miles the average summer's work.

The road building work laid out for the past summer, in addition to being the department's largest program, included the reconstruction of some of the state's most important arteries of traffic, among them being the practical completion of the Boston Post road from the New York state line at Portchester to the Rhode Island state line at Stonington; the laying of several important stretches of road on Route Two between Hartford and New Haven through Meriden; and putting the finishing touches on the new road over Southington mountain.

Another important piece of highway engineering in process this summer was the building of a new road between Danbury and New Milford, one of the most largely used highways in the northwestern section of the state. The reconstruction of the State street road between New Haven and North Haven, an optional portion of the New Haven to Hartford route, was another of the more important projects.

Of the concrete paving the largest single stretch placed in the hands of one contractor was the laying of about seven miles of paving on the road from Canaan to Salisbury and extending from Salisbury toward Great Barrington, one of the most important routes into Massachusetts, upper New York state and Canada. In North Haven and North Branford on the Middletown-New Haven highway, 28,975 feet of concrete were laid this summer, while 21,777 feet of concrete were built through Woodbridge to Seymour, one of the many routes connecting Waterbury and New Haven. Nearly five miles of concrete were laid on the Plymouth Hill route between Thomaston and Plainville, establishing a greatly improved artery to link Torrington and Winsted and the western part of the state with the cities in the central area.

Other important concrete jobs consisted of 20,755 feet on the Bantam road in Litchfield; 26,977 feet between Glastonbury and Portland along the east bank of the Connecticut river; 34,856 feet between West Hartford and Avon; 28,602 feet on the Boston Post road through East Lyme, Old Lyme and Waterford; 21,267 feet on the Portland-East Hampton road; and 20,739 feet on the Waterbury and Middlebury road.

Five important sections of waterbound and bituminous macadam were also in process during the summer. Between Bethel and Redding, 21,636 feet of this type of paving were laid and 23,367 feet were built on the New Fairfield-Sherman road, another route out of Danbury to the northwestern sector of Connecticut and into New York and Massachusetts. In Ashford, 31,799 feet of macadam were laid on the Warrenville-Phoenixville road; 31,000 feet on the Bloomfield-Tariffville-Granby route; and 32,300 feet through Windsor Locks.

SUIT ON TRIAL OVER RENTAL OF DERRICK

The suit of Louis M. Young of this city against M. A. Gammino Construction company in which damages of $886.74 are claimed, was on trial Tuesday at New London in the superior court before Judge John Richards Booth.

The case is the outcome of an agreement between the plaintiff and defendant in which a derrick and other construction equipment was rented and after which it was alleged that the equipment did not fulfill the requirements in the contract.

The case of Montali against Minucci et al was put off until today (Wednesday).

The law firm of Brown and James was representing Young in the trial case and Attorney E. J. Meyers represented the Gammino Construction company.

Other cases on the docket for today (Wednesday) are those of Caroline F Bailey against Oliver S. Bailey and Mashuta against Weisler.

AGGIES PREPARING FOR STIFF BATTLE WITH WESLEYAN ON SATURDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Oct. 2—With one of the biggest intercollegiate contests of the year in this state slated to take place here Saturday when the Connecticut Aggies entertain Wesleyan on the gridiron only a few days off, Coach Sumner A. Dole ordered a scrimmage session this afternoon in order to better determine his starting lineup for the wek end struggle. The Nutmeg coach has ben having one experience after another in order to form the best eleven from the forty odd candidates out for the varsity machine that will open its 1928 campaign Saturday. Change after change appeared in the daily scrimmage lineups, but not at one time did the shift in lineup remain permanent. The competition for berths on the orange eleven has been so keen that in almost every department the reserve material have been able to carry on nearly as well as the regulars and varsity lettermen of last year.

At the beginning of this week the Aggie mentor thought that he had found the best backfield combination of five men who rotated in their positions so that three of them were playing the end position at different stages and plays in the game. In today's scrimmage the backfield quintet had a new member in Sterling Harger, a sophomore of Hartford and former Weaver high and freshman captain, who was placed at fullback in place of Rhoar Flydal also of Hartford. The latter was benched because of the spectacular playing of the former yearling football captain in last Friday's scrimmage with the scrubs. His line plunging denoted veteran form and won for him the position as fullback on the varsity. Another Hartford youth and former yearling captain of the undefeated 1920 team, Corwin Hawkins was placed at tackle in place of Kenneth Wilson of Springfield, Mass., who was shifted to end, being capable as a defensive man on wing position. The latter is a veteran of three seasons and displayed a better ability on the wing position this year although his customary berth is left tackle. Daniel Chubbuck who had been playing end up until now was placed on the second team. Although his football experience has been meager, his build and height made the head coach attempt him at the wing position. His basketball ability was a great help but trouble with his knees made the shift necessary.

Robert Grost of Niles, Michigan displayed a strong ground gaining and elusive ball carrying exhibition of football against the varsity this afternoon and it is very probable that he will see some action against Wesleyan next Saturday. He is one of the lightest men on the squad and also the star track sprinter for the past two years. Fisher of Bridgeport and Ray Ryan of New Haven continued to show rare ball carrying ability and the latter got off to some nice end runs while Fisher was content with gaining several times on off tackle plays. These two varsity backs will most likely see action on Saturday all through the contest.

Wesleyan has been going at a great clip from present indications and with the one game edge that they hold over the Aggies, there is certain to be a close contest staged here Saturday.

The Nutmeggers have defeated the "Little Three Champs" for the past three years but there is much doubt in the home of the Aggies as to the outcome of this year's game. It is very certain that the Methodists will give the Nutmeggers an acid test.

The athletic authorities at Storrs have ordered about 1,500 new bleacher seats that will double the capacity of the field and make it possible to accommodate over three thousand fans. Saturday will be "Dad's Day" and as a result a large attendance is expected for the game.

DEFOREST TO GET CHANCE BEFORE THE HOME CROWD

Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 2—When the Armory A. C. opens up the fall boxing season at the state armory here Friday night, George (Young) DeForest, a local product, will appear before his fellow townsmen in the ring for the first time in many moons. As was the case with the prophet of old, it may be that a boxer is not without honor save in his own bailiwick. At any rate, George has never been seriously considered by Danielson fans, although he is ranked fairly high in some of the neighboring towns and cities and has appeared in star bouts. His opponent Friday evening will be Young Moran of Moosup, which will give the encounter a local flavor. They are to go four rounds at 118 pounds.

Another Danielson boy who has come up fast in recent months and who will be on the Armory card is Alex Socquet, a 158 pounder, who is scheduled to battle Mush Moriarty of Norwich over the four-round stretch. A third four-stanza battle is slated between Young Caprio of Pawcatuck and Young Suencquet of Worcester, a pair of clever boys in the 126 pound division.

These bouts are in addition to the previously announced star scraps with Frankie Curcio of Providence meeting Eddie Williams of Worcester in the headliner and Artie Lergio of Woonsocket taking on Billy Herman of Worcester in the semi-final. The big attraction for many will be the appearance of Jack Delaney, former light heavyweight champion, who will appear in a three-round exhibition with a sparring partner.

BUCKY HARRIS GETS THE GATE IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2—(AP)—Stanley Raymond Harris, who brought to the national capital two pennants and one world's baseball championship while manager of the Washington team of the American league, today was relieved of his managerial duties by Clark Griffith, president of the club.

No explanations were given by Griffith and no one has been appointed to take "Buckey's" place. It was not announced whether Harris would remain on the team but there were reports that he will manage some other team in the majors with Detroit being mentioned most often.

The passing of Harris as the Senators' pilot brought to a close a five year career as full of romance and interest as his playing at second base was free of errors.

In 1924 the youthful manager, then only 27, led the team with the aid of Walter Johnson, veteran pitcher, to a breath-taking finish in the American league and then drubbed the New York Giants in the world's series.

The adulation of the Washington baseball fans was poured out again the following year when Harris again led the team to victory in the American league. The Senators, however, lost the world's series to Pittsburgh.

Since the winning of the pennant in 1925, "Bucky's" popularity has gradually waned. Griffith field has heard him booed many times during the season just closed, although his team finished strong in the first division after getting away to a bad start.

In addition to winning the plaudits of the baseball multitudes, Harris, former Pennsylvania mine boy stepped into Washington social circles and married one of the capital's society buds. His wedding to Miss Elizabeth Sutherland, daughter of Howard Sutherland, allen property custodian and former senator from West Virginia, was attended by President and Mrs. Coolidge.

Harris was reputed to be one of the highest salaried players in baseball. He had a three year contract with the Washington club which was said to have aggregated $100,000 for the three seasons.

Bucky was listed among the "modern" managers who did not require strict training rules from his players, maintaining that as long as they turned up on the field capable of playing their best baseball it was none of his business what they did between times. He did require absolute discipline on the playing field as was demonstrated when he benched the temnermental "Goose" Goslin, his leading hitter, following a disagreement.

It was stated in baseball circles that Griffith did not entirely agree with Harris on managerial methods Harris felt that the club president had not provided him with sufficient material to shape up a winning team.

The "Hot Stove league" has it that Joe Judge, Washington's veteran first baseman, is slated to step into Harris' managerial shoes.

BRILLIANT GOLF PLAYED IN NATIONAL PRO MATCHES

(By F. G. Vosburgh, Associated Press Sports Writer)

BALTIMORE, Oct. 2—(AP)—Tommy Armour was eliminated by Long Jim Barnes, Gene Sarazen was forced to wage a great battle from behind to escape defeat at the hands of Wild Bill Mehlhorn and Al Espinosa player par-equalling golf both morning and afternoon as the cream of the country's professional golfers battled through the first rounds of match play in quest of their national championship today.

In striking contrast to the dingdong battles that featured most of the 16 matches was the easy, nonchalant manner in whih Walter Hagen, titleholder for the last four years, strolled around the course winning from Willie Ogg, of Worcester, Mass., 4 up and 3 to play. After getting away to a 3 up lead in the morning 18 holes, Hagen appeared content to halve the remaining ones with the result that he picked up one additional counter in the afternoon.

Tomorrow Hagen is bracketed with Julian Banlton, a comparative unknown from Toledo, Ohio. The newcomer served notice that he might cause some trouble, however, by taking over Eddie McEllicott of Minneapolis, 9 and 8. With Bianton out of the way, Hagen's opponent Thursday will be either George Christ, of Rochester, N. Y., or Leo Diegel, the stylishly attired pro from White Plains, N. Y.

Diegel knocked off five pars and five birdies this afternoon in trimming Tony Manero, of Elms, N. Y., 10 and 8. Barnes and Sarazen who fight out one of tomorow's feature matches, stand out together with Al Watrous and Diegel as the leading foes of Hagen in the lower half of the draw, with Espinosa, on the strength of his great play here, is conceded the best chance to come through in the upper half. Sixteen players now remain in the running.

Both the long-limbed Barnes, the winner of this championship back in 1916, the first year it was held, and the swarthy Ernest Sarazen, who also has won the title twice, were called upon to produce some of their greatest golf to win. Barnes succeeded in gaining an early lead and clinging to it like a leech and Sarazen by wearing down his opponent with his dogged determination and iron nerve.

Starting the afternoon round, Sarazen was trailing two down and he was still two holes to the bad when they reached the 27th green.

The hole is near the club house, and there, under the eyes of the bulk of the gallery, the climax of the match was reached. Sarazen won the hole with a three, made it all square on the 28th with another par, halved the 29th and finally forged ahead at the 30th with still another. Two more halves and Gene went dormie three and another winning par.

On the 34th their drives were good and close together. Mehlhorn studied his iron shot for a full two minutes, unusual for him, then banged it into a trap at the left of the green. On the next stroke his trouble shooter raised nothing but sand and the jig was up. Sarazen again shooting par to take the hole.

Milligan Released to Dallas

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 2—(AP)—Eddie Milligan, utility infielder of the Pittsburgh Nationals, was released outright today to the Dallas club of the Texas league in part pament for Pitcher Homer Blankenship. Milligan, formerly with the Chicago Cubs and White Sox, joined the Pirates last spring.

MACK HILLIS TO PLAY WITH TAFTVILLE A. A.

Mack Hillis, former New Haven second sacker and now utility infielder with the Pittsburgh Pirates, will be with the Taftville A. A. for the week-end games. The presence of Hillis in the Taftville lineup will add great strength to the club not only in hitting power but in defensive play. Hillis attracted attention a year ago with New Haven when he played one inning in every position on the club, acquitting himself with credit in all positions. Hillis, it will be remembered, played wth the Taftville club last season against the Riverview club in the post-season series.

Just who the Taftville team will play Saturday is undecided but the third game of the J. B. Martin series will be played on Sunday.

ACADEMY PREPARES FOR WILBY GAME SATURDAY

The Academy is getting in some stiff licks this week in preparation for the opening home contest Saturday with Wilby high of Waterbury. This team, an annual opponent on Wildcat sport schedules, is rated as stronger than in some seasons and bids fair to give the locals even a stiffer battle than in the 19-13 decision that the locals gained at Waterbury last fall.

Wilby opened last week with a 15 to 0 decision over Ansonia high, which win looks better on paper than the 2 to 0 one that the Red and White edged out at New London over Chapman Tech.

CALLS FOOTBALL SIGNALS AS LIFE'S GAME ENDS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2—(AP)—Leo Goodreau, 19 year old quarterback at Villanova college, died late today of a broken neck received when practicing with the football squad last Friday. Pneumonia also developed and probably hastened his death, although physicians had said from the beginning that he coult not live. His injury was diaghosed as a broken vertebra in the neck and the severing of the spinal column.

Oxygen was administered in the last hours as Goodreau, harnessed in a position to ease his pain, in delirium, called the signals of the play in which he was injured. Members of the youth's family from Haverville, Mass., Harry Stuhldreher, football coach, and some of Goodreau's teammates were at his bedside.

"Hip, 1-2-3," he called as he recognized Red Malanson, fullback, and Alfred Delva, tackle, college companions and boyhood friends. It was the signal for a backfield shift—the play in which Goodreau was hurt—with Malanson carrying the ball through Delva's tackle with Goodreau leading the interference.

The injured youth had been conscious most of the time until today, and when his mother arrived yesterday he was able to talk with her in her native French tongue.

George Goodreau, a brother, walked from the sickroom at the end and collapsed in a corridor. He was revived by hospital attendants. Mrs. Goodreau, two other brothers and a sister had to be assisted from the room where they had kept a long virgil.

RIVERVIEW HAD SUCCESSFUL SEASON UNDER BURDSALL, WINNING 17 IN 21

The Riverview baseball team hung up its spiked shoes, oiled the bats and put away the old uniforms in mothballs for the coming winter after another successful conquest on the diamond. The Riverview team, this year under the able direction of Dr. E. F. Burdsall, has a record of having won 17 games and lost but four against some of the strongest clubs in the state. But three teams handed them a defeat, the Putnam Silk Sox, (twice), Quinebaug and the New London Kaceys.

Mondi Normandin, who played a brilliant game this season, in fact one of the best in his career, topped the team in batting, finishing the season with an average of .474. Tony West was second with .438, one point ahead of Dinty Moore who had an average of .437.

The fielding honors went to Zeke Leffingwell in the outfield who accepted 28 chances without an error, finishing the season with a perfect average of 1000. Joe Hamil, who did all the catching, made but two errors during the entire season for an average of .983. The records follow:

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2—(AP)—Dick Gentle, of Brookline, Mass., most promising ball carrier of the University of Pennsylvania football team, will be lost to Coach Lou Young for at least three weeks as the result of a knee injury he suffered in practice today.

According to Dr. Arthur Light, team physician, Gentle tore the internal lateral ligament in his right knee. His position in the backfield was taken by Carroll Rosenbloom, of Baltimore.

YALE HAS PROSPECTS OF GREAT ELEVEN

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 2—(AP)—Year after year, Yale hands out football uniforms to a hundred big, broad-shouldered, clean-limbed youngsters in the fall, drills, culls and polishes them through October, and unleashes in the chill of fast falling October twilights teams that usually make gridiron history.

This season is no different from all the others that have tumbled after each other so rapidly since the days of the bone crushing flying wedge and the era of Heffelfinger, Hinkey, Shevlin, Coy and the hundred and one others who splashed the deep blue of Yale all over football's half century or more. Football at Yale will be as it has been—a game of, for and by the students of the university.

While the atmosphere setting and tradition of old Eli never changes, into new and younger hands has fallen the job of heading Yale's pigskin movement. In the place of T. A. D. Jones, veteran of Yale football ways, stands a 28-year-old medical student, Mal Stevens, pledged to the task of building elevens that can win and lose with equal grace, regardless of public clamor, interested in only the game itself and its man-building possibilities.

This football ideal, however, will not prevent Stevens, one of the greatest of Yale's modern halfbacks, from turning loose teams feared from one end of the east to the other. That is another Yale tradition Stevens learned on the 1923 eleven that took rank with the finest football teams any college ever turned out.

The tall blonde youth from Kansas, with the slow smile and pleasant drawl, now tackles Yale's football problems for the first time as head coach. He has a legacy of veterans and battle-tested material of the 1927 team, an eleven that shared with Pittsburgh the mythical eastern championship.

On the ends he has Oldt and McEwen, overshadowed last fall by Stew Scott and Dwight Fishwick two of Yale's greatest ends, but still veteran wingmen. Godman, Ortle, and Hickok, are good reserves. The same situation applies to the tackles, where Marting and Ladd, big rangy fellows, found little to do with Sid Quarrier and this season's captain, Mike Eddy, playing sterling football, Firpo Greene and Norm Hall are veteran guards, along with Charlesworth, a splendid center.

The Yale backfield system that gives every man one type of job and perfects him in it has much to work on this fall. The number three backs, who do almost all of the ball carrying, are Johnny Garvey and Jack Lampe, both fleet and elusive, good passers, steady kickers. Decker and Miller again will carry the interfering burden from the number one position. Johnny Hoben is a veteran quarterback with "Hoot" Ellis, former Exeter star, understudy. Hubbard and Dunn will split the fullback duty.

If anything bothers Stevens, and nothing seems to, it is second string material. His varsity is big, fast and well trained in the fundamentals of football. The line is again a bull dog forward wall. The backs know their jobs. Twelve of the men won letters last season.

Getting away a week behind most of eastern elevens, Yale tackles the University of Maine in the opening game Saturday. Georgia and Brown follow Maine, then Army, Dartmouth, Marvland, Princeton and Harvard. Stevens fears all of these in traditional Yale fashion. Old Eli never boasts, never makes predictions, but when November rolls around it seems as though they'll still be making football history at Yale.

CONTENDERS ENGAGE IN STIFF BATTING PRACTICE

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—(AP)—New York and St. Louis baseball players today wasted a lot of base hits they will need on and after Thursday afternoon. The world series contenders engaged in perfunctory practice, confined almost entirely to batting. The Yankees took no infield workout, and the only regular Cardinal infielders to exhibit their wares were Andy High and Rabbit Maranville. The two veterans insisted that they needed work.

INJURED PLAYERS TO RECEIVE A FULL SHARE

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—(AP)—The Yankees today decided what they will do with the money they will receive for the first four games. All the regulars including the incapacitated Wilcy Moore, Freddy Heimach and Tom Zachary, who joined the cast in mid-season, were voted a full share as were two coaches, Arthur Fletcher and Charlie O'Leary. "Doc" Woods, the trainer and Mark Roth, traveling secretary, will get three-quarter shares.

Half shares will go to Stanley Coveleskie, a pitcher forced into retirement by a failing arm, Al Shealy, a pitcher who went away and came back, Rosy Bill Ryan, a pitcher who came in from the minors late in the season and Harry Matthews, the bullpen catcher.

Marty Campbell, a pitcher who went to St. Paul after starting with the champions and Bill Dickey, a young catcher, who was recalled from Little Rock, will be cut in for $750 each. The groundkeeper and club house men were voted $1,000 apiece with $500 to Eddie Bennett, the mascot.

TUNNEY AND MISS LAUDER REMAIN IN SECLUSION

ROME, Oct. 2—(AP)—Gene Tunney and his fiancee, Miss Mary Josephine Lauder, reunited after a separation of several weeks, remained in rigid seclusion throughout the day, oblivious alike of those anxious to glimpse the principals of this romance and of the newspapermen who were trying to discover when and where the wedding was to take place.

Tunney, after running the gauntlet with his bride from Naples, where she landed early today, safely lodged her in the private suite in the Hotel Russie, which had been reserved for her party. They lunched there, spent the afternoon there and spoke not a word of their plans to outsiders.

The field of possibilities for the place of the marriage had narrowed down almost certainly to the Eternal City, but there was little to indicate whether the ceremony would be in the Santa Susanna sacristy administered by the American Paulist Fathers or in one of the other 410 consecrated spots within the city.

The time of the ceremony is generally believed to have been fixed for either tomorrow or Thursday and those who recall the former pugilist's impatience to greet Miss Lauder believe tomorrow is the more likely.

HARVARD SCRUBS SCORE ON THE VARSITY

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 2—(AP)—Harvard's football team, during its scrimmage with the second team today, suffered its goal line to be crossed for the first time in this season's practice. Given the ball on the varsity's five yard line the second team sent Cowell, its quarterback, over the line for the necessary distance of a foot on the fourth down. The score was 48 to 6 in favor of the varsity.

Point scorers for the varsity were Captain French, Harper, Guarnaccia, Batchelder and Ogden. Guarnaccia and Batchelder each scored two touchdowns.

Warner played right guard in the varsity lineup in place of Parkinson; Clarke who was a regular last year, was at right tackle for the first time in several weeks and Dick O'Connell, former Exeter star, was at right end for the first time.

CARDS BETTER IN DEFENSIVE PLAY

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—(AP)—The somewhat general recollection is that old Pete Alexander stopped the Yankees two years ago and enabled the Cardinals to win the world series. The bald facts are, however, that if the Yankee defense hadn't cracked up in the fourth and permitted the National leaguers to gain a three run lead, there would have bene no opportunity for old Pete to pull the heroic stuff.

A good defense may be the best defense in football but not in baseball. The home run drive, like the forward pass, is a more spectacular instrument but it takes a flock of circuit clouts to offset a wobbly defense.

The Cardinals appear to have a slight defensive edge over the world's champion Yankees in their forthcoming battle, especially if the superior pitching array of the Red Birds is taken into account as a defensive factor. On the season's fielding averages the National leaguers have a five-point margin, the figures showing .974 and .969.

This paper edge for the National league champions may turn out to be even greater in actual combat if the crippled Yankee infield, every member of which has been a casualty, fails to function up to its usual high standard. Last year the Yankees yielded to no team in the strength of its inner cordon but this season Lazzeri, keystone man, has been out a good share of the time and is still handicapped by a sore arm. Dugan's decline forced Huggins to alternate at third with Robertson and Gazella, but Jumping Joe is slated to work in the series, when southpaws are pitching for the Cards.

The Cardinal infield, defensively, is built around the agile and brilliant Frankie Frisch, who can go back faster, lose his cap oftener and grab more pop flies than any second baseman in the game. His running mate at short, Rabbit Maranville, has weathered many a storm but he cannot compare now as a fielder with young Tommy Thevenow, who guarded short for the Cards two years ago in sensational fashion. Tommy broke a leg last year and is doing only utility duty now.

Andy High, at third: and Jim Bottomley, rangey first sacker, are about on a par with their Yankee rivals, Dugan or Robertson and Gehrig.

The Yankee outer defense will be handicapped, even if Combs' injured wrist permits him to play, Babe Ruth, with a trick knee, isn't any spryer than he was but the big fellow still has a powerfully accurate throwing arm to give the Yankees long range protection, along with Meusel's well known ability in this line.

The fleet Taylor Douthit in center, flanked by Chick Hafey in left and either Harper or Holm in right, gives the Cardinals an excellent outer defense. They cover a lot of ground, more than the Yankee trio, and their throwing arms are reliable, even if not as powerful as those of Ruth and Meusel.

Behind the bat Jimmy Wilson buttresses the Cardinal defense in fine style. Level headed and aggressive, Wilson outshines the best of the Yankee receiving staff, Bengough, as well as the others, Collins and Grabowski.

STONINGTON

JUDGE WILCOX SEVERE IN CASE OF DRUNKEN DRIVER

In Stonington town court on Tuesday morning, before Judge William A. Wilcox, Charles De Tarka, of New London, age 34, was charged with operating a motor vehicle on Sept. 30, while under the influence of liquor. He pleaded not guilty. The state produced five witnesses who testified to his condition. He was found guilty and fined $100 and costs and given jail sentence of five days. Judge Wilcox said there are altogether too many drunken drivers in the town of Stonington. The continued case of Lewis Richards, charged with speeding and at first defended by Atty. Frank H. Hinckley, was continued to Oct. 9. The case has been taken by Atty. Benjamin H. Hewitt.

The case of Emil A. Nordham was called. He failed to appear and a $25 cash bond was forfeited.

At the annual meeting of Stonington Historical society held in the Free Library building, the officers reported for the year. The following officers were elected: President, Dr. Charles Mallory Williams; vice president, Eugene P. Edwards; secretary, Miss Louise Trumbull; treasurer, T. W. Cutler; custodian, Mrs. Charlotte Carrington; committee chairmen: Grounds, Mrs. E. J. York; to procure relics, Mrs. F. F. Dodge; for mounting relics, Rev. W. F. Williams; tablets, Miss Priscilla Loper; literature and history, Henry R. Palmer. Resolutions from the pen of Henry R. Palmer in relation to the passing of J. Culbert Palmer, the president were unanimously passed and recorded. They note that August 15, 1928 the beloved president, J. Culbert Palmer passed away after an illness of several months. Mr. Palmer had made his home in this town for many years and was bound to it by close ties of ancestry and affection. Everything pertaining to its welfare was near to his heart, and to this society in particular he gave of his thought and energy. Largely because of his devoted service it came into possession of the Lighthouse property, to present headquarters, and to the day of his death its varied and growing interests were his own. Mr. Palmer at his own expense caused the Old Post road and Pequot Trail to be marked by signboards and these remain as silent symbols of his regard for Stonington's historic past. All regret his passing, not only because of the loss to this organization but because there has vanished an esteemed and friendly citizen, a courteous and honorable gentleman and a high-minded friend.

The society expressed sympathy for his household whose grief the members share. The thought of him and what he unassumingly but genuinely stood for in the community will serve to inspire his associate members in the years to come.

A meeting of Ruth chapter No. 44, O. E. S. is to be held Thursday evening when candidates will be initiated.

FOOTBALL SEASON OPENS WITH DANCE HALL VICTORY

The football season opened in the village Monday afternoon, at Dunn field, when Dance Hall eleven put on the gridiron rigs and played the Prospect Hill Giants. Several of these players weigh 190 pounds and stand over six feet. The game got under way at 4 o'clock so the school children could see the battle. A crowd of 100 fans gathered. Referee was Jack Lawler and the umpire Maxson Langworthy. Capt. John Bracci of the Dance Hall squad kicked off to the Giants. Edwin Rollins, fullback, caught the pigskin and made a run of 15 yards before thrown to the ground. In four downs, the Giants could not gain through the left end of the Dance Hoppers' line and they lost the ball and the first play. Right Halfback Smiling Passi made a long forward pass, a 40-yard throw, to Lightning Mallett, right end, and put the ball on the 25-yard line. The crowd did some cheering and Coach Hurry-Up Bentley was all smiles at the play and in three rushes through center put the ball over for a touchdown. Captain Bracci kicked the extra point, making the score 7 to 0 in favor of the Dancers. But Coach Burbine did not give up hope and sent in E. Bogue at quarterback in place of Swan. Bogue caught a forward pass out of the air and twisted his way through the hole the Dance Hall team had for an 85-yard run for a touchdown. What a hand he got! He also kicked the extra point, making it a 7 to 7 score and the first half over. Coach Bentley gave his men some snappy orders and said, "Fight—and don't let them pass!" Coach Burbine for the Giants was letting his men take it easy. The whistle blew for the last half. Each team was working hard but with no gains and soon the third quarter was over. Going into the final quarter, still the score was a tie, but the fans were watching a great game. The signal came for the hidden ball trick by Captain Bracci and Peter Southworth, speedy guard. That fooled the Giants of the Hill, for all players on the Dance Hall eleven would get in a huddle and start and no one could tell where the ball was. Working that trick for a few times, at last good looking Ben Grant put it over for a touchdown that won the game, 13 to 7, in favor of the Dance Hall eleven.

Sam Long human fly, who is helping paint the water tower at the mill in the village, is always singing while working. He is called Dare Devil by his fellow workmen when on the top of the tank with a paint brush, doing his stuff. A small crowd on the street was looking as Human Fly Long stood on his hands at 112 feet in the air, on top of the tank. The crowd was holding its breath, then cheering him for several minutes. One workman said, "That is nothing! He did the same stunt out in a small town in the west about 300 feet in the air. He almost lost his balance, but luck was with him that time!" He did the stunt several times and Dare Devil Long was all right with his circus trick.

Alden Brooky has returned from a short visit in Bristol, Conn., with friends.

PROVIDENCE POLICE TELL TALES OF R. J. BECKMAN, HELD AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 2—Richard J. Beckman, 22, of Pawtucket, R. I., who is serving a sentence of 10 days in jail for impersonating a member of a secret organization, will probably be behind the brick walls of New London county jail longer than he anticipated. When he concludes the present sentence, he will undoubtedly be rearrested on a charge of forgery and if a conviction results, will probably be meted out a sentence that will keep him in confinement many months. Beckman was arrested last Sunday charged with passing worthless checks and wearing an emblem of the Masonic order, in which he did not hold membership. The checks aggregated a face value of $55 and he obtained this amount by obtaining the endorsement to the checks of George MacDougal, assistant probation officer, which was necessary before a bank would honor them. Each check was drawn upon a Providence bank and with the name of "Arthur J. Cariveau," a Pawtucket automobile dealer, as both payee and payor. Beckman's real name was revealed after his arrest and upon his assurance to the court that he would return the money he received by negotiating the checks, the worthless paper charge was nolled, and he was sentenced on the less serious charge. Since his sentence the detective bureau has been in communication with the Providence police and it is revealed that Cariveau did not draw the checks, and had no knowledge of Beckman having forged the latter's name to the checks. Neither has the money been returned, which Beckman got by cashing the negotiable paper.

Probably the crook was well acquainted with the movements and habits of the restaurant proprietor for $80 was obtained, $50 of which was supposed to have been in a secret hiding place. Facas locked his restaurant about 1 o'clock and when he opened it for business about 5:30 this morning there was plenty of evidence of the place having been entered during the night. Entrance had been gained by forcing a rear door; $20 was taken from a slot machine and the remainder from a box in the supposed secret hiding place. Facas reported the theft at police headquarters.

Diehl, cadet stationed at the United States Coast Guard academy, late this afternoon, the victim not, however, being seriously injured. Johnson, a carpenter, had been at work at Ocean Beach and was driving home. As the car passed through Willetts avenue, Diehl, one of several academy cadets, who had been practicing football playing at Caulkins park, jumped in front of the car and before Johnson could apply the brakes, he was struck and knocked down. STOLE MONEY AT STORE—INVESTED IN TWO WHEELS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 2—Two juvenile crooks were arrested tonight by Detective Sergt. John Cavanaugh when the youths were connected with the theft of $100 from a Main street store. Both boys have made an admission of their guilt and will be in the juvenile court during the present week. One of the youths went to the store a week ago and stole $15. Yesterday afternoon the youth returned to the store, as he had done errands there, and was accompanied by a companion. When the wife of the proprietor of the store had placed money aggregating $85 in three envelopes to be paid employes, and then had secreted the envelopes in a drawer, one of the youths watched an opportunity when the female employes were engaged in another part of the store and removed the envelopes containing the money. He then went outside where he was joined by the other youth and the pair went to a Bank street store where two bicycles were purchased, one for $45 and the other for $35. Instead of taking the cycles home, the boys secreted them in the woods, for to bring them home would attract the suspicion of their parents. When the robbery was reported to the detective bureau yesterday, Detective Sergeant Cavanaugh went to work on the case and finally obtained a confession from the boys.

NORWICH MAN'S CAR KNOCKS DOWN 4-YEAR-OLD GIRL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 2—An automobile driven by Owen Wolfe, 394 Main street, Norwich, was passing through Huntington street this afternoon and when near Stony Hill, Marjorie Dewire 4, ran from the sidewalk into the highway. She was struck by the car and knocked down. In order to ascertain whether the girl was seriously injured, Wolfe took her to Lawrence hospital, where it was found that she had sustained only bruises. After the child's injuries had been dressed she was taken home by her mother.

Leadville, Colo., is paving its "street of gold" with concrete, and the Portland Cement association announces that assays during the grading showed the earth actually contained gold. Its source was supposed to be siftings of the lines of ore-bearing wagons of gold boom days, and the gold mine dump material with which it was paved originally.

POETRY

Starshine

As I went up by my home am
It was the moon of night;
There was no light in any house;
And oh, the stars were bright.

Still were both land and water:
I conned the Milky Way;
And I caught the smell of night air
On grass that should be hay;

And I thought of June nights, wheeling
Into the Weald of Kent;
When, peering for a haystack,
With lights out, soft we went.

Then, blanket-swathed, beneath the stars,
Hearing the silence speak,
We thought no more of London,
And the humdrum of the week.

Our sleep was light, our sleep was short;
The nights were short, but sweet;
And the dawn song: and the sun's rise,
And the wind across the wheat!

Oh, wakeful watching of the stars,
In town so seldom scanned,
From dusk to dawn—the farm's first stir—
The waking of the land—

And here is loveliness, thought I,
Sweet as the summers fled;
Star in the jasmine at my door,
And starshine overhead.

—Douglas Hurn, in Christian Science Monitor.

Twilight

Spirit of Twilight, through your folded wings
I catch a glimpse of your averted face
And rapturous on a sudden, my soul sings
"Is not this common earth a holy place?"

Spirit of Twilight, you are like a song
That sleeps, and waits a singer,—like a hymn
That God finds lovely and keeps near Him long,
Till it is chorled by aureoled cherubim.

Spirit of Twilight, in the golden gloom
Of dreamland dim I sought you, and I found
A woman sitting in a silent room
Full of white flowers that moved and made no sound

These white flowers were the thoughts you bring to all,
And the room's name is Mystery where you sit,
Woman whom we call Twilight, when night's pall
You lift across our Earth to cover it.

—Olive Custance.

REACTIONARY TREND IN STOCK PRICES CAUSED BY UNEASINESS OVER CREDIT

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—Speculative uneasiness over the credit situation was reflected in the reactionary trend of prices in today's stock market. Although pools succeeded in lifting nearly a score issues to new high grounds on gains running as high as 10 points, the general list was under pressure of heavy selling for both accounts. Final quotations disclosed a long list of net declines ranging from 1 to 7 1-2 points.

Fears of a huge increase in stock exchange member loans proved to be well founded as the actual figures, published after the close of the market, showed a gain of $462,202,280 last month, bringing the total on Sept. 29 to a new high record for all time at $5,513,639,685. This was a much larger increase than that shown in the weekly totals of the New York Federal reserve bank, which advanced $289,560,000 in the period between August 29 and Sept. 26.

Call money renewed at 8 per cent and advanced to 9 as banks called $35,000,000 in loans. Bankers reported that the peak of the stringency incidental to the unusually heavy quarterly disbursements had passed, and that lower rates were likely later in the week. Wall street appeared to be plainly disturbed by the criticism directed against the large volume of credit absorbed by securities collateral by speakers at the annual convention of the American Bankers' association in Philadelphia. One of the bright spots in the day's credit news was the announcement that an additional shipment of $2,500,000 in gold was on the way from London to New York, and that further imports were likely before the end of the month.

Private messages urging profit-taking and a strict limitation of new commitments were sent out by some of the large commission houses during the day, accounting for heavy liquidation by small investors. "Bear" selling also was more aggressive in character although there were no wide open breaks, and "shorts' in a few issues were driven to cover by the appearance of unexpected buying power.

Weakness of several of the high grade rails in the face of reports of expanding traffic and earnings had a disturbing effect on speculative sentiment. Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Rock Island and Pittsburgh & West Virginia were driven down 3 to 4 points, but all made substantial recovery from the low levels.

Chrysler was again bought in large volume but after duplicating the year's high of 124 7-8, the stock dropped back to 123 1-4, off 1 1-4 net. General Motors fell from an early high of 217 to 211 5-8 and then rebounded to 214, off 1. Mack Trucks ran up nearly 4 points to 96 6-8 on reports that negotiations were under way for a merger with Reo, but it lost part of its gain on realizing. Reo advanced fractionally.

U. S. Steel crossed 120, reacted to 167 1-4 and rallied to 168 1-2, off 1. Case Threshing broke 12 points and Adams Express 9 1-2, but each recovered 5 points of their loss. Allis Chalmers, American Tobacco, Chicago Pneumatic Tool, Commercial Solvents, Ingersoll Rand, Mathieson Alkali and Radio closed 4 to 7 points lower. Marked heaviness also was shown by such recent favorites as Atlantic Refining, Johns-Manville, National Bellas Hess and Union Carbide.

Conspicuous strength was shown by Lambert, which ran up more than 7 points to a new high at 134 1-4, and Murray corporation, which soared 7 5-8 points to a new high at 106 1-2, or nearly five times the year's low. Commercial Credit scored more than 10 points to a new high at 44 1-4.

Time money was slightly easier, being quoted on a flat 7 1-4 per cent basis instead of 7 1-4 to 7 1-2, prime commercial paper was unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were easier, with sterling cables hovering just above the low of $4.84 7-8 established yesterday.

A gain of about 1 3-4 cents a bushel in wheat prices, based on the publication of bullish private crop estimates, was the only feature of interest in the commodity markets. Cotton closed a shade lower and coffee and sugar quotations showed little change.

Broadway Theatre

Neapolitan settings and atmosphere for "Street Angel," the Fox Film with Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, which comes to the Broadway theatre tomorrow, were found in Mark Twain. It was the inspiration derived from a chapter in the famous American humorist's travel book, "Innocents Abroad," which convinced Director Frank Borzage he would do well to lay the scene of this picture, based on a play by Monckton Hoffe, in the picturesque city of Naples.

Borzage comes of an Italian family, and, though he had never been to the land of his forefathers himself, he had always cherished the hope of some day doing a picture of one of the colorful towns of Italy. Reading Twain's memorable chapter on Naples fortified him in this desire.

After Borzage had made a visit to Italy in preparation for the picture and had surveyed the ground about the Bay of Naples, he was further enchanted with this region as the locale of his picture. The street settings which he had built at the studio and peopled with Neapolitans who were dancing, singing, strolling and lovemaking, might well have been described by Twain, so well do his words, written sixty years ago, fit these backgrounds of today.

This is conspicuously the case in the sequence where Farrell wanders forlornly through the teeming courtyards in search of his sweetheart, Miss Gaynor, brushing against multitudes of busy natives. A comparison with Twain's passage yields this graphic result:

"The streets are generally about wide enough for one wagon, and how they do swarm with people! It is Broadway repeated in every street, in every court, in every alley! Such masses, such throngs, such multitudes of hurrying, motley, struggling humanity! We never saw the like of it, hardly even in New York, I think."

Palace Theatre

Whether you are interested in golf or not, you will find enjoyment in "Golf Widows," the current Columbia production at the Palace theatre. The plot revolves around the persons who are neglected because of the game and the complications which arise when wives revolt. Into the fray are drawn an accommodating insurance agent, a wealthy clubman and a charming girl, sweetheart of the policy writer.

The cast is headed by Vera Reynold, and Harrison Ford with John Patrick, Sally Rand, Kathleen Key, Vernon Dent and Ill Stanton prominent in the supporting cast. The picture was made under the direction of Erle C. Kenton from a story by W. Scott Darling.

An interesting sidelight on the type of concentrated effort required on the part of "prop" men in motion picture studios is presented by the cast of "Midnight Life," a Gotham production, which comes to the Palace theatre today.

In this picture, which stars Francis X. Bushman, the great actor takes the role of Jim Logan, a hard-boiled detective, who is constantly chewing toothpicks. It is not a comedy role at all, and the comment about the Gotham studio was to the effect that Bushman could chew a toothpick more gravely than any man in Hollywood.

It's a vastly entertaining picture, with Gertrude Olmstead and Eddie Buzzell, the famous Broadway dancer. Scott Dunlap directed.

Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write your name and address in the special coupon you see at the end of this announcement, and send for a bottle to try. This complimentary bottle is forwarded postpaid without charge of any kind.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

"Don't, Mary" the newest Fox film release, which opens the double feature bill at the Breed theatre today, is a charming comedy of modern society life in which Lois Moran adds another leaf to her laurel crown and Neil Hamilton again proves his worth.

The story concerns a young modern girl, who falls in love with a prim young business man, who likes his women to be conventional and proper. Priscilla Bowen (Lois Moran) is proper enough, but she isn't prim by a long shot, but to make him care for her she dresses up in old fashioned clothes and plays the prude for a time.

Buzz Barton the 13 year old FBO western star, who so recently came into the public eye, scores another triumph in "The Little Buckaroo," which is the added attraction in this program for today and Thursday.

Direst woe, that of Janet Gaynor in this moment from "Street Angel"... To know the shame of being forced to seek men on the streets... to keep body together, by selling her soul!.. the nethermost pit for a girl of such guileless charm... when she approaches callous men of the roadside the coarse brutes laugh at her... they cannot believe she offers them her spotless charms for a price... her very innocence hinders her from plying the only trade left open for her... the trade which that innocence loathes... Degradation and distress could go no further... Only her marvelous spirit, fighting blindly, could carry her through.

CHURCH COLLECTIONS BRING GOOD SUM FOR HURRICANE AID FUND

The sum of $[illegible] has been received by Norwich chapter of the American Red Cross from churches where collections were taken Sunday for the aid of the hurricane sufferers in Florida and Porto Rico.

The amounts from the different churches were as follows:

United Congregational, $567.51; Park Congregational, $73.65; Central Baptist, $82.85; Third Baptist, $21; Greeneville Congregational, $46.75; Trinity Episcopal, $28.26; Goshen Congregational, Lisbon, $15.

Additional contributions have been received from various individuals as follows: Miss Fanning, Miss Richards, Robert W. Perkins, Mrs. W. C. Young, Avery C. Smith, Mrs. C. E. Carpenter, Benjamin Axelrod, Miss Lois Manning, the Misses Rudd, H. W. Cardwell, Miss Alice M. Cardwell, Miss Lillian C. Stetson, W. S. Allis, Mrs. Z. R. Robbins, the Havriland class, United church; Mrs. C. E. Young, Mrs. A. D. Chapman, J. W. Cadden, Mrs. N. W. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Polsky.

A well-written letter has been received from the boys and girls of the fifth and sixth grades in the Lisbon Center school, Miss Gertrude S. Batten, teacher, which enclosed $3 "to help the unfortunate people of Florida." This money was earned by the pupils in these grades of the school in various ways so that a school flag might be purchased, but through their own suggestion, has been turned over to the Norwich chapter of the American Red Cross to help in the work of relief in Florida. The scholars in these grades of this school expect to have a school flag later on as they are going ahead with earning some more money and with the spirit of their unselfishly doing for others as they have already shown, they should have no difficulty in accomplishing their objective.

It is hoped by the officers that contributions will continue to come in to the Norwich chapter of the American Red Cross as by each report received from the headquarters in Washington it is evident that the actual need is steadily increasing and the first estimates, no matter how liberal they appeared at the time, have all been superceded by largely increased ones; the damage as the result of the storm reached stupendous proportions and in addition to amounts necessary for building materials and food there will be a very large amount of money needed to take care of supplying medical supplies to avoid the possibility of serious epidemics aside from what is needed to care for the injured.

WINDHAM HOOVER RALLY MET WARM APPROVAL

Of letters received by the Windham County Hoover and Curtis Republican club regarding the recent mass meeting on Woodstock common the following extracts are made from a few:

Mrs. Helen Hartley Jenkins of Norfolk, Conn., candidate for presidential elector, writes: "The meeting was splendid."

George A. Ross of The Ross Homestead, Norwich, Conn., writes: "I sat directly in front of the Woodstock Republican club, and in looking into the faces of the Woodstock people I could not but observe the eager, intelligent, understanding eyes of your good people. I spoke a few words to them, not much, as I did not wish to draw attention to myself, but I did wish to thank them for what they, as local people, had done to make the great gathering a success. Someone, or rather, a great many must have spent a good deal of time and thought and hard work in getting ready to receive this great throng. It must be gratifying to you to know that we (the public) appreciate what you did for us yesterday. I could go on and tell of the amplifier, how every word was distictly heard at the outskirts of the crowd. Of the police, how they managed the automobiles coming and going. Of the welcome we received, the uniform kindness of all the assemblage. But above all I wish to thank the committee for giving us the opportunity of hearing and seeing these noted men and women."

William P. Chapin of Providence writes: "Our English language does not furnish enough adjectives and adverbs to adequately express my thanks for the grand time we had yesterday. The speakers were all so fair and dignified. I think Connecticut should be proud of its governor, and particularly of Senator Bingham."

Robert T. Varnum of Pomfret writes: "Congratulations on the very great success of the republican rally which I attended yesterday on Woodstock Green. The orations were excellent, and I was delighted and feel sure that all were deeply impressed and charmed by the glowing tributes to Mr. Hoover's character paid by Senator Walcott. The whole affair was perfectly planned and wonderfully carried out."

Raymond W. Sheldon, editor of the Evening Times, Webster, writes: "The mass meeting was a great success. I heard a great many comments about it to the effect that it was one of the best political rallies ever held. It was conducted in a very dignified manner. There was no mud slinging and the arguments presented were certainly convincing. The committee certainly deserve a whole lot of credit for the success of the whole affair.

William P. Peck of East Haddam says: "I feel that we are indebted to you and the club that you are secretary of, for this splendid occasion of Sept. 15th. The fine speakers and music, also making it possible for every one to hear. There were six of us from this town present. We congratulate and thank you for the splendid time."

Mrs. Webster Knight, daughter of U. S. Senator Charles Curtis, candidate for vice president, writes: "I don't know when I have enjoyed a meeting as much as I did the one in Woodstock. Thank you so much for including me. The people from Providence who attended your meeting were so impressed by Mr. Walcott's speech and Senator Bingham's. When I write to father I will tell him all about your Windham County Hoover and Curtis club meeting."

George M. Sampson of Woodstock writes: "I was a delegate to the congressional convention held today at Willimantic and saw a good many men and women who attended the mass meeting last Saturday and all said it was the best political meeting they ever attended in this part of Connecticut and some said the best they ever attended."

SECRETARY PILCHER TO REMAIN IN NORWICH

Secretary Walter H. Pilcher of Norwich chamber of commerce has turned down an offer made by the United States chamber of commerce to become assistant manager of their eastern district which covers the territory from Maine to Florida.

Secretary Pilcher in declining the offer stated that he felt that he would be doing Norwich an inustice should he sever his connection with the local chamber at this time in view of the fact that many activities started by the chamber are not yet completed.

The appointment was offered Mr. Pilcher in New York last Friday at a conference in New York with William Butterworth, president of the United States chamber. President Harold D. Larrabee of the local chamber, and members of the chamber have expressed gratification that Mr. Pilcher is to remain in Norwich.

NOLLE ON CHARGE OF DRIVING UNDER INFLUENCE

A nolle was entered in the case against Fred Langlois in the city court Tuesday morning. He was accused of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Judge Arthur F. Libby ordered the nolle as the state was unable to prove the charge against the accused.

The other machine was a Reo truck owned by the Yantic Grain Co., and operated by Louis F. Russell of No. 149 Franklin street. The case had been continued until Tuesday morning at request of council for Langlois. Attorney Earl Matthewson.

After the accident Mr. Russell complained at police headquarters that Langlois was under the influence of liquor when the machines crashed. Tuesday morning Russell was not certain as to whether Langlois had been drinking and the nolle was ordered.

NORWICH TOWN

ALMSHOUSE SERVICE WITH OCCUM SPEAKER

"Jesus in our midst," was the theme of a most interesting talk at the Almshouse Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, by Howard Bushnell of Occum, who conducted a religious service for members of the household and friends. Twelve from Norwich Town participated in the service. Several musical numbers preceded Mr. Bushnell's opening remarks at which time he expressed thanks to those who assisted him. Several scripture references were alluded to in Matthew, John and Revelation, while Mr. Bushnell illustrated some of the promises of Jesus. While we do not have the power to see Him, I believe the Saviour is with us today in this little gathering, said Mrs. Bushnell, as He is always in our midst. The service opened with a violin solo, Chanson-sans Paroles (Heller) by Theodore Sterry, who played for his second number The Little Soubrette. He was accompanied at the piano by Miss Louise Sterry, who gave the piano solo Edelweiss Glide (Vanderbeck) and accompanied for the following numbers: Hymn, I Love to Tell the Story, all; hymn, How Firm a Foundation; vocal solo, He Leadeth Me, Miss Eleanor Smith, the company uniting in the chorus; vocal solo, Lead Kindly Light, Dr. Charles H. Lamb. Mr. Bushnell offered prayer and pronounced the benediction. The service was under the auspices of the King's Daughters, Miss Jessie E. Hyde and Miss Sadie J. Dawson representing a committee from Ever Ready circle, which once each month plans a religious service at this institution.

At the First Congregational church Sunday morning Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey preached on "The Child In Our Midst." Matthew 18:1-3. At the same time came the disciples unto Jesus, saying, who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven? And Jesus called a little child unto Him and set him in the midst of them, and said, Verily, I say unto you, except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. The sermon theme emphasized the subject of Religious Education. At the session of the Sunday school Wallace I. Woodin of Hartford gave a talk. Reynald Avery was leader of the C. E. service Sunday evening, when the theme was "Goals For Our Society." Gal. 5:22-26; 6:11.

The mid-week service of conference and prayer in the Congregational chapel Thursday evening will have for its theme "Goals For Our Church." Luke 14:15-35. Scripture reference. Questions for discussion will be: What would you like to see your church accomplish this coming church year? What are our resources? What elements in our church life and work need strengthening? New work.

Members of the Congregational church united in the service Sunday evening at the United church, Norwich, to hear the address by Luther Weigle of Yale.

The first program meeting of the Women's department of the League of Service is to be held in the chapel, Friday afternoon at three o'clock. All women of the community and their friends are privileged to attend. Several of the younger women are to have part and an interesting meeting is planned. There will be a social hour at the close. The mite box will be ready to receive contributions and those who have not yet sent in the little bags have been asked to bring them in at this time, or send them as soon as convenient.

27 MEN WERE RESCUED FROM A SINKING VESSEL

Crew of the American Trawler Filet Was Picked up 70 Miles Off the Tip of Long Island—Probably Will Be Landed at New London—Dutch Freighter Was Rendered Helpless by Northeast Gale 1,000 Miles Off Newfoundland.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—Twenty-seven men were rescued from one sinking ship today and efforts were being made to save two score more on another distressed vessel.

The first of the two to be reported in trouble was the Dutch freighter Celaeno, rendered helpless by a northeast gale 1,000 miles off Newfoundland. A few hours later the American fishing trawler Filet reported itself sinking 70 miles off the tip of Long Island.

The Hawaiian-American steamer American reached the Filet after the crew of 27 had abandoned ship in two life boats. The crew was picked up and later transferred to the coast guard destroyer Perry.

First word of the plight of the Celaeno was wirelessed to the Associated Press by Capt. George Fried of the United States liner America, who said he was proceeding to the rescue. A later message, however, told that when Captain Fried discovered the Albert Ballin of the Hamburg American line was 150 miles nearer the Celaeno than he the America resumed its course to England. No report was received from the Albert Ballin during the day. The Celaeno was believed to have a crew of about 40 men.

The Celaeno was bound from Rotterdam to Boston. The Filet left New York last night for the fishing banks 100 miles off Nantucket, commanded by Capt. James MacKay. One report said that the sinking trawler was believed to be on fire, but this was not confirmed.

The Filet's rescued crew was expected to be landed by the destroyer either here or at New London. The American continued to Philadelphia after the rescue.

HEADED FOR NEW LONDON WITH THE RESCUED CREW

NEW LONDON, Oct. 3—(AP)—The coast guard destroyer Perry was heading for this port tonight with the rescued crew of the trawler Filet aboard, according to a wireless message received at coast guard headquarters.

The message contained a request for a patrol boat to be in the outer harbor at midnight prepared to bring in the men rescued from the Filet off the tip of Long Island by the Hawaiian-American steamer American and later transferred to the Perry.

SEN. ROBINSON SPEAKS ON PROHIBITION ISSUE

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Oct. 3—(AP)—A comparison of utterances by the two presidential candidates on prohibition was undertaken tonight by Senator Joe Robinson, who took the position that the "public may reasonably anticipate more just and uniform enforcement" under Governor Smith than Herbert Hoover.

The democratic vice-presidential nominee, in a speech prepared for delivery here, after an exhaustive review of the question, said that "he felt justified" in drawing such a conclusion.

Quoting what both party platforms had to say on the subject, the senator said it became apparent that "no material distinction can be made between the declarations" on the subject. "Neither party declares for or against modification," he said. "Both parties promise honest efforts to enforce it."

"With respect to the personal views of the candidates," he went on, "both Senator Curtis and I are dry. Nobody knows how dry we are. The democratic nominee for president, Governor Smith, advocates modification in the following particulars: He thinks that liberalization of the alcoholic content, permissible by state law so long as it does not exceed the amount which actually constitutes a beverage intoxicating, will tend to promote respect and obedience to the law.

"Mr. Hoover has not made his position clear on this phase of the subject, but it is recalled that during the war he advocated a 2.75 per cent beer. There is nothing to show that he has changed the position occupied then.

"Governor Smith would recommend the submission of an amendment to the federal constitution, which upon ratification, would authorize the states after approval by referendum vote of the people, to regulate the liquor evil, except insofar as interstate commerce is concerned, which power, of course, would be retained in the federal government."

SENATOR CURTIS KEPT ENGAGEMENT IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Oct. 3—(AP)—Chicago got its first taste of an official campaign speech tonight when Senator Curtis, republican vice-presidential nominee, kept an engagement in the auditorium despite a hoarse voice.

The meeting was arranged by the Swedish American Hoover-Curtis club. Since his arrival yesterday the senator has been under care of a physician but he yielded tonight to the demand for a brief address.

For several weeks the rally for tonight has been planned and there was a heavy demand for tickets. Likewise radio broadcasting arrangements had been made.

While he came to Chicago with the promise of a rest, Curtis found himself back in the grind today and before nightfall had committed himself to a busy day Friday which will take him on an automobile tour of northern Indiana with a speech that night at Gary.

This afternoon, the senator spoke briefly before an assembly of Negro Baptist ministers. He told the group of his work in congress on behalf of the Negroes, referring to his fight for an appropriation for a Negro high school in Washington and asked support of the republican ticket.

MURDER INDICTMENT AGAINST NORTHCOTT

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3—(AP)—A murder indictment against Gordon Stewart Northcott, now held in Vancouver, B. C., for extradition to Riverside, Cal., to face charges of slaying four boys on his chicken ranch was returned by the Los Angeles county grand jury today. The indictment charged him with the murder in Los Angeles county of an unidentified youth, whose headless body was found near Puente last spring.

Northcott had been indicted previously for the murder of the same youth in Riverside county, where Stanford Clark, 15-year-old accuser of Northcott, declared the latter had brought the head of the Puente victim and burned it.

CLAIMS HOOVER SAVED AMERICAN CORN MARKET

CHICAGO, Oct. 3—(AP)—Western headquarters of the republican national committee made public today a statement from John R. Mauff of Chicago, former secretary of the board of trade and president of the Council of Grain Exchanges of North America, declaring that the American corn market was saved from collapse and thousands of farmers "probably were saved from ruin through the personal efforts" of Herbert Hoover, then national food administrator.

OFFICIALS AROUSED BY ESCAPE OF DICKERSON

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 3—(AP)—The latest escapade of Roy Dickerson, Alabama's notorious holdup man, in which he scaled the walls of Kilby prison, the state penitentiary, last night, with two fellow prisoners, has brought about a tense situation which state officials declare will remain until a thorough investigation of prison affairs lasting probably for several weeks, is completed.

Dismissal of a number of prison guards for "inefficiency and negligence" will very likely result from the investigation, Hamp Draper, associate member of the state board of administration in charge of convicts, announced today after a conference with Governor Graves.

A. G. Richards, guard who claimed he was bound and his eyes and mouth plastered over with adhesive tape, was summarily dismissed by the prison head Wednesday.

Warden T. J. Shirley, who was attending court in Jasper Tuesday, was notified of the escape and returned to Kilby to assist in the search for the trio.

Richards said three men approached the wall house in which he was stationed from outside the prison walls on the pretext that a relief guard was being posted. A gun pointed at him, he said, and he was bound and gagged, while one of the men threw a rope ladder with steel rungs over the wall at the point where Dickerson was standing with Ivanhoe Silva and Frank Cook. All escaped.

NOMINEE SMITH RESTING FOR BATTLE NEXT WEEK

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 3—(AP)—Home again after a two weeks campaigning grind in the west, Governor Smith made the most of his opportunity today to rest up for a renewal of the presidential battle next week.

Refreshed by an 11-hour sleep—the best night's rest he had been able to get since leaving Albany on his first stumping tour—the democratic nominee was not stirring around the executive mansion much before noon. He readily conceded he was in loafing mood, for the day at least, and that about the only thing he had in mind was a round of golf.

But before the governor started out to one of the nearby country clubs, he held his customary daily conference with newspapermen.

Asked to comment on the reported approval by B. F. Yoakum, former railroad executive, of "Hoover's farm relief plan," the governor remarked, "I can't for the life of me understand where Mr. Yoakum can claim that Mr. Hoover has any plan."

Governor Smith said an announcement concerning plans for his next campaign tour could be expected in a day or two.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY AMERICAN BANKERS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3—(AP)—Roy A. Young, governor of the federal reserve boar , Washington, sees no harm in the loss of $500,000,000 from the U. S. gold reserves.

He told the 54th annual convention of the American Bankers' association today that the loss of gold during the last year to the rest of the world has removed from foreign trade the risks rising from an unstable exchange and disorganized conditions among its foreign customers.

Although, he said, it is not known yet whether the United States will lose additional gold to the world, the gold reserves of the country are now a billion dollars in excess of the legal requirements.

Craig B. Hazlewood, vice-president of the Union Trust Co., of Chicago, was elected president of the association at the meeting today.

S. J. High, president of the Peoples' Bank & Trust Co., Tupelo, Miss., was elected president of the state bank division.

At the national bank division meeting, country banks were warned against "high pressure salesmen of low class securities" by Joseph W. McIntosh, comptroller of the currency.

Miss Mina M. Burear, assistant secretary Central Union Trust Co., New York, was elected president of the Association of Bank Women, at its sixth annual convention.

Opium Concealed In Anchor Chain Locker

Huge Seizure Was Made on the Dollar Liner President Harrison.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—A customs sleuth with only one eye but an unusually keen sense of smell today led his colleagues to a cache of 35,990 ounces of opium that had been concealed in the anchor chain locker of the liner President Harrison.

The officers at first estimated the seizure, said to be the largest confiscation ever made at this port, at 3,000 tins, but a [illegible] cut the total to 2,665.

The drug, valued at about $1,000,000 bootleg prices, was seized yesterday after the liner had docked at Jersey City from a trip around the world. She had touched at Shanghai and Hong Kong and the customs authorities quickly decided that none of her officers knew anything of the contraband's presence aboard, but held the opinion that the opium had been smuggled into the locker while the ship was anchored at a Chinese port.

The Dollar Steamship company, operating the vessel, was ordered not to let her sail for a foreign port pending filing of a $400,000 bond. This figure, customs officials explained, was approximately the amount of the fine that could be levied against the company as a result of the seizure. The ship was allowed to go to Boston to discharge cargo, but she must return here within three days, on orders of Philip Eiting, collector of the port. Officials of the company intimated that the bond would be posted.

The agent who detected the hidden opium was Edward Starace, a customs service veteran, who lost the sight of one eye in a government raid years ago. He and 15 comrades were searching the ship from stem to stern, for John J. McGill, deputy surveyor of customs in charge of the new customs enforcement bureau, noticed that the steamer's crew of 160 men included 131 Chinese.

Starace was working underneath the anchor winch, far below decks, when he sniffed the strange, pungent odor of opium. He thought it came from the locker in the bow, where the liner's anchor chain was coiled. The searching party directed that the ninety fathom chain be run out, and then the agents tackled the heavy wooden wall of the chamber. Crowbars wouldn't break it down, so they got saws from the ship's carpenter and cut the planks.

Reaching into the dark hole they hauled out burlap bags that contained the 2,665 tins of opium. They questioned the crew, and four Chinese, one of them a boatswain, were arrested, charged with attempted smuggling.

Captain James D. Guthrie, master of the President Harrison, appeared this afternoon before George Brewer, assistant solicitor in the legal division of the customs service and it was at this conference that the bond was fixed. Under the law, the company is subject to a fine of $25 per ounce of the contraband, agents said.

PRISON LABOR DISCUSSED AT WETHERSFIELD PRISON

HARTFORD, Oct. 3.—(AP)—A conference informal in character, but of exceptional interest to those who took part in it because of the freedom and range of discussion was held in the board of pardons room at the Wethersfield state prison, this afternoon between the state prison directors and committees of manufacturers over problems which would have to be met should the Hawes-Cooper bill, now pending in congress, become law.

This bill, passed by the house and now before the senate, if enacted, would give states the right to prohibit entrance within their borders of prison-made goods. Ohio has its own state law to this effect. Such a law the state of Connecticut has opposed and Gov. John H. Trumbull had the state's objection to it land before a senate committee when a hearing was held.

Such a law it was held, as applied to this state would mean abolition of the contract system at the prison under which shirts are made on the piece-price basis and through which employment inmates are given training, a gainful occupation and the state, through what the contractors pay, an income which makes it possible to operate the institution at about $75,000 a year.

The problem before the prison directors would be to find employment for the inmates which would contribute to their mental, moral and physical well being and which would also give them incentive to good behavior and provide them with funds for use while confined or as their earnings with which to start life anew.

AMERICA LEADING IN AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY

PARIS, Oct. 3.—(AP)—America's dominant lead in automobiles is apparent in the world's largest auto salon which opens here tomorrow in the Grand Palais.

France has captivated completely to the American idea that the six cylinder car is the car of today, and has followed suit also in the more general adoption of American type bodies. Battery ignition, improved springing, quieter motors and transmissions and stock equipment of accessories such as windshield wipers, shock absorbers and bumpers.

This 22nd salon is "largest" in numbers. There are 1,200 exhibitors showing more makes of cars than in any other show.

The "car of the future," running on fuel oil, without sparkplugs or carburetor, with an automatic transmission that eliminates gear-shifting and with giant shock absorbers instead of springs, giving independent suspension to the four wheels, is regarded by engineers as likely to develop much of several inventions being shown this year. All of these ideas have been tried out with success but no large French maker has adopted them yet. They are merely "interesting."

OFFICIALS INVESTIGATING "TAXICAB WAR" IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Oct. 3—(AP)—A grand jury investigation of what officials term a "taxicab war" was started today following the bombing of two garages of the Yellow Cab company and the burning of the Cary, Ill., barns of John Hertz, head of the Yellow Cab company, with the loss of eleven race horses valued at more than $200,000.

All records of the Checker Taxicab company, a rival concern, were seized today and hauled to the state's attorney's office for examination and officials were ordered to appear there for questioning on subpoenas issued by the grand jury. Charles J. Mueller, assistant state's attorney, said the grand jury wanted to know whether business rivalry was at the bottom of the bombings and the fire, believed to have been of incendiary origin.

Arthur F. Albert, attorney for the Checker Taxicab company, issued a statement declaring that the subpoenas for the records were not issued by a court, but Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, "a stockholder of the Yellow Cab company." In a previous statement attorneys for the Checker Taxicab company blamed racetrack rivals of Mr. Hertz for the bombings and fire.

Max Raifman, secretary of the Checker Taxicab company, said it had nothing to conceal and its officials would go before the grand jury gladly. He charged that the Yellow Cab company is attempting to put its rivals out of business and declared that "nearly every city official is a stockholder in the Yellow Cab company."

DENOUNCES ATTACKS ON SMITH AS SCURRILOUS

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—Senator Albin W. Barkley of Kentucky said at democratic national headquarters today that the way in which scurrilous circulars derogatory to Governor Smith were being distributed in the south "gives rise to the suspicion" that the republican organization is using or supplying for use post office mailing lists.

"I have no basis on which to charge," he said, "that the republican national committee is directly responsible for the distribution of these circulars through the mails or otherwise, but I do know that we have found one or more republican county chairmen in Kentucky approaching democrats and asking them to vote against Smith on account of religion."

Senator Barkley is a member of the senate committee on investigating campaign expenditures. He seconded the nomination of Governor Smith at Houston and is democratic campaign manager in Kentucky.

He estimated that hundreds of thousands of dollars had been spent in disseminating anonymous circulars attacking Governor Smith on the basis of his religion, his private life and his character. Much of this matter he said, was distributed by mail although "the worst of it was so slanderous as to be unmailable and was spread by hand.

Although he said he had no basis for charging that the republican organization was responsible for this distribution, he added that there had been no repudiation of it in Kentucky nor any effort to stop it on the part of any local republican body.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The formal adherence of Soviet Russia to the Kellogg-Briand treaty for the renunciation of war was received today by the state department, being transmitted through the French embassy where the intention of Russia to adhere was announced last montah.

Excluding the 15 original signatories, Russia was the fourth country to actually deposit adherence, being preceded by Peru, Liberia, and Rumania.

Forty-two of 49 countries have either adhered, or have announced the intention of signing the pact. There are but six to be heard from. Afghanistan, Colombia, Ecuador, Hungary, Iceland and Paraguay.

The state department, in behalf of Secretary Kellogg, said it had no views to disclose on what effect Russia's signing the compact would have toward gaining recognition for that country from the United States.

BANK LOOTED TWICE IN PERIOD OF YEAR

ASHER, Okla., Oct. 3.—(AP)—The Canadian Valley bank, which was looted a year ago, was robbed again today by three men, who kidnaped the cashier, Alvin Baker, and M. W. Hampton, president of the bank. The amount of money stolen was not determined.

HOOVER AND PRESIDENT COOLIDGE IN CONFERENCE

Various Matters Pertaining to the Campaign Were Discussed—Mr. Hoover Said That President Coolidge Would Deliver Some Addresses Before Election Day—Does Not Know Whether They Will Be Political or Not—The Republican Nominee Welcomed a Group of First Voters From New York City.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—(AP)—Herbert Hoover today paid another visit to the white house to discuss the general political situation with President Coolidge and disclosed after the conference that the chief executive planned to deliver some addresses before election day. The republican presidential nominee declared that he did not know whether the speeches of Mr. Coolidge would be political. He would not reveal the subject of their conversation beyond declaring that it was upon various matters pertaining to the campaign and the general progress of his presidential fight.

Earlier in the day Hoover welcomed a group of first voters from the home town of Governor Alfred E. Smith, his democratic opponent with a brief address in which he emphasized that the vigor and idealism of the younger generation were essential to carry on the republican party.

The candidate was informed by Representative Hamilton Fish of New York that the nomination of A. H. Houghton ambassador to Great Britain as republican senatorial candidate had alienated the World war veterans from the republican party.

Later Fish said he had informed Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the republican national committee, that unless the circulation of religious literature was stopped, the democrats would make sweeping gains in the east. He added that he also had urged Work to summon Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt back to her duties in the department of justice.

In greeting the delegation which represented the New York Young Republican club, Hoover said that the aim of the party was to meet the many national problems "with a policy that comes of open mindedness and human sympathy. A policy that can be stated so that intelligent people can understand."

"A party to maintain itself in vigor must be constantly replenished, not alone in numbers but in spirit and ideals," he emphasized.

"It cannot rely for maintenance upon historic achievements, nor upon the long line of distinguished leaders who have left their tradition. It is these traditions of their service, their ideas and policies that must be linked to the necessities of the present. To carry on great political parties it is essential that the ranks be filled with ynuth bringing new cigor and fresh and eager idealism to our cause and into our lives."

In his address to the delegation Hoover mentioned that the airplane which had brought some members of the party to Washington was "an invention which will have a profound effect upon our national life." During the day the republican national committee made public a message from Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who announced his intention to support Hoover.

Immediately after receiving the New York group Hoover went to the state department where, acting on behalf of the state of California, at the request of Governor C. C. Young, he received from a representative of King Alfonso XIII of Spain a silver model of the Santa Maria. The trophy will be sent to the Pacific Coast Yacht club in return for a cup given by Walter Horne, commander of the club, to the Royal Regatta some time ago.

The candidate then returned to his headquarters where he was busy for most of the afternoon in another round of conferences.

Among his visitors was former Governor J. P. Goodrich, of Indiana, who predicted that that state would give the republican ticket a good majority.

Goodrich declared that there was complete harmony among Indiana republicans.

A brighter report on the Massachusetts situation was brought to the national committee during the day by Representative Allen T. Treadway of that state, who declared that not only the Bay State, but Rhode Island and the other New England states, looked safe for the republicans.

MELLON NOT INTERESTED IN THE LIQUOR BUSINESS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—(AP)—Secretary Mellon today coupled another denial that he was interested in any way in the liquor business with the remark that agitation on this subject "will cease on Nov. 6," which is election day.

The denial was addressed to Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, who had inquired in an open letter to the treasury head about his connection with the liquor industry. Mr. Mellon told the senator that his only interest in such a business had been the purchase of $25,000 of stock of the Overholt whiskey distillery, which "absolutely ceased from the manufacture of whiskey and from doing business" several years before the prohibition amendment went into effect.

PLEA FOR RELIGIOUS TOLERANCE IN POLITICS

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—A plea for religious tolerance in relation to the presidency was made tonight by Dr. Henry Van Dyke, Presbyterian clergyman and educator in an address broadcast tonight over Station WEAF, under auspices of the democratic national committee.

"I have been accused of saying that the defeat of Governor Smith would be a national disaster," asserted Dr. Van Dyke, who once was United States minister to Netherlands and Luxembourg. "I have never said that. But I have said that the election of Mr. Hoover even in part by anti-Catholic votes, would be a misfortune for him and a calamity for the country."

He pointed out that the spirit of religious liberty had been embodied in the constitutional declaration against a religious test as a qualification for public office.

"Yet at this very hour," he continued, "there is a widespread, half-secret, persistent effort to make a question of church membership count for votes in the coming presidential election.

"Fortunately this election is not being held among the Puritans of 300 years ago, for then both of our good candidates would have been thrown out and possibly whipped, the one a Quaker, the other as a Catholic."

POLICE HALTED THE PLAY "PLEASURE MAN"

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—A matinee performance of Mae West's play, "Pleasure Man" was halted during the first scene of the third act this afternoon by Police Lieut. James Coy, who walked on the stage and told the audience he was placing the cast under arrest. Miss West and her actors also had been arrested after Monday night's opening of the play charged with staging an indecent performance.

Coy announced that the injunction under which Miss West, who wrote "Pleasure Man," and the cast of more than 50 had given the production last night had been vacated.

When one of the actors protested and insisted on making a speech, gallery customers booed him and Lieutenant Coy removed the man, John Holly, from the stage. Meanwhile, Coy's bluecoats, augmented by detectives, were bundling the other actors into four patrol wagons.

STATEMENTS OF TOOMBS AND DAILY EXAGGERATED

CHICAGO, Oct. 3—(AP)—A confession that financial statements of Toombs and Daily, Chicago brokerage house now in receivership, had been exaggerated by several millions of dollars was made today by O. R. Daily, 65-year-old vice-president and treasurer of the concern, in testifying before Garfield Charles, referee in bankruptcy.

Immediately after declaring that he had caused the misleading financial statement to be issued, the broker invoked his constitutional rights, refusing to answer further questions, which caused Referee Charles to remark that "there is already sufficient evidence to deal with him and in an appropriate way."

Daily conducted the brokerage company with Roy C. Toombs, Chicago and St. Louis financier, detained here until the federal court finishes its inquiry after which he is wanted in St. Louis to face state charges. Toombs was present when Daily's statement was made but refused to comment. Daily made his statement after turning over about $600 in securities.

Louis Cohen, attorney for the federal receiver said Daily withdrew about $200,000 from the company and recently traced much of it to "investments," among them an item of $50,000 advanced for the defense of William Darling Shepherd, acquitted of the murder of his millionaire ward, William Nelson McClintock.

It was indicated that the referee would submit his evidence to the United States district attorney's office and to postal inspectors with a view to an inquiry by the federal grand jury.

NOMINATIONS BY R. I. REP. STATE CONVENTION

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Rhode Island republicans in their state convention here today nominated Judge Fred Hebert, of West Warwick, as candidate for the U. S. senate, and renominated the present three congressmen from Rhode Island, Clark Burdick, Richard S. Aldrich and Louis Monasset.

The state ticket is headed by Gov. Norman S. Case, of Providence. Other nominees for general office are: Lieutenant governor, James G. Connolly, of Pawtucket; secretary of state, Ernest L. Sprague, the present incumbent; attorney general, Charles P. Sisson, the present incumbent and general treasurer, George C. Clark, also present holder of that office.

In the state platform, the republicans promised strict law enforcement and support of the eighteenth amendment. This is the first time that a political party in Rhode Island has given unqualified support to the prohibition program. In 1926, the G. O. P. platform supported re-submission of the prohibition question to the electorate.

The spreading of a surfacing of tarvia-lithic over the section of Main street from the railroad crossing to Thread Mill square that is undergoing permanent improvements has been started under direction of William A. Donovan of Norwich, who has the sub-contract for finishing the work. While the surfacing has gotten underway on the south side of the street the city street department employes are completing the grading of the street on the north side. Three inches of coarse tarvia are being laid and will be covered by a one-inch coating of fine tarvia-lithic as a finish. Some difficulty was encountered with the first two carloads of the tarvia which had arrived in the local railroad yard one week ago today but remained untouched until Tuesdy owing to the illness and death of City Engineer Robert E. Mitchell. When the tarvia was finally removed from the steel cars it had solidified to such an extent that it was necessary to give a treatment of steam in order to soften it to a workable degree.

"We would not go back to the days of braids and we have confidence and faith in the youth of this age of ships," said Mrs. Irving Palmer of Newtonville, Mass., lecturer and humorist in a clever talk on Bobs and Braids delivered at the Woman's club meeting Tuesday before a large attendance. The program, which was in charge of Mrs. A. C. Persons, was in keeping with the talk and several appropriate songs were rendered by Mrs. Ruth Shedd, accompanied by Mrs. Mabel Anderson. Several members of the club appeared in costumes typical of the days of braids and bobs, making in all a most spectacular procession. Mrs. Palmer upheld the modern woman in her quest for simplicity and comfort.

Hartford Girl Wouldn't Eat

"Everybody in the neighborhood was crazy about Jean Frances. She was the happiest, brightest little thing you ever saw," says her mother, Mrs. George Ventres, 45 Capitol Ave., Hartford. "She looked so healthy we thought she'd never have any trouble. But she began to be constipated. It made her fretful, cross and feverish. Her breath got to be terrible and her tongue was nearly always coated. She didn't want to do anything but lie around. She wouldn't eat and was losing weight fast.

"Then a friend recommended California Fig Syrup and I began giving it to Jean Frances. It brightened her up right away. She began to eat heartily and her stomach and bowels started acting perfectly. Soon she commenced gaining weight again and she's been perfectly well, strong and happy ever since."

California Fig Syrup is made from two of Nature's greatest laxatives — ripe California Figs and First Quality Senna Leaves. Children like its rich, fruity taste. It regulates their stomach and bowels and gives these organs tone and strength so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

The genuine, endorsed by physicians for over 50 years, always bears the word "California." All drug stores have it.

DEMOCRATIC STRENGTH SURPRISING IN ELECTION

The close vote town election day has engrossed the attention of many of the townspeople. The unusual democratic strength in a heavy regularly republican is occasioning much interest. Although the republican candidates won out in all but one or two instances, the margin of victory was so close and the general increased strength of the democratic nominees so pronounced as to suggest to the republicans the need of an intensive campaign in the interest of the party nominees in the election in November.

How Can You Be Sure of a Comfortable Contented Winter

THE greatest cold-weather annoyance is a heater that won't heat—or a heater that must constantly be coaxed and wheedled into doing its duty.

But, if you are fair to your heater, it will be fair to you—unless it is a very poor one indeed.

Being fair to your heater is, first, seeing that it and the flues leading from it are free from soot accumulations. For soot is an insulator between the fire and the heating surfaces.

Second, your heater must have good coal if you expect it to give a good account of itself. That is, the right kind and right size of coal for its particular type and capacity.

Old Company's Lehigh Anthracite and the Old Company's dealer are the combination to solve your heating problems and assure you of ample heat in your home at all times.

Old Company's Lehigh is a pure coal, with over a hundred years of proof behind it. Its purity and uniformity is the best possible guarantee of sure, steady heat — equal to any condition.

This assurance is made doubly sure by the aid of the Old Company's dealer in delivering Old Company's Lehigh to you in proper condition, in assuring you the correct size of coal for your heater, and in giving you full information on the most approved methods of firing — for greater economy and simplified care.

TILLINGHAST NAMED CLERK OF BOARD OF SELECTMEN

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 3—Killingly's newly elected selectmen met this afternoon at their offices in the town hall building and organized for the ensuing year. C. A. Tillinghast, the new member of the board, was named as clerk. Apportionment of the town's highway for supervision as to upkeep was made in accord with the usual custom. Mr. Tillinghast takes over the section, largely in the first district, over which John A. Gilbert, retired from office, had control for a long term of years. Selectman N. P. Gingras of Dayville retains his section, in the second district, and Selectman A. D. Sayles the section of which he has had charge and largely in the third district of the town.

Selectman Tillinghast at today's meeting showed his established keenness in getting at the whys and wherefores of things, examining in detail the town's methods and processes of conducting its affairs. A number of routine matters were disposed of at today's session.

DARBIE NOT TO BE CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 3—Attorney E. L. Darbie, who was the senator from this, the Twenty-eighth senatorial district in the 1927 session of the legislature is not a candidate for re-election. With the naming of a candidate a matter to be cared for at the end of the present week, little has been heard as to who may receive the honor. A name heard mentioned today was that of Walter Brown of Ashford, who was a member of the legislature, in the house of representatives in the 1921 session.

For years, with few exceptions to the rule, it has been the custom to give the six towns of the district, in turn, the honor of having the nomination, which has been equivalent to election.

Current town reports containing a list of the assets of Killingly show that it possesses valuable holdings as an offset to its indebtedness. Its school buildings, scattered in the various communities of the town, are listed at $350,000, of this amount $250,000 being the amount at which the high school property is carried, the balance being for elementary schools. In the inventory the town hall building is carried at $25,500, the almshouse and farm plant at Dayville at $31,495. These are the major items in an inventory totaling $432,095, and representative of much of the money that citizens have paid in for taxation throughout the years or will pay in the future. In bonds and notes the town has an outstanding indebtedness of $344,105.76, and a contingent liability of an additional $24,241.65.

Auguste Menard, 62, died last night at his home on Franklin street after an illness of nearly two years. He was a native of Canada, but had lived the greater part of his life in this country, and for years has been resident in Danielson. Mr. Menard leaves his wife, a son, Clement, and two daughters, Mrs. Henry St. Germain and Miss Yvonne Menard, all of Danielson.

This town gets its first rally of the national political campaign Thursday evening when the democrats will occupy the limelight. The activities of the day will start a half hour after noon when Attorney Wm. Citron of Middletown, democratic candidate for congress from the second district will speak at an open air meeting at the mill in Dayville. In the evening Killingly's democracy to the number of half a hundred will attend a dinner in honor of the speakers of the evening rally. The dinner is to be held at the Attawaugan hotel. With a band and red fire the speakers of the evening will be escorted from the hotel to the town hall. The addresses are to be made by Rev. George Gilbert, Attorney Citron and Prof. Lancaster of Middletown.

Particular care will be exercised in the collection of the volumes, which will deal with mechanics, science and a carefully selected list of books of high literary merit.

Last evening over at Kum-Along-Inn an award was to be made to the tallest man attending the dance, and not a few of the tall and rangy young men of this section of eastern Connecticut were on hand to receive it smilingly. They ranged from six feet to two or three inches taller than that height, but were put entirely out of the running and made to look more or less dwarfed when John Rukstela, who lives on a farm a distance west of Wauregan, strode in stooping so as to escape scraping the rafters, and volunteered to be measured. Mr. Rukstela, at the tender age of 19 years, towers into the air a distance of six feet and eight inches, a fact that accounts for a gold piece being in his jeans today.

An echo of town meeting day has to do with the suggestion of numbers of people that the interior of the town hall needs attention. It needs certain repairs and is just crying for redecoration. Because of the fact that the hall has been used for basketball during the fall and winter seasons for a number of years past, it has not been deemed wise to spend any considerable amount of money restoring it to adequate condition, but there is now a somewhat insistent opinion that something should be done about the matter. As it is, the hall puts the town in a bad light, it is held.

Following last evening's meeting of the chamber of commerce, it is announced that a co-operative plan is to be worked out among the business men for booming holiday trade here. The plan talked of, while similar to the one that was in effect last year, will be varied in some ways, but it is anticipated that it will be fully as effective. Practically all of the business houses here participated in last year's effort to attract out of town trade to Danielson, and in a way regarded as very successful.

Rev. Edward Shelley, M. S., of the LaSalette mission band and formerly a curate of St. James' parish, was a visitor here today.

All deposits made in the savings department of The Windham County National bank before the close of business Saturday evening, October 6, will draw interest from October 1st.—adv.

George Ide of Brooklyn feels keenly the loss of a fine pointer dog, Bessie, that was struck by an automobile and killed in that village.

Mrs. Marjorie Waller, Mrs. Helen S. Dowe, Mrs. Clarence Barber, Miss Marion D. Chollar and Miss Carrie Fellows represented the Westfield Congregational church yesterday at the convention held in the Center church, Hartford, for the purpose of organizing the Connecticut Council of Congregational Women.

In the town court this morning Antonio Serbia of Danielson was fined $5 for operating a car without having a registration, and $5 for driving without an operator's license, a total of $20.37. John A. McGuire of Berkeley, R. I., also was in court to answer to operating a car without a Connecticut license and with failure to grant the right of way. He pleaded guilty to the last charge and was found not guilty on the first. Judge Woodward imposed a fine of $1.00 and actual costs.

J. Carl Witter was in Brockton today attending the fair.

It developed today that W. A. Graves was more seriously injured than first appeared when he was struck by an automobile driven by Ernest Malo near the Graves home on Mechanic street Monday evening. Mr. Graves remained in a semi-conclous condition the greater part of today. His injuries include two broken ribs, a fact not ascertained in the original examination. However, his nose, though deeply gashed, is not broken. He was suffering constant pain today. As soon as his condition permits x-rays are to be taken to check up on his injuries.

Henry W. Babson, veteran of the Civil war, made his first visitation to Hartford yesterday since 1865, when he returned there with the Eighteenth Connecticut infantry from the south.

It is being recalled that William Henry Bishop, who died at his home in Brooklyn the past week, was decorated with the medal of honor by the king of Italy for his help in aiding sufferers during the Messina earthquake in 1908, when he was stationed at Palermox, Sicily, as United States consul.

The volume of business now being handled at the Danielson postoffice, which handles an exceptionally heavy amount of parcel post matter, indicates the need of larger quarters, and to some here the situation seems to be such as to warrant the government in granting Danielson the new postoffice building, the construction of which has been under consideration for so long a time.

Summer returned today, when the temperature ran up to 72 degrees, but the killing frosts of the past few days have blasted about all flowering plants in this territory.

The Twenty-eighth senatorial district convention is to be held next Saturday at Putnam. The towns makink up the district are Killingly, Putnam, Thompson, Woodstock, Eastford and Ashford. Senator E. L. Darbie of Danielson represented this district at the last session of the legislature.

PUTNAM

SAYS WATER WASTE IS DUE TO BAD PLUMBING

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 3—At a meeting of the city council last night all members were present except Mr. Chadwick and Mr. Des Jardin.

A letter from Mr. Copeland, state engineer for the water commission, was read which states that the water flow in Putnam is between 300,000 and 400,000 gallons a day. This amount is unusually high for a city the size of Putnam, and he thought that the leakage is due to bad plumbing. He recommended a house-to-house check-up to find out the reason and correct it.

Mr. Dean said that Superintendent Sharpe had made tests that showed that the flow was about 90,000 gallons a day. The matter was referred to water committee and Superintendent Sharpe.

A permit was granted to Emma and Clara Benoit to erect a house on Woodstock avenue.

The fire committee had prepared a five-year contract with E. C. Rogers for heating the fire station from his heating plant in the Putnam Inn. The price agreed on was $425 a year. In former years the cost of coal has been $450 a year exclusive of janitor service. The council ratified the agreement.

The social group of the Second Congregational church held their annual fashion show last night in the high school auditorium. The costumes were loaned by the Richard Healy Co. of Worcester. The feature of the evening was the showing of the correct attire for a wedding. The other groups were the sports group, daytime group, evening group, cloth coats and fur coats, and boudoir clothes. The clothes that were used were all very handsome. The display was: 1. Sports Group—aviation, golfing, winter sports, hiking, riding. 2. Daytime Group—Street wear, afternoon, informal, formal. 3. Evening Group—gowns, wraps. 4. Cloth Coats and Fur Coats. 5. Wedding Group. 6. Boudoir Clothes. The models for the show were: Miss Geraldine Frost, Mrs. L. Allen Averill, Mrs. Howard Shirrefs, Mrs. William H. Mansfield, Jr., Miss Nadgy Nahibowitz, Miss Claire Brown, Mrs. Thomas Alling, Mrs. Joseph Schmanska, Mrs. Kenneth Sharpe, Miss Catherine Sweeney, Miss Catherine Sullivan, Miss Monice Kelly, Mrs. Maude Barr, Mrs. Christy Weyer, Mrs. Molle Kane, Miss May Goodas.

After the show there was dancing. Music was furnished by the Ideal orchestra of Webster. The affair was a social success and all hope that it will be carried on in later years.

Rev. Frank A. Fuller spoke to the Rotary club today at the weekly luncheon. Mr. Fuller explained the manufacture of watches from their origin to the present day. The talk was very interesting and kept the people interested from the start to the finish.

Last night was the last of a four-night bazaar run by St. Mary's church. The affair was very well attended and the prizes that were drawn off were all valuable. Father Bellerose announced that the bazaar was a financial as well as a social success.

The funeral of Mrs. Vetilin Sponcey was held this morning from the undertaking parlors of Newton Ballard. She was the wife of John F. Sponcey. There was a high requiem mass which was sung by Rev. U. O. Bellerose. The deacon was Rev. Boileau and the subdeacon was Rev. J. Casey. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. The prayers at the grave were said by Rev. U. O. Bellerose.

Funeral services for Mrs. Amelie Smith were held at the undertaking parlors of Smith & Walker. The service was conducted by Rev. Hodge, the minister from the Baptist church. Burial was in the Grove street cemetery.

Isidore Weiss of Providence street left today to accept a position in Paterson, N. J.

The cars of Miss Mabel Kent of Grove street and Henry N. Withey of East Thompson were in a collision this afternoon in the center of the town. Miss Kent was coming up the Pomfret street hill and had practically cleared the beacon when the car driven by Mr. Withey, coming up Front street, started to turn up toward the railroad station and ran into the rear of Miss Kent's car. There was not much damage to either car but Miss Kent's car had a dented fender. The car driven by Withey was not insured but he agreed to pay for the damage to Miss Kent's car.

A new transportation line has announced today that they will start operating Pierce sedans between Putnam and Worcester, starting Saturday. They will make nine trips a day each way and on Sundays and holidays they will make extra trips.

The Al Smith club of Putnam has announced a rally to be held at the state armory on Oct. 11. Congressman Boylan will be the principal speaker on the program but the democratic state central committee has announced that there will be one or two more on the platform with Congressman Boylan. Congressman Boylan has a reputation of being a man of unusual ability.

Music for the occasion will be furnished by the Boy Scout band.

Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write your name and address in the special coupon you see at the end of this announcement.

THE WORLD'S SERIES

Today opens the struggle for the championship in the world's series. It is a group of games that will command attention throughout the country and beyond. It means the clash of the winners in their respective leagues for the determination of the best baseball team in the country. Each will have its favorites. Each will strive to get the coveted honor and unless something unusual happens it can be expected that a high class demonstration of baseball will be given.

These are the games for which the teams in the respective leagues have been struggling to participate in for the entire season. For a great many people it would have been much more pleasing had it been proved that the Philadelphia Athletics were the best team in the American league. It was a close fight at the end due to sickness and injuries among the Yankees, but when one stops to realize that the latter won 18 of the 22 games that were played with the Athletics there can be little question but what the American banner went to the better team.

As in the American league the victor in the National league was not determined until the last few games. It was a hard fought race which the St Louis team won and it is believed that it was a popular outcome. New York wins so often that it is a common desire to see the honors go elsewhere.

With New York and St. Louis pitted against each other let the better team win. There are handicaps faced by the Yankees in the number of crippled men which do not exist with the Cardinals. For that reason a slight advantage may rest with the middle west aggregation, though there is no telling but what the injured Yankees will get into the contest and give an excellent account of themselves. Whether Pennock suffering from nerritis will be tried in the box is doubtful and his absence means a decided loss.

The world's series games may not exceed in merit many which have been played throughout the season, but they are contests when the fans of the country are on their toes and when accommodations are never sufficient to include all who would like to witness the battles.

TARIFF LEGISLATION

In the course of his recent trip Alfred E. Smith has been making a lot of promises. Some of those promises do not agree with the platform of the national democratic convention and some of them are not in harmony with the past attitude of the candidate or that of his party. These promises are made to obtain political support, but it is a question just how much they will accomplish.

Not a great deal was said about the tariff in the waltz through the west, although there were sections visited which were particularly concerned with it, much more so than with what he talked about, but Candidate Smith has promised that there need be no fear about any democratic tariff legislation.

Perhaps that is so, and it may be that the democratic party has at last seen the light and is facing a different way than it has in the past, but it isn't easy to convince simply through making campaign promises.

It cannot be forgotten, for instance, that the democratic record is all against any such thing, and it is by no means a secret that Mr. Smith himself has been an out and out opponent of the tariff. Furthermore it is recognized that the president has nothing to do with the drafting of a tariff. Such action would rest with those southern democrats who have continually fought a protective tariff, who have been advocates of free trade and who when they had the opportunity put the Underwood tariff into effect with results which would have been especially harmful to the country had not the war come along to offset it by acting as the highest kind of a protective tariff.

Mr. Smith has declared the tariff to be "a cold blooded and deliberate holdup of the whole American people in the interest of the few who were only too well represented in Washington," and in his acceptance speech he indicated that the policy of not causing a business upheaval through tariff legislation was recognized at the time of the Underwood tariff bill. But the depression and the conditions which developed following that Underwood tariff, produced by the democrats, makes it evident that the country has no desire to entrust tariff legislation to their hands again.

BETTER GOOD ROADS

The demand today is for not only good roads, but better than good roads and that demand is being met in a large degree. This is indicated by the report from the department of agriculture which shows that the "mileage of high types of pavements built, such as bituminous macadam, bituminous concrete, Portland cement concrete and vitrified brick increased 19 per cent. in 1928, while the mileage of low types, such as waterbound macadam, gravel, sand-clay and graded and trained increased only 9 1-2 per cent."

Where low type construction was resorted to years ago it has been found necessary in later years to tear it all up and put down a so-called permanent pavement, one that will stand the wear and tear for a much longer period of years and give a more satisfactory surface for the traffic. Where new construction is authorized on important lines of travel it is the high type of road that is being built these days the outlay being larger but it is considered an economy in the long run.

Yet the time hasn't come when the building of the low type of good roads can be abandoned. It is only fair that as many sections as possible of a state should be provided with good roads. If there was a delay until such construction could be of cement the present generation would never see it. In fact there are many lateral highways which do not require such construction. They can get excellent service out of the macadamized or in some instances well graded gravel roads. They are entitled to them at the present time instead of waiting until the dim and distant future when conditions might make a better road possible. This may mean more expense in the end but it is unavoidable in giving good service to all sections.

Roads are being constructed in these days at large expense but they are being so built as to require the minimum of maintenance expense and the time when they will demand replacement is in the unknown future, lest it be in the matter of width in order to accommodate the ever increasing volume of travel.

GET IN YOUR APPLICATION

The registrars of voters have called attention to the necessity of acting within the next few days if applications to be made voters are to be valid this year. They are to be in the several voting districts next Tuesday October 9 to receive applications. That will be the last day they can be received although it is not necessary to wait until that time for filing them. They may be left with the registrars any day prior to that time and applicants will thus be assured of having petition passed upon in time to vote at the coming national election.

In the year of the presidential election there is always greater interest than ever in being made a voter. There is always an extra desire to exercise the voting privilege on that occasion, regardless of what it may be at other times. There are those who have become of age, those who have neglected their opportunities in the past and those whose interest is whetted by a national contest in such years. It is no different than the situation should be whenever there is a chance to be made a voter. It is unfortunate that the same interest is not manifested prior to all elections. We value highly the privilege of voting, would put up the hardest kind of a fight if anyone sought to take it away from us and yet there is an unexplainable lack of interest in getting it on the part of many.

The time for getting in all applications is fixed by law. It is not elastic. It operates automatically and those who neglect their own interests have no one but themselves to blame.

If you are entitled to be a voter get in your application by next Tuesday. It is part of your duty as a good citizen.

WHERE WE STAND

Once again the question of debt settlement has been raised by Premier Poincare of France. He is aware that France is the only nation which has not entered into an agreement with the United States for the settlement of the debts that were contracted during the war, and he now makes the statement that there can be no approval of any war debt agreement until the war debts and reparations are linked together.

That idea has never appealed to this government and it does not now. President Coolidge has made that clear in his statement concerning it. This country is desirous of clearing up the situation concerning the French debt and would like to see France ratify the agreement which has long since been negotiated. But when it comes to helping collect from Germany the reparations due the allied nations it will have no part. It is insisted that the two are distinct propositions which have nothing to do with each other.

Debt settlements have been arranged with all the other nations in accordance with their ability to pay. The same was done in regard to France and yet France has failed to uphold the position of the representative it sent to carry on the negotiations. Delay has followed delay in this respect and the latest move of the premier is regarded here as placing the taxpayers in this country responsible for what should come from Germany. It is not a fair attitude toward the American taxpayers and the manner in which this has been conveyed to the French premier should forestall the raising of any such proposition again. If, however, France cannot pay, that is another matter.

EDITORIAL NOTES

New Bedford can hardly anticipate with pleasure the failure of the effort to compromise differences in the mill strike there.

James H. Reed is not doing much work for the democratic campaign. He is evidently interested in more important business.

The grade crossing accidents in which 16 persons were killed Sunday indicate that enough has been done to cause others to look well to their own protection in the future.

Norwich will welcome the good news that Secretary Pilcher of the Norwich chamber of commerce is not to accept a call elsewhere. Mr. Pilcher has not been here many years but long enough to demonstrate that he is a hard and consistent worker for the interests of the chamber and the community and one whose services are needed right here.

GINGHAM DREAMS

Dot ran deft fingers along a rift of checkered gingham, but her thoughts were a medley of blunt cubes like the color splotches on the goods before her.

"It takes a whole day and a half to complete a dress like this, and why do I do it, anyway? A tablespoon of thrift and a barrel of monotony. I wonder how many gingham dresses I'll make before I die."

Rather viciously she closed her teeth upon a thread and her eyes on the ensuing speculations and switched to another tangent of attack upon her peace of mind.

"It must be heavenly to be rich, to be permanently detached from the grind of household duties, to be thoroughly emancipated from gingham dresses. If dreams only came true—but, of course, they don't. Not once in a hundred times."

Now she winged back across a space of years to a particular day on which Bob had driven her out Wimbledon road. They had been soaring to the first raptures of their engagement. Bob had driven her out Wimbledon then, thrilled by the promise that she had given him.

"Sweetheart, with you to work for, I can accomplish anything," he had said. Dot remembered how very important those words had made her feel. The moment had been delicious. They had paused by a gray-stone house set in beautiful grounds.

"I'll build you a mansion like that some day, a dream house," he had whispered. Six years now since that evening, and Wimbledon road seemed as far away as ever. They were living in the same old bungalow that they had started out with and Bob was at the same old job. To Do' the house and job were beginning to look dingy. Hadn't she hinted the same at the breakfast table that very morning? And hadn't Bob assumed an exasperating air of affability, arguing that it was lucky he had the same old job, and as for the bungalow it might need paint, but it was still a pretty good place to live?

"Suppose," he had suggested, "that we were like Bill Ryner and his wife. Bill got fired and they painted their house so they could get a bigger loan on it."

Dot had fled from the dining room in despair. To arrive at gray stone one should not consider people like the Bill Ryners. Instead, one should study people like the Theodore Dinsmores, for instance. They were really successful; they lived in a gray stone house on Winbledon road.

More stitches. More disturbing thoughts. Fingers pricked with the needle. Temper pricked with discontent. Finally the last stitch was taken and the last basting pulled. With an air of forced resignation, Dot put away her sewing and brought in the evening paper. Eagerly she opened it and paused, looking at the striking picture of a small house hugging a mountain side. On the rustic porch stood a woman in a gingham dress and a man in his shirt sleeves. Beneath was the startling notation: "Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Dinsmore." Dot's eyes popped.

"Financial wizard and his wife make yearly pilgrimage to their secluded mountain bungalow, where they will remain for two months, living in the simplest manner possible to recuperate from the strain and fatigue of their strenuous social and business demands," she read.

Dot galloped from one paragraph to another. Apparently Mrs. Dinsmore's idea of bliss was a place where she could tinker about the kiktchen, wear gingham dresses, and darn her husband's socks. What a merry-go-round, this dream stuff! If you were here, it was there. If you were there, it was here!

"Well, for goodness sakes," Bob's voice bounced a step ahead of him into the kitchen, "if you haven't got that dress finished and on! Twinkles, you're as good to look at as the day I asked you to marry me. It's a darned shame I can't give you all the things a woman like you deserves. I was thinking today that once we planned a stone house out on Wimbledon road. Remember?"

"I'd not give a nickel for a house on Wimbledon road." Dot spoke convincingly. "Do you know, some of those poor folks exert themselves ten months just so they can have two months of what we enjoy all the year round!"—Exchange.

Prevention—The New Watchword

(By William Henry Donnelly, M. D., Brooklyn)

Prevention is the watchword of the day, and nowhere in medicine can this prevention be as well applied as in the infant and the growing child. Preventive methods aim particularly at the prevention of three principal conditions, namely: malnutrition, rickets, and scurvy.

Malnutrition is a bodily state involving ten per cent or more underweight for the child's age and height with bad posture, fatigue on exertion, and lowered resistance to disease. This is best prevented by the administration of a protective diet to the mother before the child is born; to the nursing mother, and to the young child who is living on artificial foods.

This diet must be sufficient in three main essentials: Vitamins to insure growth and health; calories to provide for wear and tear, and also for growth; and bulk or roughage to prevent stagnation of food in the bowels. A fourth quality is often added by nutrition workers as being almost essential, and this is palatability, or attractiveness, which makes it possible to get this protective diet into the individual patient.

Scurvy is a disease due to lack of the anti-scurvy vitamin which is contained many places in nature, but principally in the foods of the citrus family, with oranges in the leading position. It takes two ounces of orange juice, or two ounces of cabbage juice, or four ounces of tomato juice to protect a child six months of age against the danger of scurvy. Fortunately, most children can take potato at six months, and this food is just as efficient a protective factor as the fruit or vegetable juices mentioned. Scurvy is now seen only in children who have not been given the usual modern diet, including fruit juices and posttoes until after they have entered their second year of life. Luckily, the same substances which prevent will also cure it; and no disease of childhood shows such spectacular results as does scurvy when recognized and treated with protective foodstuffs.

Rickets is a disease most common in northern climates, due to improper hardening of the bones. The bones are hardened by deposits of phosphate of lime in their growing regions, and in order to insure the proper amount of lime deposit it is first necessary to provide the lime! It has been definitely shown that the best form in which to give the lime for th. purpose of hardening the bones is—milk. Many observers believe that it is proper to give all the lime reuirements to the child in the form of milk. While a valuable source of lime is provided by vegetables, it would seem that the most favorable results are obtained when the vegetables are used as a supplement to milk, and not as a substitute for any part of it. In addition to supply the lime, there are several factors which are of value in "anchoring" it in the bones, such as cod liver oil, yolk of egg, together with natural strong sunlight, or artificial sunlight in the form of the ultra-violet rays from the uartz or carbon arc lamp.

Cod liver oil is stopped usually in the summer time in the average case, not because of the inability of the child to take it, so much as because the active sun rays are in their most power phase during these months and the children can be exposed directly to them so as to get their full benefit. It is accepted now that the principal reason why rickets is more common in the winter is because of the fact that the sun's rays are very poor in anti-rachitic power from October to April, and because, in addition, the child cannot be exposed uncovered to these rays during the winter months in the northern climates.

Burgess Bedtime Story

Johnny Chuck Joins Jerry

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Whose neighbor is his friend is blest;
'Tis he who gets from life the best.
—Old Mother Nature.

Johnny Chuck knew all about the carrots growing down in a part of Farmer Brown's cornfield. He had been there more than once. On this particular morning he had a hankering for a taste of carrots, so finally he decided that he would go over to the field. Now Johnny lives where the flooding of the Meadows does not affect him. The great rain had made no particular difference to Johnny Chuck, save that it made wet going. So, after sitting up for a moment or two and looking at the flooded Green Meadows, Johnny gave the matter no more thought.

Johnny had almost reached the edge of the carrot patch when he was startled to discover that the patch already had a visitor. Digging up a carrot right in front of him was some one in a brown coat. And a little way off digging up another carrot, was some one else in a brown coat. Johnny gave a little whistle of surprise and sat up to look. At the sound of that whistle Jerry Muskrat looked up quickly. When he saw who it was he resumed his digging. He knew that Johnny Chuck would not bother him.

"My goodness, it's Jerry Muskrat!" exclaimed Johnny Chuck. "What are you doing so far from the Smiling Pool"

"There isn't any Smiling Pool this morning. We are getting something

"My goodness! It's Jerry Muskrat," exclaimed Johnny Chuck to eat," replied Jerry rather shortly.

"I suppose," said Johnny, "that is Mrs Muskrat over yonder."

"Your supposition is quite correct," replied Jerry. "My, but these carrots are good. I was half starved."

Johnny Chuck came over nearer to Jerry and began to dig up a carrot. "It was a bad rain, wasn't it" said Johnny.

"The worst I've ever known at this time of the year," replied Jerry. "Did you get flooded out?"

"No," replied Johnny. "Did you?"

Then Jerry told Johnny Chuck what had happened. "My, my, my," said Johnny Chuck sympathetically, "that is too bad! That certainly is too bad. So that is why you are away up here?"

"That is why," agreed Jerry. "You see, down there all our food is under water. We just had to go somewhere to get something to eat."

"You've come to a good place," replied Johnny. "I come here often. These carrots are very sweet. I like carrots for a change once in a while. You should have come here earlier in the season. There were some nice beans then. Bean tops are very nice eating."

"Aren't you afraid of Reddy Fox?" inquired Jerry Muskrat.

"Oh, I keep a sharp eye out for him," replied Johnny Chuck. "I'm not really much afraid of him. You see, I've grown so big and strong that I guess Reddy would have to be pretty hungry to risk a fight with me. But I should think you would be afraid of him."

"I would be if I should meet him," replied Jerry frankly. "I can fight pretty well myself, but I'm afraid Reddy would be a little too much for me."

"Speaking of Reddy, here he comes now!" exclaimed Johnny Chuck, who had been sitting up looking about.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—Youngsters with itching feet to whom that famous "Join the Marines and See the World" recruiting slogan reads like romantic blank verse had better consult Michael James McDermott, once of Peabody, Mass., now of the state department, before launching off to see what's beyond the next hill.

McDermott has had experience, although now anchored more or less to a desk in Washington with the title of chief of the division of current information, state department. That's just a diplomatic way of saying publicity man.

McDermott, or "Mack," as all the Washington newspaper world knows this sturdy shouldered efficient, prematurely white-headed link in the government's corps of permanent, non-political workers, was blown out of a Massachusetts shoe town on the first winds of the war in 1917 by his desire to see the show. He had a civil service job in Washington waiting, so headed for the capital as a start and was promptly absorbed into the provost marshal general's office while the first draft machinery was being prepared.

Actually, he's the lad who picked out of the glass bowl the great majority of the 10,000 number-filled capsules which fixed the order of service for some millions of draftees. With that done, Provost Marshal General Enoch H. Crowder strolled into the auditing office where Mack and his civilian colleagues were checking up one morning to order all those within draft age to stand up. They all stood.

"Well," said the general with an ironic smile, "we're about to set a shining example for other government agencies to follow. I shall ask exemption for none of you."

In War With Bliss

Mack and the others started out to enlist, but the Massachusetts lad and one other got drafted to the White House ad interim to open a room full of mail which had swamped President Wilson. As there was a field clerk niche in the army he could fill, he enlisted later to find himself shot overseas on a mystery mission. It proved to be as confidential stenographer of General Tasker Bliss, American member of the supreme war council over which Foch, the great French generalissimo, presided. It was from that vantage point that this Massachusetts lad saw the struggle out and later at Bliss' elbow got an inside look at the peace conference.

Mustered out of the army back home, Mack got a hurry telegram inviting him to become secretary to Elihu Root, about to sail for Europe to assist in drafting rules for the international court of justice at The Hague. McDermott didn't know Root and couldn't explain his own selection, but he accepted on the jump. Then it developed that James Brown Scott had recommended him to Root. Mack having gone a little stenog-ing for Scott back in the provost marshal general's office days.

When Mack got back, special work in the state department, temporarily, led him to an eventual clerkship there during which he was sent with President Harding as confidential clerk on the Alaskan pilgrimage that ended with the president's death at San Francisco.

Still Traveling

Back in Washington, McDermott resumed his clerical labors in the current information division of the state department, assuming his wanderings were over. He moved up step by step until Secretary Kellogg made him boss of the shop when Hugh Wilson, his predecessor, was picked for minister to Switzerland. Even then Mack had mor roving to do. On press demand he was hurried to Havana during the recent Pan-American congress to aid in getting the news out for the American delegation. And if the department had not felt too poor to pay his transportation, he would have gone back to Paris for the peace treaty signing.

POETRY

The Miracle of the Dawn

What would it mean for you and me,
If dawn should come no more!
Think of its gold along the sea,
Its rose above the shore!
That rose of awful mystery,
Our souls bow down before.

What wonder that the Inca kneeled,
The Aztec prayed and pled
And sacrificed to it, and sealed,
With rites that long are dead,
The marvels that it once revealed
To them it comforted.

What wonder, yea! what awe, beheld!
What rapture and what tears
Were ours, if wild its rivered gold,
That now each day appears,
Burst on the world, in darkness rolled,
Once every thousand years!

Think what it means to me and you
To see it even as God
Evolved it when the world was new,
When Light rose, earthquake-shod,
And slow its gradual splendor grew
O'er deep, the whirlwind trod.

What shoutings then and cymbalings
Arose from depth and height!
What worship-solemn trumpetings,
And thunders, burning-white,
Of winds and waves, and anthemings
Of Earth received the Light.

Think what it meant to see the dawn!
The dawn, that comes each day!
What if the east should ne'er grow wan,
Should nevermore grow gray!
That line of rose no more be drawn

—Madison Cawein.

Old Homes

Old homes among the hills! I love their gardens;
Their old rock fences, that our day inherits;
Their doors, round which the great trees stand like wardens;
Their paths, down which the shadows march;
Broad doors and paths that reach bird-haunted gardens.

I see them gray among their ancient acres
Severe of front, their gables lichen-sprinkled,—
Their gardens banked with roses and with lies—
Those sweet aristocrats of all the flowers—
Where Springtime mints her gold in daffodillies,
And Autumn coins her marigolds in showers.
And all the hours are toilless as the lilies.

I love their orchards where the gay woodpecker
Flits, flashing o'er you, like a winged jewel;
Their woods, whose floors of moss the squirrel checker
With half-hulled nuts; and where, in cool renewal,
The wild brooks laugh, and rape the woodpecker.

—Madison Cawein, in "Poems."

"When she had finished little Bobby said, 'Now, grandma, I'll tell one. Once upon a time there was a cat—and it barked!'"—Los Angeles Times.

CLAIMS AUTO HIT HIM: DRIVER SAYS NOT SO

John Karkutt, 60, of Corning road, is a patient at the W. W. Backus hospital, suffering from a dislocated right shoulder which he received as the result of an accident at Eighth and North Main streets about 8.45 o'clock Wednesday night. Mr. Karkutt, it is claimed, fell down as a Star sedan driven by Joseph Rosenberg of East Main street, Jewett City, approached the street intersection. Mr. Rosenberg quickly stopped his machine and he declares that the machine did not hit Mr. Karkutt. However, Mr. Karkutt complained of pain in his right shoulder and Mr. Rosenberg took him to police headquarters. Dr. William T. Driscoll was summoned and examining the man, found that he was suffering from a dislocated shoulder. Dr. Driscoll took Mr. Karkutt to the W. W. Backus hospital. Mr. Karkutt stated that the machine hit his shoulder.

NEW $350,000 INN MAY BE ERECTED ON PROPERTY OF NORWICH GOLF CLUB

Norwich may have one of the Treadway inns, if plans approved recently by the directors of the Norwich chamber of commerce and others interested, are made effective. Under the proposed plan the inn would be located on property now belonging to the Norwich Golf Land Co. The officers of this company have indicated their support of the plan and have placed an agreement at the disposal of Hon. Nelson J. Ayling, designated by the chamber as its representative, whereby a majority of the stock is held at option in the Thames National bank subject to acceptance of the agreement on or before December 31st, this year.

The plans discussed provide for an inn, Colonial in architecture, sort of rambling in type and consisting of approximately 70 rooms. Undoubtedly one wing will be devoted exclusively to the members of the golf club and will provide them with excellent table facilities, etc. The estimated cost of the inn is under $350,000.

The inn will be located on the Norwich-New London highway which now has approximately 2,000 cars a day, this being the highest number of cars travelling over any highway in the vicinity of Norwich, according to the figures of the Connecticut highway commission.

The Treadway organization which proposes to operate the inn are New England people, having done business in this section of the country for a number of years. Among the inns they now operate are the Lord Jeffrey Inn, Amherst, Mass.; True Temper Inn, Wallingford, Vermont; Williams Inn, Williamstown, Mass.; Middlebury Inn, Middlebury, Vermont; Dorset Inn, Dorsett, Vermont and several others including two in Florida.

The inn is a year round project and the rates $4.50 to $9, American plan. If the agreement is executed and the contract signed it is not expected that the new inn will be ready for occupancy until the spring of 1930.

The Treadway organization is not interested in acquiring any of the stock themselves, their contract only providing that after all operating expenses have been paid, the reserve set up for depreciation and dividends declared on bonds and stock that the balance then remaining be divided on a 50-50 basis, one half going to the holders of the common stock and the other half going to the Treadway people.

With those who are familiar with the plan it is felt that the golf club would attract patronage for the inn and that many people will remain for longer periods than at first intended because of the attractive golf course.

The inn would attract business for the golf course. Each guest of the inn who desires to use the golf course will naturally pay a green fee to the club, thus increasing the club's revenue. The golf club will maintain its identity as in the past.

In the opinion of many, the scenery at the club house is unsurpassed anywhere in the vicinity of Norwich. The climate is milder, the seasons longer and the highways are better in Norwich than in any of the cities in which the Treadway inns are now located.

There is no inn under the management of the Treadway organization which has paid under 6 per cent. dividends during the last year.

The average commercial traveler today travels by auto and prefers a quiet, restful place located on the outskirts of the city, especially a location such as this would be conveniently adjacent to two cities. The time has passed when people are anxious to stay in a noisy, dusty location in the center of the business section, usually near a railroad.

The proposed new inn would no doubt draw a dinner business from a radius of forty miles around. The Treadway organization depend on their reputation for good food and service to develop trade.

Many people who travel from one Treadway inn to another will find the Norwich location a most delightful addition to the chain.

Babson says in the recent survey of local conditions: "The chamber of commerce should take immediate steps to secure a modern hotel—present facilities are inadequate. No city can make any notable growth under this handicap. A good hotel produces favorable impression on visitors and is a strong asset to any community. It will attract tourists and bring trade. The impressions received by visiting business men may very easily be the deciding point as to whether or not they choose Norwich as an industrial location."

The majority of business men in Norwich are convinced that Norwich needs a new hotel. The question has been largely one of how to finance it. Under arrangements worked out with the Norwich Land company a good many dollars have been saved and it is now felt that the financing will not be difficult.

GREENEVILLE PASTOR SPEAKS TO SIX CHURCH CONFERENCE

The Six Church conference was held Wednesday at the Preston City Congregational church, 140 attending. Rev. D. C. Stone of Hanover presided at the morning session. The praise service was led by J. Kellogg Hall and the devotional exercises by Rev. Maurice Reynolds, chaplain in the U. S. army, recently stationed in Panama, son of Rev. W. J. Reynolds of Newent. A chorus choir of ten sang an anthem. The address of the morning was by Rev. C. H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church. Speaking from a text in Psalms 94-19, he found the valuable application of Divine comfort in the many troubles that man is heir to, and from which not one escapes.

Valuable illustrations proved of much interest, and the speaker was paid the closest attention as he told of labor interests, which he characterized as the outstanding question of the day. "Never," said he, "have I known an honest farmer, who lived right, with equal honor to himself and justice to his fellows, that needed the aid of charity, nor have I seen the seed of the righteous begging bread."

The offering was received by G. A. Ross of Lisbon and Rev. Mr. Smith of Preston City. Dinner was served at noon. The afternoon session was presided over by Rev. W. C. Prentiss of Plainfield. After the praise service Rev. G. F. Goodenough of Jewett City led the devotional service. Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, the scribe, of Jewett City, read the report of the last conference and called the roll. There were 13 from Pachaug, 8 from Jewett City, 6 Newent, 15 Hanover, 14 Plainfield, 50 Preston City and 34 visitors. After an anthem by the choir, William E. Pardee, a representative of the Anti-Saloon league, told of the work being done by the way of showing the pictures of Lest We Forget. Rev. Maurice Reynolds also spoke of his duties as an army chaplain.

The speaker of the afternoon was Rev. Alfred J. Pitman, chaplain of the Boston Seaman's Friend society. He spoke of the three types of seamen with whom the society comes in contact—the hobo—the men who do not care particularly what they do and the men who go to sea because they love the water and its life.

Every one of them are worth saving. And he told instances of various phases of the lives of the men. He portrayed the work of the society in such a telling manner, that he held his audience's closest attention. It was not his mission at this conference to ask for contributions, but Rev. Mr. Smith whose father was a sailor, suggested that a collection be taken to be given for the society. The moderator said it was the policy of the conference to take but one collection, but it was moved by a much interested person present that custom be waived, and that he would double the amount. The result was $42 given to Mr. Pitman, for which he expressed his deep appreciation.

The next conference was announced for the first Wednesday in November, to be held in Plainfield. The conference closed with prayer by Rev. H. L. Arnold of Pachaug. The decorations were very lovely, especially the large basket of yellow flowers.

Mrs. Geer was advanced to the office of leader, to succeed Mrs. Utley, Mrs. Edward Adams being chosen vice leader. Plans were made for the year's work, also for the state convention of the King's Daughters, to be held in Norwich, Nov. 7-8.

ARTISTIC PROGRAM OPENS MUSIC ASSOCIATION SEASON

The Norwich Music association opened its present season under specially favorable auspices Wednesday evening at Slater hall annex when it had for the programme Miss Berry Jenny, mezzo-soprano, with Miss Helene Bonart as accompanist. Miss Jenny's beautiful voice, full-toned and warm, which she used with admirable artistry, provided a most enjoyable evening and the opinion was advanced that she was easily the best master of song singing which the association has heard. Miss Bonart's sympathetic accompaniments were a pleasing element in the programme which was given as follows with several encores:

Song of Penitence	Beethoven

SURPRISE RECEPTION FOR NORWICH TOWN PASTOR

An audience of 150 assembled in the vestry of the Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church, Wednesday evening, for what was supposed to be an informal entertainment for members and friends of the parish. As the programme progressed, it developed to be a reception to the pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter and Mrs. Potter who were recently married. Swahn's orchestra gave a delightful programme at the opening, also played a number of popular melodies at intervals throughout the evening. Another special feature was several humorous recitations by Mrs. William E. Manning, who responded to encores. A playlet entitled Six Little Mothers, was given by six small girls of the Sunday school. Other numbers were: Recitation, The Owl, Arthur Belden Bennett; vocal solo, The Bells of the Sea, Lewis Aldrich, Mrs. Aldrich accompanying at the piano; recitation, The Patience of Job, Miss Izetta Dellette, who responded to an encore.

At the close of the programme, Miss Florence Bennett came forward and briefly mentioned that the vestry of the church had been newly decorated with paper and paint through the efforts of the social committee of the Christian Endeavor society, and because of the room having been used last term for school purposes, there had not been any social gatherings for some time. At this point she requested Rev. and Mrs. Potter to come to the platform to receive greetings from the church board and friends, Miss Bennett presenting Mrs. Potter a large bouquet of pink carnations. In the receiving line with Rev. and Mrs. Potter were District Superintendent and Mrs. Myron E. Genter, and Rev. and Mrs. J. Francis Cooper, from Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, Norwich. Mrs. Genter and Mrs. Cooper were also presented flowers.

REV. GEORGE W. POTTER

Under the auspices of the social committee of which Mrs. Lewis Aldrich is chairman, ice cream, fancy cakes and punch were served, under direction of Mrs. Richard Carter. Those assisting were Mrs. Harold Rose and A. D. Zabriskie, besides a company of girls and boys in the Sunday school classes of Mrs. Aldrich and Rev. Mr. Potter, who passed the refreshments. Mrs. Aldrich was also assisted by her sister Miss Theodora Brown, she having announced the programme.

The church was decorated with hydrangeas, purple daisies, nasturtiums, dahlias, asters and marigolds, arranged on the piano center table and in front of the platform, on which there also was a new rug to complete the many new improvements.

BOTH TEAMS CONFIDENT ON EVE OF BATTLE FOR WORLD'S TITLE

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(AP)—Baseball players wearing the colors of the New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals hit their last balls for fun today and waited for the world series to open tomorrow.

A bright, warm day gave the athletes a chance to end preparations for the classic with extended batting drills followed by brief but brisk infield workouts.

Nothing happened at the last minute sessions to indicate that either manager has changed his mind on pitching selections for the opening game. Miller Huggins and Bill McKechnie steadfastly insist that they are open minded as to nominations for pitchin duty but there will be wide spread surprise if Waite Hoyt and Bill Sherdel are not the opposing moundsmen. Both were confident of the outcome.

The Yankees learned definitely that they will not have the services of Earle Combs, their brilliant center fielder, who was hurt at Detroit last week. Combs, hoping to the last that he might get in, tried to swing a bat but found that his wrist would not stand the strain.

Ben Paschal and Cedric Durst will alternate in replacing the fleet Combs, the choice depending on the St. Louis pitchers Paschal will bat against the southpaws with the left-handed Durst taking his cut when the right-handers pitch. The substitutes will be called on to assume an additional responsibility, that of leading off, another of Comes' specialties. Manager Huggins had considered putting Mark Koenig, his short stop, up first, but finally decided the infielder would bat second, leaving the lineup that which finished the season except for Combs.

Huggins' other shift will be at third bas where he will have a right-handed batsman in Joe Dugan and a left-hander in Gene Robertson to match strategy with McKechnie in sending in left-handers. Only Ruth and Gehrig will bat left-handed against left-harded pitching, for Koenig is a turn around batsman, adopting his stance to the style of the pitcher.

The Cardinals will offer their regular lineup with Roscoe Holm and George Harper dividing the right field assignment. Jim Bottomley at first and Andy High at third will be the only two southpaw batsmen in the Cardinal offensive regardless of the pitching.

The forecast for tomorrow is for fair weather with no decided change in temperature but a tendency to warmer.

The "world series" crowd descended on New York today and hotel lobbies were filled with fans talking baseball. The Cardinals seemed to be the favorites of a majority of the visitors. The usual wild scramble for tickets gained momentum and was expected to continue right up to game time tomorrow.

The only reserved seats to be had were held by speculators at greatly advanced prices. Unreserved seats in the stands and bleachers will be placed on sale at the Yankee stadium tomorrow morning.

The Cardinals were a slight betting favorite on the even of the series opening, but top-heavy odds favoring the National leaguers were more discussed than laid. Wagers of 8 to 5 on the National league entry to win the series were reported with even money on the first game.

In spite of injuries the Yankees were confident Babe Ruth was himself again and many of the players believe that "as Ruth goes, so go the Yankees." Koenig had rid himself of a stone bruise and all the rest were reported fit.

Barring injury, Jimmy Wilson of the Cardinals and Benny Bengough of the Yankees will do the catching.

The rest of the lineup will be that used in the season, Bottomley, Frisch, Maranville and High making up the Cardinal infield and opposed by Gehrig, Lazzeri, Koenig and either Dugan or Robertson.

The Yankee outfield of Meusel, Paschal or Durst and Ruth, will swap plows with Hafey, Douthit, Holm or Harper.

The St. Louis aggregation has a world of extra outfielders but is a bit shy on infield reserve strength.

"WE ARE SATISFIED" IS COMMENT OF HUGGINS

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—"We are satisfied," mused Miller Huggins standing over a plate of roast chicken at the stadium today. "We are not, however, so well satisfied," he continued in the same passionless voice, "as we should be if Combs could play, which he cannot, and if Lazzeri were in form, which he is not.

"Our club enters the series prepared to give as good as it receives, and is confident of its ability to hold its own. That sun helped today. No, I never make predictions."

"OUTCOME RESTS WITH PLAYERS SAYS MCKECKNIE

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—"Did you ever see a manager win a world series from the bench?" demanded Bill McKechnie, chief of all the Red Birds, as he sat comfortable in a field box at the stadium today while the Cardinals, spick and span in new road uniforms, frolicked under an Indian summer sun.

"Any championship that is won by St. Louis will have to be won by my players. They are all prepared. The battle remains up to them—and the Yankees. I must not predict since I really have no part in it at all."

Houston Takes Dixie Title

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 3—(AP)—Houston wons the Dixie series here today by defeating Birmingham in the sixth game, 5 to 1. It was the fourth straight victory for the Texas leaguers, Birmingham having won the first two contests.

HOYT TO OPPOSE SHERDEL IN OPENER

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—World's series history sparkles with the achievements of pitchers who by iron-man or consistently brilliant work have virtually twirled their clubs to victory single-handed.

The immortal Mathewson needed only one brief day's aid from old Joe McGinnity to pitch the Giants to triumph over the Athletics in 1905 when all five games of the series were shutouts and mound masterpieces. Later, down the brilliant twirling trail, Coombs, Babe Adams, Coveleskie shared Matty's feat of turning in three winning games. Grover Alexander, again in the series spotlight, won two games and saved a third in the 1926 series with a performance that ranks among the best.

The opportunity is ripe for some star of the Yankee staff to step in with an iron-man stunt, for seldom has a team gone into the big battle with its mound corps more depleted or over-worked than that of the New Yorkers. The chance beckons to the sturdy capabilities of Waite Hoyt, ace of the Yankee staff, to duplicate a performance that hasn't been added to the record books since Coveleskie last registered a "triple" in 1920.

Hoyt will work the first game tomorrow against the Cardinals. With three days' rest he would be ready to come back next Monday in the fourth game at St. Louis. Should the series last that long his recuperative powers are such that he could twirl the sixth game in New York, slated Thursday, or the seventh, on Friday.

Hoyt's world series record is greater than is apparent on the surface from the bare fact that he has won four and lost three games in five championship affairs. Two of his losses were by a single run margin.

SHERDEL

He pitched three complete games against the Giants in 1921, winning two with an allowance of only one run and losing the third, 1-0, to Art Nehf. He dropped a 3-0 decision to Jack Scott in 1922. In 1926 he was charged with the final 3-2 defeat of the Yankees by the Cardinals, although I was chiefly due to the collapse of his defense in one inning in which the Cards scored all their runs.

No other member of the Yankee staff has as much stamina as Hoyt for any super-stuff, while the Cardinals will depend more on the weight of pitching numbers than any one star.

George Pipgras, who will probably start the second game, will be Hoyt's running mate out. The slender resident of Slayton, Minn., has felt the strain of extra duty more than the Brooklyn undertaker. Tom Zachary and Henry Johnson appear the other best bets for a Yankee staff that sorely misses the able left arm of Herbert Pennock.

AL KOZIOL TO FIGHT IN MADISON SQUARE GARDEN

Al Koziol, local slugging amateur fighter, will fight in Madison Square Garden in New York city next week, meeting some of the leading simonpures. The Laurel Hill lad has been working hard of late and reports himself in top condition. Friday night Al will battle at the Providence Arcadia, meeting two opponents.

PAT MALONE BLANKS SOX IN FIRST GAME

CHICAGO, Oct. 3—(AP)—The teasing shoots of Big Pat Malone abetted by the timely hitting of Cuyler, Wilson and Grimm, subdued the White Sox today and the Cubs won the opening game of the city series 3 to 0 before 56,000 fans that jammed their way into Comiskey park.

Submissively swinging at Malone's blinding speed balls, the Sox hit safely only five times and only one man reached third.

Urban "Red" Faber, veteran of eighteen campaigns, was debited with the defeat, although he hurled only two thirds of the opening inning.

Grady Adkins, a rookie just up from the Texas league, went into the box, with the Cubs leading 3-0 and two out and proceeded to set the Cubs down in order. He was taken out in the seventh for a pinch hitter and Connally held the Cubs at bay during the closing innings.

SWEEPING DENIAL THAT HORNSBY WILL GO TO CUBS

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—Report of the transfer of Rogers Hornsby from the Boston Braves to the Chicago Cubs for $250,000 and players, was emphatically denied tonight by interested persons both in Boston and in Chicago.

The story, printed in the New York Sun said that the manager of the Braves would play for the Bruins next season. Hornsby recently signed a six year contract with Emil Fuchs, owner of the Braves, carrying through the season of 1934 at a salary generally reported to be $40,000 with a provision for dimunition if Hornsby was forced to retire from active playing in that period.

CORBETT-PAUL BOUT FOR NORWICH

Professional boxing returns to Norwich a week from this evening after a lapse of nearly two years when two eight-round bouts, two six-rounders and two fours will be put on at Olympic hall by Ernie Fakourney of New London and Jackie Burns of Norwich. Fakourey has been promoting some mighty fine cards in New London during the open-air season and Norwich people know that if he is doing the match-making there will be no flivvers.

Matchmaker Fakourey has scheduled for one of his main bouts Eddie Corbett of Bridgeport and Eddie Paul of New London. This bout was on the last open-air card at New London but rains caused it to be halted in the third round. Those who saw the first three rounds of that fight were sorely disappointed when it was called off as it had every earmark of being a real battle between two good boys. As far as it went it was a slugging affair that registers heavy with the cash customers. This bout alone should pack the hall.

For the second star bout of eight rounds Johnny (Shiek) Leonard of Norwich has been matched with Bernie McQuade of Worcester. The blond boy is endeavoring a comeback after many months of inaction and has picked a real tough baby for his first fight. McQuade is known as a fighter who has knocked off some good boys up in the Bay state and should give the Shiek a busy evening. Leonard, always in condition, says he is in better shape now than when he was fighting regularly. When Leonard is in the ring there is action and plenty of it, for he never disappointed, the fans who like a real slugging match.

The remainder of the card is not quite complete but it will be in shape by the last of the week. Promoter Fakourey is endeavoring to match Gene Pecheent of Norwich and Joey Thomas of New London for a six rounder. Johnny Bedell of New London will meet some opponent to be picked this week in the other six round bout.

Vic Darr, local lightweight favorite, has been signed to swap punches with Young Goola of Worcester in a four rounder which will add much to the card as Darr is well liked by the Norwich boxing followers. There is a possibility that Frankie Adams, local star amateur, will swing over to the pro game and make his debut at this show. However this is not certain but it is hoped that it will come true as Adams has the makings of a real fast boxer and should go a long way in the pros.

GOLF MASTERS SURVIVE BY NARROW MARGINS

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3—(AP)—Winning out by the narrowest of margins and in the tightest of matches, Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen and Al Espinosa, favorites for the national professional golf championship, underwent a searching test of their courage and skill today before they finally advanced to the quarter final round.

Sharing this bracket with them when the day's shooting was over were two more veterans, Jock Hutchinson and Leo Diegel and a trio of new comers—Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo., Perry Del Vecchio, Greensburg, Pa., and Fred Dudley, of Los Angeles. Tomorrow's play pits Smith against Del Vecchio, Espinosa against Hutchison, Sarazen against Dudley and Diegel against Hagen.

The big gallery was looking for fireworks in the match in which Sarazen downed the intrepid veteran, Jim Barnes, 3 and 2, but few looked for much if any excitement in the Espinosa or Hagen matches.

As it turned out, Espinosa fell into a terrible slump in his afternoon round after having his fellow Chicagoan, Bob McDonald, five down in the morning 18 holes, and staved off defeat only by a desperate effort in an extra hole match. Espinosa had the stuff to produce the birdie on the 37th green and that was enough to save the day.

Hagen similarly had to flash his best golf to beat off a great bid by young Julian Blanton of Toledo, Ohio, in the final 18 holes, a courageous effort which squared the match with two holes to go and had even the great Haig a bit worried. Upholding his reputation as a great match player, he came through to win them both and take the match by a score of two up, but he had to shoot them both in par to do it.

The Sarazen-Barnes match drew the biggest gallery, a group which numbered close to 2,000 and included Johnny Farrell, the national open champion, who failed to come through the metropolitan sectional qualifying play for this event.

In the first half of the afternoon round each player holed out his opponent's ball by accident, Barnes knocking Sarazen's ball into the cup when stymied on the 22nd, and the little Italian returning the compliment by doing exactly the same thing for him a few moments later on the 26th.

Great putting performances also featured the match and it was a 25 footer for a birdie three which finally won at the 34th hole.

TUNNEY NOW HAS NEW MANAGER

ROME, Oct. 3—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. James Joseph Tunney left Rome in an automobile at twilight this evening on a honeymoon that was expected to take them to many of the romantic historical and cultural places of Italy. If they gave any of their friends who witnessed today's wedding ceremony definite information of their destination, those friends kept the confidence.

Two rites were required to make Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion and "Polly" Lauder, heiress of Greenwich, Conn., man and wife today. One was civil and the other according to the ritual of the Roman Catholic church of which the bridegroom has been a lifelong, faithful communicant, a special dispensation allowed both ceremonies to be performed in a hotel. The wedding luncheon was served there also and the newlyweds were thus protected from curiosity seekers throughout the day.

The supposed honeymoon route will take in Perugia, where Pope Leo XIII was bishop for thirty years before being called to the vatican; Assisi, home of the humble St. Francis, and Florence, scene of Dante's love for Beatrice.

The bride's traveling gown was a two piece red broadcloth suit trimmed with black, flat fur. She wore a wide red hat and still carried her bunch of bridal flowers when she and her husband emerged from the hotel. Gene was attired in a blue sack suit in which he was married. He brushed aside reporters and photographers as he and his new manager made their way to the automobile.

The twenty-minute civil ceremony, which preceded the religious rites, was performed by Attorney Brofferio. He had surrounded himself with three assistants whose names were taken as happy auguries for the bridal pair. These assistants were the Commendator Davanti, meaning "forward"; Bellezza, meaning "beauty" and Cherubini, meaning "cherubs". All three are fairly common Italian names but the appropriateness of selecting them as wedding assistants did not dawn on Senor Brofferio until his attention was called to it.

"I picked them because they are my friends, and regardless of their names," he said. "But I am glad if their grouping on this occasion brings good luck to the happy couple."

In the civil ceremony Senor Brofferio read all the articles of the Italian code on marriage, requiring each of the contracting parties to signify acceptance. He did not smile when he warned the former champion pugilist of the world that protection was one of the things which would be owing to the wife.

The religious rites, performed by Monsignor Joseph A. Breslin, now vice rector of the American college but formerly Tunney's parish priest in New York, consumed only ten minutes, Monsignor Breslin added to his expedition by omitting any speech of congratulation.

A string quartet played through both ceremonies, preceding the church wedding with Mendelsohn's march.

The entire party of guests, sat down at the luncheon which followed and which lasted for several hours. Around the tables were Mrs. Lauder, mother of the bride; Mrs. W. W. Dewing, sister of the bride and who acted as matron of honor; George Lauder, 3rd, who though only 18 years old, had the honor of giving his big sister away; Dr. Carnes Weeks, of New York, who acted as best man, and Mrs. Weeks.

Also present were some girl friends of the bride, including the Misses Virginia Storm, Faith Rockefeller and Sigo. Others in the party were Dr. and Mrs. Henry C. Rowland and their daughter, Diana; Miss Helen Ufford, Thornton Wilder, the novelist and a chum of Tunney; Commendatione and Signora Rota, the hotel manager, Monsignor Burke, rector of the American college, and Monsignor Breslin, busy at all times through the day was James B. Mahany, Tunney's secretary.

WORCESTER SENDS ITS BEST FOR DANIELSON FISTIC SHOW

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 3—Worcester is sending down some of its leading young battlers for the Friday night show of the Armory A. C. here. Billy Jacques, who will meet Young Caprio of Pawtucket at 126 pounds, is a hard puncher and clever boxer who has beaten some highly rated boys in and around Worcester county. He has won his last ten bouts. Eddie Williams is considered one of the best 135-pound boys in the city of Worcester. He has recently added Leo Morgan of Boston to his list of victims. He has triumphed over Frankie Hurley of Boston and has defeated Tony Luccie twice. Williams is scheduled to battle Jimmy Sacco of Boston at Lynn in the near future. He will find Frankie Curcio of Providence a touch opponent in the Danielson show. The other Worcester entry is Billy Herman, who is to meet Artie Lergio of Woonsocket.

These boys, together with George DeForest and Alex Socquet of Danielson, Young Moran of Moosup and Mush Moriarty of Norwich, will form the supporting cast for the star of the evening—Jack Delaney. Matchmaker Frank Barber today received a telegram from Delaney stating that the former light heavyweight champion will certainly be in Danielson for his three-round exhibition Friday night. It is expected that Delaney will arrive here during the afternoon.

Tickets for the show are going fast and it begins to look as though there will be a capacity crowd at the armory. There will be ample seats and special attention will be paid to the ladies, who have taken a greatly increased interest in boxing in this section during recent months. There will be music before and after the bouts. The show is being staged under the auspices of the local national guard companies.

ROTARY PROCEEDS EXCEED $300 FROM BAND CONCERT

Reports by E. Larue Bliven and Charles A. Saxton at the weekly meeting of the Norwich Rotary club showed that the concert by the U. S. marine band on Tuesday had netted the Dr. John S. Blackmar Memorial fund for boys' work something over $300. The reports were given at the business session and each of the chairman expressed their appreciation of the cooperation of the members of the Rotary, various stores, the schools and individuals who had helped to make the concert a financial success.

On behalf of the club John J. O'Rourke presented a set of gold-banded goblets to Secretary Emery Davis, the club's newest benedict. Mr. Davis spoke for his bride and himself and thanked the members of the club for their gift and in conclusion passed cigars to the members.

The meeting was then turned over to James E. Roantree who introduced Adelard Morin as the speaker. Mr. Morin spoke on "The Furniture Business from the Inside." He dealt largely with the use of various woods in the manufacture of furniture and spoke of the gradual return to the use of oak in high grade furniture. He spoke as follows:

In the ten minutes that are allotted to me to treat the subject of my business, it must be very apparent to you that it will be only possible for me to skim over the surface and give you only a general idea of some of the interesting things that arise in dealing with the general public on the question of furniture.

To the average buyer, furniture is simply recognized as an article necessary in the home. Most people judge the material of which a piece of furniture is made by its color, failing to realize that almost any color is possible nowadays with the many intricate finishing materials that have been produced. However, the material involved in any piece of furniture is but a minor part of the cost of the product, the labor cost enters into it to a much greater extent.

Today walnut is undoubtedly predominating as to popularity. Constant changes have been made to meet the public requirements in walnut. The so-called French walnut so very popular sometime ago is the same walnut that is being sold today as American walnut, but it was finished in a much lighter shade. This did not lend itself to good decoration on account of its rather insipid appearance, consequently its popularity did not last long. Another wood which is very extensively used is the so-called American hardwood or gumwood. Gumwood of good quality and properly made lends itself very well to good cabinet construction, and almost every good piece of furniture has some portion of it made of gum. The leading makers in order to enlighten the public have adopted the policy of labelling each piece of furniture and stating thereon just what materials are involved in its construction. Firms like Berkey & Gay, and Sligh Furniture, both of Grand Rapids, and some other makers have adhered to this policy very rigidly. While there is no material advantage insofar as the purchasers is concerned from the standpoint of intrinsic value, it prevents the salesman from stating that the piece is all walnut or mahogany or making other misrepresentations. The woods that are most used in the construction of good furniture are walnut, mahogany, gumwood with oak apparently returning into popularity in rather better furniture of very high prices, because of the ornate design used. The oak and walnut are largely American products. Before the war a great deal of our walnut was exported to European countries, but since the war, most of this product has been used here by the American people for it has been accepted as being very serviceable.

Mahogany, while very attractive in appearance, is not as popular as walnut because of the amount of care that is required to keep its appearance as it should be. There is a great tendency to return to early American periods, which involve the use of a great deal of mahogany, also maple, which when well finished has an antique tinge.

BLAKE MAY PLAY WITH TAFTVILLE

Manager Jim Troland threw a scare into the camp of the J. B. Martin team last night when he announced that he would probably have Sheriff Blake, of the Chicago Cubs for the game at the J. B. Martin diamond on Sunday. The basis for this statement was a letter from Mack Hillis who is expected to arrive in Taftville Friday that he was bringing Blake with him. If Troland has Blake in the lineup it will be a great asset to his club as the sheriff is not only a premier pitcher but is also a good hitter.

Johnny Tillman who turned back the J. B. Martin team last week will pitch for the Taftville A. A. on Saturday at the Providence street grounds. Hillis and Sipples will be on hand for the Saturday game giving Taftville one of the best teams that has represented the village this season.

With the series all even Manager Troland stated last night that he intended to take Saturday's game and then annex the Sunday encounter which would end the series and give the Taftville A. A. the Norwich semi-pro title. Two fast games can be expected over the week end as Manager Erlbeck of the J. B. Martin club is intending to strengthen his club for both games. Just who the Velvetmen will have is not certain as the management is keeping his plans under cover for the present and will not announce his lineup until Saturday morning.

Both the previous games have gone extra innings so that it can be seen that the clubs are well matched and a strengthening of either club means that the other must get additional power to meet the move. Record crowds are anticipated at both encounters as the interest is at fever pitch in the village as well as in the Fancy Corner district.

WESTERLY

TOWN WILL GO OVER THE TOP IN RED CROSS CONTRIBUTIONS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 3—Indications tonight were that Westerly would go over the top in its drive for $2,000 for those in the devastated regions of Porto Rico and Florida. The Red Cross chapter has received a hearty response to its call for subscriptions and to date something over $1950 had been received. Those wishing to give have been asked to leave their contributions in the Red Cross rooms in the Washington Trust building or with Lewis Stanton at the Industrial Trust Co. The local chapter is also making an appeal for old clothing.

Westerly will send two representatives to broadcast from radio station WJAR, Providence, October 19 and 26. The audition will take place in the United Theatre tomorrow morning at 10.30. Miss Mildred Taylor is to accompany the contestants who do not bring their own accompanist. The judges will be Mrs. Ralph Briggs, Robert Valentine, Dr. John Ruisi, Charles Hammond and Dr. Kimball. In the state audition there will be a boy and girl to be qualified.

BROUGHTON TO OPPOSE REPRESENTATIVE CAMPBELL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Oct. 3—The republican caucus of the second representative district of Westerly will be held in the town hall tomorrow afternoon to nominate a representative from that voting precinct to represent the town in the general assembly. George E. Broughton, a member of Westerly town council will oppose Representative Clifford W. Campbell, senior member of Westerly's representation in the assembly, so a stiff contest is expected. A large vote is expected as interest has steadily risen.

NOANK

OLD SALTS CELEBRATE CAPT. BUDDINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

Capt. Fred Buddington has had a birthday party. All the fishermen gathered at his home to help him celebrate it, after his day's work was done, Tuesday evening. The room was decorated with flags of all nations and the American flag in the center. Games were played and there was singing of fishermen's songs with Capt. E. Francke at the piano. The North Dock Singing orchestra, O. W. Beebe, leader, played for dancing with several old time sets thrown in. A prize was given the one who told the best fish story. Mayor Billie O'Brien, of the boat Tight was first. "When I was out celing in the 'ats, one winter day, in 1915, I saw an el so large that I jabbed it 11 times before landing it in the boat. it weighed 9 pounds." Capt. Buddington's turn came next. "On the good ship, Never Fail, off Georges Banks 10 years ago when after sword fish it was a foggy day and you could not see your hand in front of you. But in the afternoon the sun burned the fog off. Capt. Roswell Lamb was at the wheel and we put out after sword fish. We came across one that we thought was an ocean liner. It took the boat two days before it passed the sword-fish's head, so long that fish was!" Capt. Buddington won the prize, a pair of fisherman's oilers. A Dickey tea chowder was served the guests, made by Steward Earl Foster. A large birthday cake was given Capt. Buddington as a present from the Flat-Fishermen's club of the North Dock. It held 54 candles of different colors, lighting up the table. The candles were blown out by Capt. O. W. Beebe.

VILLAGE SHOULD HELP VOLUNTEER FIREMEN

The meeting of the Fire company was held Tuesday evening in their rooms on Cedar street and Foreman Walter Palmer and Secretary Jack Ellis, also the smallest fireman, Charles Ellis showed up—where it takes seven to hold a meeting. Waiting until 9 o'clock they went home, disappointed. For the last year or so not enough smoke eaters to make a quorum have appeared. Has the spirit gone out of the firemen? is being asked around the town. At one time it was the best working fire company any where around here. Today with 44 members on the roll, the company can get out only three for a meeting. Something is lacking. A new stove is needed in the building, for the old one has burned itself out. If the smoke eaters were to run a fair it would not clean up expenses for fairs are now old stuff and the same with dances. It looks as though a game of pinochle will have to be played with overcoats on. Foreman Walter Palmer is a hard worker to put the company on its feet, but has only a few to help him out. The siren fund was started eighteen months ago and the sum of $300 has been raised by the committee going around the town and soliciting the money, but there is still $300 to raise for the siren. Also the company needs 900 feet of new hose. In case of a bad fire there is not enough hose to reach more than 600 feet on the red fire engine. Many times the smoke eaters have been on a nozzle in below zero weather at a fire, without a pair of rubber boots and with only cotton gloves on, getting out of warm beds to help save the village from burning up. Can the village afford a fire company and keep it up? The firemen give their services and help toward buying hose, also painting in the building. Many of them think that the village should be made a fire district. It would mean but very little more taxes, but it would help protect buildings and all property.

Berth Whiting, who raises apples on his farm and has sent apples to New York state by truck, was out in the orchard and while picking some Kenyon Reds came across a twin apple. Calling to the farm hand, Jake Mahon said, "Look at the twin apple that I found up in the air!" It only happens about every 50 years that a twin apple is seen. When a fellow buys that apple he is getting two apples in place of one, enough to make an apple turnover. The twin of the apple family is on exhibition at the Noank waiting room. Farmer Jackson said, "That apple has anything beat that I ever saw at any fair in the country!"

Miss Thelma Meister, after spending a few days at her home in the village has returned to Norwich art school.

Chief and Mrs. Park have returned after a visit in Boston.

Austin Lamb of Ledyard was in the village Tuesday.

Monday, voting day in the fishing village for the town of Groton officials, the polls opened at 6 o'clock. The first man to vote was Mode Wilbur, before he went to work in Groton, and for several years Mode has been the first one in line and he did not want his record broken. The voting was light and up to noon only 43 had cast a ballot. Someone said that is a good democratic sign. "The voting is light as white frost on a tin roof in the fall! I guess all the good democrats have left town! That is the reason Ballot Clerks Halstead Brown and Charles Lewey are not sweating. Town election is not what it was years ago, when the school children could not get past the voters on their way home to dinner and automobiles would line up on both sides of the town hall, ready to take the voters back home or to work again." When the polls closed at 6 p. m., only 150 had cast a vote out of 495 in the village, and that is the highest voting in 12 years. The town went republican. Lloyd Brown is a new constable for day duty, beating out his rivals by a big vote. But the voters will look for the big election in November. Pick your winner for president, Smiling Al Smith on the left, and Happy Herbert Hoover on the right.

Plus Ultra class met Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Stapelyn of Burnet's Corners, Old Mystic. The president, George E. Robinson, presided. Eighteen members and several visitors attended. After the business session, games were played. Later jello salad, sandwiches, cake and coffee were served.

The local branch of the W. C. T. U. will hold a meeting today (Thursday) at 2 p. m., in the vestry of the Methodist church. Miss Juanita Jones of Kentucky, national director of young people, will give an address. The neighboring unions have been invited, as well as the public.

Members of the Mystic chamber of commerce have received notice that the terms of office of three directors automatically expire in October, James Cooper, John Fribance and Mrs. Carl C. Cutler. The nominating committee, appointed by the president, is Mrs. Carl C. Cutler, L. E. Vatet and Roscoe K. Burrows. Each member will receive a letter requesting him to name some persons for candidates to fill the vacancy. All names are to be submitted by Oct. 15.

The Ladies' Aid society of St. Patrick's church is to meet this (Thursday) afternoon in the vestry for work. At the close, refreshments will be served by Mrs. Walter Shea and Mrs. William Inderdohnen.

MYSTIFYING SIGNAL WAS FINALLY EXPLAINED

A man walking down School street one recent forenoon heard a tapping, supposedly on one of the windows in the town hall building. There are several clubs, lodges and offices in the building, so the man, not being able to clearly see through the window on account of the sun's reflection on the panes, crossed over and mounted the steps to learn whence his call was coming. Soon a woman passing received the same tapped invitation to come over, and then a man and soon another, ending with an automobile holding up to answer the as yet unbocated summons. Some in the blockade even hinted that there was trouble and that the S. O. S. was being tapped out in the last appeal for aid.

Presently sharp eyes made out a beautiful plumaged wake-up drilling for grubs on a dead limb high up in one of the town house elms.

Big Ulcer All Healed

"Now I can Walk," Says Mrs. Southcott.

"Here is another letter that makes me proud," says Peterson. "One that I would rather have than a thousand dollars.

"It seems like a miracle, but it's true, every word of it.

"I know it because I get similar letters almost every day from people who have used Peterson's Ointment for old sores, eczema and piles.

"Is it any wonder I am proud?"

Dear Sirs:

"I was an untold sufferer from an old running sore and ulcer. I had tried most everything without any relief from pain. A friend told me of your wonderful ointment and the first box took away the pain that had not left me before in years, and after using just nine dollars worth of the salve I am cured. The ulcer was 9 inches by 6 1-2 inches, is all healed and I can walk. Never, never will I be without Peterson's again.

"You may use this to recommend your ointment if you wish. I cannot say enough to praise it." Yours truly, Mrs. Albert Southcott, Lyndonville, N. Y. Generous box 35 cents.

DEMONSTRATION OF RECUPERATIVE POWER IN STOCK MARKET YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—The stock market gave another impressive demonstration of recuperative power today, rallying sharply after one of the weakest openings in recent months. Although final prices were irregularly lower, new high records were established during the session by nearly a score issues, including Barnsdall, A. Chrysler, National Dairy Products and Packard. Total sales crossed the 4,000,000 share mark for the first time this week.

Heavy selling for both accounts developed at the opening as a result of the unexpectedly large increase in stock exchange member loans and the renewed warnings against securities speculation by speakers at the annual convention of the American Bankers' association. Prices of active shares opened 2 to 5 points lower, with some of the losses extended to nearly 8 points before buying support became effective.

The selling movement still was under way when pools stepped into the market and began to play up their favorites, taking large blocks of stocks at advancing prices. This helped to restore speculative confidence. The recovery was aided by a lowering of the call money rate from 8 to 7 1-2 and finally to 7 per cent., as the return flow of October first disbursements reached large proportions. A further lowering of call money rates was predicted in some banking quarters.

Fears that the address of Governor Roy Young of the federal reserve board before the American Bankers association would have a decided adverse influence on stock prices proved to be unfounded, or else had been sufficiently discounted in advance.

Wall street derived considerable encouragement from the optimistic character of the weekly steel trade reviews, which referred to the heavy bookings, lengthening deliveries and stiffening price tendencies. Merger rumors also helped to maintain bullish enthusiasm. Borden's announced the acquisition of Thompson's Malted Milk company, and negotiations were reported under way whereby the Mack Trucks company would obtain control of the Reo Speed Wagon business. Mack ran up more than 6 points to 101 and Reo crossed 35 to a new high record, both yielded part of their gains on realizing.

Chrysler was again the outstanding individual feature. Breaking more than 4 points to 119 on the first avalanche of selling, the stock subsequently rallied to a new high record at 128, closing at 126 3-4, up 3 1-2 net. Transactions in this one issue comprised more than one-tenth of the day's entire volume of business. Packard moved up 4 points to a new high record at 36. General Motors rallied from a low of 210 1-2 to 214, closing just below that level for a slight fractional loss.

U. S. Steel common closed unchanged at 158 1-2 after fluctuating between 156 and 159 3-4. Ludlum Steel was bid up nearly 10 points to a new high at 83 3-8 on reports that the company had entered into an agreement with the Krupps of Germany for a joint pooling of hardened steel patents. Pierce Oil preferred ran up more than 8 points to a new top at 43 1-2 on reports of an unusually large increase in earnings. General Ice Cream attained a new peak at 87.

Murray corporation rallied from 101 to a new high record at 112 and Mullins Corporation from 84 1-2 to a new peak at 94. Indian Motorcycle dropped 8 points to a new 1928 low at 20.

Early selling was most effective against some of the high priced specialties. Wright broke 7 points but recovered 5 1-2 and Curtiss rallied from a low of 132 3-4 to 137 1-4, off 2 1-2 net. Montgomery Ward dipped 6 1-2 points and regained 3 1-2 while Radio made up all but 2 1-2 points of an early decline of 5 3-4. Case Threshing, Warren Bros., Midland Steel Products and American Machine & Foundry closed 3 to 5 1-2 points lower.

Rails yielded with the industrials, Jersey Central broke 7 points on two sales and Canadian Pacific, Gulf, Mobile & Northern, Delaware & Hudson and a few others yielded a point or two. Pittsburgh & West Virginia broke nearly 5 points and then rallied to a new high record at 162 3-8, up 3 points net.

Commodity markets were mixed. Wheat dropped nearly a cent a bushel and cotton closed 6 points higher to 10 points lower. Coffee and sugar showed little change.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—(AP)—The bond market became steadier today as call money was cut from 8 per cent. to 7 per cent., indicating that the month end money squeeze had passed. Time money remained firm, however, and trading was again in very small volume.

Convertibles improved somewhat in sympathy with the recovery on the stock market during the afternoon. Barnsdall 6s with warrants were a strong feature, advancing 2 1-4 points in active buying, in response to the gain in the stock. Oils were generally firm. California Petroleum 5s, Humble 5 1-2s, Shell Union 5s improved fractionally, Sinclair Crude 5 1-2s, however, encountered some pressure.

First grade rails were heavy. St. Paul 5s, Rock Island 4 1-2s, Erie 5s, Missouri Pacific 5s, Nickel Plate 3 1-2s, Seaboard 6s, and Union Pacific 4 1-2s, eased fractionally in active selling. Chicago and Eastern Illinois 5s were a strong point, rising nearly a point in good demand, while western Maryland 4s made a fair gain. Frisco 4 1-2s were firm and Pennsylvania issues steady.

Coppers steadied, Andes 7s advancing nearly a point. Chile 5s, however, reacted after a small gain. In the industrials Murray Body 6 1-2s again went to a new high at 102 1-2. U. S. Rubber 5s and Bethlehem Steel 5 1-2s made fractional gains. Dodge Brothers 6s, a recent strong feature, encountered realizing, utilities closed steady, Standard of New Jersey 4 1-2s recovering a 2-point loss.

The foreign list was generally steady, although a number of Latin American issues eased, including Argentine 6s of 1959, Brazil 6 1-2s of 1957, Chile 6s and Mexico 6s, all of which closed fractionally lower. Mexico 5s, however, jumped 2 points in a small turnover. Australian Commonwealth 5s were firm and Berlin Electric 6s gained nearly a point.

U. S. government obligations were full and irregular.

COOL DAYS MAKE YOU THINK ABOUT STORING THAT AUTO 'TILL SPRING

These cool days, and the still cooler evening, make you think about the colder weather yet to come. You may have been keeping your auto in an unheated garage for the summer, perhaps out in the back yard. But with the cooler weather you have to think of better care for the old bus.

The Central Garage, operated by H. H. Benjamin, is ideally situated for storage. It is right on Franklin street, close to the business center, handy at all times, is modern throughout, of fireproof construction and heated as warm as you could wish any garage for the cooler months.

Mr. Benjamin will be pleased to give you a price for fall and winter storage, and you can get your car washed and polished there while not in use. Here is the ideal place for storage during the cold months not far ahead.

EAST CONNECTICUT POWER CO. GIVES FINE SERVICE

The Eastern Connecticut Power Company with general offices at 382 Main street, Norwich, stands ready at any time to service residence of Baltic, Danielson, Putnam and Niantic with electric power and furnish gas service for residents of Danielson and Putnam. Perhaps some of the readers of this page are still struggling along with the old fashioned and dangerous kerosene lamp service. In these days, when electric companies stand ready to give service to many houses which in the past were seemingly isolated many of you may be surprised if you called this power company and asked if service could not be installed in your houses.

With the addition of electric and gas service many other modern conveniences are introduced into the home. Practically every electrical or gas device, which means saving of labor to the housewife, is carried by the appliance deparement of the Eastern Connecticut Power Company and at prices surprisingly low to the consumer.

Do not stand back and say that there is no chance of electric or gas service coming out your way. Start the ball rolling; perhaps there is some neighbor who also wants service, and between you others may become interested, and within a short space of time, the long awaited electric service may be passing by your door and the wires that bring light and added comforts may enter your home, bringing with them the hundreds of work savers, time savers, and joy givers, known to all who own and enjoy electric service in their homes.

Call the office of this company nearest your home and talk the matter over with us and soon you too will enjoy electricity in your homes.

WELDING DONE AT NORWICH WELDING CO. EXPERTLY SUPERVISED

Have you ever broken an expensive iron or steel object? Your first thought naturally has been that when you have broken such an article that it is practically useless. However valuable it may have been you, undoubtedly through ignorance, have thrown it away, never giving a thought to the possibility of making repairs. Welding is a scientific process by which metals are fused together. For a perfect job the work must go to an expert. That is why you should take such work to the Norwich Welding Co., 95 North Main street, Norwich, where acetylene welding and cutting is done under expert supervision. It is well to become acquainted with the service offered by the Norwich Welding Co., particularly in the line of castings of iron, brass, bronze and pattern shop work. And remember that anything made of iron can be welded. When you have such work take it to the Norwich Welding Company and then rest assured that it will be returned to you as good as new.

INSPECT YOUR ROOF EARLY IN FALL BEFORE STORMY DAYS SET IN

Automobiles are inspected every now and then to provide against a break down. Many people have the same habit about the house. They inspect their furnaces, the chimneys, the roof to provide against a breakdown of the system.

This is an ideal time of year to inspect your roof. The weather is pleasant. Soon the fall rains will set in, and then cold, stormy weather and it will not be so convenient, if possible, to look your roof over and stop that leak.

Leaks form in stormy weather, and they grow and increase through the wear and tear of sleet, ice and snow. It is well to have them inspected now and in good shape for the winter.

The Nu-Art Tile Roofing company of 382 Main street, has a crew of expert roofers who would be pleased to inspect your job and tell you just what it will cost.

This company is known as the home of good roofs. Genasco Latite and Loxtite Asphalt shingles in solid colors and mixtones cannot curl, flap or blow off. The last for years and they cost you practicall nothing. We will gladly advise you if you call Norwich, 15.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

Powder-Horn Pete and Dead-Eye Dan, "the greatests shooters of all time" come to town tonight when Paramount's latest Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton team comedy, "The Big Killing," opens at the Palace theatre. Berry takes the part of Powder-Horn Pete and Hatton is Dead-Eye Dan. The audience will go wild about these two boys who couldn't hit the side of a mountain at ten paces but who are experts at breaking glass balls with blank cartridges.

"The Big Killing" is another of those delicious satiric comedies which Beery and Hatton introduced with a recent production "Partners in Crime." This time they have taken to mountains and the backwoods mountaineers for their inspiration and they succeed in throwing an effective wrench into a neat little feud war, developed over the romance which threatened to mix the opposing families.

The picture has a well-sustained plot with genuine story interest. The side-splitting comedy situations are cleverly woven into the fabric of the tale and there is a sincere romance running throughout.

Supporting Beery and Hatton in the cast are several notable players, including Mary Brian, whose recent successes with this comedy duo have won her an enviable place in the hearts of film audiences. Lane Chandler, who played opposite Clara Bow in "Red Hair," and several others.

Broadway Theatre.

That the William Fox masterpiece, Street Angel, should be breaking all records for attendance wherever it has been shown constitutes an achievement unheard of in show business. Directed by Frank Borzage, who also produced 7th Heaven and co-starring the same players in that epic, Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, Street Angel is being given the same metropolitan presentation at the Broadway as it received during first record breaking engagements at $2 in New York, Philadelphia and Los Angeles. However, the local presentation is further exalted by the fact that Street Angel is the first Movietone masterpiece ever shown in Connecticut. That it writes a new page in the history of motion pictures is unquestioned by the thousands who have already crowded their way into the Broadway theatre to see this stirring production.

Incidentally, the local presentation of Street Angel marks the advent of a new and greater policy of picture showings at the Broadway. This William Fox production is being shown in Norwich in identically the same manner in which it was presented at the Roxy theatre in New York. In fact, the Movietone synchronization is the work of none other than the popular Roxy. The synchronized Movietone score for Street Angel was furnished by the Roxy orchestra of 165 pieces. This soul stirring score, plus the Movietone effects and the marvelous acting of Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, makes Street Angel easily the greatest motion picture ever produced. Miss Gaynor as Angela adds to her record a characterization that can be classed as the most beautiful ever enacted on the silver sheet. She is even more beautifully convincing in Street Angel than she was in 7th Heaven. Charles Farrell as the artist gives the greatest performance of his career. In fact, the cast is a marvelous one in every particular, with the direction by Frank Borzage stamping him as a master without an equal.

Breed Theatre.

Fox Films excellent comedy-drama "Don't Marry" closes tonight at the Breed theatre. This is one of the most amusing romantic farces that ever has been offered about the modern girl versus the old-fashioned. Lois Moran and Neil Hamilton are in the stellar roles.

Some of the most thrilling riding ever filmed is seen in "The Little Buckaroo," Buzz Barton's newest western now showing at the Breed theatre. Buzz is given repeated opportunities to display his skill as a horseman in the picture which opens with a breakneck chase of a runaway stagecoach four. Buzz in a later scene drives the same stage across the desert in a race to save his friend who is in the hands of a mob of lynchers and the picture comes to a close with a breath-taking race over a mountain road with Buzz on his Pinto pony pursuing the heavy.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Oct. 3—(AP)—Export business in corn alleged to be larger than the public has known of gave a hoist to the corn market today despite wheat weakness, cancellation of 1,000,000 bushels of corn warehouse receipts here a circumstance pointing to likelihood of big shipments out of Chicago, counted also as a bullish factor. Meanwhile, foreigners were credited with speculative selling of wheat here. The world's available supply of wheat showed 35,234,000 bushels increase for the week.

Closing quotations on corn were unsettled 7-8c to 1 1-4c net higher, wheat 5-8 to 7-8c off. Oats unchanged to 1-4c up and provisions varying from 35c decline, to a shade advance.

In connection with today's advance in corn values, much notice was taken of announcement that on account of crop shortage Roumania is to import corn. The principal food supply of the rural population of Roumania is corn, and various other European countries also are reported as minus their usual requirements. Helping further to strengthen the corn market today was a dispatch saying United States corn in Europe is underselling Argentine corn as much as 5c a bushel. There were also estimates from a leading Chicago authority that farm stocks of old corn in this country at present amount to only 90,000,000 bushels against 165,000,000 bushels a year ago.

Predictions were current that the corn carry-over on Nov. 1, would be put 60,000,000 bushels compared with 111,000,000 bushels last year and 183,000,000 bushels two years ago. Under such circumstances, buying of corn future deliveries developed on a broad scale today, and influential trade leaders asserted that United States corn not only has the inside track now abroad so far as new corn is concerned but that prices are on an export basis for old corn. Talk was likewise heard that a period of extremely small receipts of corn is at hand and that stocks of corn will be down to low proportions by the time new corn moves in volume.

Provisions averaged lower, ignoring an upturn in hog values.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall or Liggett Drug Store.

NOMINATIONS ARE MADE FOR SIX COMMERCE CHAMBER DIRECTORS

The nominating committee of the Norwich chamber of commerce submitted to the membership on Wednesday the names they suggest for election to the board of directors. In selecting these names the committee recognized that in an organization such as the chamber of commerce it is desirable that the personnel of the board of directors be representative of the entire membership. This means that the board should be balanced with merchants, manufacturers, bankers and professional men. It also should include members of the various religious creeds and social organizations. With all these thoughts in mind and a desire to select men who had demonstrated by past performances their interest and aptitude for the work, the nominating committee made its report as follows:

At the regular September meeting of the board of directors, the president shall appoint a committee composed of five members of the chamber, none of whom shall be members of the board, whose duty it shall be to present the names of six candidates to be voted on at the next annual election of the chamber. The names of the candidates so selected shall be published and mailed to each member of the chamber at least ten days previous to the annual election. Additional nominations may be posted upon the bulletin board of the chamber over the signatures of 15 members of the chamber at least five days previous to the annual election.

At the annual meeting just prior to the election of directors, the president shall open the meeting for additional nominations from the floor. A two-thirds vote of those present shall carry any nominations so made.

The nominating committee have carefully studied the membership roster and beg to submit the following names as candidates for election to the board of directors at the annual meeting, which is to be held Tuesday, October 16, at 6.15 p. m., in the Wauregan hotel.

George R. Fellows, assistant cashier, Thames National bank; Cyril E. Fitch, secretary Reid & Hughes Co.; Harry F. Powers, president Uncas-Merchants National bank; Abner Schwartz, president Schwartz Bros., Inc.; John R. Tarrant, cashier Bankers Trust Co.; Joseph S. Worth, treasurer and manager, Uncas Finishing Corp.

The nominating committee comprises Charles V. James, chairman, Edwin B. Hill, John B. Cunningham, Shepard B. Palmer, John B. Caron.

These candidates if elected at the annual meeting will serve for two years. For the first year they will be associated with the following directors whose term of office carries them through until next October:

Arthur M. Brown, state's attorney and president Thames National bank; Walter F. Lester, secretary, New London County Mutual Fire Ins. Co.; Henry S. Lyon, exchange manager, Southern New England Telephone Co.; F. Russell Smith, president and treasurer Troy Steam Laundry Inc.; Charles W. Taggart, general manager, Norwich Gas and Electric department; Charles J. Twist, vice president and treasurer, Thames Textile Co.

In the 12 names submitted will be found a total of two merchants, two manufacturers, two public utility men, three bankers, one professional man, one insurance executive and one laundry proprietor.

The list of directors who retire from active duty this year include the names of six men whose untiring service and loyalty to the chamber has been a most untiring service and loyalty to the chamber has been a most important factor in the accomplishment of the past.

Under the by-laws their re-election until after one year shall have passed is prevented, but it is certainly sure that the members of the Norwich chamber of commerce will not soon forget the most valuable contributions made to the organization by Nelson J. Ayling, Herbert B. Carv, Max Hanover, Harold D. Larrabee, Archibald Mitchell and Ernest O. Rodier.

DEMOCRATS GOT OUT GOOD SMALL TOWNS' VOTE

A complete tabulation of the party votes in the "small town" elections held in the state Monday shows the democratic vote to be only 38 short of the total polled by that party in the same towns in 1922 when the republican margin of victory, in the estimation of Democratic National Committeeman Thomas J. Spellacy, was the "normal" one for Connecticut. The republican vote in the town elections Monday was 1,765 less than the republican vote in the same towns in the 1922 election.

The figures are: "Small towns," 1928, republicans, 58,526; democrats, 42,749; vote of United States senator, 1922, McLean, republican, 60,291; Spellacy, democrat, 42,787.

Mr. Spellacy, in a statement Tuesday, said there was "great satisfaction" in the showing made by the democrats in the small towns, and said that if the towns which voted Monday maintain in November the democratic strength shown in their local elections, "the vote in the larger communities will certainly carry the state for Governor Smith."

In 1922, Senator McLean led Mr. Spellacy by 17,504 in the towns which voted Monday, and by 22,248 in the state. The republican vote in these towns Monday exceeded the democratic vote by 15,777. The following towns did not vote Monday, but in 1922 gave majorities to the party indicated by the letter following the name of the town:

Republicans in discussing the "small town" results, said there had been no general effort to poll a heavy republican vote, while the democrats, they claimed, had shown unusual activity. The republican vote Monday was 9,258 votes less than the republican vote in the same towns in the 1926 state election, while the democratic vote Monday was 8,210 greater than the democratic vote in the same towns in the state election. In 1922 election 74 per cent of the registered voters went to the polls, while in 1926 only 61 per cent of the eligible electors cast their ballots.

CARPENTERS' UNION HAS NO USE FOR COMMUNISTS

Five Members Branded as Communists Were Expelled by Unanimous Vote at 22d Annual Convention in Lakeland, Fla.—Deposed Men Until Their Expulsion Had Been Members of Local 1164, New York—They Are Alleged to Have Been Controlled Through Instruction From Moscow.

LAKELAND, Fla., Oct. 4—(AP)—Branded as communists, five members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America were expelled by unanimous vote from the organization today by delegates attending their twenty-second annual convention at the new national home here.

Expulsion of four members was announced last night and today the name of the fifth was erased from the rolls.

The deposed men were former members of Local 376, New York, the charter of which was revoked by the general board of the brotherhood for alleged irregularities. Until their expulsion they had been members of Local 1164, New York. They are Morris Rosen, Nathan Rosen, his brother; Thomas Schneider, former member of local 2090; Robert Golden and Joseph Lapidas.

Morris Rosen, at the request of President William L. Hutcheson and Secretary Duffy, was granted the floor to state his case, although under the rules, he was not eligible to speak, as he was not a delegate. Rosen charged the charter of Local 376 had been revoked under guise of irregularities and that the local had been persecuted.

Secretary Duffy then set forth the history of the trouble. Rosen had been a candidate for general president four years ago. Duffy linked Rosen with the Trade Union Education league and the Workers' Communist party, which, he said, are controlled in America through instruction from Moscow.

"We are not the only union that has had these fellows to deal with," Duffy said. "We have them in the American Federation of Labor. x x They have them in the United Mine Workers of America. They have them to deal with in the fur workers, in the lady garment workers and in the machinists and now they are breaking into the carpenters." x x x.

Rosen and the four others expelled were given a safe conduct by the delegates until they left Lakeland. The convention today approved a recommendation that the National Home, an investment of more than $3,000,000 be opened January 1 to retired carpenters and that the pension fund of the brotherhood begin functioning April 1, next. The pension is $15 a month.

SUBMARINE S-4 TO BE PLACED IN COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—(AP)—The submarine S-4, which sank with the loss of 41 lives off Provincetown, Mass., last December, after a collision with the coast guard destroyer Paulding, will be placed in commission October 16, as an experimental undersea craft to be used in testing safety devices.

The navy department announced today that while she will be fully equipped and manned for experimental purposes, she will not be replaced in the line.

Lieut. Noram S. Ives was placed in command of the S-4 and Lieutenant Commander Palmer H. Dunbar, submarine expert, was put in charge of the experimental work.

The craft will be sent from Portsmouth, N. H., where she has been rebuilt after her salvaging from the Massachusetts coast waters, to Cape Charles, Va., where tests of the "luna" a submarine rescue device invented by Lieut. C. B. Momsen, will be carried on.

The submersible will be used to test also many other safety devices now being investigated by a special board authorized by congress.

EPIDEMIC OF TYPHOID FEVER AT OLEAN, N. Y.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 4—(AP)—The worst epidemic of typhoid fever in New York state in years has broken out in Olean in the opinion of officials of the state health department.

The department has sent staff members to that city to take charge of the situation, but from the progress of the epidemic so far, Dr. Edward S. Godfrey, Jr., director of the division of communicable diseases, estimated today that hundreds of cases will be reported before the epidemic is ended.

The cause of the present outbreak has been definitely established by the state department as the supplementary water supply in South Olean, where virtually all of the cases have appeared. On last Saturday, six cases were reported, which had increased today to 55 while as many more had been reported as probable but not yet confirmed.

BOSTON, Oct. 4—(AP)—A new 14-inch coast defense rifle was shipped over the Boston and Main railroad last night to Worcester on the first lap of its journey to the proving grounds at Aberdeen, Md. The rifle and mount weighed 730,000 pounds and with the two cars of parts for the gun weighed a total of 851 tons, the heaviest concentrated weight ever carried over the rails of the Boston and Maine road.

GOV. SMITH MAINTAINS STAND ON PROHIBITION

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 4—(AP)—Governor Smith holds that states wanting prohibition should be permitted to remain dry under the 18th amendment. He re-emphasized today in reply to a criticism that if he were really consistent he would advocate outright repeal of the prohibition amendment.

The governor directed his remarks made at a press conference at his capitol offices, at a speech made last night before a group of republican women in New York by James W. Wadsworth, a former republican senator from this state.

Referring to Wadsworth, with whom he has been friendly for years although they are political antagonists, as "Jim," Smith stressed to newspapermen that he himself was a "Jeffersonian democrat."

"I believe in states' rights," he went on. "If a state wants to be dry I want to let it be dry. That is the answer."

Then Governor Smith directed an attack on Wadsworth's own stand on prohibition, declaring the former senator "came out for the repeal of it only when he wanted to be re-elected."

"He never introduced any repeal resolutions in the senate when he was there," the nominee continued. "And only became violently interested in the repeal of the 18th amendment when his election was at stake. But it did not do him any good because the people in the state got on to it and that is one of the reasons why he did not win."

HOOVER IS STUDYING POLITICAL SITUATION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—(AP)—Herbert Hoover paused in the preparation of his Boston speech today to study the political situation in two states, one in the border territory and the other a western farm state. With Senator Thomas D. Schall of Minnesota, and former Gov. Henry D. Hatfield of West Virginia, the republican presidential nominee discussed conditions in their respective states, receiving from the senator a less encouraging report than that given by the former state executive.

Senator Schall, however, said that, while conditions were not as satisfactory in Minnesota as he would like to see them, he was confident that they would improve as the people became more familiar with the republican attitude on the farm question.

Hatfield, who now is a candidate for senator in West Virginia, declared that the only question in his mind was the size of the majority his state would give the Hoover-Curtis ticket.

Declaring that the republican party was having a hard fight in Minnesota, Senator Schall asserted that with more speeches "like that which Senator Borah made after Governor Smith's appearance in St. Paul" the party ticket would carry the state.

ARRESTED FOR VIOLATING MICHIGAN BLUE SKY LAW

DETROIT, Oct. 4—(AP)—Sale of stock in damages to be awarded him in an alleged mythical law suit involving millions of dollars resulted in the arrest today of Cecil B. Snyder, president of the Automobile Abstract Title company of Detroit on charges of violating the Michigan blue sky law.

The arrest was made on a warrant issued on recommendations of the local better business bureau. Officials of which said the company sold upwards of $500,000 worth of stock.

Snyder according to investigators, made the sales on the strength of his assertions that all certificates of title to automobiles issued in the various states were issued in violation of a latent on the system granted to him by the government.

Snyder told his clients, investigators charge, that he planned suit against the various states for damages totalling millions of dollars. He is alleged to have intimated to stock purchasers that a number of states were willing to settle the claims against them out of court for amounts totalling millions.

At the same time, it is charged Snyder offered additional stock at 10 cents per share, representing to purchasers that it would soon be worth from $100 to $500 a share.

TURBULENT MARRIED LIFE ENDS IN MURDER AND SUICIDE

PINE BLUF, Ark., Oct. 4—(AP)—The turbulent married life of Harry and Fanny Smaluk which twice led them to the divorce court but each time again to the altar was ended in what was officially recorded as murder and suicide. The bodies of the couple, both dead from gunshot wounds were found in a clump of bushes near their farm home late yesterday by a sheriff's posse which began a search when they failed to return home Tuesday night.

Letters were found near the bodies one written apparently by Smaluk and the other by his wife. In his, he said he had been disturbed over bad health. Her letter asked that their two daughters aged 11 and 13 be taken by her parents now living in Des Moines, Iowa.

Sheriff Garland Brewster, expressed the opinion Smaluk had forced her to write her letter

Coroner Rowell rendered a verdict that Smaluk had killed his wife and then himself. Officers believe jealousy inspired the act.

The Smaluks were married 15 years ago. A few years later they were divorced but soon remarried. Later they were divorced again and this time Mrs. Smaluk married another man. She divorced him later and remarried Smaluk.

FAKE ACCOUNTS ON BOOKS OF BROKER WATKINS

HARTFORD, Oct. 4—(AP)—Secret accounts for certain elective and appointive officials of the state, to whom the profits of stock transactions were credited without their ever having made any initial investments, were carried by Roger W. Watkins, on his brokerage book, it was learned today.

The facts on which this statement is based are contained in the senatorial information prepared by State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn against the former broker, charging him with embezzlement of $141,000, and which was released by Watkins' lawyer, William E. Egan, late today.

Mr. Egan announced that his client had chosen to be tried by Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court, without a jury, and that his associate, Frank E. Healy, former attorney general, will be the chief counsel in charge of the defense when the trial opens next Tuesday morning. Mr. Egan said that he would take a copy of the information to Watkins at the jail tomorrow, and ask him to outline his views and defense on each of the 26 counts against him.

Son Of The Late Gen. Obregon Wounded

MEXICO CITY, [illegible]—Humberto Obregon 2d, [illegible] of the late General Alvaro [illegible] was in the White Cross hos[illegible] night expected to recover from a b[illegible]et wound in the left breast inflicted early today.

Two explanations were made of the wound. One, by friends, was that he shot himself in an attempt at suicide. The other by the police, was that he accidentally shot himself.

The generally accepted version of the shooting is that between two and three o'clock this morning young Obregon was returning from a ball with a group of friends, among them a Senorita Florita Vega, described as his fiancee. Their automobile stopped in front of the residence of Ernando Torreblanca, where Humberto was to spend the night.

The youth had left the automobile and was walking toward the house when he was seen to fire a pistol which he held in his hand, some say aiming at his heart.

The friends assisted him to the White Cross hospital where it was found that the bullet had been deflected by a rib before it reached his heart.

Here the friends are said to have given their version of the shooting declaring that young Obregon had shot himself and assigning as a reason a growing despondency since the death of his father last summer.

Police headquarters however, had given out previously a statement in which it was said he had fallen to the ground as a result of a slight accident and had discharged the gun accidentally in his fall.

For several hours after the shooting all information was withheld at both hospital and police headquarters and the wildest rumors were afloat. That there had been an attempt at assassination, that he had fought a duel, and that he had died as a result of the wound.

Young Obregon has recently taken up aviation and has made several flights about Mexico City.

RASKOB SAYS PRICES OF STOCKS ARE INFLATED

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(AP)—Wall street operators, who have been the driving force behind what is generally regarded as the "greatest bull market in history," lost one of their former leaders today when John J. Raskob, former chairman of the finance committee of the General Motors corporation, came out with a statement that stock prices had far outrun their demonstrated values, and that a material readjustment was necessary.

Mr. Raskob also denied rumors which have accredited recent spectacular advances in certain securities to his market activities, explaining that he has not purchased any stock whatsoever since he became chairman of the democratic national committee a few months ago.

The Raskob statement fell like a bomb-shell in the midst of another run-away stock market. Prices of many securities, which had advanced $2 to $8 a share in the first outrush of buying, fell back rapidly on the selling of frightened speculators. Organized buying support was quickly supplied and the market headed upward again as new leaders were brought forward but the late rally was more restrained in character.

STORY OF PAPERS STOLEN FROM REP. HEADQUARTEDS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—(AP)—Political gossip buzzed today over a story that some one had stolen papers from the headquarters of the republican national committee and that detectives had been put on the job of finding out the culprit or culprits.

The report was first printed in the Evening Star, which quoted Chairman Work as saying he knew nothing about the matter. Later Dr. Work spoke of hearing that some one might have taken figures of elephants from some desks at headquarters. Other attaches of the headquarters staff declined to comment for publication.

It was said, however, that the desk of Harry G. Brown, a member of the committee's publicity staff, had been rifled and certain papers taken which were of value to the organization and which could be replaced.

Cities Organizing Airport Committees

Another Thousand Are Actually Engaged in Developing Airport Facilities.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(AP)—Approximately 1,000 cities in the United States are organizing airport committees and studying available sites, while another thousand are actually engaged in developing airport facilities, Harry H. Blee, chief of the commerce department's airport section, told aviation experts today.

He spoke at the first national aeronautical safety conference held under the auspices of the National Safety council and the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics.

The conference, which continues tomorrow, when Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh is to speak, is discussing recent development in airplane construction and in the perfection of navigation instruments.

In his radio debut tomorrow night Colonel Lindbergh will talk on "requirements and training for a commercial pilot." His remarks will be a repetition of the speech he is to make before the conference. He will speak at 9:30 over WEAF and a hookup.

Edward P. Warner, assistant secretary of the navy for aeronautics, told the conference that the airplane was not yet ready for ocean voyages, whereas the rigid airship had demonstrated its value for such trips.

ATTTEMPT MADE TO BURN OLD CASTLE IN IRELAND

PORTUMNA, County Galway, Irish Free State, Oct. 4—(AP)—Evidences of incendiarism were uncovered today after a fire had been extinguished at Portumna castle, where elaborate preparations had been made for the arrival this Saturday of the owner, Viscount Lascelles and his wife, Princess Mary.

The stables and the garage were badly damaged and local civic guards found four empty gasoline tins in a harness room. The guards also found traces of gasoline around the main building and some of the outbuildings containing offices.

Plans for the coming of the lord and lady of the castle have not, however, been changed. It will be the first visit of Princess Mary to Ireland and her husband's first appearance at his Galway estate since his marriage to the daughter of King George.

On September 8 six valuable race horses were burned to death in a fire at Goldsborough hall, England, the Yorkshire home of Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles. The fire, however, was confined to the stables. Reports did not indicate its origin.

CHANGES PROBABLE IN SPANISH CABINET

ST. JEAN DE LUZ, Spanish Frontier, Oct. 4—(AP)—Reports from Madrid indicate that various changes in the Spanish cabinet with an eye to achieving a stronger militaristic combination are imminent.

These rumors follow reports current for the last week of further dissention with regard to the regime of the premier, General Primo De Rivera. These latter have quieted somewhat with recognition that the country is entirely tranquil. Despite assurances by General Prima De Rivera, however, it is generally believed that his position is less solid than previously.

Among the cabinet changes mentioned is the replacement of the duke of Tetuan who resigned because of poor health, as minister of war by General Julio Ardanaz Crespo, now president of the supreme council of navy and war, who would be amended in turn by General Burguete, Senor San Jurpo will occupy the post of head of the civil guard, it is said.

DEM. NOMINEE FOR CONGRESS UNJUST IN HIS REMARKS ABOUT "THE BULLETIN"

(By a Staff Correspondent)

DANIELSON, Oct. 4—The Norwich Bulletin has a promise tonight of a signed apology from Chairman A. J. Cavanaugh of the Killingly democratic town committee for what Attorney William Citron, of Middletown, candidate for congress on the democratic ticket from the second district of Connecticut, said tonight at a party rally in the town hall as to his inability to get what he says in his campaign speeches published in the columns of this paper. Chairman Cavanaugh said that he was unaware prior to the meeting that Citron was to make any such charge. Citron could not be reached to answer to what he said after the meeting, as he promptly nopped out of town in an automobile. Attorney Citron neither offered any copy nor produced any excerpt from his speech while in Danielson.

What he said about not being able to get publicity from The Bulletin was repudiated by the democratic town committee after his talk and members of that committee agreed that on Friday they would meet the representative of this paper and sign an agreement to that effect.

At the request of Mr. Cavanaugh, an advance notice of tonight's meeting was given in this paper in the Danielson news this morning. Citron upset local democratic leaders by his indiscretion here tonight.

MAYOR OF NEWBURYPORT SERVING JAIL SENTENCE

Andrew J. "Bossy" Gillis Has Been Sentenced to Serve Two Months, One to Be Served at Hard Labor, and Pay Fines Aggregating $545—Penalty For Operating a Gasoline Filling Station Without Permit—Mayor Gillis Heard the Sentence Quietly and Without Comment.

SALEM, Mass., Oct. 4—(AP)—Andrew J. "Bossy" Gillis, mayor of Newburyport, today was sentenced to two months in jail, one to be served at hard labor, and to pay fines aggregating $545, as a result of his operation of a gasoline filling station in Newburyport without the formality of obtaining a permit. Mayor Gillis was remanded to the Salem jail to begin his sentence at once.

The disposition of the Gillis case was made by Judge Nelson P. Brown in the superior criminal court, before whom Mayor Gillis had pleaded guilty last week to various violations of state laws and city ordinances. It brought to a pause, temporarily at least, the long series of clashes between the self-styled "bad boy" and the conservative, old residents of the city in which "Bossy" carried out his threat to become mayor of the city and "show them."

Shortly after becoming mayor, "Bossy" began long cherished plans for launching a venture, the right to which previously had been denied him—that of opening a gasoline filling station on a corner, which certain residents regarded as a residential section and unsuited to the mayor's purpose. As mayor, "Bossy" decided to open the station and argue about the permit afterward. In the process he ordered cut down certain shade trees which the residents regarded as being essential to the beauty of the street.

In court today Judge Brown imposed a fine of $25 on an old charge of storing gasoline illegally, $20 for changing the grade of a street, a fine of $50 and a term of one month in jail at hard labor for keeping and selling gasoline illegally, a fine of $50 and a month in jail on similar charges of keeping and selling gasoline illegally and a fine of $400, to be forfeited to the city of Newburyport, for cutting down shade trees. Other charges were filed.

The courtroom was crowded when District Attorney William G. Clark moved for sentence. The prosecutor described the mayor as "a willful, empty-headed boy, who has never grown up." He described his election as "an accident" and recommended "a good, hot application of law to take down his cranial swelling."

Judge Brown heard defense counsel's plea for leniency and in imposing sentence, said that he appreciated "the psychology of the defendant in meeting obstacles," but that he could not countenance his methods.

Mayor Gillis heard his fate quietly and made no comment.

PRINCE NICHOLAS OF RUMANIA VISITED PARIS

PARIS, Oct. 4—(AP)—Prince Nicholas of Rumania, brother of Prince Carol, whose affairs of the heart made much noise in the world and cost him his throne, has been in Paris for a few days on a visit which gave rise to rumors that he also had become involved in an escapade of a similar character. The Rumanian legation, however, tonight ridiculed this report and said that the prince was already on his way back to Bucharest.

One version of the various rumors was printed in the Budapest newspaper Pesti Naplo which said that Nicholas had eloped with a Rumanian girl of aristocratic lineage and had lived at the Paris villa of his brother.

The legation insisted energetically that the rumor of an elopement was false, citing as its denial was made of another report that on the visit to Paris Nicholas was in the company of a woman described as not of the Bucharest aristocracy.

SUBWAY TOWERMAN AT TIMES SQUARE HID "PAST"

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(AP)—The subway towerman on duty at Time Square on Aug. 24 when a switched underground train was torn in two, killing or fatally injuring 15 persons, admitted in court today that the name of Harry C. King by which he was known to his fellow employes was merely an alias adopted to "get away from my past life."

When he added to this that testimony concerning the wreck previously given by him was false and admitted that he had been convicted of stabbing a man in Baltimore, Magistrate Corrigan, who was hearing testimony in homicide court, ordered him arrested on a charge of second degree manslaughter.

At the same time the magistrate dismissed homicide charges against William Baidwin, a subway maintenance man who had repaired a switch just before the train that was wrecked passed over it.

FOUR OR MORE NICARAGUAN CIVILIANS REPORTED KILLED

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Oct. 4—(AP)—Reports yesterday of the killing of four or more Nicaraguan civilians on October 2 at the village of San Marcos, Inotega, resulted in measures today to block any interference by outlaw groups with registration for the forthcoming election.

Rumors have been current for some time that these groups would attempt a demonstration during the registration or voting period, an American election officials said today.

"Such demonstrations," he said, "are purely for advertising purposes abroad and to enable looting at home. So far, however, few citizens have been frightened away and registration is heavier than in 1924."

Reports were that the killings resulted from a raid by a small outlaw band headed by Pedro Alta Mirano.

HUNTER OF SUFFIELD FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

SUFFIELD, Conn., Oct. 4—(AP)—Wilbert Gillette, a hunter of this place, was found dead at his home tonight with a bullet wound in his breast and another in his right armpit. A .32 calibre rifle was on the floor near the body.

The body was found by neighbors who heard a series of shots shortly after two o'clock this morning, but investigated only when Gillette failed to appear in town during the day.

County Detective Edward J. Hickey, of Hartford, with local and state police is investigating the shooting. An autopsy will be performed on the body tomorrow morning.

One theory of the shots heard early this morning is that Gillette fired them to summon help after he had been wounded, either accidentally by himself or by some other person.

RESOLUTION ADOPTED BY AMERICAN BANKERS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4—(AP)—The American Bankers' association, concluding the business sessions of its 54th annual convention, today adopted unanimously a resolution favoring "some reasonable manner of limiting the practice of withdrawals from banks by corporations for the purposes of making loans on stock exchange securities."

Such a limitation of loans for speculation could be based "upon the maintenance of normal balances which should not be disturbed by those who take part in stock exchange loans."

Capital gains tax was characterized as "uneconomic and unsound in principle" in peace times, by the bankers, who declared that "imposition of such a tax is doubtless one of the factors in the speculative situation in the stock market, as many persons who have large paper profits hesitate to liquidate now in view of the large tax they would have to pay."

The bankers in a resolution expressed satisfaction "that within the present year the prices of most farm products have recovered more nearly to their pre-war relation to the prices of the products of other industries than has been the case in any other since the war."

ROBINSON DELIVERS SPEECH AT CHICKASHA, OKLA.

CHICKASHA, Okla., Oct. 4—(AP)—Herbert Hoover has established a reputation as a humorist by declaring that the seven and a half year record of republican control "constitutes a period of rare courage in leadership and constructive government," Senator Joe Robinson said tonight in a speech prepared for closing his three-day campaign in Oklahoma.

The democratic vice-presidential nominee said that it was difficult to understand how such a statement could be made in "good faith" by the republican presidential candidate, nor could he see how republican spokesmen expected "to hoodwink" the voters of the nation.

Mr. Robinson arrived late today from Muskogee by way of Oklahoma City, where he utilized a nearly six-hour stopover by playing golf with George D. Key, chairman of the democratic state central committee. Mr. Robinson tomorrow will enter New Mexico to speak on successive nights at Clovis and Roswell.

On his way into that state, however, the senator will speak at Amarillo, Tex., in which state he opened his campaign more than a month ago with a Labor day address at Dallas.

TO MAKE INQUIRY INTO CHICAGO TAXICAB WAR

CHICAGO, Oct. 4—(AP)—Charging that Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, is unqualified to conduct an inquiry into a Chicago taxicab war because he is a stockholder in the Yellow Cab Co., officials of the Checker Taxi Co. today appealed to Judge John L. Sullivan, chief justice of the criminal court, for a special grand jury and a special prosecutor to investigate the trouble.

The Checker company acted after Mr. Crowe yesterday ordered all its records seized and its officials to appear before the grand jury, following two bombings of Yellow Cab Co. garages and the burning of the racing stables of John Hertz, head of the Yellow Cab Co., with a loss of more than $200,000 through the death of 11 race horses.

MACHINERY FOR NEW PLANT SHIPPED NEXT WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 4—Willimantic has gained a new industry and everything points to the perfection of an organization next week when immediate steps will be taken to start the shipment of machinery to this city for immediate operation. Announcement to this effect was made today by Chairman Kenneth H. Hillhouse of the chamber of commerce committee that has been in charge of securing necessary subscriptions to secure the new industry. The new plant will manufacture a metal window cover which is the invention of a man connected with a concern now successfully engaged in the manufacture of a screen admitted to be inferior to the one recently patented.

Frank M. Lincoln has been appointed temporary treasurer for the receipt of the first payments on the four installments allowed subscribers. The subscribers will meet next week to determine the location of the new concern and complete general organization. Some of the machinery to be shipped here is now in use and adaptable for the new work while considerable new machinery will also be ordered. Present salesmen of the company are taking orders, some of which are extensive and production will be started as soon as possible. The manufacturer is planning to move his family to this city and members of the committee are scouting for a suitable rent for him and possibly others of the concern who will move here.

A new city hospital, the result of several years of constructive agitation and predicted by several local physicians as the start to the ultimate development of a large and progressive public institution has been opened in the residence of the late Bartholomew Moran at 39 Brook street. It is known as the Willimantic General hospital and is under the supervision of Miss Katherine T. Moran who has been granted a license by the state board of health. Superintendent Moran is a graduate of the school of nursing at the W. W. Backus hospital at Norwich and has had 23 years of experience. She was superintendent of the Guilford hospital for a number of years up to a short time ago. It was stated that continued crowded conditions at St. Joseph's hospital led to the plan for another institution here. Over a year ago a meeting of the citizens was held in the town hall to discuss certain matters pertaining to the establishment of a new hospital and at that time figures were published as to the cost of building and maintenance. A committee was appointed to draft an application to the general assembly for a charter for an institution to be known as the Windham Memorial hospital and the Windham representatives, A. L. Weatherhead and Charles B. Pomeroy, succeeded in having the assembly pass on the matter. The charter was granted and is now in the hands of the committee. Should a Windham Memorial hospital become a reality in the future it will absorb the present new institution. The Willimantic General hospital is a "mutual" undertaking and is not incorporated. Any duly registered physician in the state of Connecticut is privileged to perform operations there.

The Moran residence occupies a pleasant location on Brook street. It is a frame structure, two stories high and contains seven rooms besides bath, pantry and sink rooms. Of the four rooms on the first floor the front room is to be used as an office, another as a reception parlor, one for patients and the kitchen will remain in use for cuisen the second floor, two having been inary purposes. There are three rooms remodelled into wards and one as an operating room. At present six lying-in patients can be accommodated there being eight beds in all. Plans for immediate increase in accommodations call for the building of a sun porch over the elf in which the kitchen is located and for an extension of the verandah on the southeast corner. Although modest in its beginning the new hospital received the commendation of Dr. Lanphear of the state board of health on its excellent appointments during an inspection this week. The first patient was Dorothy Koskie, 3, of Throndike, Mass., who underwent an operation for removal of tonsils and adenoids Wednesday.

SILK COMPANY OFFICIALS TO COME HERE THIS WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 4—News has reached the chamber of commerce office of the death of Mr. Corn, one of the partners in the firm which was contemplating the establishment of a silk mill in this city for some time past. Mr. Corn died after a long illness, during which time negotiations for the locating of the industry here were halted.

Following word of Mr. Corn's death came another message from the remaining officials of the plant assuring the chamber of commerce officials that their representatives would be in Willimantic next Saturday to conclude the pending negotiations. It is confidently expected that this conference will result in immediate steps for the locating of the plant in the near future, inasmuch as it was stated that one of the purposes of the visit of the representatives Saturday was to make final decision as to the most desirable location for the mill, and chamber officers have been advised that the silk interests are anxious to begin operations in Willimantic at the earliest possible time.

Upon the receipt of these messages President Frank P. Fenton of the chamber of commerce mailed out notices for a meeting of the 300 or more subscribers to the new silk industry to be held in the chamber of commerce rooms Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The purpose of the meeting will be to appoint a committee to represent the subscribers with authority to proceed with the organization of a corporation to complete arrangements. Another committee will be appointed to represent the local backers of the proposition in concluding the agreement with the concern's representatives.

Department Inspector Mrs. Annie L. Maynard of New London conducted the inspection of the work of the order at the regular meeting of Francis S. Long Woman's Relief Corps No. 18, held in the G. A. R. rooms Wednesday evening with President Amy C. Anderson in charge. A bountiful supper was served by the executive board with Mrs Margaret McArthur, chairman. Two candidates were initiated during the business session. Mrs. Maynard was presented with a gift from the corps. Among the visitors were Past Department Secretary Mrs. Frances Packer of W. W. Perkins Corps, No. 18, New London, two other members of that branch, Commander James Haggerty and Comrade Adam Duntz of Francis S. Long Post No. 30, G. A. R.

At a rally of the Anti-Saloon league of America given by the manufacturers and business committee of the league in the Nathan Hale hotel this noon, about 60 persons, mostly women listened to addresses by Howard Hyde Russell of Westerville, Ohio, founder of the organization; George W Morrow of Detroit, Mich., field secretary, and Robert P. Carson of Denver, Colo The meeting was in charge of Rev. Frederick C. Williams, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church. During his welcoming talk, Rev. Mr. Williams reminded the gathering that notwithstanding the newspaper reports regarding the stand of Episcopal clergymen concerning the 18th amendment, the great majority of them were back of the anti-saloon movement and all that tended to help the cause of prohibition.

"We cannot be subject to a Tammany government," said Mr Russell in branding the democratic party and its presidential nominee as being in no way in favor of upholding the 18th amendment. Rev. Mr Morrow also attacked the record of Tammany hall and Governor Smith because of his adoption of a wet platform. Mr. Carson, who introduced himself as a Colorado democrat gave a talk on "Why I Shall Scratch My Ticket," stating that the candidate of the democratic party had violated the will of his party in many particulars, especially on the matter of prohibition as written in the platform of the party. He alleged that Governor Smith, in ignoring his party, had declared a platform of his own.

Police authorities were hot on the trail today of automobile thieves who took possession of a 1927 Dodge touring car, owned by Louis Dansereau of 47 Arnold's Lane, last evening shortly after 9 o'clock while the car was parked in front of the Jordan Auto company garage on upper Main street and abandoned the car after wrecking it in Eastford. When Mr. Dansereau failed to locate his machine he searched the neighboring streets and then notified the police. A search of the surrounding territory was made but that the car had actually been stolen by strangers were not fully determined until this morning when the machine, badly wrecked, was located on the roadside in Eastford, some 20 miles from here. Traffic Officer Arthur Hurley and State Policeman Charles Daley are conducting the investigation.

COLCHESTER

TOWN BUDGET REDUCED ANNUAL REPORT SHOWS

The annual report of the selectmen and treasurer also the report of the supervisor of schools and town school committee, has been distributed to the townspeople during the week. The town budget not including the school budget for the ensuing year is $23,285 where as last year it was $24,260. The reduction in the budget this year is no doubt due to the fact that $850 was included in last year's budget for the purchase of a road scraper for the Colchester roads, also one for the Westchester road.

The town farm budget of $2,000 was reduced to $1500 at the annual town meeting Monday.

The school budget is $82,588 whereas last year's budget was $81,500. This increase seems to be due to a slight increase in the teacher's salary estimate for the coming year. The increase may also be partly attributed to the fact that the budget for next year's tuition is $950 whereas the actual expenditure for last year's tuition was $430.

Transportation expense will apparently be less during the next year, inasmuch as the ensuing year's budget shows $1510 for transportation while the actual expenditure for that item during the past year was $2030 52.

The report of the supervisor of schools, C. M. Larcomb sets forth the advances in Colchester's educational methods and suggests ways for further improvement. He urges a more widespread use of the Cragin library books by the school children. The last year's night school helped in acquainting many of the parents with the English language. The average nightly attendance was 17. The state pays a certain proportion of the night school cost, but it is felt that the cost during the past year was too high for the attendance. It is hoped that the coming year will see a larger attendance at the evening school.

Mr. Larcomb also mentions the school building improvements made during the year. A new room was added to the North Westchester school, making it possible to have four grades in each room. Electric lights have been installed in the Ransom building and Westchester center school. It is expected that a new school building will soon be built on the Marks corner in the Parum section to accommodate pupils in that district now being transported to the center schools.

Supervisor Larcomb speaks of the need of a new school building in the borough. Extensive repairs have been made to the Ransom building but it is felt that no sum can make it a satisfactory building for school purposes. There is a difference of opinion among the townspeople as to the need of erecting a new school building in the borough If it were not for the fact that the Ransom building is overcrowded a large number of residents are of the opinion that the present building is as good if not better than school houses now in use in other towns about the state.

William Johnson, Timothy O'Connell and Samuel Robington were business callers in Norwich Thursday.

Misses Florence I. Dawley and Addie M. Wickwire returned home Wednesday having spent the summer at Camp Willeaway, near Moosehead lake, Maine.

Mrs. Wallace Pratt of Deep River visited with her mother, Mrs. Clara M. Gillette Friday.

HOME-MADE TELESCOPE ENABLES STUDY OF SKY

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—Chasing the major planets in the sky with his home-made telescope is one of the hobbies of E. L. Harrison, Memphis architect.

Harrison made his telescope and adjusted a clock to its use with machine-piano & sewing machine wheel, ball cry he obtained from an old player bearings from an old elevator and wire bands.

"A regular telescope clock costs about $600," he says. "Mine cost $20."

Telescope parties are frequently given in Harrison's garden where neighbors and friends drop by to "star-gaze." With the telescope mounted on steel frames with rollers, the architect moves it around to allow his voluntary astronomers Antares, Mizar, Jupiter, Mars, ranus, Venus and others of the larger planets.

A natural love for mathematics inspired him to build the apparatus, Harrison says. His other hobbies are photography and collecting opals.

BUTLEMAN'S AUTUMN OPENING

Friday and Saturday, Oct. 5th and 6th

A COMPREHENSIVE SHOWING OF ACCEPTED FASHIONS FOR FALL

Women who are interested in seeing what the prevailing styles will be for Fall and who appreciate correct styling and modest prices, will visit this store at their earliest convenience.

Cordial Invitation is Extended to All.

"OVER THE COUNTER"

DEAR DOT:

I just know you'll be delighted when I tell you that BUTLEMAN'S at 790 Main Street, are going to have their Fall Opening Friday and Saturday of this week. In case that you are not entirely familiar with this shop I am going to tell you about it.

BUTLEMAN'S STORE is really one of Willimantic's leading shops and has a well deserved reputation for good quality, moderate prices and up-to-the-minute styles. Another thing that I like about this store is that when you buy anything there you are assured of a perfect fit because Mr. Butleman is an expert tailor and gives individual attention to every customer. Then, too, the stock in BUTLEMAN'S is always fresh and new looking because he goes weekly to New York where he buys the newest styles being shown there. In this way he sees for himself what is new in the big style center and is not dependant on the words of salesmen.

Yesterday when I went down town I stopped to look in his windows which, to me, are always fascinating. After looking one simply has to go in and see the rest. There is something about this shop that makes me feel at home and the salespeople are always willing and courteous. So, taking advantage of this fact, I looked to my heart's content.

BUTLEMAN'S have some stunning coats in the popular tans, greens and blacks. Broadcloth seems to be the much wanted fabric and the furs used in trimming include pointed fox, badger, Jap mink, etc. One coat that was especially attractive was a black broadcloth, trimmed with Jap mink, featuring the "head in back" type of fur trimming. The cuffs are also fur-trimmed in the new swirl effect and have the head trimming also. It really is adoabire. The sport coats are mostly rough tweeds and mixtures, fur trimmed or not, as you please.

The dresses are really gorgeous. The dressy gowns are made of crepe, satins, georgettes, plain and printed velvets and the exquisite rtansparents. For sports I found the "swanky" jersey in both printed and plain colors in some very youthful creations. The prices certainly are amazing. It is not unusual in BUTLEMAN'S to have a customer come in to buy one dress and after seeing them so modestly tagged, go out with two or more.

But why go into detail, 'cause I know you'll join me on either Friday or Saturday and see for yourself at the Fall Opening. Am I right? Call up and say "Yes" to your faithful servant.

JANE.

The Largest Garden Doesn't Grow the Best Strawberries

Size is not an indication nor a promise of quality.

Quality is a thing apart.

It is what it is in spite of surroundings and environment.

It is a product of taste, skill, craftsmanship and pride of achievement.

A good garment is not made so by the price ticket, no matter what that may say; rather it is a combination of various expert human touches plus original quality of fabric.

Some tailors are more expert than others; some fabrics are better than others; these two in combination produce a garment that is better than others, regardless of price.

The use of this type of garments inspires satisfaction and confidence in the wearer.

These two considerations are worth more to us than the immediate profit resulting from a sale.

This is our reason for selling "Printzess," "Craigleigh" and "Toy Town Tailleurs" garments; perhaps that is a reason why you should wear them.

A spot which is becoming an attraction for nature lovers around Concord, N. H., is the gladioli garden at the home of Fred S. Heath of that city. Mr. Heath has approximately 6,000 bulbs set out this year, among which there are more than 500 distinct varieties of flower, and many other mixed blossoms which cannot be listed under a single name. The tallest specimen of Mr. Heath's gladioli is about 68 inches in height and the largest variety measures six inches in diameter.

When four Jenkintown (Pa.) young women set out to camp beside the Pennypack creek, they found so many "No Trespassing" and "No Camping" signs that they were in the verge of giving up the search for a camp site. However, they found a spot where the creek was about as wide as a large tent and about six inches deep. They pitched their tent across the brook, using flat stones for their cots and stove, and the six inches of water for a goor. And when they were questioned by a policeman why they had ignored the signs, the four finally made him admit that pitching a tent across the stream was not trespassing on the "land."

RUSTIC RACCOON HUNT NOW SPORT OF GENTRY

GALESBURG, Ill.—(AP)—'Coon hunting, a recreation of the youth of rural regions, has come to be a sport of gentry in the Mississippi valley this autumn.

Inaugurated in a small way last year, the sport known as "'coon hound trials" this year became popular enough to warrant an organization, the Mississippi Valley Coon Hound association. Fifteen hundred spectators watched a meet here.

Differing, however, from the more homely 'coon hunt, the raccoon in this instance escapes destruction. After being led over a trail through the woods, the 'coon is permitted to rest securely in a tree. From there he may watch the eight dogs—eight are permitted to a heat—seek to follow his course. The dog reaching the tree first wins the heat. Spectators gather on a hillside to watch the dogs make their way through the woods.

Jacob Heits of Princeton is president of the association. Meets have been arranged for Galesburg, Milan and Cambridge, Ill., and Davenport and Clinton, Iowa.

TOO MUCH CARELESSNESS

In connection with the gathering of the National Safety council in New York this week it is impossible to overlook the revelation that deaths from automobiles have steadily increased for the past 15 years while nearly every other class of fatal accidents have shown a decrease.

This makes it evident that while increasing efforts have been made to keep down the automobile fatalities they have not succeeded. There is the fact that the number of automobiles has increased each year but that is no justification for the increase in fatalities. It directs attention to the need of exercising greater care as the number of machines increases and at the same time shows how much it is disregarded.

When we stop to realize that the efforts which have been made for the prevention of other accidents have accomplished something and that the number has steadily declined, it shows what is possible. It indicates that some real efforts are being made and those efforts are getting results. As for the automobile accidents it can hardly be said that no efforts have been made, for safety measures of various kinds have been adopted, regulations have been established and safety laws have been enacted, but it is as if there was a complete reliance upon these measures to accomplish the betterment instead of the proper amount of cooperation on the part of all users of the highways.

Many thousand persons were killed last year in automobile accidents. The number promises to be larger this year and it is getting so that it can be foretold at the beginning of a year just about what the total auto fatalities for the year will be before another 12 months roll around. The fact that the great majority of these are needless doesn't seem to awaken the public to the importance of being more careful.

The increasing use of the highways by autos demands greater individual effort for the protection of self and others. It is ridiculous to think that through carelessness a greater number of human beings is being slain than is being taken off by certain diseases. It is time the individual began to show more interest in longevity for both self and others.

IN HONOR OF GORGAS

The announcement by the Gorgas Institute of the establishment in Panama of a Gorgas Memorial laboratory came on the anniversary of the birth of William C. Gorgas. There active research work is soon to begin to provide the further needed knowledge for the prevention of tropical and other diseases. This laboratory represents the joint efforts of the governments of the United States and Panama.

This memorial to Dr. Gorgas is such as would correspond with his wishes. He was ever deeply interested in the fighting of disease. He devoted some of the best years of his life to the service of humanity and to him belongs the credit for having saved through his health measures a great number of lives and to have made possible the habitation of regions which were disease ridden.

History will never let it be forgotten what a service he rendered in the successful fighting of yellow fever in Cuba and Panama, what an important part his health work played in the construction of the Panama canal or what contributions he made to suffering humanity elsewhere, either by personal activity or as the result of the things he accomplished in the various fields.

Dr. Gorgas' work came into prominence during the Spanish-American war and as surgeon general he was instrumental in requiring highly valuable safeguards for the Americans who served in the last war. The institute which bears his name is engaged in the extension of his great service. It is laboring in many fields and it is cognizant of the importance of a laboratory located where it will have unusual advantages in studying those diseases which continue to need close attention. It is not improbable that this service will be even further extended so as to include all of the Central and South American countries. It would be a happy idea if a new laboratory could be established on each succeeding birthday anniversary falling on October 3 until the needs are fully met. The contributions which Dr. Gorgas made to human welfare are getting thoughtful consideration, but by no means in excess of what they deserve.

GENERAL ALLENBY'S VISIT

War heroes never fail to receive a welcome wherever they go. It was only to be expected that General Allenby, who came to this country to attend the convention of the American Legion at San Antonio, should receive much attention as he reached New York. Like other leaders in the great war his service was conspicuous even though it was not concerned with the western front.

General Allenby had gained many honors for his service in Africa. He was particularly a cavalry leader. It soon became apparent that such were to play a small part in the struggle on the western front. A different type of fighting left little for the cavalry to do. It was trench warfare instead of open fighting and it was not long before it was plain that General Allenby was going to be of the greatest service elsewhere. This was especially apparent in view of the developments in Turkey. There was a situation which had to be dealt with and dealt with effectively. General Allenby was picked for the head of the Egyptian expeditionary forces, took up the task of driving the Turks out of the Holy Land and succeeded after encountering plenty of difficulties. It was the work of his armies that resulted in subduing the Turks.

So conspicuous was that service and so thoroughly had he become acquainted with conditions in that region that he was made the British high commissioner for Egypt and served in that post following the war until 1926. Through his excellent administrative ability and his statemanship he was able to harmonize conditions in Egypt in spite of the desire for independence. It is a post which calls for unusual ability and where failure might be much more easily attained than success, but his work there showed him as efficient in the administration of duties in time of peace as in the direction of activities in time of war.

The United States appreciates the opportunity of seeing such a leader and having him make a trip through the states. He will be an important figure at the Legion convention, and in fact wherever he chooses to stop during his stay in this country.

FLYING THE ATLANTIC

In the proposed flight of the Graf Zeppelin to this country from Germany, the start of which may be made today with favorable weather conditions, the opportunity for demonstrating what such an airship can do will be provided.

This will not be the first time that a dirigible has crossed the Atlantic but it will be the first time a Zeppelin has undertaken such a flight and if successful it will serve to awaken a greater interest in such airships. From the test that has been made, the reports indicate the ship and its complete equipment to be in the best of condition. Its speed doesn't equal that of an airplane but it is capable of carrying a greater number of people and is fortified against some of the handicaps faced by the planes. It is equipped with five engines which can be operated separately while engine trouble doesn't necessarily mean that the dirigible must crash to the land or the water. How well they can take care of themselves in storms has been proved by our dirigibles, although it is not to be expected that such a craft would be forced into a storm if it could be avoided.

Interest has been centered in the huge dirigible which it was expected would be ready for a trip to this country from England this year. This ship, capable of carrying 100 or more, indicates a transatlantic air carrier of great possibilities if the craft is a success. Delays in connection with its completion have given the Zeppelin the chance to undertake the crossing first, but if both succeed in making the round trip it will mean a decided advance in navigating the Atlantic through the air. It indicates only what is going to be, sooner or later, by some type of aircraft, a common occurrence.

VOTING MACHINE PRACTICE

Out in Indianapolis the request has been made that as many voting machines as possible be placed in position so that they can be seen and operated by those who are going to use them next month, some of them for the first time. The idea is to have the machines where voters can practice on them in advance of selection day that there may be a thorough understanding of what is to be done and how to do it.

There is nothing unreasonable about such a request and it doesn't appear that there is any opposition to it in Indianapolis. It has been the practice of the authorities to allow the machines to be so used and it is expected that it will be done this year.

This is in keeping with what is done locally each year before election, with the provision of someone who is acquainted with the operation of the machine to instruct those who may not be familiar with it. Such operates to the benefit of the voter and on election day overcomes needless delays through speeding up the voting.

It is to be expected that there will be local machines set up for the instruction of voters this year. If such is the case, full advantage should be taken of it by all those who think they need such help. If there are any doubts about casting a vote by machine it furnishes an excellent opportunity for clearing it up. The simplicity of such voting never fails to appeal. Those who are experienced require no instruction but it is provided in fairness to those who do not and they are the ones who should make the most of the chance to familiarize themselves with the mechanical device that stands for accuracy, correct registering of the vote and a speedy disclosure of the action of the voters.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is never possible for more than one team to win on the opening day of the world's series.

The man on the corner says: The frost that will kill nothing but hay fever hasn't been discovered.

The Yankees have a way of winning when it is not expected and to the great disappointment of many.

Colonel Lindbergh has declared for Hoover, and thus again has displayed that excellent judgment with which he has been previously credited.

October is hitting a pace that will please quite as if it felt necessary to make some amends for the disappointing September.

THE PROPER SETTING.

Isn't it amazing the rapidity with which scenes shift in a city growing as rapidly as Chicago? Buildings are whisked down and then up again, whole neighborhoods are transformed before one as much as notices it.

It was one of those languorous early spring days that make one feel everything in life is futile, especially work, and except, perhaps, golf. But Mathilde Williams' conspicuousness was untouched by the weather. She was too shocked, too bitterly disappointed, too perfectly and altogether flabbergasted.

The night before, in the dimly lighted living room of her own home, on the very spot where only a few months before her sister had told her brother-in-law that she would be his wife, Ed Valk had announced to her that he was going to Paris for two years. And he hadn't said any more.

They had talked until quite late about his "chance." Her folks were all at the movies. It was all quite ideal for a proposal. But the proposal hadn't come. And if she had had any doubts before as to whether she cared for Edward Valk they were gone now. What was a girl to do? Leap year? Bosh, she wasn't going to throw herself at his head.

He was calling for her at the office where she functioned efficiently as private secretary, to take her to lunch. She wondered if it would be the last meal they would have together. He was sailing next week, and, after all, she wasn't so very important to him. Just a good friend! What a dumb sound the phrase had.

"Where'll we eat?" he had asked when he telephoned.

"Don't care," she had responded. "Make up your mind by 12:30."

She had made up her mind. It would be Bonzetti's. There, if anywhere, he might speak. For Bonzetti's provided the perfect setting for a sweetheart's tete-a-tete, and setting was so important, she knew, sometimes the whole thing, the entire difference between happiness and loss. Perhaps there had been something wrong about that living room. Maybe Ed didn't think it romantic enough; perhaps (she thrilled) it was a background not attractive enough to measure up to his love for her.

But Bonzetti's was the thing. There they would find soft unobtrusive music, small tables far apart one from another or in little booths, waiters who didn't hover, tasteful surroundings, subdued lighting. And Ed and she had first met each other, through a friend, at Bonzetti's.

They set out for Bonzetti's. It was quite balmy. Little fleecy clouds chased each other over the sun, which, when it shone full, was positively hot. They noted a bird twittering its opinion of spring from atop a telephone wire. She lodged her hand comfortably in Ed's arm.

Somehow, she knew that once at Bonzetti's everything would be well. They reached the river and turned a corner. The sunshine sparkled on the pavement. They were puzzled a few moments about the exact location. Then they were sure; then there.

Not so Bonzetti's. To their astonishment, the ramshackle building in which the restaurant had been located had been torn down. Over a wide area steam shovels were busily preparing the excavation for a new skyscraper.

They stood awhile watching the steam shovels at work. The shovels were just like life, Mathilde thought, relentless, machinelike, chewing up your best laid plans and tossing them into the dirt heap. She wanted to cry. Instead, she suddenly pulled off her new spring hat, held it inertly in her hand, dropped it into the mud. Ed rescued it good-naturedly.

And then suddenly the sky was clouded over. Ed made a motion to draw her away but she did not respond.

It started to rain, and still they didn't move, glued to the spot somehow, watching those cruel steam shovels manipulating the mud. Pretty sight, wasn't it? Romantic situation for two sweethearts, about to part forever?

The rain came down harder, not a drenching downpour, but a penetrating March drizzle. Mathilde and Ed stood their ground, staring at ugliness. Then, suddenly, he turned to her.

"I'm a tongue-tied boob," he said. "But, honest, Mathilde, I've been wanting so badly to tell you something. Maybe, I hope, you know it already. Won't you—sail with me next week for Paris and—and—?"

Her rain-soaked head was on his shoulder. He could feel her nod. And then the tears came.—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The West Main St. Improvement

Mr. Editor: At the last city meeting, the taxpayers of this city voted an appropriation of $10,000 for the improvement of West Main street, from Thames square to Maple street (city line). Since then our street department has done about half of the work and for the last six weeks there wasn't a stitch of work done on that street.

I might be in place to ask the street department the reason for not completing the job.

A WEST SIDER

Norwich, Oct. 3, 1928.

Street Commissioner Wightman states, upon inquiry, that the city has stood the expense of the West Main street improvement inside and outside the trolley track and that just as soon as the Connecticut company pays its share of that expense the remainder of the work from Thames square to near the top of the hill will be completed. That money is necessary to finish the job and the company has promised to give the matter early attention.—Ed.

Wants City Meeting on Electric Rates

Mr. Editor: Again referring to the gas and electric rates—with so much disapproval apparent, why do not the city officials call such a meeting as has been asked for? It appears from letters already written that the situation is locked as far as the public is concerned. The legal arrangement protects the department. But other things can be done.

The important point to be considered is—Can Norwich have cheaper rates? Can electricity be produced at a lower cost? If so, both citizens, business men and manufacturers want it and want it badly. Profit for a few will never make Norwich grow.

Let such a meeting be called by the city fathers and let there be present men who can and who will talk for the benefit of the citizens—men who know power production—men who can prove beyond doubt that electricity can cost us less. The chamber of commerce and the city officials are paid by the citizens of Norwich to promote Norwich. We have said enough and the responsibility of leadership rests with them. Let them call the meeting, supply men who can give us facts, and the vote of the people will do the rest.

VOTER

Norwich, October 4, 1928.

The New Electric Rates

Mr. Editor: I have been reading the several letters in The Bulletin from voters, taxpayers and other humans, kicking about the late electric revision act. They don't seem to realize the keen intelligence and bright active brain back of that remarkable document. One writer says it could not be understood by the average citizen. Why, it seems very simple to me.

For instance, take it from the beginning. The rate is 3c per kilowatt hour, you burn a kilowatt or anything else for an hour for 3 cents, that's cheap. Next, residence lighting service, 3 rooms for $1.35. Of course that hits the poor people like myself but we don't amount to much. I light 5 rooms now for less than a dollar but I get the juice from the Connecticut Power Co.

Then commercial light service: They talk learnedly of 100 watts of connected load. That means that the 100 watts is connected to a mule or Ford car and if you can't pull it, you're out of luck. I've got a good Ford car myself, but if I connected it to 100 watts I couldn't pull 'em down hill.

Then they mention a kilovolt—that means that if you monkey with volts enough you'll get killed sure.

Then they speak of an electric range and allude to a kilovolt again. That means they are dangerous, so keep away.

Then they call your attention to water heater service where they give you credit of one cent for every hour you use it. What could be more generous than that? Of course they charge you 50 cents a month for a Frigidaire whether you use it or not but you shouldn't have one of those things. How is the ice man going to live? Then they tell you they are selling stove and electric appliances to get more people to use it, and then run several thousand out of it by an overcharge. But I never could understand business anyway.

Of course the plant will be sold as soon as we have a special meeting for that purpose. But they should worry. They will own a home on Easy street by then.

Hold Fast to What We Have

Mr. Editor: I have spent some time in England this year and have had a chance to study the liquor problem in the old country. While the per capita consumption of liquor has declined yet it is still far too high for their good. I saw the bars of the public houses crowded with men and, alas, women also. Last year the reported per capita consumption of liquor amounted to $33.90. If America spent as much per capita as Great Britain spent last year it would spend $4,000,000,000. Ben Turner, president of the Trades Union congress, said that drink and gambling between them cost the British worker about $3,000,000,000 a year. This is an appalling sum that is spent upon a mere self indulgence that does more harm than good. The present consumption of liquor in the United States is about 10 per cent. of its former consumption in the old saloon days. Keely and other cures gone out of business. We are saving about 90 per cent. of our former drink bill. The highest authorities in the land says the economic benefits of the prohibition law are simply enormous. These are tabulated and run like this: Higher productivity, fuller employment, higher wages, increased savings, increased home building.

Any one with a grain of sense knows that our American public are spending more upon conveniences and luxuries than ever before. Think of the radios, autos, vacations, movies, etc. The queer thing about all this is that in spite of all this spending we are still putting more into the savings banks than ever before. If our people were spending their money in bootleg liquor how could they spend more and save more as they are doing? Our people are better off than any other people in the world. To go back even to state controlled liquor business is to sacrifice clear gains to an uncertain situation fraught with perilous possibilities of evil. Let us hold fast to that which we have.

Stories That Recall Others

Memory Test

A mother was telling her three-year-old daughter, Shirley, about the woman flier who recently made the trip over the Atlantic. Her first question was: "What was her name, mother?"

In answering the mother touched her ear and said: "Think of your ear and then your heart."

Nothing more was said until the next day. To test Shirley's memory the mother took hold of her ear and said: "Who was the lady that flew across the Atlantic?"

Shirley responded: "Earache."

It Left the Evidence

An odor emanating from under a counter in a business office became so offensive that the colored janitor was called to investigate. It was decided in consultation that the cause of the odor was a dead rat. The janitor got down on his knees and began to pull out the papers and sundry articles; but his efforts to find the animal were unavailing. At last he emerged and exclaimed:

"Phew! Dad dead rat is gone, but he sho did leave his evidence!"

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Political results of Governor Smith's western pilgrimage will be assessable with any degree of certainty only when the count of votes is completed Nov. 6. Up to then, one man's guess is as good as another's as to whether the face to face introduction of the sidewalks of New York to the farm belt and beyond was worth while.

The late Thomas R. Marshall, whose career as vice president in the Wilson era was starred with comments on passing events that might have come from the pen of Mark Twain, once told his democratic colleagues that what the democratic party needed more than anything else was more democrats. If the Smith march through Omaha, Oklahoma City, Denver and way stations proves to have produced more 1928 model democrats in those regions nobody will thereafter be able to question the wisdom of the journey or the campaigning methods of Governor Al.

Boosted Radio Sales

Unless Washington was an exception during the period of the Smith invasion of the west, however, there is one comment on its results that already defies challenge. It must have been a boon to the manufacturers of radio receiving sets. No figures are available as to what the increases of sales aggregated; but virtually every radio dealer in Washington did an exceptional business. While the home town broadcast center, WRC, handled the Smith talks on its program, small sets would do, but once he was off the radio circuit in which Washington enjoys a place, a howl for long distance receivers went up that about exhausted available local stocks in popular models.

Not that Washington has disclosed overwhelming trend of opinion for or against Smith. It will never disclose what its majority view on the Smith-Hoover controversy is, for it has no voting voice to raise. Yet in every stratum of public or private life in the capital, and regardless of party affiliations, there was intense eagerness to hear what Smith would say to his western audiences. If you failed to get in on the radio distribution of any one of his speeches, you were out of luck next day. You just had to sit and listen to better informed persons who could discuss the Smith arguments and platform methods in the light of their radio participation in the show.

Politics Brought Closer

The fact was that all of politically minded Washington, and that means almost all of Washington, waited for Smith to set off political fireworks. They expected him to start something, and if he did it was only the chattering tongues in Washington. Republican or democrat, everybody wanted to hear it for himself and then hurtle downtown early next morning to join in the political debates that thrived in every office or club and on every street corner. That's about all the joy the average Washingtonian gets out of even a presidential election, and the radio this year as never before has brought the capital into immediate touch with the actual game of politics as it is being played out in the 48 major political league circuits where the voters are.

YOUR HEALTH

THE DANGERS OF MOUTH BREATHING AND THEIR PREVENTION.

(By Edwin M. Harrison, D. D., Chicago)

The function of nose, besides olfaction, is to heat, moisten and filter the inspired air, and it goes without saying that any condition which interferes with free passage of the air through the nose must necessarily bring about certain diseases. The conditions in the nose that interfere with nasal breathing are obstructions such as polypus, swollen turbinates, a deflected septum, or any purulent disease producing a heavy mucous discharge. The objective symptom which makes it apparent that the nose is blocked, is mouth breathing, but it is not always the nose that produces mouth breathing. A space behind the nasal cavities, the so-called postnasal space, is very frequently, especially in children, the seat of adenoids. These also lead to mouth breathing. When inspired by way of the mouth the air is not sufficiently warmed, moistened and filtered, and the parts likely to suffer are the tonsils, the middle ear, the palate, the pharynx, the larynx, the trachea, the bronchial tubes and the lungs.

Mouth breathers usually have enlarged tonsils and adenoids, and frequently develop ear diseases and deafness. Examine the roof of the mouth of a mouth breather, and you will find it arched like a Gothic window, with insufficient room for the teeth. When one considers the frequency of pulmonary bronchial and laryngeal disease in mouth breathers, it is certainly the grossest neglect to permit children to go without proper medical attention.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Hope's Return

Oh, Hope, my soul is lifed up, again,
Since your return.
I feel fresh blood surge through my knotted veins,
And, now, I yearn
To climb, once more, the heights—yea, strive to reach
That coveted goal,
Where glowingly, await Success and Peace
To fill my soul.
To thee, or Joy of Life, I owe my all.
Pray linger near,
Whilst thou art with me, naught can make me fall,
Neither will I fear
Temptation's lure nor ecstasy's deceit.
I'm on my way.
Pushing onward, upward, beyond Defeat,
I'll win today.

Do You Have Afternoon Headaches?

Many men and women wonder why they quickly tire at work while others enjoy the vigor of early morning all day long and do not become fagged out.

This annoying brain fag is often due to poor eyes. Faulty eyesight unbalances the entire nervous system. Physical and mental fatigue quickly results.

Continued neglect of poor eyes is invariably the cause of nervousness, headaches, depression, chronic irritability and often indigestion.

Good glasses, properly fitted, give immediate relief.

"My Hair is a Fright"

Edna Wallace Hopper, the stage favorite, in her sixties still graces the footlights with the vivacious charm of a flapper. In an interview she remarks that women always apologize when trying on a new dress or hat. How many of them say, "Of course, it will look better when my hair is in decent shape."

So it is well to know that you can always keep your hair looking its best.

Miss Hopper with some forty years of stage work behind her, knows the tricks of attracting. Among the most important she rates a fresh, lovely wave. She has found the perfect curling fluid to keep your hair alluring regardless of circumstances.

Wave and Sheen, she calls it. A liquid dressing which not only preserves the wave but gives your hair a soft, fascinating sheen. Try it on your freshly shampooed hair.

Money back if you are not delighted.

At all toilet counters, 75 cents.

There is a registration of about 40. The new class, which is called the secondary academic, has a registration of 11, with some additions expected, and is taught by Miss Sarah Hyman.

SABBATH OBSERVANCE MISSION FATHER'S TOPIC

The three members of the Order of Passionist preachers, Baltimore, who are giving a mission for the women of St. Patrick's parish this week, had a busy day Wednesday. At the 5 o'clock mass in the morning, Rev. Father Gilbert spoke to the good sized congregation on lessons from the passion of Our Divine Lord. At 8, Rev. Father Mark continued his consideration of the Ten Commandments, taking up the third—Remember to keep holy the Sabbath day. This day, at first observed at the end of the week, was changed by the apostles to the beginning—a fitting change, that man may begin his week by his consecration to his Maker.

This commandment requires us to abstain from servile work on Sunday, also to devote it to the worship of God. Some have so little faith, so little love for Jesus Christ, that they never go to church. So serious does the Catholic church hold such laxity that absence from mass on Sundays and holy days is considered a mortal sin. Of course illness or some equally valid excuse would be accepted as a good reason for such absence; but the time has come when the family automobile outing—unless there is a very, very early mass to go to—appears to be considered sufficient reason to dispense with going to church, for those who defy God's express command. Some do not even attempt to find a church on their way. The worst feature of this growing practice is the fact that the children are imitating their parents, who are instilling carelessness in the hearts of their offspring.

Father Mark narrated several instances as he had come to know them of bad parents, particularly unworthy fathers, who, following their Saturday night's dissipation, neglected and scorned this duty of Sunday church attendance. He also took up the topic of assisting at mass with proper devotion, as one might have forgotten the outside world and its distractions if assisting at the prototype of the mass, the sacrifice on Calvary. "Give that half hour wholly to God," he besought his hearers while condemning conduct in church which must result in scandal to others.

Wednesday evening, Father Gilbert gave the instruction on "The Purpose of Amendment." Father Conon delivering a most impressive sermon on "Judgment." During the day the missioners began hearing the confessions of the women, the hours being during and after the two morning mission masses, from 3.30 to 5.45 p. m. and after the evening services, until 10.15.

At 4 o'clock they began the three-day mission for the parish children—which they stress as most important. Confessions of the children will be heard Friday, parochial pupils in the morning, public school pupils in the afternoon; they will go to communion Saturday morning.

Thursday morning at 5 o'clock, Father Gilbert continued his sermons on the passion of the Saviour. At 8, Father Conon delivered a most appealing sermon based on the fall of Judas, who, chosen by the Lord to be one of His apostles, when he had been made treasurer of the little band to receive the small offerings, made his divine Master, let his passion of avarice grow, until for 30 pieces of silver he betrayed his Lord. The preacher admonished his large congregation to discover and root out each her ruling passion, her besetting sin, lest that, too, lead eventually to the betrayal of Christ by mortal sin, with a repetition of the fate of Judas.

Thursday afternoon the children's mission was continued. In the evening, Father Mark gave the opening instruction on the proper disposition in which to receive holy communion, Father Conon following with a most convincing sermon on The Home.

HURLED THROUGH WINDSHIELD WHEN DRIVER FELL ASLEEP

The Port Chester Daily Item contains the following account of a motor vehicle accident in which a New London man suffered injuries which may prove fatal:

Hurled through the windshield of a heavily loaded truck as it crashed into the rear of another truck after the driver "fell asleep" at the wheel, Charles Lavoir, 25, of New London, Conn., a helper, was probably fatally injured, early today. The crash occurred on the Boston Post road near Green Haven, Rye.

Levoir is suffering from a badly crushed right leg which was fractured in two places, possible fracture of the skull and internal injuries. His condition was reported at the hospital as "critical."

Clarence Weiser, 25, of 20 Warren street, Groton, Conn., driver of the truck was treated at the United hospital for lacerations about the face and body and later discharged.

Weiser is being held by the Rye police, pending the outcome of the helper's condition. He has been charged with reckless driving. Weiser according to the police said that he must have been asleep at the wheel of the truck when the accident occurred. He says he "didn't remember a thing."

The accident occurred near the entrance to Green Haven near the Rye Village and Mamaroneck line. A truck owned by Henry J. Merkle, of 6 Broadway, Mystic, Conn., and operated by Weiser, was proceeding along the Boston Post road towards Mamaroneck, when it crashed into the rear of another truck. The operator of the machine that was struck was John Furino, of 371 Congress street, New Haven, Conn. He told the police, according to Patrolman Bernard Aagersen's report, that he was driving a truck owned by Ballout-Nagle Express, Inc., of New York city, along the Post road.

As Furino's truck was passing Green Haven there was a crash. He stopped his machine and ran back to learn the cause of the accident. He found Lavoir lying in the road, his right leg badly mangled and his head covered with blood. Weiser was stepping from the truck when Furino reached the other machine.

Rye police were notified by residents in the nearby vicinity of the crash who were awakened by the report of the collision. Patrolman Aagersen summoned the Mamaroneck police ambulance. At the United hospital physicians discovered that Lavoir was suffering from a possible fracture of the skull, a compound fracture of the right thigh and leg and lacerations of the face, body and head.

MOONEY RECOVERS TAXI PRETTY MUCH A WRECK

The Whippet sedan of the Luxor taxi company with which one of the drivers, William Toth, 19, ran away about three weeks ago, has just been brought back to this city from Astoria, L. I., where Toth was placed under arrest last Tuesday when he tried to trade the machine for another.

Mr. Mooney and one of his employes went after it and towed it back from Astoria as it was in such a badly damaged condition that it could not be run under its own power. Toth, apparently, had run it as long as it would keep going and the bearings were burned out, bumper broken, front springs broken, oil line broken and gas tank empty. A marked map which was found in the machine was taken to indicate the route he had followed, accompanied on the trip by a 17-year-old Taftville girl. By the markings on the map it was indicated that Toth drove north from here through Springfield, Brattleboro and Keene to Bethlehem in the White Mountains. From there he turned east to pass through Rumford, Me., and other Maine points towards the Jackman road to Quebec. On the way, however, he made a turn to the north before he reached the Jackman road and landed in the wilds of the Main woods and had to retrace his route to get back to the Jackman road.

He reached Quebec and from there came to Montreal on the road along the south side of the St. Lawrence river. From Quebec he came down through New York state.

Arriving at Astoria Toth negotiated a trade for a Marmon car and was to receive $50 on the exchange. This is what led to his capture by the police, it was learned, for he had to swear ownership before a notary public and when the garage man with whom he was to trade noticed the registration certificate was made out in the name of the Luxor company here, he told Toth to come back later because he did not have the money just then. The garage man used the intervening time to telephone to the Luxor people here and when Toth and the girl returned the police were waiting for them. On the registration certificate for the car the name of the Luxor company had been marked out in ink and Toth's name written above it.

Mr. Mooney expects to restore the Whippet to usefulness by putting into it the engine from another automobile which one of his other drivers wrecked.

STORRS CHURCH PASTOR RETURNS FROM EUROPE

Rev. Morris E. Alling, secretary of the Connecticut Federation of Churches and pastor of the Storrs church, has arrived home with Mrs. Alling from a six weeks' trip to Europe made possible by men and women in Connecticut who have been prominent in the building of the new church and community house at Storrs. The Connecticut Federation of Churches and the Storrs church granted him leave of absence.

They spent most of their time in London and Paris with the exception of a trip to Switzerland and a sail down the Rhine.

Rev. Mr. Alling said he crossed the war zone twice and was greatly impressed by the way France and Belgium have rehabilitated those areas. Having had an opportunity to take observations from Cologne and Brussels passing through Liege, one looks in vain for war scars, he said. He was also impressed by the presence of the French soldiers in Mainz and Coblenz. While the newspapers of both Germany and France were full of the pros and cons of the situation, he said the citizens of the Rhine cities appeared to be but little disturbed. Rev. Mr. Alling noted that the Rhine valley from Basle to Cologne is humming with industry.

ZONING MAKES CHANGE IN ACADEMY BUILDING SITE

Zoning regulations have stepped in to make a change necessary for the location where it was intended to erect the new athletic building on the Academy campus. It was found that the zoning rules applying to Joseph Perkins road required a building there to be placed a certain distance from the street line so that the location picked out for the athletic building could not be used.

Accordingly a new site has been picked out, which is on the northwesterly side of the campus in the rear of the residence of Principal H. A. Tirrel and northerly from the Converse art gallery building. This will make a convenient location for the new building, which is to cost about $12,000 and will provide shower and locker facilities for the baseball and football teams and other sports.

The opium, valued at $400,000 but estimated to be worth $1,000,000 at bootleg prices, came from Singapore, customs men said they were told by the prisoner.

The President Harrison cleared for Boston to unload a cargo but may not sail to a foreign port until its owners post $400,000 as a bond, authorities said. This represents the amount of fine which may be imposed, federal men declared, valuing the 15,900 ounces at $25 an ounce.

Try Magnesia For Indigestion

Says Bisurated Magnesia Must Make Stomach Feel Fine in Five Minutes or Money Back.

People who suffer from indigestion usually have tried pepsin, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and got little more than slight temporary relief—sometimes not even that.

But before giving up to Chronic dyspepsia, just try the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate or milk, but pure Bisurated Magnesia which you can obtain from any reliable druggist in either powder or tablet form on the positive guarantee that it must give complete satisfaction or its small cost will be returned to you.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or four tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat. You can enjoy your meals without a fear of indigestion.

CRIPPLED YANKEES BLAST OUT VICTORY OVER CARDS IN OPENER

Waite Hoyt's Mighty Right Arm Holds Redbirds to Three Hits, One a Homer by Bottomley—Ruth, Gehrig and Meusel Fire Barrage That Forces Wee Willie Sherdel to Take Cover—Bengough, Koenig and Maranville Turn in Sparkling Fielding Game—Attendance is Slightly Over 60,000, But Gate Receipts Set a New Mark.

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Oct. 4—(AP)—For a crew of cripples and invalids, there's still quite a kick in the old Yankee boat load.

Opening fire where they left off last year, the world's champion New York Americans, behind the brilliant sharpshooting of Waite Hoyt, shelled the St. Louis Cardinals into submission by a score of 4 to 1 in the opening game of the 1928 world series.

Before a crowd of 61,425 that fell far short of record breaking expectations, Hoyt held the Cardinals to three hits, one of them a home run by Jim Bottomley, while the big guns of the Yankee's man o' war, Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Bob Meusel, fired the shots that routed Willie Sherdel, clever St. Louis southpaw, and the National league champions.

Crippled But Fighting

They may be limping a trifle on the field, these Yankees, while more severely injured mates are on the sidelines, but there is nothing the matter with their batting eyes when hits count. The pitching staff may be shot to pieces but with Hoyt around to do a full day's work, there's at least one mighty right arm left to repel most any boarding party in sight or spike the enemy's guns.

With one of the best world series games he has ever pitched and he has turned in a number of sparkling performances, Hoyt spiked all the Cardinal Big Berthas today with the exception of Bottomley. Sunny Jim's homer into the right center section of the outfield bleachers was a robust blout. In the seventh inning he also punched out a line single in the ninth as a farewell shot, but otherwise the only Cardinal to hit safely was George Washington Harper, who singled in the fifth for the first enemy blow.

One Card Gets to Second

Not a Cardinal foot trod as far as second base, except for Bottomley, as Hoyt turned back every other thrust. The Yankee ace was a trifle wild, especially in the last few innings when he seemed to tire, but he was masterful in such few pinches as he experienced, including the eighth, when the Cards rushed in reserves, but got nothing more than a base on balls for their exertion. Altogether Hoyt faced only 32 batsmen and struck out six, twice fanning the slugging outfielder star, Chief Hafey.

The Yankees, for their part in the skirmish, didn't do much with the southpaw slants of Sherdel. In fact they connected for only four safe blows in the seven innings that Willie toiled on the mound, but they made these pay heavy dividends. Three doubles and a home run comprised the net hitting results off Sherdel, to demonstrate that there were no half way measures about the Yankees attack, which concluded with a short but snappy onslaught upon the right handed offerings of Sylvester Johnson.

Ruth is Brilliant Star

Babe Ruth, favoring a lame left knee, but otherwise sound and healthy, figured in every sortie of the Yankee crew. The Bambino got the attack under way in the first inning with a rousing double to right center, scoring the first run of the series a moment later on Gehrig's two bagger up against the bleacher wall near the right field foul line.

Again, in the fourth, Ruth looped a double to center field and tallied along with Bob Meusel on the latter's home run smash into the right field bleacher section. This was all the damage suffered by Sherdel, who held the Yankees hitless in the five other innings he toiled, but it was sufficient to clinch the game.

Sherdel, replaced by a pinch hitter, yielded the mound to Johnson in the eighth and the Yankees, with two out, put over their final run on successive singles by Koenig, Ruth and Gehrig, who thus divided the day's clean up laurels with Meusel, each drove in two runs.

Subs Get Their Chance

With a lead that loomed continually larger as Hoyt continued to hold the Cards in check, Manager Miller Huggins effected a brace of replacements in the final few innings, designed to strengthen the defense as well as to give one of his cripples, Tony Lazzeri, as much rest as possible. Lazzeri, still bothered by a lame right shoulder and arm, gave way to the more slightly Lev Durocher in the seventh, while Ben Paschal was replaced in center field by Cedric Durst in the ninth. This gave employment for the day to the two men who are taking over the responsibilities of Earle Combs, regular center fielder who probably is out of the series entirely with an injured wrist.

Sparkling Fielding Plays

Crippled, or not, regulars or substitutes, the Yankees put up a stonewall defense behind Hoyt's cool curving. There wasn't a weak link anywhere in the Yankee chain as Benny Bengough, the agile maskman and Mark Koenig turned in plays that sparkled above the rest.

Bengough, in the third races to the edge of the Cardinal dugout to bag Douthit's pop foul while Koenig, in the ninth, made a fine stop of Frisch's sharp hit to deep short and a remarkable throw to nip the Cardinal star at first.

The Cardinals also gave Sherdel splendid support. Rabbit Maranville, the old war horse, playing his first world's series since 1914 when he was a youngster, with the Braves, experienced two extremes. He ran to the edge of the left field boxes in the third inning to spear Hoyt's foul fly with one hand at full speed, for one of the greatest plays of the game. But he messed up Dugan's poke in the seventh for the only error of the game.

Crowd Smaller Than Expected

The size of the crowd in failing short of record proportions was almost as big a surprise as was the dashing, brilliant play of the world champions, who were supposed to be reeling and groggy, ready to go down for a long count with the first solid punch. The advance ballyhoo pictured a jam of some 80,000 based on officially announced figures of 65,250 for the memorable double header between the Yankees and Athletics here nearly a month ago. Even with some vacant space in the corners of the bleachers and upper tier of the grandstand it was figured during the game that close to 75,000 were on hand. The official count of 61,425 therefore was something of a shock to the experts, besides falling below the world's series record of 63,600 made in the stadium in 1926. It cast considerable doubt, in the minds of most observers, as to the accuracy of the 80,000 figure, despite the fact that standing room was sold that day, and recalled the instance of substantial overstatement of attendance figures when the stadium was opened several years ago.

Record Gate Receipts

The gate receipts, however, shattered all previous marks by totaling $224,130 due to the existence of more and higher priced reserved seats. This figure surpassed the mark of $209,865 for a single series game, set in the stadium last year.

SIDELIGHTS ON OPENING GAME

(By Brian Bell, Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(AP)—Thousands of persons within easy ear shot of Umpire "Brick" Owens did not hear him cry "Play Ball" to start the first game of the world series today. They had a reason. The umpire in chief, who does not get his nickname because of the color of his hair but from an offensive weapon in his younger days, never did say "Play Ball."

After chasing the photographers from the field when they had taken a final shot of Commissioner Landis, "Brick" waved his arms and mumbled something that might have been "Let's Go." The players accepted it for that anyway for they spread themselves out over the field and in the vicinity of the plate indicating that it was all right with them to start. It was not a departure from custom. No umpire ever orders play to begin with a definite command. He knows there is no opposition.

Some one must have suggested to "Brick", who doubles on a portable typewriter as a newspaper expert in the off season, that he had not paid his respects to the man who rules both major leagues for he rushed over to the box of Commissioner Landis and shook him warmly by the hand. The game was then started only four minutes late, a good world's series record.

Jimmy Walker, mayor of New York, expected by the more optimistic fans as the first pitcher of the game, arrived in the second inning to toss out the first ball.

Before the mayor made his appearance dozens of balls had been tossed and two hit hard enough to account for a Yankee run.

"Rabbit" Maranville's weather beaten countenance seemed to reflect that it was a long time between turns at bat in a world's series as he waited for the eighth place in the batting order to roll around. When he finally took his place it marked a lapse of 14 years since his last world series effort. He worked the count to three and two, slapped two fouls against the screen and filed to Ruth. He got a chance in the third inning to make the most sensational fielding play of the game when he ran to the boxes back of third base to grab Hoyt's foul with one hand, making a gesture for all the world like a bald-headed man brushing away a fly. Not until the fourth inning did the fans have an opportunity to cheer his own patented and copyrighted style of catching a fly ball. Dugan lifted a fly to short left and Maranville, using his chest for a backstop, literally hugged the ball to his bosom, and then the little fellow kicked a ground ball and finally retired in favor of a pinch hitter.

There was more master minding than usual in a world series game. Custom has decreed that managers in a large measure let nature take its course in the short but important test, but today Manager McKechnie called on his offensive strategy. Manager Huggins introduced defensive emergency measures and Centerfielder Taylor Douthit offered some all of his own.

The Cardinal manager sent Orsatti in to bat for Maranville and replaced Sherdel at bat with Holm, getting a total of one base on balls from the extreme move. With his team well chead and Hoyt breezing along "Hug" rushed Durocher out to play second in place of Lazzeri, whose bad shoulder makes him a liability on double plays and after Ben Paschal had taken his last right handed time at bat, Cedric Durst was sent to patrol center field. As a result of this smart strategy, neither Durocher nor Durst had a chance.

Douthit's individual maneuver was puzzling. He was at bat in the eighth inning with a runner on first and two out. With the count two strikes and a ball, he leaped from the batter's box as Hoyt started his delivery and watched a perfect strike pass through the heart of the plate. He waved his bat, his arm and his body in a protest to the umpires, but Owens did not seem to hear a word he said.

The pitcher's mound at the Yankee stadium was made a meeting place after the game for friends who wished to assemble from different parts of the stand. It seemed to be the baseball equivalent of the information booths at the Grand Central and Pennsylvani stations, long famous as trysting points. Scores of people strolled to the middle of the diamond, waited a few minutes, greeted persons coming from other directions and moved to the outfield exits.

Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, the grand old man of baseball, was detained in his front row box nearly an hour after the game was ever autographing programs. The tall tactician, who just missed having more important duties than signing his name to programs and baseballs this week, was patient and did not leave the field until he had supplied the demand.

HAGEN IS ELIMINATED BY DIEGEL 2 AND 1

By F. G. VOSBURGH
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

FIVE FARMS COURSE, BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 4—(AP)—The jinx is broken. Walter Hagen was beaten by Leo Diegel today in the quarter finals of the National professional golf title tournament and his four-year reign as champion was ended. The score was 2 up and 1 to play.

For the first time since 1923, when Gene Sarazen nosed him out in the final by one up in 2 holes, the great Sir Walter met a man who could match him in competitive spirit and skill in this big pro fixture over which Hagen has exercised patermalistic rule for so long.

Diegel won his victory and a chance at the championship by fighting off one of Hagen's famous rallies and holing out a 14-foot putt for a birdie two on the 35th green. The Haig missed by about three inches in an effort to emulate his rival.

The downfall of Hagen, around whom a tradition of invincibility had been woven because of the regularity with which he has won this title, totally eclipsed in the eyes of the big gallery, the other three semi-final matches in which Gene Sarazen, Al Espinosa and Horton Smith, of Joplin, Mo., emerged victorious.

Sarazen who is to battle Diegel in tomorrow's play won by the convincing margin of 7 and 6 over Fred Dudley, long-driving young husky from Los Angeles. Espinosa's margin was 5 and 4 over Jock Hutchison, veteran ex-champion while Smith, a new comer to national golfing fame, downed Perry Del Vecchio of Greensburg, Pa., another newcomer, by a margin of 2 up.

The best golf of the day was shot by Sarazen, who scored just two over par in the 30 holes he played, finishing the morning round one up. Gene halved the first three holes in the afternoon, then knocked off six holes in a row, clinching the match with halves at the next three.

HOYT HAD TO WORK HARDER THAN SHERDEL

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(AP)—Analysis of the pitching performance for the first world's series battle revealed that Waite Hoyt had to work harder and pitch more balls as the game went along. His shortest inning was the seventh, when he pitched only ten balls, but he had to toss 19 to the Cardinals in each of the eighth and ninth.

The Yankee star shot 132 balls toward the plate altogether in the nine innings as compared with 117 delivered by Sherdel and Johnson for the Cardinals. Sherdel, in seven innings, pitched 99 times while Hoyt, over the same period, hurled 95 balls toward the plate. Sherdel made only 8 pitches in each of the second and third innings after 24 in the first.

Here's the record by innings:

INDIANAPOLIS TAKES FIFTH GAME IN LITTLE SERIES

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 4—(AP)—Indianapolis, pennant-winners in the American association, overwhelmed Rochester, champions of the International league, in the fifth game of the little world series today 12 to 5. The local club has won three of the five games played with one game a tie.

The locals overcame a four-run lead acquired by Rochester in the first inning when it drove Danny Boone from the mound. Dixie Leverette held the visitors after that excepting in the third inning when the Redwings worked one runner around the bags. Jim McCracken, Southpaw Irvin and Smith were ineffective against the Indianapolis batters. The series will be resumed here tomorrow afternoon.

CUBS DOWN SOX IN 14-INNING BATTLE

CHICAGO, Oct. 4—(AP)—The White Sox and Cubs battled for 14 innings today, the Cubs emerging winner 5 to 3 to make it two straight in the series for the city baseball title.

A three-run attack in the fourteenth gave the Cubs the game, after they had knotted the score at two all in the ninth on an error by Art Shires, White Sox rookie first baseman.

Tommy Thomas started and finished the game for the Sox, striking out 13 of the National leaguers.

WORLD'S SERIES RETURNS WILL BE MEGAPHONED

As has been the custom for many years the play by play returns of the world's series will be given to the fans by megaphone at The Bulletin office. The series now being played will be broadcast starting at 1:30 o'clock. A large staff of writers are covering the game and the detail will be more complete than ever.

BOTH CLUBS SATISFIED WITH GAME

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(AP)—For perhaps the first time in the history of world series, the champions of the American and National leagues played a ball game today and both were perfectly satisfied with the way it turned out.

"That was an easy game to lose," Manager Bill McKechnie of the Cardinals announced as his team trotted into the dressing room, silent, but by no means downhearted at the 4 to 1 victory of New York's belting beauties.

"Waite Hoyt pitched a marvelous game. There was nothing we could do about it. He was just in three, and right, and that's all there was to it. Little Lefty Sherdel pitched a great game too, and his own brand of hurling would have won nine out of ten contests. Hoyt deserves to win. Don't think this series is on the chutes. Though, the little fellow who once played ball on the Yankee club warned all within hearing, "the Yanks won the first game of the 1926 series, too, but the Cardinals won the championship. Pete Alexander will be in there tomorrow and there'll be another story."

The American league champions took victory as calmly as though they had been the favorites all along with the pre-series dopesters.

"Looks like the cripples did pretty well," crowed the clouting king of them all, Babe Ruth. "We'll do it some more. Four games is enough for this series."

The Bambino, yanking off his socks in a hurry so as to beat some one to a hot shower, chuckled over the three hits he gathered during the day.

"I was sure due for some," he said. "That first double off Sherdel was a fast ball over the outside corner, the second a nice slow ball inside. I guess that Sherdel is a consin of mine after all."

Miller Huggins, the mighty atom who directs the husky Yanks, seemed more in need of restoratives and violet ray machines than any of the crippled warriors on his staff. Worn and tired, Miller dressed as quickly as he could and got away from the sight and sound of baseball. He said either George Pipgras or Tom Zachary, the veteran southpaw, would pitch tomorrow.

There was a heart ache for Sherdel in the home run Bob Meusel smacked to settle the issue in the fourth inning. The little southpaw was quite disconsolate.

"All day" he said, "I fed Meusel low balls on the outside except just once. My control slipped and I tossed him a curve that broke high on the outside. You saw what he does to that kind of a ball.

"Those Yankees are a troublesome club. They had me in a hole all the time. I never could get ahead of them and take a chance wasting slow balls to get them biting."

Hoyt, when he is needed again in this series, probably will not feed a high fast ball to Jim Bottomley again. The Cardinal first baseman buried a pitch like that so deeply in the right field bleachers for the one St. Louis score that even Hoyt, calm and methodical, as he is, was disturbed.

"I suppose I did pitch a good game," said Hoyt as he scrambled for a shower, "but I did better when I shut out the Giants with two hits in the second game of the 1921 series. But did you see that stop and throw Koenig made on Frankie Frisch in the ninth inning? Greatest play I ever saw.

Once out of the showers, Hoyt lined up his shaving tools for the ceremonial that follows every crucial game he pitches. With the rest of the players jeering good naturedly, he scraped away a 36-hour growth of beard.

"I'm not superstitious," he said half in apology, "my face smarts after shaving. If I didn't wait until after the game, it would take my mind off my work."

DANIELSON, Oct. 4—The stage is set and the actors are ready for the first Armory A. C. boxing show which is to take place at the State Armory here Friday night. Jack Delaney, the "Rapier of the North," has been cast for the leading part and will arrive in Danielson during the afternoon with Commissioner Thomas E. Donahue and Sgt. Sid Mariand, who leave for Bridgeport early tomorrow morning to escort the former light heavyweight champion to the theatre of operations. Delaney will appear in an exhibition act of three rounds with a sparring partner and will furnish the headline turn of the evening.

The big boy will find it difficult to usurp all of the limelight, however, for Stage Manager Frank Barber has assembled a crew of promising boys who should furnish the fans with sufficient action to send them home satisfied. There are to be two six-round and three four-round bouts, bringing together fast boys from Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut. The line-up has been announced as follows:

135-pound class—Frankie Curcio of Providence vs. Eddie Williams of Worcester.

118-pound class—Artie Lergio of Woonsocket vs. Billy Herman of Worcester.

With the bleachers and ringside seats, the state armory will easily seat 1,000 people and a near capacity audience is expected from the interest displayed locally and the inquiries which have been received from other cities and towns. For those who wish to come early there will be orchestra music. The ladies have been especially invited to this first show and every effort will be made to make them comfortable. The show is staged under the auspices of Headquarters Detachment and the Medical Detachment, Special Troops, 43d Division, and the Service Battery, 192d Field Artillery.

STORAGE BARN COMPLETELY DESTROYED BY FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 4—A good-sized storage barn, measuring about 25 by 80 feet, and its contents on the Hipman place, 161 Ash street, owned by Jacob Chus, was destroyed by fire which started about 8:30 o'clock this evening. The blaze was discovered by Mrs. T. Kirshen, who occupies an apartment in the Chus house. A telephone alarm to Engine Co. No. 1, followed by a bell alarm from Box 48, was responded to by the Mack pumper and aerial trucks. The firemen devoted their attention to saving the large cowbarn, some 150 feet from the storage structure. Mr. Chus was away in New York at the time and the loss on the barn and contents could not be fixed although it is believed it will run into several hundred dollars. Included in the contents were about 100 bales of shavings, owned by Samuel Cooper of Windham Grain Co. The shavings retail at 75 cents a bale. The fire also destroyed two buggies owned by Walter Spink of Ash street and a number of farming implements owned by Mr. Chus. A preliminary investigation led to the belief that the fire started from spontaneous combustion from the quantity of millet stored in the quarters by the grain company. The blaze attracted many.

LONDON LAD UNEARTHS TREASURE IN BACKYARD

LONDON (AP)—Nine-year-old Gerald Grimsdell is the envy of every boy in London. He dug up buried treasure in his own backyard, a wealth of coins hidden by some old Roman before the time of Christ.

Gerald, home on holiday from school, thought it would be fun to dig for treasure. Major George Carpenter, his stepfather, did not think much of the idea, but decided that boys will be boys and the hole could be filled when Gerald went back to school, anyway.

Under British law, finds of this kind must be reported to the coroner, who holds an inquest to determine whether the find is "treasure trove." This was done and the coins were turned over to the British treasury. Some will go to the British Museum, but 30 per cent. of the selling value of the coins will be returned to Gerald Grimsdell.

Gerald says that when he grows up he will be an explorer.

FEDERAL AND NEW YORK STATE GOVERNMENT CONTRASTED.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

I do not, at this moment, recall ever having met a man who really enjoyed paying taxes.

Nor can I think of any community, town, city or state a majority of whose people can consistently be depended on to keep taxes down by regularly vetoing tax-bloating expenditures.

This would seem to indicate that the majority of voters don't care enough about the leaks in the cistern to cement them up.

For it is as clear as daylight to any man with a spoonful of brains in his head that public works must be paid for out of taxes levied and collected from the taxpayers.

It is equally clear that the only way to prevent the levying and collection of high taxes is to keep public expenditures limited to actual public necessities. Money that is spent for fads or "improvements" that are not manifestly in the interests of the general public must be got by laying taxes. No government, be it that of a school district or that of a United States has any money to spend except as it first forcibly extorts that money from you and me and our fellow taxpayers.

The only way under heaven to stop high taxes is by stopping needless or wasteful expenditures by the public's agents and servants, i. e., boards and councils and legislatures and congresses—and the contractors or political bosses they are under obligations to.

Yet, of every hundred taxpayers who annually groan over their taxes, can you imagine as many as 51 taking the trouble to oppose, during the course of the year, all or any of the jobs payment for which requires taxes?

Here and there you may find one or two or perhaps half a dozen who, when some public expenditure is proposed, ask to be shown its necessity or general value to the public as a whole, and oppose it till such necessity or value are shown. Nine times out of ten such antis will be hissed or booted down as "back numbers," "old fogies," "tightwads," etc., etc.

They will be denounced as enemies of progress, as stumbling-blocks in the community's way, as hostile to "modern improvements." Their feeble protests will be contemptuously brushed aside and the short-sighted majority will gaily proceed to "make whoopee," utterly regardless of the bills for said "whoopee" which will come in next tax date.

Now we farmers know that the time to get ready for winter with its snows and zero weather is during the heats of summer. We don't sweat and stew over our crops under July suns because we want them right then and there, but because common sense and experience unite in telling us that we must get ready for winter beforehand. We can't wait till the snow flies to make hay; we must make it while the sun shines.

But when it comes to spending the public money, i. e., the collected taxes, we take small interest if any till the swelling tax bills come in. Then we begin to whimper or complain or rave, according to our characters, after it is too late and the water is all spilled.

It happens that two financial statements, lying before me as I write, serve to set forth, in startling contrast, the results of two differing ways of looking at this tax question. First, there is the federal government at Washington, whose executive heads have been, at least since 1921, devoted to the idea of keeping down government expenses to the lowest possible limits, and the consequent reduction of the demands made for taxes.

Since that date, 1921, the U. S. treasury has paid off $6,227,000,000 of the public debt. This alone means a saving in interest of $950,000,000 a year. In addition, four tax reduction acts have cut federal taxes by approximately $3,000,000,000 a year.

This has been done in the face of steadily increasing population and equally increasing popular needs, in spite of ten thousand local appeals for special outlays, in the face of the demands of innumerable Toms, Dicks and "Harrys for jobs and "honest graft."

It is a record which has never before been equalled in the history of the world. And it has been due, primarily, to the sturdy, old-fashioned thrifty economy of a few men fortunately in high and influential office.

President Coolidge's ideas have been set forth many times. They are that government has no money of its own to spend for anything. All it uses it must first collect, by force, if necessary, from the pockets of the people. It has no right to demand and enforce such taxation, except for purposes clearly involving the general welfare. In these ideas he has been ably seconded by the remarkable financial acumen of Secretary Mellon and the eagle-eyed search for chances to save of Budget-director Lord, not to mention others.

Their main purpose has been, during all those seven years, to reduce the burden of debt and ease the scourge of high taxation laid on the peoples' shoulders by the cost of the World war.

Now contrast the above with the figures of New York state since that same year, 1921.

The population of the state has, indeed, been increasing, and its needs comparably growing. But neither have grown faster than the population and needs of the country as a whole. Yet in seven years the total local and state taxation of New York has increased from about $350,000,000 a year to over $800,000,000 a year. In the five years between 1921 and 1926 the per capita tax of the state rose from $49.14 to $62.18, an increase of almost 28 per cent. as compared with an increase of less than 18 per cent. for the other states. As long ago as 1926 the state and local taxes of New York took 7 per cent. of the income of its people. These taxes are shown to bear most heavily upon incorporated business enterprises and upon farmers.

It doesn't need argument to show that the super-taxes imposed on big business enterprises are promptly passed on to the customers who buy the products of such businesses.

For instance, when the taxes on railroads are jumped a quarter or a half, the directors are not even popularly assumed to dig down into their own pockets to make up the balance. Instead, they add enough to freight rates and passenger tariffs to take care of the swollen taxes. Whereupon, equally as a matter of course, the prices of everything they transport are boosted by dealers to recoup the increased transport costs. When you buy five pounds of sugar or a bag of bran or a sack of Minneapolis flour, you're paying a trifle extra to make up to the railroads for the increased taxes they have had to pay, statewise or locally.

Not long ago I happened to overhear part of a back-store argument in which a voter with more apparent lung power than brain capacity was badgeering for some local "improvement" which he had set his heart on. "Of course it will increase taxes," he admitted, "but the railroad pays more'n half the taxes of this town, anyway." The storekeeper, who had to get his supplies over that railroad, and pay freight on them, broke in: "Yes, the railroad'll pay half the extra tax and then it'll raise freight rates again, and you poor saps that can't see an inch beyond your noses will make it all up, eventually, in paying higher prices for the supplies you purchase shipped in."

And in the meantime who's the farmer, who is hardest hit after the incorporated enterprises, going to pass his higher tax on to? The railroads and the other public utilities pass their higher taxes on to their customers, who can't help themselves. But where's the overtaxed farmer going to unload his impost? Who can he compel to pay it for him?

Among the "farm problems" which the wise men both of the east and the west are up against, here's another to tackle.

In addition to its enormously swollen expenditures and its soaring taxes, New York during the last seven years has abandoned its traditional "pay-as-you-go" policy and has gone in, state, county, city, town, for issuing bonds for expenditures even its exorbitant taxes won't meet. That is, it is spending all it can grab and gobble and then mortgaging itself to pay double—in interest bills—for a lot of things it wants but can't raise cash for.

The United States is reducing expenses; New York is increasing them. The United States is lowering taxation; New York is steadily boosting it. The United States is paying off its debt; New York is incurring new debts.

Through some mysterious interposition of a merciful Providence, the federal government has been, for the past seven years, in the hands of economists, anxious to save the peoples' money, while New York has been, most of that time, in the hands of a coterie of natural "spenders," whose only idea of the public treasury is a something to scatter broadcast to any and every wind of popular whim, and to keep filled by resort to onerous taxation or extravagant borrowing.

There is nothing new in these facts I've been summarizing. They are all matters of open record and public knowledge.

Just one comment may be added: So far as known nobody in all the length and breadth of the United States is suffering either loss or deprivation because of the economical, debt-paying, tax-reducing policies of the federal government. At the same time, nobody in the state of New York, outside of certain favored contractors and Tammanyized grafters, is any better off because of the state's reckless extravagance.

DANIELSON

BAPTIST CHURCH HAS VERY ACTIVE WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 4—This is rally week at the Danielson Baptist church, and it is filled with special activities that will come to a close on Sunday with special rally day services. Tonight there was a rally prayer service at the church, and the pastor, Rev. Chester J. Armstrong preached one of a series of sermons on Pilgrims Progress.

For Friday evening a rally week social is planned, and there is to be music, stunts and games.

Rally day services are planned for next Sunday. This event in the church activities will include the introduction to the congregation of the newly formed ladies' choir. The day will be marked by a promotion service. It was stated this afternoon that the communion service on Sunday will be in the evening.

On Tuesday evening the Men's club of the church met at the parsonage and elected John Linberg of Wauregan as president.

Many of the employes of the Assawaga company mill at Dayville gave part of their lunch hour today to listening to a political speech. Near the plant where they are employed they heard Attorney William Citron of Middletown, candidate on the democratic ticket for congressman from the second district of this state tell them something of his party's views on tariff schedules and on that much maligned but perennial subject of prohibition. The rally lasted a matter of twenty minutes, and was a prelude to the larger rally held in Danielson this evening, when Attorney Citron was numbered among the speakers that addressed a gathering in the town hall.

An event for followers of fistic events will be the appearance Friday night at the boxing exhibition at the state armory here of Jack Delaney, former light heavyweight champion of the world. Monsieur Delaney will be a personage of very special interest to the people of towns hereabouts with their heavy percentage of French-speaking people, for Delaney is one of their own. It so happens that Delaney was christened Ovila Chandelaine by his worthy French-Canadian parents, they, it may be assumed, never suspecting that he would one day develop into one of the most brilliant and resourceful battlers the ringed arenas have seen, and win world-wide fame.

Today Miss Ruth Bartlett, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Oliver P. Bartlett of North Main street, Danielson, sailed from New York en route to Porto Rico to do relief work among the victims of the recent hurricane in that section of the world. Miss Bartlett, superintendent of nurses in child health work in Hartford, was called into service for the Porto Rico work by the American Red Cross headquarters at Washington, D. C. In Porto Rico she will be concerned with the alleviation of children who were casualties or otherwise have been injured in health and well being by the extraordinary and destructive storm.

Last evening Miss Marjorie I. Gaffney gave a bridge party at her home on Main street in honor of Mrs. Donald Field of Rochester, N. Y., who with her husband and their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Peugh, also of Rochester, are visiting with relatives here. Miss Dorothy Burton had the high score. Mrs. Muriel Hughes the low score. The bridge party was made up of Mrs. Irma Keech, Mrs. Rachel Atwood, Miss Louise Perkins, Mrs. Helen Peugh, Mrs. Donald Field and Miss Gaffney, Mrs. Muriel Hughes and Miss Dorothy Burton.

FUNERALS

Emil Bourque

This morning the funeral of Emil Bourque was held from the home on the West Side with funeral services at St. James' church at 9 o'clock, Rev Joseph Berger, M. S., was celebrant of the high mass of requiem. At the grave in Holy Cross cemetery the committal service was conducted by Rev. Joseph A. Demers, M. S. The bearers were Alcid Godreau, Valmore Godreau, Armand Bernier, Paul E. Bernier, Lawrence Paquin and Maurice Fournier. Louis E. Kennedy was the funeral director.

Harold E. Horton

Relatives and friends, including delegations from Quinebaug lodge, I. O. O. F., which he had served as an officer and of Leo J. L'Homme post, American legion attended the funeral services for Harold E. Horton at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the home on Prospect street. Rev. Albert Abbott of the Methodist Episcopal church conducted the service, during which Mrs. Abbott sang Safe in The Arms of Jesus, and Sometime We'll Understand. Significant of his overseas service in the World war, Mr. Horton's casket was draped with the United States flag. The funeral was largely attended, among the many who came being members of Rebekah lodge of Danielson. At the grave in Westfield cemetery the Odd Fellows' burial service was conducted by Wardell Shippee and Kenneth Michle, while members of the order formed a circle for this ceremony. The bearers were Dr. F. W. Page, Arnold Battey, Clifford H. Starkweather, Alfred A. Ennis, representing Quinebaug lodge and Lieut. Ira A. Warren and Sergeant Herbert Hopkins representing the American legion post. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements. Mr. Horton was a member of D battery, 55th Coast Artillery and saw service at the second battle of the Marne, on the Vesle and through the entire Meuse-Argonne offensive.

Sidney S. Stone

A large number this afternoon attended the funeral of Sidney S. Stone, chairman of the board of trustees of the Methodist Episcopal church, at the home on Prospect street. The service was conducted by Rev. Albert Abbott of the Methodist Episcopal church and during the service a quartet composed of Rev. Mr. Abbott, Henry A. McEwen, Harold Holehouse and David King sang Rock of Ages and Nearer My God to Thee. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. Bearers were Ralph Shekleton, Frank Shekleton, Arthur Aldrich, Edward Aldrich, Sidney H. Perry and Harold Holehouse. A. F. Wood was the funeral director.

Albert Tedeski, a truckman whose home is in Cranston, R. I., was before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court this morning to answer to a charge that he had driven a truck into this town from Rhode Island with an overload of seven hundred pounds. Mr. Tedeski is performing the service for a local manufacturing concern. It appears that the load would not have been excessive under Rhode Island law, and Mr. Tedeski was under the impression that the same was true here. In view of the circumstances, the court imposed a fine of $5 and costs. The case was presented by State Officer James Carmody.

Friday afternoon of this week at the health station in the town hall building members of the civic federation will hold their first meeting of the fall season. In view of the fact that it is the first meeting since early summer an unusually large attendance is anticipated.

As in other years, baseball fans gathered around radio sets here this afternoon to listen to the broadcast of the opener of the world's series of 1928.

Board of assessors meet Saturday, 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.—adv.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Gorman and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wood are on a motor trip that will take them through the White mountains and as far north as Montreal.

Good progress is being made on the construction of the new highway bridge being put in opposite the mill of the Assawaga company at Dayville.

Members of D. A. R. chapters in this corner of the state will be in Greenwich Friday as guests of Putnam Hill chapter for the 35th state meeting to be held at the Second Congregational church, Putnam avenue.

There are indications as the date approaches of a large attendance, given favorable weather, at the pilgrimage of patriotic societies to the General Lyon homestead in Eastford next Sunday.

Out of Eastford comes the announcement that Henry Ford has purchased the old Bullard drug store building at Phoenixville, and his men are to carefully take it apart for reerection later at his colonial village near Dearborn. It is understood that the building was constructed more than 200 years ago.

Trucks and men are getting on the job as early as 6 in the morning out on the Providence highway where the road building operation is being pushed with great energy. The forecast is that the work will be complete through to North Main street in November.

Mr. and Mrs. Deloss Wood of Norway, Me., are visiting for a few weeks at their old home in North Sterling near the Line store.

In various Windham county towns caucuses are scheduled for next Wednesday to name candidates for representatives, justices of the peace and probate judgeships. Killingly is one of these towns.

As far as could be ascertained today, there will be no member of the Colonel W. H. Hamilton post, Spanish War Veterans, of Danielson, attending the annual convention of the organization to open in Havana, Cuba, within a few days.

As was done in Danielson, repairs have been made by the New Haven railroad to its Main street crossing in Dayville.

PUTNAM

YALE UNIVERSITY COURSE TO START NEXT TUESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 4—The first meeting of the Yale university extension course will be held on next Tuesday at four o'clock at the Putnam high school. The course will be given by Dr. Alfred D. Mueller of Worcester state normal school and will be entitled "Psychological Principles of Teaching". It may be taken for credit or not as the individual teacher prefers. Fifteen meetings will be held, one each Tuesday, from four to six. A credit of thirty hours will be given to each teacher who takes the course toward a college degree. Thirty hours is equal to about one-half years work in one subject.

There have been several close escapes from accidents where school children have nearly been hit by automobiles while riding their bicycles in the road in front of the Israel Putnam school. Because of these near accidents the children have been requested not to ride their bicycles up and down the streets before school and at noon time.

The evening classes in the evening school opened Monday. There was a larger enrollment than usual in the different classes. The enrollment in the Americanization class was 14 but that in the commercial department was 36 making a total of 50 pupils. These classes are held in the high school. The trade school also runs a night school in their own building. The trade has an enrollment of 176. The trade school gives instruction in carpentry, masonry, machinery, drafting, textile, electrical and home economics. The schedule is so arranged that the people who take the building trades can spend one evening in the drafting department. The textile department, which has so small an enrollment that they have been forced to drop it from the daytime schedule, has a very large enrollment in the evening class.

William C. Aldrich who has always had a tendency to ramble all over the country has been heard from San Diego, Cal. He left Putnam last May in the company of another boy and in his letter he tells of his adventures in crossing the country. He rode as far as Topeka, Kan., on the train then shipped his baggage to California and started hitch hiking the rest of the way. He says that they rode in everything from a Packard to the rods of a freight train. About two years ago Aldrich in the company of Emil Brenick, another Putnam boy, started across the continent in an old Ford but due to an accident in Illinois, in which Aldrich was quite seriously hurt they were forced to come back.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gagne and William Brunelle left yesterday for New York to witness the first two games of the world's series. Another party who left yesterday for the world series was Amedie Dugas, who went with his brother from Taftville.

J. F. Nicholson, who has been in a W. T. Grant store in Middleboro came to Putnam to take the place of John J. Rogers, who has been assistant manager in the Putnam store but has gone to manage a store in Carlisle, Pa.

Yesterday seemed to be girls' day at the Day Kimball hospital as there were two births there and both of them girls. The first was a daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Camille Magnant, of Putnam. The second was a daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Trelap of Phoenixville.

Asa T. Ross of Putnam and Thompson who was elected a presidential elector at the democratic state convention has sent his resignation to the central committee. Under a ruling issued by the federal department, employes and directors of national banks can not serve as electors. This bans Mr. Ross from serving as he is a director of the Citizens' National bank. A meeting is being held in New Haven today to fill the vacancy and it is expected that Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch will be chosen.

Henry L. Converse, commander of the A. Wilder Merriam post, United Spanish War Veterans, and John D. Mayo of this city leave tomorrow for Havana, Cuba, where the national convention of the order will be held.

The engagement of Jeremiah Olney Brott of Thompson and Miss Julia Floyd Parke has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Parke the parents of the bride to be. She is a direct descendant of William Floyd, a signer of the declaration of independence.

Mr. Brott is the son of Mrs. Olney Brott of Thompson, and the late George Olney Brott who was a member of the Hartford law firm Brott and Stoner. Mr. Brott is a graduate of Yale '20 and is now a member of the Yale law school but he will complete the course in February.

George H. Cohen, assistant United States district attorney, has been added to the list of speakers who will be at the republican banquet in the Putnam inn next Tuesday night. In addition to Mr. Cohen other men have been engaged to speak. Among them is State Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett. The committee in charge of the banquet is Miss Anna Leavitt, Miss Bertha Plessis, Mrs. Genevieve Letters, Mrs. Walter Rich and Mrs. Joseph Dupre.

The Putnam high football team held their last practice today before their game Saturday with Northbridge high of Whitinsville. This will be their second game of the year having defeated Windham high last Saturday.

Mrs Saretski did not run on an independent ticket for the town school committee as was announced in this column earlier in the week.

JEWETT CITY

AILMENT AFFECTING HORSES IS DUE TO WET SEASON

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 4—The epidemic which has killed horses in this party of the state has taken two, at least, in Griswold. William R. Palmer and Sterry Kinnie have lost one each, and Ernest Luther had a horse very sick. Dr. F. D. Coles states that the trouble is caused by a fungus growth on the grass brought about by so much damp weather.

The Methodist Men's class is to be entertained tonight (Friday) at the home of Rev. J. G. Adams in Norwich. The members are to meet at the church at 7 o'clock to make the trip.

The Red Cross room in the town building is to be open this (Friday) and Saturday afternoons to receive clothing to be sent to Porto Rico.

November 5, 1924, Griswold's vote was all republican, and was the largest in the town's history. The Bulletin files show the following totals:

President Coolidge, r, 527; Davis, d, 466; LaFollette, p, 99. Governor Bingham, r, 527; Morris, d, 491. Rep. Freeman, r, 531; Fenton, d, 486. Judge of probate, Ayling, r and d, 928. Representative, G. H. Jennings, r, 541; R. J. Dudkowski, d, 510.

The annual rally day and harvest festival of the Methodist church is planned for Sunday next. At 10:45 a. m. the pastor, Rev. J. W. Carter will preach and special music will be given. At noon the Sunday school will meet in open session for a special program by the young people. R. W. Robertson will preside as superintendent of the school. At seven in the evening the preacher will be Rev. Myron E. Genter, of Norwich, superintendent of the Norwich district area. The church will be decorated with fruit, flowers and vegetables. Gifts for this will be received by the committee after six o'clock Saturday night. All friends and pupils—new and old—are being invited to attend. A social hour will be enjoyed Monday night. Chorister Irving M. Thornton will have charge of the music and Everett Thornton will be organist.

Mrs. James B. Palmer Jr., and Mrs. William Phillips were leaders again this year with the first fringed gentians. Both flower lovers are acquainted with a few of the remaining spots in Lisbon where this beautiful flower is in bloom. One stalk, found by Mrs. Phillips bore 34 perfect blooms.

Between the world series and politics, and a 78 degree temperature all the afternoon Thursday these "diggins" warmed considerably. About all the 300 radio sets in the borough were tuned in on the Yankee stadium. Many of the small commercial motors shut off during the game, thus eliminating the interference that renders radio reception impossible. All local radio set owners have their hats off to Dr. F. D. Browning. His steady business demands the almost constant use of a small motor. He has fitted it recently with a permanent attachment which effectively does away with radio interference.

Miss M. A. Burdick of the East Main street highlands, has a rambler rose in bloom for the third time since early June.

The Elms greenhouses of F. C. Whiting were picking last week the most beautiful roses of the season, from their 150 out-of-doors bushes. Some of the leaders are Butterfly, Briscliffe, White Killarney and E. J. Clarke.

The main greenhouses have been enlarged this summer to twice their original size and fitted with new boilers. The Whiting showing of dahlias and gladioli this summer were by far the most attractive in this section of the town. There were over 10,000 glads and 1,000 dahlias with 163 standard varieties. The Elms won a dozen prizes from their out side flowers, dahlias principally, at Pachaug Grange fair.

Miss Anna St. John, R. N., of Springfield is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund St. John in Voluntown.

Mrs. Mary Sarle, of Holyoke, has been spending a few days with Mrs. Ella Geer.

NORWICH PARTY MADE CALIFORNIA IN TWELVE DAYS ON MOTOR TRIP

George W. Meyer of Blissville, Lisbon, a member of The Bulletin editorial staff who left the city on Sunday, September 16, on a motor trip to California, gives an interesting slimpse of the pleasures enjoyed and difficulties encountered on the trip in a letter to Norwich friends sent from Vallejo, Ca. Besides Mr. Meyer the party consists of James F. Wicks, Sr., of Providence, Edwin Abel and William C. Kendall of this city in whose car they are traveling.

Mr. Meyer writes from Vallejo on Thursday, Sept. 28, as follows: We arrived safely Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock (P. C. T.) at Vallejo, Cal., our destination, three miles from Mare Island navy yard. We covered exactly 4,263 miles in the 12 days, an average of 355 miles per day. We went by the way of the Lincoln highway as far as Salt Lake City, where we visited the Mormon (Latter Day Saints) grounds. Here we met one of the original settlers and had a long talk with him (he came to Salt Lake City in 1848).

We were at Salt Lake City on Saturday (the seventh day of our trip) and we could have made Vallejo in three days more easily, but decided to go to Portland, Oregon, by way of the Columbian highway. This was a very picuresque drive and was only exceeded by the drive down the coast route through big redwoods in the mountains. This coast road has a million hairpin curves and that's not exaggerating. It took just two days of steady driving to go over this road.

In the 12 days we had 14 hours lost time due to motor trouble and flat tires, but we were favored with good roads practically all the way with the exception of Utah and Wyoming. The highways in these two states are worse than any country road in Connecticut, with no exceptions.

In Utah, on the advice of an Ogden garage man, we took a short cut to the main road, which took us through a desert. There are at least 15 different roads in this desert that one can take, but they are all alike. These roads are about ten feet apart and parallel to the original highway. All of them contains hundreds of chuck holes, alkali dust and what not. On one stretch it required two hours to cover five miles. One minute we were in the main highway, the next in the mesquite and sagebush off the road, and then back on the main road. Off again onto another road which appeared to be better but was just as bad, through washouts, ditches, sand, chuck holes. Oh, what a ride. I shall never forget it.

After we left the desert the roads were wonderful along the Columbian highway and down the coast route, and we made better time. In a few years the roads in Wyoming and Utah are to be improved, making it a cinch to cross the continent. We found out at Vallejo that the road over the Nevada desert from Salt Lake City to Reno was pretty good, but all one can see is sand, and I can see that at Ocean Beach.

We expect to go to Calistoga, Cal., to see the petrified forests and spouting geysers.

Politics is the word out here. Nothing but Hoover. Very few Smith backers. No doubt but what Hoover will carry the west, especially in the farming districts and small towns.

APPOINTED TO BE HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT

Miss Ruth T. Russell of Woodsville, N. H., has been selected as home demonstration agent of the New London county farm bureau to fill the position left vacant by Miss Belle H. J. Robynson.

Miss Russell is a graduate of Framingham normal school, Framingham, Mass., in the class of 1923. Her first position after leaving this school was teacher of home economics in the high school at Ayer, Mass. The following year she accepted the position of home demonstration agent in the Grafton county farm bureau located at Woodsville, N. H., and has remained there since.

Miss Russell is a native of Townsend, Mass., having spent her early life there on a farm. She comes to New London county well qualified to carry on the home economics program as the program she has been leading in Grafton county is very much similar to that carried on in this state.

She will take up the duties of her new position on December 1st.

GOSHEN

A good delegation from the C. E. society attended the union service at the Baptist church, Lebanon, Sunday evening.

On account of the rain there was a small attendance at the morning church service.

Mrs. Charles Hinckley entertained the Ladies' Aid society Thursday. Plans were perfected for the coming sale.

A large number attended the county fair in Norwich. The local farm bureau group had quite a display at the fair, comprising several house dresses, a child's hat and remodeled suit, a medicine cabinet made from an old fashioned clock case, an apron and an ensemble suit.

Miss Dorothy McColl entertained a tea party Saturday afternoon. Among those present were Miss Dorothy Davies, Mrs. Clarence Thomas, Miss Annie Mitchell and Miss Sophie Gorski.

Mrs. Mary E. Stark of Lebanon is visiting at the home of her cousins at Maple Hill farm.

The continued frosts of the past week have reached most points in this place, but corn was mostly cut and other things were well out of the way.

"Chesterfield—that's it!"

Mild enough for anybody... and yet THEY SATISFY*

"THINK what that means: "Mild enough for anybody . . . and yet they satisfy!"

Mild—yes. But something more—a quality of leaf, a skill of blending, that brings out the natural taste and goodness of the tobaccos themselves.

Tobacco goodness, and without over-sweetening; mildness with character—that's the Chesterfield difference.

And it's the most important difference any cigarette could offer!

TITCOMB REQUESTS HUNTERS TO CEASE GROUSE SHOOTING THIS YEAR

According to John W. Titcomb, state superintendent of fisheries and game, the sportsmen of Connecticut are confronted this fall with a very serious situation in regard to the grouse. During 1923 the birds were abnormally abundant, not only in Connecticut, but throughout almost all of the territory inhabited by grouse. This abnormal situation was the subject of remark by the U. S. bureau of biological survey. In Connecticut during the open season of 1923 birds to the number of 27,605 were reported by 12 per cent of the hunters. In 1924, 67 per cent of the hunters reported the killing of 14,651 grouse. In 1925, notwithstanding the ravages of the grouse disease, 68 per cent of the hunters reported the killing of grouse, to the number of 21,826. In 1926, 68.7 per cent of the hunters reported killing birds to the number of 24,154. We have, then, reports from a certain percentage of the hunters that 60,631 birds were killed during the years 1924, 1925 and 1926 in spite of the havoc wrought by disease. It is anybody's guess as to the number of birds killed by sportsmen who have not reported their kill. In addition to the licensed hunters who have not reported there must be included the men and youths who hunt on their own farms without a license and who, for that reason, cannot be called upon to furnish a statement of their kill.

The falling off in the number reported for 1924 is in part explained by the fact that owing to the governor's fire proclamation there were only 22 days of open season, but it is also partly attributable to the fact that the mortality from disease was apparently at its height just preceding the 1924 open season. Figures of the kill during the fall of 1927 will not be available until the hunters have renewed their licenses for 1928.

The state board of fisheries and game makes no assertion that the hunters are responsible for the decimation of the grouse. It is a periodic disease which attacks them, but attention is called to the fact that during the period under investigation the survivors were far fewer in number than in previous periods of decimation. It is believed that, if an adequate breed stock is left the birds may come back within a very short time, but, under existing conditions, every bird killed lessens the likelihood of restoring the numbers to normal. The situation is so serious that states with laws which provide that the hunting season may be closed by proclamation are taking advantage of that authority. New Hampshire, Massachusetts and New York, our immediate neighbors, have taken steps to provide a close season for grouse this fall. The state board of fisheries and game appeals to all sportsmen of this state to establish voluntarily a close season for grouse by refraining from hunting them this fall, and further calls on them to urge visitors from other states to cooperate in conserving the limited breeding stock which has survived the epidemic.

If the sportsmen refrain from grouse shooting the question arises, what shall they hunt this fall?

The department of agriculture, through the bureau of biological survey, has issued an edict shortening the open season on woodcock and the federal law takes precedence over state law in that respect. This shortening of the season on woodcock, while they appear to be plentiful in our immediate vicinity and perhaps throughout the New England states, is based upon information obtained by the biological survey from inquiries and investigations which indicate that, taking its range as a whole, the woodcock as a species is decreasing in numbers.

The board is morally obligated to enforce the regulations of the federal migratory bird law and will endeavor to do so. It is, therefore, important to give publicity to the fact that the open season on woodcock this year, instead of conforming with the state law which permits killing woodcock from October 8th to November 23rd, will be from October 20th to November 19th inclusive.

It is hoped that this year the pheasant will provide a good buffer for the activities of the hunters who would naturally prefer to shoot grouse and have a longer season on woodcock. The board distributed during July and August, in greater numbers than ever before, ten weeks old pheasants, all strong flying birds, which should be fully mature before the opening of the season on October 8th. As this has been a very favorable breeding season for pheasants, despite the continued rains throughout June, it is hoped that the hunters will have a very good pheasant season.

NOANK

"Boat "Sloo' Again," Capt. Robin Rathbun at the wheel, was 60 miles outside Block Island after mackerel. She had good luck and three fishermen were in the dory with about 25 barrels of fish in the net when a shark came along and with a quick grab tore a hole in the net, letting 2 barrels of mackerel swim away, so he could have some of them for his dinner. Peter Domore got excited at seeing the shark, the first one he ever saw, being a new man at the fishing game. Peter jumped overboard. He could not swim, but his pals fished him out of the water before the shark got a look at him, bringing Domore to, after a few minutes. He said "Sharks are like second-story men, ready to take anything away with them but the boat." Captain Rathbun came to the Town dock with 30 barrels of fish to ship to New York, saying, "That shark cost me a $150 net! I've got to buy a new net from Boston."

Harry Douglas is a fan who has followed baseball since he was 17 and has not missed a world series in 24 years. Wednesday night, with his black grip he left by steamer Chapin from New London to New York to see the Yankees and Cardinals battle for the first game of the world series. Harry is a strong rooter for St. Louis. He knew Hafey, the fast outfielder of the Cardinals. Hafey came to the village about two years ago, in November, and went out fishing with Captain Douglas, who has a boat. So now Douglas doesn't have to worry for a seat for Outfielder Hafey has them all ready for the Noank fan. He also will stay at the same hotel with his friend Hafey. This is the only vacation Mr. Douglas gets each year.

The water tank is all painted; the color is green. The work was done by the Chesebro Iron Works painters. Filling up the tank was done by Engineer Alfred Balestrine, to see if it leaked and to try it out. The test proved it all right. Then the painters signed off with Rossie Velvet Co., meaning that the job is C. K. It took eight days to paint the tank. The men were packing up their stuff when orders came by telephone, telling them to go to Millis, Mass.

R. Donath is spending a few days with New York relatives.

Fishing boat Mary C., from New Bedford, had a Noank fellow at the wheel, Capt. Fred Morgan, came from Newport shores Wednesday afternoon and tied up at the North dock with a catch of 64 barrels of mackerel. All were glad to see Captain Morgan on his first visit in the village in three years. Captain Morgan called on his mother, Mrs. Susan Morgan, on Pearl street, who is always glad to see her son. Putting on supplies, including gasoline, they left for the fishing grounds again early the next morning.

NORWICH PASTOR'S SERMON HITS THE PRESENT MATERIALISTIC AGE

Before his congregation at Park Congregational church, Rev. Dr. S. H. Howe discussed in his sermon the present age, which is said to have materialism as its predominant trend. The pastor spoke from the text "Love not the world nor the things of the world." 1 John 2.15. He said in part:

Church history is sometimes reckoned in an epoch. Christianity has confronted a succession of these epochal conditions.

Jesus appeared in an age of ethical obsession. Roman society was debauched with pagan vices, which, as Tacitus tells us, had corrupted palaces and novels, which was well nigh universal and unprotested, until the foundations of civilization were trembling on the threshold of moral collapse. At his coming a new stream of life was set aflow for its recovery. A second epoch, inaugurated by the corruption of faith through the heresies of which threatened its own life, was arrested by the council of Nice in the fourth century, which promulgated a creed that steadied the faith for the next thousand years, even to the present time. A third epoch was the age of the Renaissance when culture and art attempted the impossible task of moral recovery issuing in inglorious failure, when the Reformation brought back the original faith of primitive Christianity. Another ethical debauch appeared in the seventeenth century, under the corruption of society in England, when the Puritan austerities found for English society the recovery which has persisted to the present day.

And now we are told that a new epoch confronts us in the form of a materialism, which seems at this day the outstanding menace, and the question has arisen has Jesus Christ any thing to say to our materialistic age? Does Christianity have a vital message for us? Writers in magazines are exploiting their contentions pro and con, but it is well to seek and find worthy answers to the question What Jesus Christ has to say to this age, which seems to have lowered its ethical standards and ideals. What has He to say when "things are in the saddle" and rule spiritual verities?

We contend that Jesus has much to say to an age where wealth and pleasures and worldly success seem to be so many the only things worth while. Can a life be worthily lived by other than material adjuncts?

Our first answer would be the example of Jesus Christ himself. He lived and wrought out the world's greatest success without the materialistic furnishings. He was offered the world in planetary installments. He was offered all the world's kingdoms and he dashed them under His feet. He asked of the world only a manger and a cross. Emerson, when told that the world was coming to an end, said "no matter, we can get on without it." But Jesus said that before Emerson. The greatest career, the greatest life success was achieved without demand upon a materialistic support. He had no [illegible] sceptre in his hands, no palaces, no ships on the sea, no chariots of gold, no fleet outriders to blow the trumpets of his approach. His dined on no dishes of gold, sat in none of the seats of the mighty, had no armies, sent forth no fleets of conquests and yet he has filled the world with his name and holds the loyalty and love of unnumbered millions.

Surely a man's life consisteth not in the things he possesseth. He taught by his outstanding example that materialistic adjuncts are unnecessary to the career of an immortal soul.

Then there is the trend of all his teaching. Man does not live by bread alone. Man is too big for his material environment. He may be a starving in his ivory palaces. He may sit at his banquet in fine linen, with a hundred servitors to wait on him, and yet be a starveling in rags. He needs the pedestals to lift him. His wife consisteth in other than things."

Jesus taught the inherent and essential worth of the possible man. Man is the crown of creation in his own right, too valuable to be put at the bottom line of these falacious, materialistic values. Are ye not better than the flower, or the birds of the air, or these flocks on a thousand hills? He is the only creature too great for his environment. There is happiness and contentment everywhere until you reach man in the scale of being. The flower has room for growth and perfection. The birds sing in raptures in copse and woodland. The lark does not even know the plowman stops in his furrow to listen to its ecstasy of song. But man alone is discontented. Only God can satisfy a human spirit. God is his only worthy environment; as the mountains are round about Jerusalem so must the soul have the mountainous country to satisfy him, and God alone is his alpine environment. What is man profited if he gain the whole world and yet miss his true city and native homeland which is God.

Then our Lord teaches the evanescence of the materialistic provision. A man's prosperities may be attained. His barns may overflow till he demolishes and builds greater, but the withering decree goes forth. Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee. What are we profited when the black camel kneels for its rider and demands the final departure. We are immortal and the whole materialistic world will be left when we go. When we have sought and found the earthly prize we may miss the only kingdom where citizenship is lasting or suffering.

And so parable follows parable in warning and condemnation. Dives may banquet and surfeit with bravery at his door. But the great gulf may reverse the condition between self indulgence and beggary. The beggar may be in Abraham's bosom and the reveler may be the beggar for the drop of water.

So we could traverse the whole wide circle of Christ's words and experience, finding at every step the withering condemnation of a materialistic age which is illusioned with the spirit of a materialized creed, that is placing things, possessions, pleasures and physical thrills above the safe ethical standards and ideals which help us to forget that our supreme business is to seek the kingdom of God, where all that is best and enduring is added.

PRINTER TELEGRAPH FOR COAST GUARD SERVICE

According to an announcement from Coast Guard headquarters at Washington, a printer telegraph equipment is to be installed on the Coast Guard line from New London to Block Island. It will probably be completed in October.

The installation will be made by C. E. M. Westmoreland, section supervisor at Narragansett, R. I. If the use of printer equipment proves successful on Coast Guard circuits, similar equipment will doubtlessly be installed in the future at other points.

As the New London-Block Island circuit includes more than eleven miles of submarine cable in addition to a long land wire, it forms a typical example of Coast Guard circuits, and the operating and maintenance problems that arise will be watched with interest.

ROAD SHOULDERS CLEARED TO AID FIRE PREVENTION

Instructions have been issued by the Connecticut highway department to all division superintendents to give special attention to the clearing of dead leaves and dried underbrush from the shoulders of state highways bordering along woodlands in order to prevent possible outbreak of forest fires from that source, according to an announcement made by Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald.

Commissioner Macdonald also issued a request to property owners near forests or thickly wooded spots to refrain from building bonfires of leaves and debris on the shoulders of the highways and to guard such fires carefully when built on private property. Bonfires should be avoided on days when high winds are blowing and should never be left unwatched.

Throughout the summer months highway maintenance men have carefully cleared the brush from the shoulders of the state roads and have treated and oiled the shoulders to harden them and prevent further growths on the shoulders. With the advent of fall, however, a new fire hazard develops in the falling leaves and small twigs that are blown from the trees. The fallen leaves and twigs usually find a resting place along the shoulders and make readily ignited tinder when a spark falls among them.

Since it is almost impossible to keep the highway shoulders continuously free from dried leaves and twigs, however, Commissioner Macdonald is requesting motorists to be very cautious about dropping lighted cigars and cigarets from their automobiles. The latter are especially dangerous since they continue to glow several minutes after being discarded. A lighted cigarette flicked from a passing automobile into the dried leaves and brush along the highways may be the cause of a large forest fire which will ruin hundreds of acres of valuable woodland.

Connecticut has had an enviable record in the reduction of forest fires during the past few years, and the efforts of the highway department in keeping the shoulders of the roads bordering on the woodlands free from debris, dead brush and fallen leaves has played no little part in bringing about the reduction. It has been several years since a forest fire in Connecticut has had its inauguration upon the shoulders of a state highway.

GENERAL AND MRS. SHERRILL HOSTS TO YALE GLEE CLUB

Interesting to Yale alumni in Norwich is the account in the last issue of Yale Alumni Weekly of the manner in which the 37 members of Yale University Glee club were entertained while in Europe. The picture was taken before the dinner in the evening, the other women members of the group being Her Highness Princess Viaxo, of Denmark who was visiting in Paris at the time, Princess Cantacuzene, granddaughter of President U. Burgess Bedtime Story

Reddy Fox Is Most Polite

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Politeness may not always pay,
But loses nothing anyway.
—Reddy Fox.

It was true. Reddy Fox was coming straight toward the carrot patch where Johnny Chuck, Jerry Muskrat and Mrs. Jerry were feasting on carrots. What to do? That was the question in the minds of all three. Johnny Chuck was not so much afraid as Jerry Muskrat and Mrs. Muskrat. You see, Johnny is a very good fighter, and he knew this. He is big and strong. Once he would have been a very badly scared Chuck, but now he wasn't much scared.

But with Jerry and Mrs. Muskrat it was a very different matter. Reddy Fox was quite capable of killing either of them, and they knew it. Mrs. Muskrat moved over to beside Jerry and Johnny Chuck moved over beside the two. Then the three faced Reddy Fox.

Now Reddy hadn't seen anyone but Johnny Chuck until he was almost over to them. He stopped short when he discovered the three. Such a surprised look as there was on his face! "Ha, good morning, neighbors!" said he in his most polite manner. "That was a heavy rain, wasn't it?"

Nobody said anything. Reddy took two or three steps nearer and Johnny

"Ha! Good morning, neighbors," said he in his most polite manner

Chuck and Jerry and Mrs. Muskrat drew a little closer together. Then all three lifted their upper lips and showed what fine sharp teeth they possessed. Reddy sat down and grinned in what he believed was a very pleasant way. "I've often wished I liked carrots," said he. "Don't let me disturb you at your breakfast. I really don't care for them myself but perhaps you won't mind if I just watch you while you eat. How is Polly Chuck, Johnny?"

Johnny Chuck said nothing and Reddy grinned more broadly than ever. But all the time there was a hungry look in those eyes of his and Johnny Chuck saw it and so did Jerry Muskrat. They knew that beneath the politeness of Reddy Fox was the desire to catch one of them. So they continued to show their teeth and say nothing.

Now all this time Reddy Fox was saying to himself, "If Johnny Chuck wasn't there I would have one of those Muskrats. Yes, sir, I would so! I'm surprised to find them away up here. They must have been driven out by the water. I wish Mrs. Reddy were here. If she were here we'd soon break up that little party. I must think of some way of getting them separated. That's what I must do—get them separated. But I mustn't let them suspect. I must continue to be polite."

Aloud, Reddy said: "Well, I see you folks are a little disturbed, so I'll be moving along. I just wanted to make a neighborly call, but if it is going to disturb you, I won't think of staying."

It was then that Johnny Chuck spoke. "Don't let us hurry you, Reddy," said he. "It is too bad that you don't like carrots. But as there is nothing else here to eat, I suppose you will want to go along and get your breakfast." He grinned maliciously as he said this.

Reddy Fox gritted his teeth, but he didn't let them hear him. He knew that Johnny Chuck knew that his politeness was all put on. He knew that Johnny Chuck wasn't fooled a bit. It made him angry, but he couldn't afford to show his anger. So he arose in a leisurely manner, said goodby in the pleasantest way possible, hoped they would enjoy their breakfast and started off toward the cornfield that adjoined the carrot patch. Instead of disappearing in the cornfield he walked along the edge of it until he reached the corner of it. Then he turned the corner and there was out of sight.

"I hope they'll think I've really gone," he said to himself, and swiftly disappeared among the cornstalks. He was working his way back out of sight to a point where he could watch Johnny and Jerry and Mrs. Muskrat.

"Rinso washes my clothes white with just about half the work!

"Why, when I take them out of the washer everything is so spotless that there's not a bit of hard work for me to do.

"And it's so safe! The clothes don't fray nearly so quickly now—there's so little rubbing.

"Rinso is great for dishwashing and all kinds of cleaning. It makes such thick, cleansing suds that the work is done in almost no time. It saves me from keeping my hands in hot water, too."

STOECKEL BEGINS CAMPAIGN FOR SAFER TRAFFIC CONDITIONS

Robbins B. Stoeckel, state commissioner of motor vehicles, in a general letter to the newspapers of the state, calls attention to what he considers the increasing danger in traffic conditions in the state and asks that public sentiment may be aroused to the necessity for betterment in this condition.

Commissioner Stoeckel says;

All motor vehicle accident are caused by failure on the part of some traffice participant to meet an emergency. So where conditions exist which make more emergencies than formerly it is to be expected that accidents will increase both in number and in severity.

It is an established principle of motor vehicle accident causation that the worst accidents happen in what we call fast congested traffic, as distinguished from slow or mass traffic. The worst accidents in a city for example, will be found on the comparatively fast streets which present a safe appearance and where the speed of vehicle is beyond control for any emergency which arises. This is only a fact when there are enough vehicles and pedestrians moving to occasion hazards which bring about an accident. It is my theory that Connecticut as a whole has now arrived at the "in-between point" where traffic no longer is spread out enough to be of a non-dangerous nature, nor — it yet massed enough to be less dangerous for that reason. In short there is more traffic of the dangerous type in Connecticut than there has been.

The constant rainy weather makes for slippery conditions, intensified on newly oiled roads and new construction. The moisture has caused extraordinary growth of hedges, bushes and trees, and there are many intersections, especially in cities, where this growth interferes with the sight lines of operators.

There are more cars than ever before on highways. The increase in Connecticut is about 7 per cent today over last year, not counting foreign cars. Every new car creates a multiplicity of traffic hazards. Consequently there are a greater number of operators, and the percentage of those incompetent to meet emergencies is greater.

The prosperous condition of the country has sent out more motorists and vacationists by many thousands than here heretofore been the case. A great many persons who never have taken definite vacations before are enabled this year to go upon the highways in cars. Each such brings to Connecticut his own home state conception of what constitutes proper motor vehicle driving and in many cases this conception is different from that of the Connecticut trained operator.

Increased business being done throughout the state and in the adjoining states has brought largely increased truck traffic on the highways. A large percentage of this is slow, holding up lines and making emergencies.

Suggestions for Betterment.

Now, with this resume before you, assuming you have had patience to read so far, I arrive at what I think may be suggested for betterment. The outstanding features which can help at once seem to me to be:

To take up carefully and systematically the clearing of all sight lines so far as possible and post the dangerous places. It may seem that I am placing undue emphasis on this point. I am sure I can prove by my office records as to any corner where an imperfect sight line is found that one or more accidents have happened there which would not have happened if the sight line had been open. This is why my recent bulletin—enclosed—touched that. The newspaper publicity on this bulletin emphasized the sticker and took the sight line proposition on locations for granted, and such locations are not being corrected by those whose duty it is to correct them. City management all over the state should be induced to make complete traffic surveys covering every intersection with a written recommendation so that the responsibility for the proper maintenance of the sight line at that intersection may be pinned onto some individual. It is quite true that in almost every instance the obstruction is on private property, but any city official who asks an individual to trim a hedge, usually receives pleasant acquiescence. Many removable view obstructions can be readily counted.

It is time that we begin to recognize that the parking of cars on public streets especially on both sides, makes great peril for those who have to pass through. Such instances are to be found all over the state. Very little progress is being made toward establishing garage and parking places—municipal or otherwise—where a person may at moderate cost, leave his car indefinitely. It seems that if the attention of business were sharply drawn to the need for this particular venture, more places of the kind would be provided. If this can be done the police will be greatly encouraged to enforce more restrictive parking regulations on streets because there is a place to send the cars.

Perhaps most important of anything, is the necessity of a much greater patrol force on the highways of the state. Time and again those closest to the problem have been before the general assembly with a program for 250 traffic policemen, "troopers," instead of 100, but it has not been possible to get an adequate increase. It ought to be a part of the political program of the coming administration to provide adequate highway patrol whether by state police or by inspectors, and adequate patrol, in the opinion of those best qualified to judge, means 250 men divided into squads and continuously out for purposes of motor vehicle regulation and enforcement all over the state in those places where there are no regularly constituted police forces.

The whole thing may be summed up as follows; We must awake public sentiment to force those whose duty it is to make the public streets and highways as safe to drive on as possible and to provide adequate enforcement to see that the persons using these safe highways and streets do their whole duty. Eighty-five per cent of all operators, even today, are able to pass successfully through traffic hazards and accomplish the necessary transportation in which they are engaged without accident or difficulty and without occasioning difficulty for others. The other 15 per cent includes those who are not active enough in mind and driving ability to successfully meet all emergencies, and much the larger part of that group—at least 10 per cent—are not criminal in any way. Their intentions are of the best. They need regulation and supervision. It is not possible to determine these people by examination, as seems to be indicated occasionally, for it is a well known axiom in motor vehicle accident study that the most intelligent people are sometimes the poorest drivers. Finally, the remaining 5 per cent—the criminals — wilfully careless, wilfully negligent—some of them almost professional offenders—must be severely punished by courts. Little fines are not going to do the business with them. Every court must discriminate between these classes of offenders. Where a wilful offender is found jail is the place for him.

LIGHT RAY AUTHORITIES WILL ATTEND CONGRESS

CHICAGO—(AP)—American and European authorities on the employment of physical discoveries, including the X-ray and ultraviolet ray, in the treatment of disease, will take part in the third clinical Congress on Physical Therapy here October 8-12, when the American College of Physical Therapy has its annual meeting.

Symposia to bring out the newest scientific information relating to the treatment of cancer and tuberculosis with the life saving and health giving light rays have been arranged, together with sectional meetings dealing with medicine and an eye, ear, nose, throat, oral and other branches of surgery.

ANCIENT SCIENTIST MARTYR TO X-RAY STUDY

ATHIS-MONS, France—(AP)—Another martyr to X-ray science has died in France. He is Fernand Lucretet, one of the most celebrated X-ray specialists in France and holder of the Carnegie medal, who died here from the ravages made by his terrible study.

Lucretet was only 30 years old. X-ray work had rendered him totally blind and made fearful burns on his hands and face. But he persevered in his martyrdom and up till the hour of his death gave advice and directions to assistants who were following out his theories.

COTTON IS SUCCESSFUL ON ISLANDS OFF VIRGINIA

URBANA, Va.—(AP)—James Barnhardt, a young farmer, has been so successful in growing cotton on the islands off the Virginia coast that oldtimers, who at first disdained his project, have emulated his example in this region. Some believe cotton definitely has replaced the Irish potato as the main crop.

Because of the milder weather along the coast the bolls are brought to fruition before the frost which would kill them further inland. As yet the boll weevil has not found its way into this vicinity.

"BLISTER-RUST" CLAUSE WRITTEN IN FARM DEED

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—(AP)—A "blister-rust clause" in a deed conveying property is something new in the campaign against this disease of white pine.

A lawyer in Dutchess county, who owns a fine planting of white pine, recently sold a tenant house from his farm and in the deed stipulated that no currants or gooseberries of any kind, from which blister rust spreads to pines and kills them, should be grown or cultivated by the new occupant.

FREE OF DEBT, PARAGUAY EXPECTS TO FLOAT LOAN

BUENOS AIRES—(AP)—Accord between Paraguay and Argentina over cancellation of a war debt on which nothing has been paid in 65 years and which now amounts with interest to around $4,000,000, has awakened hopes in Paraguay obtaining loans in New York or London for the development of natural resources.

The 10,000,000,000 peso loan was a considerable burden upon the Paraguayans, as the population of slightly more than 1,000,000 was financially unable to pay it. Previously Paraguay found difficulty in obtaining a loan because Argentina had a prior claim for the war debt.

Quick Delivery by Air.

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—A gas heater company, confronted by a shortage of natural gas tips with no supply available nearer than Kalamazoo, Mich., recently wired for shipment by air mail. Postage cost $100 but the shipment reached New Orleans via New York and Atlanta within two days.

CRASH LEADS AVIATOR TO PRACTICE MEDICINE

PITTSBURGH, Pa., (AP)—As an aviator in the war, George Foster picked his hospital before he took off, was taken there when he crashed—and now he's a doctor.

At the outbreak of the war, Foster, a young Canadian, joined the aviation service. He had heard a hospital established by a wealthy Canadian "over there" would be a good place to go to in case anything happened.

So, whenever, he went up, Foster set down his preference as to hospitals in a note and tied it around his neck. One day, while doing scout duty, something did happen and when Foster awoke he was in his favorite hospital.

The young aviator recovered and the war ended. He was so impressed with the healing art he saw practiced in the hospital that he returned to the United States and studied medicine.

SPECULATION FOR ADVANCE CARRIED MANY STOCK PRICES TO HIGH LEVELS

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(AP)—The stock market gave an impressive demonstration of strength today in the face of a statement by John J. Raskob that prices had far outrun demonstrated values and that a material readjustment was necessary. The Raskob statement caused only a temporary check to the violent speculation for the advance, which carried more than a score issues to new high levels on gains ranging from 1 to 8 points. Final quotations disclosed a long list of net gains interspersed with a sprinkling of losses ranging from 1 to 6 points.

Outside the stock market, chief speculative interest centered in the establishment of a new low record by sterling exchange, reviving hopes of further gold imports; a lowering of call money rates and the publication, after the close of the market, Of the weekly Federal Reserve statemeot on brokers' loans, which increased $45,270,000, bringing the total to a new high record at $4,589,978,000.

The Raskob statement took Wall street by surprise as he has been recognized as one of the leaders of the "bull" movements of the last few years. Previous statements by Mr. Raskob invariably have been of a bullish character. Market interests, previously reported to have been identified with Mr. Raskob on the "bull" side of the market, were active buyers in the late rally, specializing in such issues as Chrysler, Packard, Briggs, National Cash Register and U. S. Steel common, all but the last-named touching new high levels for the year.

Call money renewed at 7 1-2 per cent, as against 8 yesterday, dropped to 7 and thence to 6 1-2 with a plentiful supply of funds available as a result of the heavy return flow of October first disbursements. There was no change in time money and commercial paper. Sterling Cables sold down to $4.84 13-16, with slight recessions in most of the other leading European exchanges.

While the Raskob statement failed to halt the "bull" movement, it had a restraining effect on trading and tended to increase profit-taking on the rallies. General Motors fell from an early high of 217 3-4 to 213 and snapped back to 215 1-2 where it was up nearly 2 points on the day. U. S. Steel common closed slightly more than a point higher at 159 1-8 after having duplicated the year's top of 161 5-8. Bethlehem Steel changed hands in large volume, closing 1 points higher on buying influenced by unconfirmed rumors of a dividend resumption at the January meeting.

Enormous buying orders were placed in such stocks as Barnsdall A, Universal Pipe and Victor Talking Machine, all of which sold at record high prices. Among the many other issues to move into new high ground were Coty, Dodge Bros, A, Eisenlohr, General Ice Cream, Gillette Safety Razor, International Nickel, G. R. Kinney, Penick & Ford, Pierce Oil preferred, Spiegel May Stores, the Fair, and Van Raalte first preferred.

Warren Bros, broke 10 points and rallied 4. Abraham & Straus showed a net loss of 5 3-4 and A. M. Byers, Conde Nast, Gold Dust, International Business Machines, and Tobacco Products lost 2 points or more.

Rails drifted lower although with the exception of New York Central, which dropped 2 points, the losses were held to a point or so.

Commodity prices moved within narrow and irregular limits. Cotton futures lost 50 to 75 cents a bale in reflection of the usual evening-up of speculative accounts prior to the publication of the government crop report. Wheat prices improved slightly. Coffee and sugar quotations held firm.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(AP)—The curb market developed strength throughout the list today, under the influence of lower call money rates. Automotive shares were prominent in the broad upward movement.

Marmon Motor shot up more than 7 points to a new top at 59 1-2, while Checker Cab again extended its gain by 2 points, and Bendix "B" added nearly 5 points, to its recent gains. Oakes Products issues went ahead about 7 points each, and Auburn Auto gained 4 points, but fell more than 5 toward the close.

Galesburg Coulter Disc was a feature of the industrials, soaring 9 points to a new top at 92, while Columbia Graphophone mounted 5 points to a new top at 99 in buying in expectation of another stock dividend. Cuneo Press, Golden State Milk, Hygrade Food, Kreuger & Toll, Neisner Brothers, Nichols & Shepherd, Ross Gear & Tool, William Oil Heating, and Swedish American Investment went ahead 2 to 4 points to new levels. Zenith led the radio shares with a spurt of 11 points to 121, a new top.

Oils were firmer. Barnsdall debenture rights sold up nearly 4 points to 14 7-8 in sympathy with strength of the stock on the "big board." Standards were mostly steady, although Ohio encountered realizing. Mines were heavy, Newmont and Noranda sagging.

Utilities were irregular. American Light and Traction rallied 4 points. United Gas Improvement overcame early weakness and made a gain of more than a point. Electric Bond & Share, however, fell more than 2 points.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

SOIL CHIEF TO URGE CHEAPER MANGANESE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8—(AP)—Widespread use of manganese, a mineral element found important to the production of chlorophyll in plants, may depend largely on the ability of manufacturers to place on the market a less concentrated and a lower priced product.

Dr. Oswald Schreiner, chief of soil fertility, federal bureau of chemistry and soils, who has been invited to address the American manganese producers' association at its convention in Washington, Sept. 10 and 11, says he will point out the advisability of a cheaper article for farm use. He believes an agricultural product, not as pure as manganese made for the chemical trade but just as good fertilizer, can be offered on the American market.

Manganese, closely related to iron but not as plentiful, is an ore fairly well distributed over the United States but occurring more frequently in the Colorado-Utah area. In a powdered form it already has been mixed with other fertilizer and sold to glade soil farmers in Florida. It is coming into use on the peat soil of the everglades, a type differentiated from the glade lands of the east coast below Miami. Dr. Schreiner says favorable responses have been obtained on wheat at the Arlington, Va., experimental farm and on other crops in eastern North Carolina and in certain regions of the middle west. Manufacturers claim responses in Illinois.

"The department of agriculture," Dr. Schreiner says, "does not know to what extent all soils are deficient in manganese. That is yet to be determined. The deficiency in Florida was determined while we were working on tomato troubles there. The glade soil, even fertilized, would not bring tomatoes to the fruiting stage. The addition of manure imported from the Mississippi river valley, however, caused the plants to bear. We knew manure contained various amounts of manganese, and with that knowledge discarded the expensive manure in favor of the concentrated element. Resulting experiments proved that manganese was the missing constituent. Now, the glade soil on which manganese and commercial fertilizers are mixed produces thrifty vines and rich fruit."

Possibly many of the soils in various parts of the country have no manganese deficiency, Dr. Schreiner explains. Elsewhere there may be a serious lack of it. Future investigations may show that insufficient manganese is responsible for the failure of certain crops to grow in certain regions, and for other crops to attain only mediocre success. The production of a manganese fertilizer, cheap enough for wide agricultural experiment, he says, would be an expedient in determining the need for the mineral.

Hints for the Farm.

Solid spruce pulp fillers and specially treated strawboard fillers have come into considerable use for packing eggs to be placed in cold storage. Being odorless, they help to prevent development of the characteristic flavor of cold storage eggs.

At this time of year every beekeeper in the clover region should provide a young queen for each hive and see that the hives are of the two-story type. The upper story should be virtually full of honey if the colony is to go through the winter successfully. Because of the absence of a dependable late honey flow in much of this region, brood rearing is uncertain in late summer, and the colonies may have too few young bees for the winter.

In many farmyards it is possible to plan the equipment of tanks and troughs for water livestock so that the water surface of two or more troughs is at the same level. In that case the supply to all containers at the same level may be governed by a single automatic float regulating the flow into a supply pipe with several outlets.

Care should be exercised to avoid the bites of deer flies or ticks, since they may transmit tularemia, a plague-like disease of rodents transmissible to man, and which has spread rapidly in this country since its first was discovered in 1910. Tularemia, known as "rabbit fever" or "deer fly fever," is frequently fatal and has occurred in all states except those composing the New England group. This disease is caused by a bacterial organism spread chiefly through handling the carcasses of wild rabits and other animals. There is no danger in eating rabbit meat if it has been cooked thoroughly.

When considering the comparative profit to be obtained from cutting some crop for hay and feeding it on the farm as against the improvement to be expected from turning it under for green manure, it is well to remember that experts estimate that not more than 15 to 30 per cent of the organic matter in a hay crop is returned to the soil in manure. Also, they have found that the nitrogen in green manure is more readily available as plant food than is nitrogenous fertilizer in manure.

Care should be exercised when feeding velvet beans to cattle or hogs for the first time. This southern crop is very high in digestible protein, and until the stock becomes accustomed to the beans they should be kept in the field for only a short period each day.

In fall sowing of alfalfa, farmers should remember that fields not already inoculated with the appropriate bacteria must be supplied either by use of pure cultures or by scattering over the land soil from a field known to be well inoculated. To transfer such soil, scrape away the top crust and take the soil for inoculation from the next five or six inches where nodules on the plant roots have been growing. From 200 to 500 pounds of soil to the acre should be used.

Hairy vetch is a valuable plant for soil improvement in most of the area north of the Ohio river and east of the hundredth meridian. It is the one winter legume available for winter green-manuring in most of this section. It often is sown with rye.

The general supposition that most seeds rot within a few years in the soil is wrong. The seeds, when plowed under, will not perish during the period of any normal crop rotation. Of 107 species of seeds buried in pots of soil at various plowing depths, 69 species grew after being buried for 10 years and 51 species grew after 20 years.

Earliness of maturity in pullets is important to the selection of best breeders the second year. To develop a good laying strain, notice should be taken of the time pullets start laying in the fall and the fowls marked with colored celluloid leg bands.

Early Laying Pullets.

Early laying pullets make the best producers, according to Professor Willard C. Thompson, Supervisor of the New Jersey egg laying contests.

"In any flock of pullets of the same hatch there will be some that develop to egg-laying maturity several days, and even several weeks, ahead of others, and there is the greatest difference between the two so far as their economic value as future egg producers is concerned," he says in a statement issued by the State college of Agriculture, Rutgers university.

"The trapnesting of many thousands of pullets at the contests has demonstrated that the ability of a pullet to come to her first egg at a relatively early age is an almost sure indication of future capacity as a winter season layer and a persistent producer throughout the year.

"The pullets should bear some mark which will indicate the date of hatch when they are handled prior to inclusion in the laying pens in the fall. Toe punches serve this purpose admirably and cheaply.

"When it comes time to divide the season's pullet crop into flocks for the winter houses, it is advisable to place the pullets of the same age together, and within that group place the early starters in units by themselves and the late starters together. It will be found that in the ensuing ten months, for instance, that the early starters will average something like twenty-five eggs per bird more than those of the same age which are only medium starters, and as much as forty to fifty eggs per bird more than the late starters. These figures have been secured in California as well as New Jersey.

"Select breeders from among the early starters. Mark the early starters with a blue celluloid leg band this fall. It will point them out throughout the year. This characteristic of precocious laying, or early starting, is undoubtedly made up of a number of breeding factors, but to have birds with that capacity is our goal. Watch out for the first layers in the pullet flock. Watch their performance. Value them."

TRAWLER FILET'S RESCUED CREW REACHED NEW LONDON 2. A. M. THURS.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 4—The 27 members of the crew of the American trawler, Filet, which was reported yesterday afternoon in a sinking condition about 70 miles off the tip of Long Island, when the crew were forced to take to lifeboats to be picked up later by the Hawaiian-American steamer American and transferred to the coast guard destroyer Perry, which put out of New York for the rescue, arrived in New London shortly after 2 o'clock this morning. When the Perry started for New London a radio message was sent to the coast guard station here requesting that a patrol boat meet the destroyer at the mouth of the harbor so that the destroyer could return to New York. As soon as the Perry reached Southwest ledge light, the seamen were transferred to the patrol boat and brought to the municipal pier. They returned to New York this morning.

Dorothy Hislop, of Jordan; Mrs. William Powers and infant son, Oakdale; Mrs. Ernest Fakoury and infant daughter, 22 Gorton street; Herbert Burdick, Noank; Mrs. Edward Frances, 26 Rosemary street; Mrs. Willard Collins, Norwich; Mrs. George Ladd Mystic, and Andresh Burnett, 14 Connecticut avenue, patients at Lawrence Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Mrs. Floyd Turbell, 2 Peninsula avenue, Ocean Beach, made complaint to the police last night that five rugs had been stolen from the veranda of her home. Mrs. Turbell went to one of the playhouses during the evening and when she returned home about 11 o'clock she discovered the theft. Patrolman Elwood Bailey was not successful in obtaining any clue.

Victor Spoziali, proprietor of a store at 90 Harrison street, made complaint to the police today that one of the windows of the store had been smashed during the night. Patrolman Albert Iverson found that Spoziali discovered the window broken when he opened the store for business, but there was no evidence that the store had been entered, for the stock was intact. It is believed that the window was smashed by accident.

Patrolman Carlos Selesnitsky was unable to perform duty last night having a severe cold.

A leak was discovered this morning in the water gate in front of the premises, 58 Howard street. The matter was reported at the office of the water and sewer department and a repair gang made repairs.

All cases tried in the police court today were those which brought the accused there because of too freely imbibing of liquor. James Mack was also charged with vagrancy and he was sentenced to jail for 30 days. Jesse Johnson, United States coast guard, who resisted the arresting officer, Dennis Murphy, was fined $10. All of the other accused were discharged, fined $5, or fines imposed and their execution suspended.

Mrs. Mary Towson Smith of New London and New York has been sued by Henry W. Larsen of Manchester, the case being returnable before the next civil term of the court of common pleas. Mrs. Smith is made the defendant in an action calling for $1,000 damages. The residence on Broad street owned by her was attached today.

The funeral of Miss Rita Muzeroll, daughter of Mrs. Rose Muzeroll, 39 Church street, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, the mass of requiem being celebrated by Rev. George Clark. The bearers were Harry Hanson, William Rudd, Anthony Castagna, Frank Pulaski, Thomas Snooks and James Aspinson. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Father Clark.

NEW LONDON, Oct. 4—According to a statement from the office of City Clerk Julian D. Moran, 2,500 hunting licenses have been issued during the past few days. Prior to the opening of the gunning season very few sportsmen secured licenses, however the last minute rush denotes that there will be many hunters out this season.

DEMOCRATS NOMINATE FOX FOR STATE SENATOR

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 4—At the democratic convention of the 18th senatorial district held this afternoon at the county courthouse, Councilor-elect William C. Fox was unanimously chosen candidate for state senator. Mr. Fox was nominated by State Central Committeeman Alton T. Miner, who sketched the public service of the nominee, which, he urged, fitted him especially for the office of state senator.

It is estimated that in the neighborhood of 3,000 voters will be made in this city October 13.

Patients dismissed at the Home Memorial hospital today were Mrs. C. Spicer Brown and son, of 24 West Pleasant street.

At a meeting of New London Real Estate board, held in the community house, much favorable talk was heard over the city zoning law recently inaugurated here. The board predicts that it will be the means of increasing property values throughout the city.

Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney, in his annual report, urges the city to employ five more patrolmen, in addition to the present force of 35. He also recommended that a police sub-station be established at Ocean beach.

PAWTUCKET BANK WANTS BECKMAN MONEY BACK

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 4—Richard J. Beckman, 23, of 832 Main street, Pawtucket, R. I., who is serving a sentence of 10 days in jail, having been convicted of wearing a Masonic emblem, when in reality Beckman was not a member of the organization, will be rearrested on the more serious charge of forgery when liberated next week. Heckman, who was arrested a week ago charged with passing three worthless checks, of the aggregate face value of $55, and upon the endorsement of George E. MacDougal, assistant probation officer, and his having worn the Masonic emblem, was sentenced to 10 days in jail on the latter charge. He will probably be taken into custody again for it was revealed with the reception of three checks that Beckman received money on, that the checks were forged. The checks were represented to have been drawn by Herbert J. Garibeau, a Pawtucket automobile salesman and were made payable to the drawee. Beckman negotiated the checks and received the money and it is now disclosed that each of the checks was a forgery. The Pawtucket bank has requested the New London detective bureau to reimburse the bank for the money advanced through the endorsement of MacDougal.

Fred G. Terry, a marine, stationed at the submarine base, was arrested this afternoon by Traffic Officer John Courtney charged with being a straggler. He had in his possession a Studebaker light six automobile, Registration 1727 and on which no payment had been made. The case will be tried in the police court tomorrow or else Terry will be turned over to the custody of the coast guard authorities.

Mrs. Dierdorff, 315 Broad street, reported to the police this afternoon that a tent used by campers had been stolen from her residence, the tent being of a size sufficient to accommodate several persons.

Breed Theatre

Don't fail to see Monte Blue in "Across the Atlantic," the Warner Bros. production, which is now playing at the Breed theatre. The picture is an aviation romance, carrying its hero overseas to France in a captured plane. Thrilling, dramatic, human, the picture is made to order for the two-fisted man who stars in it. The story is by John Ransome and the screen adaptation by Harvey Gates. Howard Bretherton directed. The principals in the strong cast are Edna Murphy, Burr McIntosh and Robert Ober. "Across the Atlantic" shows some of the earlier types of planes as well as the latest, and the presentation is convincing and absorbing. Blue at his roughneck best, which is saying the proverbial "mouthful."

Kitchen Cabinet at Silberman's

On display in the show windows of the Silberman Furniture store on Main street during the present week is a highly attractive and tastefully arranged exhibit of Napanee Dutch Kitchenettes.

One of the new mode Kitchen Cabinets appears with outlets to accommodate the use of a percolator and toaster in the saving of steps for breakfast. A kitchen table is attached to the Kitchen Cabinet, making a very convenient and useful cabinet for meals and the preparation of all meals for the home.

A representative of the Coppes Bros. and Zook, manufacturers of the Napanee Dutch Kitchenette, is demonstrating the conveniences of the various models that are being displayed, and useful souvenirs of the Napanee Company Golden Jubilee celebration are being presented each visitor to the store during the week.

In "Partners in Crime" Beery and Hatton supplied the comedy overtones which gave the keynote to the picturization of the underworld life of the large cities. Gang warfare, petty politics and police activities, all of which occupy so much front page space in the daily newspapers, were viewed from the humorous angle and serious situations were turned into convulsing laugh moments.

The new Beery-Hatton melodramatic comedy, "The Big Killing," now showing at the Palace theatre, goes a long way from the larger cities and even from the front pages of the newspapers. It deals with a family feud war among the moonshine-making mountaineers in the backwoods. This type of individual still exists in the United States in large numbers, but, being remote and his activities being largely confined to his own virgin territory, little is heard or known of him.

Occasionally when a revenue officer is hurt in an attempt to wipe out an illicit still in these mountain regions, the backwoods mountaineer breaks into the newspaper for a brief period, but usually he goes his individual way, unworried about the conventions of civilization.

When the two moving picture comedy men enter this environment there is a complete barrier of laughter thrown up around the serious aspects of this little known life but all the unusual customs and the peculiar activities of the characters are utilized, without distortion, to provide exquisite moments of fun.

United Workers' Annual Appeal

This time of year again offers opportunities untold to Norwich citizens to do their bit toward support of one of their most valuable and important institutions. In the past fifty odd years those who have gone before have so appreciated the work of the United Workers of Norwich that they have given of their bounty to help support and further these efforts. But the generosity of the past should not lighten the responsibility of the present citizens. Their opportunity is now at hand when any and all may contribute to the district visitation or to any officer of the United Workers to support and further the work which in one very important sense is indeed the back bone of the Rose of New England. For without the care, advice and educational work of the different departments it would be difficult indeed for our fair city to fulfill its responsibilities.

Take away our six public health nurses and their 300 odd calls a month into the various homes of the city; close up our family welfare service and stop its visits and friendly and financial aid to those calling for it in these times of unemployment; cut out of the community the solicitous advice and protective guidance of the mental health clinic (the neuropsychiatric clinic at the Backus hospital), close the doors and turn away the precious charges of the Rock Nook home to lives blighted through misfortune, turn back upon the public beneficence those others harbored so peacefully at the Sheltering Arms, take away I say these institutions, some of the departments as they are of the United Workers, and what have you left to direct your less fortunate ones to happiness and health. To care financially for actual needy cases people would be taxed $25,000 a year if there were no United Workers.

Yet with what our friends have given us in the past, so great is the present need, so many the calls for funds, that our work for the last three years has of necessity been curtailed, because of lack of funds, demands for our finances far exceeding available resources. Towards our expenses of the last year of $66,000 Norwich citizens gave $1,600.

Let each citizen look well to his responsibility to his fellow citizens and give not what he gave last year and the year before, not what is near and easy so as to "get rid" of the solicitor, but what he feels the United Workers of Norwich are worth to him in their organized constructive work in this community. Then following conscience he will give, we will benefit and he too will benefit.

Style Show a Success

Over 1,000 women and their gentlemen friends witnessed the Tubridy-Weldon 11th semi-annual fall style show given at the store on Main street Thursday afternoon and evening. Nearly 400 people attended the matinee showing, this being considered a remarkable attendance in view of unseasonably warm weather. For the evening performance all available seating and standing room in the spacious store was taken up and a few hundred crowded the sidewalk and street to view the models as they appeared in the show windows. The models were the Misses Dorothy Barnett, Grace Buckley, Rose Sabourin, Blanche Nubus, all of New York city, and Miss Mildred Kramer of this city. In conjunction with the fall opening the show windows were attractively decorated. One window displayed the modern fall offerings while the other was superbly modernistic, this plan being carried out throughout the store. The announcements were made by Mrs. John J. Hersant and special radio-victrola music was provided through the courtesy of the United Music Co.

Prominent among the beautiful fall coat materials shown were Rame's suede, broadcloth, American broadcloth fabric, suede fleece, Arabian fleece, honeycomb tweed and exquisite imported rodier tweeds. These pretty materials were displayed plain or with becoming trimmings of fox, wolf, skunk, badger Chinese civet cat, baby seal French seal and caraqul. Among the very chic dresses worn by the models were transparent velvets in the popular colors being so widely shown this season; crepe back satin, canton tweeds and jerseys. It was noted that browns and tans, with their delightful blends, proved great favorites, especially in the coats. Added to this were the varied accessories so vitally a part of milady's dress. Mrs. L. J. Tubridy announced that every article which figured in this interesting and instructive display is carried in stock and is available at this popular style-center.

Lecture on Mental Hygiene.

All mothers and many teachers will be interested to follow the course of informal talks on "Understanding Our Children," given under the auspices of the Norwich Society for Mental Hygiene, by Miss Hester B. Crutcher of New Haven.

The problems presented by the normal child are as many and as difficult of solution as any we find—and Miss Crutcher, who is executive secretary of the Connecticut Society for Mental Hygiene is well fitted to discuss the solutions. She has been heard before with great pleasure by Norwich audiences.

The six talks will occur Thursdays at 3.30 p. m., in number, nine of the Wauregan hotel from October 11th to November 15th inclusive. The cost is two dollars for the course, fifty cents single admission—and tickets may be had from Mrs. Charles E. Gilbert 52 Williams street. Telephone 2228. There follow some of the topics of the various afternoon conferences:

1. What authorities tell us about infancy and children. 2. What is the behavior of the average child? 3. Adolescence. 4. Discipline. 5. Imagination—curiosity—temper. 6. Sex Education.

Lynn Range Oil Burner.

Preparations to accommodate a wide territory in the sales of the famous Lynn Range Oil Burner have been completed by the Jordan Home Utilities, Inc., located at 48 Church street. Wilimantic. The Lynn oil burner is described as the only kitchen range burner made that will work with any kind of furnace oil of 38 degree test without having to clean out carbon and soot every day. The burner can be installed complete in about one hour's time in any kitchen range or other type of household stove of suitable size without any alteration of the range except the removal of the ashpit grates and fire brick lining. It is positively safe in operation and will not overflow, because it feeds on the "oil level" or syphonic principle instead of the gravity or pressure feed method. It is so simple in operation that a child can start it and when ignited it requires practically no attention, thus assuring absolute safety for the owner. Low cost uniform heat, which is a great asset to wood cooking and baking, is one of the principal features of the Lynn oil burner; and it brings a joy to the housewife never before available where coal or wood has been used for cooking. This wonderful burner will make most any old worn-out range work like a new one, and in mild winter weather it will practically keep the whole house warm. It is always ready and can be run 24 hours a day at one uniform heat if desired. Demonstrations are given upon request and the cost of the complete equipment is remarkably low.

Broadway

Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, fast-rising young screen stars, came to the Broadway last night in their new Fox Films offering, "Street Angel." It proved to be a masterpiece of beauty, charmingly acted and perfectly directed by Frank Borzage, who also made that other memorable Gaynor-Farrell picture, "7th Heaven."

The story is laid against the colorful background of Naples and the eautiful, soft-toned photographic treatment of the many picturesque scenes is a conspicuous contribution to the art of the motion picture.

Miss Gaynor, as a little waif of the Neapolitan waterfront, and Farrell as a vagabond artist who meets and falls in love with her, handle their roles with superb skill, and their many love scenes together held the audience enraptured.

It recounts the story of Angelina's desperate attempt to raise funds for her dying mother by taking to the streets, for which she is arrested and sentenced to prison. She escapes from the police and joins a small, travelling circus in which she becomes a ballet performer. Here she meets Gino, the wandering painter, but their romance is shattered by the police who track her down and take her away to prison. However, they are finally reunited and made happy again.

Young People's Temperance Rally

A young people's rally for the churches of Norwich and vicinity at the Central Baptist church on Sunday evening, Oct. 7, at 6.45 o'clock is to have for its speaker, Miss Juanita Jones of Kentucky, national field secretary of the W. C. T. U. who will give a worthwhile address on the liquor question as it affects the lives of young people. She is highly recommended as a speaker of great personal charm, enthusiasm and sincerity of purpose. Miss Jones is speaking before the Meriden high school, Torrington high, and probably one of the high and junior high schools in New Haven. From Oklahoma comes the following: "Miss Jones' work is equally effective in schools, institutes, organization work, mass meetings and Sunday church services. Her excellent delivery of the most up-to-date prohibition facts added to her pleasing personality make her a speaker one can be proud to place before any audience."

COMMONER SUCCEEDS NOBLE IN SWEDISH POST

STOCKHOLM—(AP)—A commoner, Oscar Emil Swenson, is to succeed to one of the most important of Swedish posts, that of court grand marshal. Otto Hack Roland Printzskoeld, nobleman of the old school, at the age of 82 has asked to be relieved of the duties of the office—the management of the king's personal household.

The first holder of this office was Goran Klasson Stierneskoeld, appointed in 1607 by Charles IX, father of King Gustavus Adolphus. In rank the court marshal comes directly after the premier and the minister of foreign affairs. The governors of many royal palaces, including that of Stockholm, are his subordinates.

CONNECTICUT DISCARDS OLD STREET LIGHTING METHODS

Old fashioned methods of street lighting have completely passed away in Connecticut. None of the well remembered old forms of arc light remain. In the places where, at long distances apart, the open carbon arc once shed its blinking, purple tinted glow and spluttered and hissed periodically, there are now either enclosed magnetite arcs or else high powered incandescent electric light bulbs. There are now approximately 45,500 street lights in Connecticut cities and towns and of this total more than 39,000 are incandescent bulbs, as this type lends itself more readily to extensions into new territory.

Moreover, the tendency to increase street illumination is growing rapidly. It is rarely that one finds a community in Connecticut which cannot boast of its own "white way." Increased street illumination is now looked upon as one of the best means towards reduced crime and accident figures. Where there is light, criminals are wary, and motorists are far less apt to become involved in accidents. Police and traffic authorities in all parts of the country are united in advocating better street lighting.

The high powered electric bulbs used in most Connecticut street lights today have greatly increased the illumination over that furnished by old arc lights and gas lights which was the pioneer in the general illumination of municipal streets. These bulbs are so constructed that maximum light is obtained from the electricity used, and with the exception of higher wattage are exactly like the electric bulbs used for residential and industrial illumination. They contain tungsten filaments and give greater light and greater service than the foreign made lamps which in the past few years have been dumped upon American markets and which many a home owner has purchased without knowledge that they were inferior.

STREET SAFETY TEACHING FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

With the opening of schools throughout the nation the city officials' division of the American Road Builders' association urged all teachers to devote time to the teaching of highway safety. "Approximately 7,400 children were killed in highway accidents during 1927," the association declared. "Most of these accidents could have been avoided with proper education in the school and in the home."

The principal contributive causes of child deaths in street and highway accidents are those of children playing in the street, children crossing streets in violation of traffic law and coasting or stealing rides. During 1927, as a result of the first two causes alone, 3,638 children of school age were killed.

"Teachers may render a real service to their communities by tactfully presenting the problem of child safety to their pupils. The teaching of the simple principles of courtesy and caution are preferable to the memorizing of a series of complex traffic rules and safety regulations.

"In presenting the problem of child safety, teachers are asked to have three objectives in view: First, to discourage playing in the streets. Second, to familiarize children with the movements of traffic and methods for conducting themselves accordingly. Third, the instillation of an habitual practice of courtesy and caution at all times while on the street or highway."

WATER POWER IMPORTANCE DESCRIBED TO LIONS

An address on Water Power and Its Peculiarities and the Uses Which Man Makes of Water in Order to Sustain Life, by Robert W. Perkins, president of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co., featured the weekly meeting of the Norwich Lions club Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel. There was the usual large attendance and President Kopland K. Markoff called the meeting to order. He introduced as the presiding officer of the day, Joseph A. French. The meeting opened with the singing of America and grace was said by Jean Kieffer. The song leader was J. B. Caron and Nicholas J. Spellman presided at the piano.

In behalf of the Norwich chamber of commerce, Max Hanover invited the Lions to hold a joint meeting with the chamber on October 18th when J. W. Griest, speaker at the Merchants' Institute, will address the assemblage. The invitation was accepted. The five minute speaker was Jean Kieffer and his subject was a Man's Hobby.

Rudolph Henschel, who will preside at the meeting next week, announced that Lawrence E. Millea will speak on Fire Prevention.

Robert W. Perkins, president of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co., was introduced as the speaker of the day. He spoke of the many scientific facts connected with the properties of water. He pointed out that the first industrial use made of water was for transportation and cited a number of facts among which was that the early transportation from Norwich to New York was by water on small packets, with the journey lasting from two to five days. He also showed that the improvement of water transportation and great railway systems is due to the discovery of a means by which water can be expanded into gas and steam, producing great power. Mr. Perkins pointed out that wherever there is a development of a city or town, or a great industrial plant, it is mostly influenced by the proximity of water power. He gave a number of instances in Norwich and immediate vicinity where this fact applies. The speaker also spoke about the number of modern water power developments which are brought down to cities away from the water power center by means of the improvement of power transmission and he emphasized the fact that the utility of this modern transmission, and he emphasized the fact that the utility of this modern transmission has made Connecticut one of the finest manufacturing centers in New England and even in the United States.

Mr. Perkins explained to the Lions the great water power plant owned by the Connecticut Light & Power Co. at Rock River, New Milford. Here the river is closed by a great dam where it flows into the Housatonic river, forming a lake of nine and three-quarters miles long by three and one-half miles wide. At this point are installed two of the largest pumps in the world, pumping 225,000 gallons of water per minute from the Housatonic river into the lake by the use of 24,000 horsepower. The pumping of the water is done between 11 p. m. and 7 a. m., when the power can best be spared so as not to interfere with commercial use. The cost of the power at that time is at a minimum, only covering the cost of fuel.

The speaker also told of the miraculous circle of power contained in the evaporation of water from seas and rivers, which eventually turns into clouds and then again is deposited in a purified state over the land and hills, ultimately finding its way again into the lakes and seas for the use of mankind and other living things.

A rising vote of thanks was given Mr. Perkins for his most interesting address and the meeting closed with the Lions roar and the singing of The Star Spangled Banner.

MADE STRANGE RECOVERY OF STOLEN AUTOMOBILE

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Ring of 35 Lafayette street cast "bread upon the waters" this summer when they entertained one of the fresh air children from New York city. This week it returned to them in the form of their Nash sedan which was stolen in New York early in September from in front of the home of the very child, Anna O'Toole of East 52nd street, who had been the guest of the Norwich couple in the summer.

The loss and recovery of the machine revealed a strange chain of circumstances. Mr. and Mrs. Ring, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Michael Pounch, drove to New York to see a baseball game and to call at the home of Anna O'Toole. While making the call the machine was stolen and no trace of it could be found by the police. Last week Mrs. Ring decided to make a personal search of garages in New York and spent three days there without result. On her way to the Grand Central station to come home she went past the O'Toole house in East 52nd street and not far away saw a sedan parked which she recognized as the stolen car. The next move was to lock herself into the car while she sent the O'Toole's to notify the police. Before the officers arrived, two young men appeared and ordered her out of the machine but she refused to budge. Eventually it was revealed that one of the young men had borrowed the car from a friend who claimed to have bought it for $450. It had on it New York markers stolen from a Buick registered in New York state.

Mr. Ring drove the car back from New York early this week. Under one of the front seats he found a complete kit of burglar tools, but all the accessories from the machine are missing and a fender, front bumper and windows were damaged.

MRS. BALDWIN, MYSTIC, NEED NOT DEFEND ACTION

It is stated from Waterbury, that Roger Sherman Baldwin, a lawyer and writer, son of the late Simeon E. Baldwin, a former governor and chief justice of the Connecticut supreme court, has withdrawn his divorce action against Olive Porter Baldwin, of Woodbury and Mystic. He alleged cruelty, and the action had to do with his commitment to a retreat as an incompetent. Recently he obtained his release. His father left him $250,000 some months ago by a provision in his will. Yale university also received a large bequest.

Counsel for Mr. Baldwin, stated this week that although the action in superior court had been withdrawn, there was no reconciliation. The couple are living apart.

FIVE HENS AT STORRS PASS THE 300 MARK

For the forty-eighth week the 1,400 hens entered in the Storrs laying contest laid 3,864 eggs or a production of a little over 39 per cent. This yield is 97 eggs less than last week and 173 less than for the corresponding week a year ago. The average egg-production per bird to date is 180. This is four more eggs per bird than for last year at this time. At the rate the birds are laying the 1,400 hens should end the contest with approximately 189 eggs.

A pen of Rhode Island Reds owned by Clarence E. Lee of Auburn, N. Y., was an easy first for the week with a score of 57 eggs. The winning pen of the contest owned by George Lowry of West Willington, Conn., tied for second place with a pen of White Leghorns owned by Spring Brook Poultry Farm of Seneca Falls, N. Y. These pens made a score of 53 eggs each. The entry of Egg and Apple Farm from Trumansburg, N. Y., was third with a lay of 50 eggs. F. E. Freeman's Rhode Island Reds from Middletown, Ohio were fourth with a lay of 49 eggs.

At the end of the forty-eighth week five birds had passed the 300 mark. The first bird in the contest to lay 300 eggs was a Rhode Island Red owned by George B. Treadwell of Spencer, Mass. The second to attain this honor was also a Red owned by Charlescote Farm of Sherborn, Mass. On September 29th a White Leghorn owned by Broadview Farm of Winsted, Conn., laid its 300th egg and also on the same date a Leghorn owned by Hollywood Poultry Farm of Woodinville, Wash., came through with the same score. On the last day of September one of George Lowry's Leghorns laid its 300th egg.

In the White Wyandottes a pen owned by the Locust Farm of West Cornwall, Conn., has displaced Tom Barron's pen. In the White Leghorns Hollywood Poultry Farm has moved to third place ahead of Broadview.

SMITH EXPOSES HEARSAY CHARGES OF INTOXICATION

Rev. Van Nostrand, Pastor of the Emmanuel Baptist Church of Albany, Admits Stating That He Had Been Informed That Gov. Smith Was so Intoxicated That He Had to Be Supported by Two Persons—Admission Was Made After the Rev. Van Nostrand Had Made an Equivocal Denial in the Presence of Gov. Smith.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 5—(AP)—The following statement was issued today by Edward G. Griffin, counsel to Governor Smith, through the capitol offices of George B. Graves, secretary to the governor:

"A communication was received at the executive chamber stating that Rev. Manning E. Van Nostrand, pastor of the Emmanuel Baptist church of Albany, N. Y., had made a statement at the Bible conference held at Winona Lake, Winona, Indiana, that Gov. Alfred E Smith of New York was so intoxicated when he was trying to talk over the radio immediately after he was nominated at Houston that two men had to hold him up.

"Immediately upon receipt of this communication Rev. Van Nostrand, at the request of the governor, visited him at his office in the executive chamber. The governor, in the presence of his secretary, George B. Graves, and myself, then read the communication to Rev. Van Nostrand, giving the name and address of the writer, and asked Rev. Van Nostrand the direct question—'Did you ever make any such statement about me?' Rev. Van Nostrand then asked the governor whether the writer said that Rev. Van Nostrand had made the statement directly to the writer. The governor then re-read the letter and repeated the question. Rev. Van Nostrand then said—'I never said it.' Since that time there has been received the following affidavit:

"(State of Indiana) ss. County of Carroll.)

"The undersigned, being first duly sworn on oath, deposes and says that he or she on or about Aug. 23, 1928, while in attendance at a Bible conference held at Winona Lake, Winona, Ind., heard Rev. Dr. Van Nostrand, supposedly from Albany, N. Y., make a statement substantially as follows:

"'That Mr. Smith (referring to Alfred E. Smith, of New York) was so intoxicated when he was trying to talk over the radio the first Sunday after he was nominated at Houston that two men had to assist him in standing. Also that on another occasion in the railroad station, where Mr. Smith was preparing to board a train, he was much under the influence of liquor and was passing it around to men and ladies in his party.

"'The deponent further says that these statements were made on a public rostrum or platform at Winona Lake, evidently with the intent of belittling the character or personality of said Alfred E. Smith, who is now candidate for president of the United States.

"'Further the deponent sayeth not.

"'(Signed) Mrs. A. J. Wickard.

"'Subscribed and sworn to before me on this 17th day of September, 1928.

"'(Signed) Frank Poundstone,

"'Notary Public.'"

Several hours after Mr. Griffin had distributed copies of his statement to newspapermen the Rev. Van Nostrand issued the following statement:

"I was requested to call at the office of Governor Smith at the capitol in this city. He read to me an extract from a letter from the New York headquarters of the democratic national committee in which it was stated in substance that Indiana was in a ferment due to a statement made by me in that state to the effect that the Sunday following his nomination, the governor broadcasted over the radio and was so intoxicated that it required two men to hold him up.

"The governor asked me if I had made that statement. I said that I had not.

"Upon that occasion the governor did not ask me if I had made any similar statement or if I had made any other statement concerning him or to the effect that he had been intoxicated or to the effect that he drank.

"When asked questions in Indiana concerning Governor Smith, I did make the statement in Indiana that I had been informed that upon one occasion when Governor Smith had broadcasted that he was so intoxicated that he had to be supported by two persons.

"I also made the statement in Indiana that I had been informed that on the Sunday following his nomination the governor went to New York and that when he was in the Albany station he had been drinking.

"I also made the statement that in my opinion if anyone asked the governor that direct question as to whether or not during his occupancy of that high office he had used intoxicating liquors or had been a drinking man that the governor would admit that he had done so.

"I further stated in Indiana that I had never read or heard any denial by the governor himself that he was a drinking man; but the only denials I had heard of were made by others and I did not believe the governor would deny it if he were asked the direct question."

SECRET LOVE OF SCHOOL BOY ENDS IN TRAGEDY

PETERBORO, Ont., Oct. 5—(AP)—The secret love of a nineteen year old school boy for the woman in whose home he boarded ended in tragedy today when the woman's husband found the bodies of his wife and the youth. Both had been shot in the head.

The love of George Frederick Knox, formerly of Boston, Mass., for Mrs. Lottie Pacey, 35, was disclosed in a note addressed to the boy's father, which Thomas D. Pacey, the husband, found when he broke into his home.

In the note young Knox declared he "had been in love with Mrs. Pacey almost from the time he had met her and could not leave her to Tom."

Near Knox's left hand was found a small calibre pistol which the youth had borrowed from his father earlier in the day, saying he intended to indulge in target practice. The elder Knox, who also is a resident of Peterboro did not live at the Pacey home.

Young Knox was a student at Peterboro Collegiate Institute and had been a boarder in the Pacey household for about a year. The husband told police he had never suspected the youth of being in love with his wife and regarded Mrs. Pacey's interest in the boy as that of a mother for a son.

The boy's mother is said to live in Boston.

SMITH TO CONFER WITH PARTY LEADERS IN NEW YORK

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 5—(AP)—As the time drew nearer today for him to start on his second campaign tour, Gov. Smith continued silent as to his detailed plans. He devoted several hours to a study of train schedules and other details in connection with the journey but at the end of the day, announced he could not promise when the itinerary would be ready.

"There will be nothing on the itinerary today at least," he told newspapermen at the daily press conference at the executive mansion. "There are too many details to be straightened out, balls, radio arrangements and all that are more or less in the air."

It was indicated that the democratic presidential nominee would leave Albany Monday for New York and confer with party leaders before boarding his special train there for the campaign swing that probably will keep him on the road, with the exception of a day or so back here in the capital, until the Saturday night before election.

HOW WOMAN BLOCKED ESCAPE OF INTRUDER

THOMPSONVILLE, Conn., Oct. 5—(AP)—Finding a man on an inside staircase in her home as she entered the front door after having been shopping in Springfield, Mrs. Lewis C. Grant did not scream or run or do any of the other things women are commonly supposed to do in the presence of an intruder, she merely placed herself at the foot of the stairs, blocking the man's exit, and called to her husband who was putting his automobile in the garage.

When Grant arrived, he held the intruder while Mrs. Grant called the police. The man was later booked at headquarters on a charge of breaking and entering. He gave his name as Charles Edwards, 17, and his address as New York city.

S. J. HOPPE TESTIFIES IN HIS OWN DEFENSE

DEDHAM, Mass., Oct. 5—(AP)—Testifying in his own defense in his trial for the murder of Patrolman Alfred N. Hollis at Quincy, Oct. 4, last, 1927, Stephen J. Hoppe today denied that he was in Quincy at the time the crime was committed.

The defendant, who escaped from state prison in Maine and Vermont and twice tried to break out of the Norfolk county jail where he was awaiting trial for the Hollis murder, testified for more than an hour before it was discovered that he had not been sworn. He then took oath that the testimony he had given was "the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth."

Hoppe maintained that he was in Hartford when Patrolman Hollis was shot. He said that he received the wound in his left hand two days after the patrolman's murder when he was attacked by three men as he was leaving a gambling house in Providence, R. I., and he denied that he told the doctor who treated his wound in Hartford, Conn., that his name was Hollis.

ELEVEN ARRESTS MADE FOR SHOPLIFTING IN BOSTON

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 5—(AP)—Seven men and four women arrested in connection with an investigation of wholesale shoplifting from Boston department stores, were held in $10,000 bail each in the Middlesex superior court today on indictments charging them with larceny and conspiracy to steal.

Eight of the defendants are members of the same family, ranging from a 70-year-old mother to a 15-year-old boy. Assistant District Attorney Frederick Crafts told the court that the defendants had robbed department stores and sold the goods to unscrupulous buyers. He said that if a buyer indicated that he wanted "anything from a paper of pins to parlor furniture," it would be stolen.

Three members of another family arrested in connection with the thefts were each held in $1,000 bail when arraigned in the Newton district court today on charges of larceny and receiving stolen property.

SENATOR CURTIS IS STUMPING IN INDIANA

GARY, Ind., Oct. 5—(AP)—Motoring through northwestern Indiana at the head of an automobile caravan of several hundred cars, Senator Charles Curtis, republican vice presidential nominee, today waged the republican cause with the slogan "stick to the full dinner pail."

In half a dozen speeches in as many cities in this industrial center during the day, the nominee spoke of "republican prosperity" and called for the election of Herbert Hoover "if you will continue the prosperity of the administration of Calvin Coolidge."

He came to Gary tonight to wind up the busy day's program which had led him through Whiting, Indiana Harbor, East Chicago, Hammond, Lowell, Crown Point and Hobart. Despite his weakened voice, the senator spoke at every stop. The mashed finger on the right hand still forced him to carry the hand in a sling, but he was busy throughout the day shaking hands with the crowds with the left hand.

WIENER NEUSTADT, AUSTRIA, PREPARED FOR DISORDERS

WIENER NEUSTADT, Austria, Oct. 5—(AP)—This peaceful industrial center in Austria with its 35,000 inhabitants and 443 factories has suddenly taken on the appearance of a gigantic armed citadel in wartime menacing all who may enter its gates.

In anticipation of possible disorders and bloodshed on Sunday when the social-democrats who rule Vienna and the Heimwehr or so-called Home Defense league of Christian socialists who control the national government will hold simultaneous propaganda meetings the government has dispatched to the city 12,000 troops and gendarmes armed with rifles, bayonets, machine guns and artillery.

The large municipal hospital with 300 beds was commandeered today by the authorities in case it should be needed during Sunday's rival meetings. All the present patients are being ejected and all available physicians in Vienna have been ordered to Wiener Neustadt on Sunday.

Business men have barricaded their shops, all electric signs on the streets have been removed and valuable property is being covered with sandbags against any possible bombardment just as in wartime. Thousands of inhabitants are temporarily abandoning the city.

All factories have ceased work and the governor of lower Austria has assumed command of the security forces. Under the direction o fthe police chief troops are practicing ride fire in the suburbs of the city.

The first casualty among the rival organizations took place last night when a social-democrat shot the former burgomaster of the town of Weissenbach twice through the chest. In the neighboring town of Baden, the police have arrested nine communists charged with inciting others to seize Sunday's meetings as an occasion for open revolution. They will be tried for high treason.

More conservative elements of Austria are universally condemning the Seipel government for what the newspapers describe as the cabinet's folly and madness in permitting Sunday's meeting which the papers declare is nothing less than open war fare which may again drench Austria in blood as did the riots of July, 1927. There is also widespread apprehension of the effect of Sunday's demonstrations in the United States and Europe where Austria is seeking a loan.

Police were unable to find anyone who saw the kidnaping, which happened at one of the busiest corners in the city. Lang said the jewels were insured for $150,000.

11 PRISONERS ESCAPED FROM COUNTY JAIL

FRANKFORT, Ky., Oct. 5—(AP)—Eleven prisoners who escaped from the Franklin county jail here today still were at large tonight although authorities of Franklin and adjoining counties were searching for them.

The men, nine of whom were federal prisoners, fled between 3 and 4 a. m. just at the start of a heavy downpour that made immediate pursuit difficult. Approximately 35 other prisoners who could have followed preferred the shelter of the jail to the rainstorm outside.

The escaped men are Arthur Sills and Joe Brockhart, Chicago, convicted of auto theft; Lee Sellers, Whitley county; Horace McKee, Olive Hill; Willie Chapman, Lexington; Barney Richards, Lexington; Wiley Henderson, Olive Hill; Willard Vincent and Zebb Stevens, Whitley City, all serving six months sentences for possession of liquor, and Sam Baker and John Johnson, Franklin county, held for investigation. All but the latter two were federal prisoners.

Jailer Steve Toppas said that the men had pried up the bottom of an iron grating that separated their quarters on the second floor of the jail from stairs leading to the third floor. They broke a padlock to enter an old death cell on the third floor, pried out some bricks in the wall and lowered themselves from the hole so made, by ropes made of blankets and sheets.

CLINTON S. CARNES TO FACE THIRD INDICTMENT

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 5—(AP)—Clinton S. Carnes, former Southern Baptist Home Mission Board treasurer, came back from Winnipeg today to be greeted with a third indictment charging embezzlement of $80,000 in bonds. His total embezzlements were said to be approximately $1,000,000.

The indictment gave the date of the embezzlement as August 15, the day Carnes disappeared, and charged misappropriation of the following group of securities: $10,000 General Motors bonds; $7,000 Florida East Coast railroad bonds; $15,000 liberty bonds; $19,000 Northern Pacific bonds; $15,000 government of Switzerland bonds, and $14,000 Toledo Edison bonds.

Decision Defends The Jewish Ritual

Corporal of New York State Police Disciplined for Questioning Rabbi.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 5—(AP)—Corporal H. M. McCann of Troop B, state police, Malone, today was severely reprimanded and indefinitely suspended "for gross lack of discretion in the exercise of his duties and for conduct most unbecoming an officer" in connection with what has become known as the Massena Incident.

This action was taken by Major John A. Warner, superintendent of the state police, after a hearing on charges brought against the corporal by Jewish leaders in this state. Major Warner reported his action to Governor Smith in a letter made public today by the governor.

Jewish leaders charged that McCann, in connection with the disappearance of a child from Massena, had questioned Rabbi Berel Brennglass, of that village, concerning a rumor that ritual sacrifices once formed part of the Jewish religion. Louis Marshall, chairman of the American Jewish committee, brought the incident to light by demanding a public apology from Mayor Gilbert W. Hawes of Massena for his part in the incident, which Marshall termed a "gross calumny" against the Jewish people.

Corporal McCann contended that the idea of questioning the rabbi was suggested to him after examination of a Massena Jewish youth, who talked ramblingly and was admittedly of low mentality. When all other clues to the whereabouts of the missing child failed, Corporal McCann said he thought the youth might have been responsible for the child's disappearance, acting on a vague idea that it developed upon him, to uphold the supposed tradition of the race.

Major Warner's letter to Gov. Smith follows:

"An exhaustive hearing was conducted by me this day with reference to the charges preferred that Corporal H. M. McCann, a state trooper, had revived the ancient slander that human sacrifice was at one time a part of the Jewish ritual. This took place in connection with the disappearance of a child in the village of Massena, on September 22, which was then under investigation by the state troopers. The child was found in the woods 24 hours after her disappearance.

"Present at the hearing was Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, president of the American Jewish congress, who brought this matter to my official attention in a communication under date of Sept. 29. Associated with Dr. Wise were 2 members of the congress administrative committee, Bernard G. Richards and Louis Lande; George Gordon Battle, of New York city, acting as counsel to the delegation. There were also present, as voluntary witnesses the mayor of Massena; Rabbi Beral Brennglass and Jacob Shulkin, president of the Jewish congregation of Massena and Lieutenant E. F. Heim, of Troop B, division of state police, to which Corporal McCann is attached.

"As a result of this hearing I have severely reprimanded Corporal McCann and indefinitely suspended him for gross lack of discretion in the exercise of his duties and for conduct most unbecoming an officer."

COURT DECISION AGAINST ANNA MINNA VENZKE ULRICH

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5—(AP)—A petition for a writ of mandamus against Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg and Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, sought by John Munsell Ulrich, of New Haven, Conn., through his attorney, Joseph Koletsky, of that city, to require issuance of a passport visa to Anna Minna Venzke Ulrich, wife of the petitioner—she having been excluded from this country because once she was convicted of larceny in a German court, was denied by Associate Justice Wendell P. Stafford of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, today. Mr. Koletsky filed a bond to carry an appeal to the United States supreme court.

The ground of exclusion of Mrs. Ulrich was that of what is defined in the immigration law as "moral turpitude." It is to obtain a definition of this term and to determine if Mrs. Ulrich was legally barred from coming to the home of her husband as the wife of an American citizen that the proceedings will be taken to the highest court. It is said that the case has many unusual aspects.

HOOVER WILL MAKE APPEAL TO THE SOUTHLAND TODAY

Republican Presidential Candidate Will Deliver an Address at Elizabethton, Tenn., Today—The Speech Will Be Made Over a Nation-Wide Radio Hook-Up—Hartford Has Been Cut From New England Itinerary, as Connecticut Party Leaders Have Decided That a Visit by the Nominee is Absolutely Unnecessary

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—(AP)—Leaving behind him a fixed itinerary for his trip to Boston next week, Herbert Hoover tonight faced toward Dixie to make a personal appeal to the voters of the southland for their support in his race for the presidency.

One of the last acts of the republican candidate before leaving Washington was to place his approval upon plans for his visit to New England. An automobile drive of an hour and a half through the towns near Boston and two speeches will be made by the nominee in the Massachusetts capital.

A stop which previously had been contemplated at Hartford, Conn., was eliminated from the itinerary today after conferences with Connecticut party leaders who decided that a visit by the nominee to that state was not absolutely necessary, particularly since he would be unable to spend sufficient time there to make any extended speech.

On his Boston trip, as on his rally into Tennessee, Hoover will move straight to his destination with only a few stops and return direct to Washington after he has delivered his address. Like the Elizabethton, Tenn., speech which he delivers tomorrow, the one in Boston also will be made over a nationwide radio hook up.

The candidate will leave for Boston Sunday night, October 14, and will make stops at Springfield and Worcester, Mass., before detraining at Newtonville to continue the trip into the Hub city by automobile. Upon his arrival at Boston Common, he will be welcomed by the mayor and will make a short talk.

After a luncheon at which he will meet members of the state republican committee and various county committeemen, the candidate will be the guest of Governor Fuller during the afternoon. He will be introduced by the Massachusetts executive at Mechanics' hall at 8 o'clock that night when he will deliver the address, the chief event on his trip. Immediately after its conclusion, the nominee will turn again toward Washington.

Hoover's appeal to the voters of the normally democratic solid south tomorrow will be delivered in the heart of a Tennessee mountain stronghold of republicanism, but many visitors from the neighboring territory of Georgia, Alabama, North Carolina and Virginia probably will be within ear shot, and the message will be carried into the democratic territory by the radio chain.

REPUBLICAN SPEAKERS ON THE RADIO TODAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(AP)—The radio bureau of the republican national committee announced the following speakers on the radio tomorrow.

Representative J. L. Dickinson, 10th Iowa district from Chicago, 9 to 9:30 p. m., eastern time.

The democratic radio bureau said it had no national speakers scheduled.

SENATOR MOSES A BIT GLOOMY ABOUT BAY STATE

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(AP)—The nomination of Loring Young, former speaker of the state assembly, for senator in Massachusetts has strengthened the position of the republicans in that state and enhanced the party's chances of carrying it for Hoover, Senator George H. Moses, said tonight.

"In Massachusetts, where I still feel a bit gloomy," Senator Moses said, "the republican party is hailing the nomination of Loring Young with great enthusiasm. I am certain his name on the ticket will bring votes to Mr. Hoover and feel that our chances of carrying the state are better now than at any time in the campaign. We are, according to reports, making some progress in the textile centers, and that will unquestionably be of benefit."

On the situation in the southern states, Senator Moses, just returned from a trip into New England, showed a degree of confidence.

"I am beginning to feel that we have excellent chances in Florida, Alabama and North Carolina," he said, "and in these states I should not be surprised to see Mr. Hoover cut into the democratic south."

COL. ROOSEVELT SAYS COUNTRY NEEDS HOOVER

RICHMOND, Ky., Oct. 5—(AP)—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, in an address here tonight said the United States since the war has been engaged as a nation in recuperating and recovering its balance and could be satisfied no longer with negative action.

"We need, therefore, during the next four years," he said, "a man who will meet the problems with a sane, fearless liberalism, intent upon positive action.

"For example, we have the farm problem. The McNary-Haugen bill may not be the correct solution. In that case, it should be vetoed, but the conditions that beget the McNary-Haugen bill are still there. If we are to do justice to thirty millions of our people we must not confine our actions to merely opposing an unsound solution, but must find and put through a sound solution. I believe Herbert Hoover is the type of man who will do this.

"During the last years we have had startling and ominous instances of corruption. In New York state there has been a scandalous example of this. Herbert Hoover will tolerate no crookedness."

ROBINSON ATTACKS RECORDS OF HOOVER AND BORAH

ROBINSON SPECIAL CAR, En Route to Clovis, N. M., Oct. 5—(AP)—The records of Herbert Hoover and Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, who is now stumping the country in behalf of the republican presidential candidate, have been selected by Senator Joe Robinson, the democratic vice-presidential candidate, as subjects for attack in his opening speech in New Mexico.

Mr. Robinson late today entered the state which has been put down by democrats as one to be found in the Smith-Robinson column in November. They claim that the shift of the state to Coolidge four years ago was brought about through the entrance of LaFollette into the campaign, and point out that the combined votes of Davis and LaFollette exceeded by 3,340 that polled by Coolidge. The Davis vote was 46,543 and LaFollette's 9,583.

Mr. Robinson will deliver two speeches in the state on his way to Phoenix, Ariz., and the Pacific coast. In addition to his speech at Clovis tonight, he also speaks at Roswell tomorrow afternoon.

STOLE TO SEND MONEY TO THE MAN SHE LOVED

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 5—(AP)—Details of how a $1,380-a-year girl clerk was able to buy an automobile, send money and gifts to the man she loved, were revealed by Dr. John A. H. Keith, superintendent of public institutions, today in making public an auditor's report which resulted in the arrest of Miss Dorothy Currey at West Chester.

Miss Currey, a stenographer-clerk at the West Chester State Teachers' college, was charged with defalcations totaling $15,252 from the school and held in $1,000 bail. According to the report, she has confessed to taking $11,569 of the amount reported missing from the college funds.

Ninety per cent. of that amount, the report quoted her as saying, was turned over to J. P. Tracy, a married man of Pittsburgh, an agent for the Teachers' Protective union of Lancaster and with whom she said she was affianced. Tracy has denied that he was engaged to the girl and that he received that much money from her.

GRAFT INDICTMENTS IN PHILADELPHIA CONTINUE

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5—(AP)—Matthew Patterson, member of the state legislature and a republican organization ward leader, and Capt. Charles W. Schoenleder, former commander of a police district, today were indicted on charges of taking protection money from saloonkeepers.

The October body returned as true bills, 27 indictments on which Patterson and Schoenleder are jointly called upon to answer 277 counts. They are to be arraigned to enter their pleas next Monday.

In 12 of the bills Patterson and Schoenleder are charged with bribery and extortion on 12 different occasions, Schoenleder being named as having on 12 dates received bribes and Patterson being accused of having aided and abetted him.

TRANSPORT WORKERS VIOLENT IN AUSTRALIA

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 5—(AP)—Fresh violence in connection with the strike of maritime and transport workers broke out in Brisbane today when ten volunteers were attacked. An ambulance that was carrying one of the more severely injured to a hospital was stoned.

Only at Adelaide have the union workers returned to the wharves. There was little prospect tonight of a settlement on the question of government registration of workers on which the government and trades unions are deadlocked. A council to determine the future activities of the strikers has been appointed for each state in the commonwealth.

Eight members of the crew of the steamer Flora were sentenced at Brisbane today each to a month of hard labor on charges of hindering transport, an outcrowth of the strike. Seventeen of the crew were arrested at Lucinda and eight others received similar sentences yesterday.

DR. W. P. S. KEATING IS MADE MAJOR IN MEDICAL UNIT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 5—The promotion of Dr. W. P. S. Keating of this city to the grade of major in the 301st Medical Regiment, Medical Reserve, U. S. He has continued to take an active interest in military matters and formerly held the title of captain. He is commander of James J. Shea post, No 19, and a member of the Y. PLANE FORCED DOWN BY FOG AT PHELPS' CROSSING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 5—Fog and rain caused the forced landing of a Travelair biplane, piloted by Captain Philip W. Watson of New Bedford, Mass., and bearing the owner, Tony Bellotti, also of New Bedford, and a passenger, Robert Day, of New York city, on the farm of Louis Lux of Phelps' Crossing, shortly after 11 o'clock this forenoon. The plane landed without mishap and Captain Watson and Mr. Bellotti made arrangements to remain here until weather conditions improved for the return trip to New Bedford. Mr. Day took a motor coach to South Manchester which was his original destination. The plane, one of the fleet of the New Bedford commercial flying service, left that city at 10:30 o'clock. Captain Watson and the plane owner both agreed that the field on the Lux farm where they landed would be an ideal site for an airport for this city and upon inspecting it they were of the opinion that it could be put into condition for that purpose at a small expense. They claimed that the forced landing was made without danger of any kind.

John F. Pickett of Middletown, candidate for comptroller on the state ticket and Dr. Edward G. Dolan of Manchester, who attended the democratic national conventions in New York city in 1924 and at Houston, Texas, this year, were the speakers at a special meeting of the Smith-Robinson Democratic club held in the Clark building on Church street this evening. Mr. Pickett is a World war veteran and was the first state commander of the American Legion. In view of this the large audience included several ex-service men from this city and vicinity.

Both major parties will hold conventions of the 29th senatorial district to nominate candidates for state senator Saturday. The republicans are to meet at the Nathan Hale hotel here at 12 o'clock noon. A. Linn Weatherhead, chairman of the senatorial committee, will be chairman. Acting Fire Chief Michael J. English is investigating two sources of complaint. One is the failure of automobile drivers to grant the right of way to fire department apparatus or to private cars bearing members of the fire department rushing to a fire. Several instances have been noted in the latter case in which firemen announced to drivers their position and reason for desiring a clear road and which met with anything but courtesy on the part of individuals. Another source of complaint that is under investigation is the growing practice of children and probably some grown-ups, of tampering with fire alarm boxes. During the past few weeks the glass on a number of boxes was found shattered.

LEGIONNAIRES HEAR MINE-PLANTER TALE

Richard Morgan post, No. 55, American Legion held its meeting Thursday in the post rooms on Pearl street, with Commander E. Francke in the chair. Capt. Stretch Morrison read the minutes of the last meeting. Arthur Berry the treasurer reported all bills paid and a sum of money in the tin box to start another year with. At the fair run by the legion with another organization at Willow point $66 was cleared. Fifteen Legionnaires were present. The post elected these officers: Commander, Arthur Berry; vice commander, J. Sydney; second vice commander, James Campbell; treasurer, Arthur Berry; adjutant, Clifford Dobson; chaplain, Peter MacGuire; sergeant at arms, Charles Stribble; senior officer, Clifford Dolson. The meeting adjourned by the Legionnaires singing America. A Bank street clam chowder was served by Ex-Army Cook Wilfred Lamphere, also cocoa with West Mystic sponge cake. Commander E. Francke told this story about the war: I was in the navy and on a large mine planter with a crew of 400. We started for England and Scotland. The water was rough, waves rolling high as the church steeple, Cook Billie Mish was cooking a Dinty Moore special about half way over when we hit a storm. The ship would only make 5 knots an hour. Cook Mish was all ready to take the dinner off the range when the ship hit a wave that knocked the dinner on the floor and the crew had to lose a real Dinty Moore special. He had to break out the cans of beans and the gobs said! "The brass band without the leader is all ready!" Two hundred of the crew were seasick, the craft putting in 14 days crossing the ocean to England.

The Legionnaires gave Commander E. Francke an ovation for his talk.

For those unlucky enough not to own a radio set Thursday to hear the world series game over the air, and who could not go to the big city to see it, the Corn Cob club held open house. There was an 8-tube set run by electricity. A crowd of 90 came to hear the game between the Yankees and Cardinals. The set was operated by John Ashby, godfather of the club and the crowd was cheering for the Cardinals to win. When Meusel made the home run with a man on the bag, he got a good hand. But when Sunny Jim Bottomley of the Cards came to bat with a mean war club in his hand in the 7th inning one could hear the crowd say "Hit it Sunny Jim, where the ball will be put on some shelf in a home for keeps!" He hit for a home run and the crowd made a noise that started the shingles on the roof. But the Yankees won the game, Godfather Ashby said "Come again tomorrow. It will be a different story to tell at the supper table while a St. Louis roast chicken is being served."

Two sisters, Marion and Irene Jensen were given a farewell party at the home of Mrs. Charles Butson recently. Thirty guests came to give the two sisters a real send off to their new jobs in Hartford. The rooms had W. M. I. school colors, blue and white. Games were played and a peanut hunt made fun for the evening. The person who found the most peanuts won a prize. The judges were Charles Butson and Billie Holliday. Harry Butson took under pictures and the piano for 30 minutes. When the race was called off the judges found that Miss Marion McDonald had 25 peanuts and she received a hand-made shawl from Renoset to Mrs. Lillian Myers. Miss Jean Bentley was second. A roast beef supper was served.

Joe Butson rose from the table and said "I know you all have had a good time tonight and have given the two sisters a good time to send them to the capital city happy. In behalf of the guests I have the honor to give them two small boxes to remember the party by and their friends in the village." They said "Thank you all!" and opening the boxes found two pocket-books with a new dollar bill in each.

DANIELSON

DEMOCRATIC LEADERS EXPRESS REGRET TO THE BULLETIN

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 5—As to Attorney William Citron's criticism of The Bulletin in his speech at the democratic rally in the town hall here last evening, there is little more to be said, and it becomes a closed incident insofar as this paper and the democracy of Killingly is concerned.

This afternoon Messers A. J. Cavanagh, Selectman A. D. Sayles and Patrick Riley, members of the Democratic Town committee were in conference with the representative of this paper relative to what Attorney Citron said pertaining to The Bulletin last evening. Chairman Cavanagh and his associates stressed the fact that they could not be held responsible for what the speaker said, nor did they care to assume responsibility for his utterances. They also pointed out that they had no knowledge of his intention to make such a statement as he did relative to his not being able to get what he says printed in this paper.

The attitude of the paper is that it desires to give liberal and fair publicity to democratic activities as well as matters pertaining to the republican side of the campaign. This paper enjoys the patronage of hundreds of democratic readers in this town and is appreciative of it. Its republican affiliation is never permitter to influence its news service. And today the members of the democratic committee of Killingly again had assurance that they will receive in the future, as well as in the past, very generous treatment as to publicity. That is a policy that even Attorney Citron's criticisms is powerless to change.

Just before 3 o'clock this afternoon many Danielson people had a fleeting look at the giant 14-inch coast defense rifle that left Boston, Wednesday night, over the Boston and Maine road for Worcester and en route to the proving ground at Aberdeen, Md., as told in a despatch in this paper this morning. Word spread about an hour before the arrival of the train that there would be a chance to see the monster defense rifle, so numbers were waiting for a look, among them coast artillerymen of the community who have had war-time experience with big guns. These ex-service men were probably more impressed than the average person with the demension of the big 14-incher, which with its mounting weighs 730,000 pounds, the heaviest load ever hauled through this town on two cars.

FUNERAL
Auguste Menard

Auguste Menard's funeral was held from his home on Franklin street this morning with services at St. James' church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Antheleme Mollard, M. S., Rev. Joseph Berger, M. S., and Rev. Joseph A. Demers, M. S., were the officers of the solemn high mass of requiem. At the grave in Holy Cross cemetery Rev. Fr. Demers conducted the committal service. The bearers, all members of the Union St. John Baptist, of which Mr. Menard was a member, were F. X. Lemieux, Benoni Meunier, Pierre Turgeon, Nestor Gaudreau, Amadee Berbier and Joseph Halle. Louis P. Kennedy was the funeral director.

Firemen were routed out about 2.30 this morning to fight again a blaze that flared up in a dump where a pond hole is being filled up on the easterly side of Mechanic street near the Henry A. Myers property. Eight hours before the department had been called to the dump by an alarm from box 45 to drown out flames that were leaping high in the air and apparently menacing property in the vicinity. On account of the nature of the dump, which is soggy in places, the first battle with the fire was not completely effective, and the fire again broke out during the night.

If a plan that appears to have a chance of being successful proves to be just that way, Danielson is going to have in the near future a larger band than it has ever been able to boast in the past. It is to be known as the Community band of at least 40 pieces. Edward H. Bacon, a local musician of note, and Fred Bourque, who has had wide experience with bands and bandsmen, are sponsors of the project. Their idea is that the band should be just what the name indicates—a community band—representative of all the town and its people. The subject will be gone into detail at a meeting to be held in the Majestic theater next Tuesday evening. Messrs. Bacon and Bourque have made a canvass of musicians of the town relative to the plan and have met with such a favorable reception as to warrant calling a meeting for further discussion of the matter.

The town will watch this proposal for a splendid musical organization with keen interest, sensing that it would be a big asset to the community in a number of ways.

Care of the poor, burials of the poor and kindred items having to do with responsibility for its unfortunate people cost the town of Killingly $19,455.91, net, the last fiscal year. The town farm gross cost was $6,801.07, but this was in a measure offset by revenue from sale of produce, etc., amounting to $2747.50, leaving the actual cost at $4,096.44. Outside poor cost $10,278.08. The cost for poor in state hospitals was $3,878.67. The poor account also includes an item of $600 for care of such patients at the Day Kimball hospital, $519.01, for the Mansfield Training school and $538.39 for widows with dependent children. Burials last year cost the town $286.

A number of Killingly's most prominent republicans attended the democratic dinner at the Attawaugan hotel last evening. This starts out as though it were going to be a political item of unusual interest, but it isn't just that.

It came about that the Danielson Rotary club, holding its weekly Thursday evening meeting in the dining room of the hotel and having dinner, were in session when democrats of this and surrounding towns with the speakers at the party rally that was to follow came into the room for the banquet they had arranged. Now, for some reason or other, most of the members of the Danielson Rotary club are republicans. Being courteous and tactful gentlemen, they were very gracious to their democratic brethren occupying adjoining tables and proceeded to entertain them with the singing of Rotary songs, including in their repetoire "The Sidewalks Of New York."

It was a nice little party for all concerned, but a rather unusual one if looked at from a political angle, which, of course, no one did.

Jack Delaney, former light heavyweight champion of the world, proved a great magnet for followers of the sport when he arrived here this afternoon for tonight's boxing exhibition at the state armory. Delaney is a splendid specimen of humanity, a marvel in structure and carriage.

Mrs. Charles S. Bill will leave here Saturday to join relatives at Norwich for a motor trip through northern New England and thence to Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Lewis have returned from a motor trip through the Adirondacks.

Assessors meet Saturday from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.—adv.

Next Monday evening grand officers of the Eastern Star headed by Worthy Matron Frances A. Beer will visit Danielson chapter, O. E. S. for the annual inspection. A supper is to be served prior to the meeting.

Steps are being taken to organize a Democratic Woman's club in Killingly and to have it work actively through the remainder of the present campaign.

Keep your valuable papers and other valuables in the safe depository in the vault of the Windham County National bank protected by a burglar and fireproof door eighteen inches thick and weighing twelve tons—adv.

Danielson chapter of the Red Cross has forwarded $400 to the national headquarters for the Porto Rico relief fund. The chapter's quota is $425.

Danielson will be represented next Tuesday evening at Putnam when there is to be a gathering under the auspices of the Windham County Republican Women's association.

Again on Tuesday registrars of the town, at sessions in its various districts, are to receive additional applications to be made voters.

PUTNAM MERCHANTS STILL COMPLAIN ABOUT MAIL SERVICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 5—In spite of the protests of the merchants of Putnam, Webster and Danielson the mail service between these points and Worcester and New London has continued to grow worse. The chamber of commerce of Putnam made a protest when the service started to grow worse and the officials of the New Haven road met with them and promised an improvement and made it but it was not long before the service grew worse and worse. The mails are carried in combination freight and express trains and are subject to delay. It seems strange that in 1928 when the methods of transportation have been improved so much that it would take so much longer to send a letter from New London than it did in 1910.

There is a great deal of interest in the pilgrimage to the home of Gen. Nathaniel Lyon in Phoenixville by the Sons of Veterans in this district. This event will be held next Sunday Oct. 7. Several prominent speakers have been procured.

General Lyon was the general to lose his life in the Civil war. It was due to his foresight while in charge of the federal forces in Missouri that that state did not cast their lot with the Confederate forces. He is buried in Phoenixville and his funeral was one of the largest ever held in this part of the country.

Mrs. J. Dyer Potter left yesterday as a delegate from the Fourth Connecticut district, American Legion auxiliary to attend the national convention to be held in San Antonio, Texas, next week.

At a meeting of the senior class of Putnam high school held yesterday it was voted to hold a senior play as has been the custom in past years. No arrangements have been made as yet.

The vote cast last Monday was in no way an indication of the way that Putnam will go in the presidential election next November as no more than one third of the registered voters of the town voted. There were only 918 votes cast while there are between 2700 and 2800 voters in the town of Putnam.

"Shakespeare and Old London" will be the subject of a lecture to be given in Woodstock academy hall next Thursday night by William Webster Ellsworth, well-known author and for more than 30 years a member of the Century company, publishers. The lecture will be illustrated by more than 100 stereopticon pictures, many of them in color, showing London at the time of Shakespeare. The story will be divided into three parts: first, his early life and miracle plays; second, London as Shakespeare saw it; third, Shakespeare's theatres and plays. This lecture is one that should make more than an ordinary appeal to not only high school and college students but to the lovers of Shakespeare.

Putnam high school is now ready for the football game with Northbridge high of Whitinsville tomorrow. Northbridge is supposed to have a strong team and a good contest is expected. Last year these two teams played two games and Northbridge took the first by a margin of 18 points but Putnam retaliated and took the second 32-0.

Another football team is to be started here and has scheduled some good teams for the season. The team will be made up of former high school stars and prominent athletes of Putnam. The team will be called the Belding Blues. The team will be coached by Henry "Hap" Aplin, former star of University of New Hampshire. The first game scheduled is set for Sunday, October 21, against either the Webster Steamrollers or the Falcons of New Britain. Both teams are considered fast semi-pro teams and will furnish an unusually stiff test for the Putnam men.

The final and deciding game in the Putnam and Grosvenordale series, called off last Sunday because of cold weather will be played this Sunday at Adams field. Both teams have won two games apiece and as both managers have strengthened their lineup a good game is expected by all of the fans.

Stephen Lee of Port Washington, N. Y., who was in an accident in Thompson last Saturday is still in a very critical condition. It was reported a few nights ago that he would not live through the night but he managed to pull through and is now on the road to recovery but is still on the danger list.

A space has been reserved for the Putnam chamber of commerce at Madison Square Garden for the New England Industrial and Recreational exposition to be held there March 11 to 16, 1929. Putnam should be able to make a good showing with their worsted, woolen, cotton, silk rhea, manufactures and their steam heaters, tools and belting needles.

It is hoped that the Putnam manufacturers will take an interest in this exposition as it will help to advertise the products.

There will be a meeting of the general armistice day committee at the chamber of commerce rooms Monday night. The committees will report and other matters will be considered. The committees are: Parade committee: Francis Murphy, John Gahan, Henry Thayer, John McGary, Harvey Grinsell, Ernest Durand, Dr. E. F. Perry, William McCoy, A. A. Buchanan; speaking committee: Rev. J. F. English, Ernest Durand, Eric Johnson, John Bulger, Leon Farrin, Rev. U. O. Bellerose; dinner committee: Mrs. J. Dyer Potter, John H. Bulger, Carl Weeks, Kenneth C. Sharpe, Albert Day, Maurice Muir, Allie King, Robert Allard, Arthur Renshaw; finance committe: Arthur Keith, Stanley Shaw, J. Dyer Potter, Whitman Danielson, George W. Baker; dance committee: Kenneth Sharpe, Joseph Benoit, Mrs. William Saretski, Stanley Shaw, John H. Bulger, Mrs. Lewis T. Chamolin, Eugene Alvord, Herbert Johnson, John Leader, Alfred Williams, Arthur Renshaw.

ASHLAND CLUB RE-ELECTS PRESIDENT L. M. GINGRAS

The ninth annual meeting of the Ashland club held Wednesday was most enthusiastic and most successful from a social standpoint.

One hundred and fifty members sat down at 7 o'clock to a fine chicken pie supper which was followed by the business session and this in turn was followed by a dance at the Casino for the members and their guests.

The principal business of the evening was the reading of the annual reports of the secretary and the treasurer and the election of the board of directors. The report of the secretary, Agnes Corby, showed that the past year had been most prosperous and progressive.

The report of the treasurer, Charles D. Cornell, was greeted with applause, as it showed the club to be in the best financial condition it has enjoyed for a number of years.

The president, Louis M. Gingras, serving his seventh consecutive term, conducted the meeting, and kept the members in an expectant mood. He called on Welfare Supervisor P. W. Chase for a resume of the year's activities and accomplishments and this was given, to the evident satisfaction of those present.

Supt. of Cotton William Duggan was called on and his offering for the good of the club made an instant hit.

The esteem in which Treasurer Lewis M. Carpenter of the Ashland Cotton Co. is held by the club members was demonstrated when President Gingras called on him for a few words.

Mr. Carpenter impressed on his audience the many advantages, other than social, of the club to both the operatives and the company. He told just how the club idea originated and of its purpose. He complimented the members on the successful conduct of club affairs in general and urged that they carry on and offered any reasonable assistance from the Ashland Cotton Co., in whose behalf in closing he thanked the members for their fine co-operative spirit.

The directors elected are: Five overseers, Albert Paquette, Austin Harris, Charles Cornell, Harold Tomlinson and Louis Gingras; five male employes, Eddie Gromko, John Burda, Theodore Rail, Ed Bouley and Ulric Gilbert; five female employes, Dena Lafave, Lillian Dugas, Ruby Harpin, Agnes Corby and Mary Solenski.

From this body the officers chosen were: President, Louis M. Gingras; vice-president, Lillian Dugas; treasurer, C. D. Cornell; secretary, Agnes Corby.

Mr. Smith received word Sunday of the death in Putnam of an aunt, Mrs. Amelia, widow of Orrin Smith, who was a native of Canterbury. The homestead of that branch of the Smith family was in the Pond Hill district, in the southern part of the town.

A social hour was spent at the grange Wednesday evening with light refreshments. Tuesday evening a delegation from the grange went to Plainfield, where a Canterbury degree team worked the first and second degrees.

A joint meeting with Plainfield grange is being considered for later in the month when it is expected several state officers will be present.

RABALM ENDS PAINFUL SWELLING LEGS AND FEET

"For years I suffered from excruciating pains in my feet. As my daily activities necessitated long standing, it became almost unbearable. After trying innumerable remedies, I was persuaded to try Rabalm. The result was amazing. After using it for a few months, the pain and swelling disappeared entirely and there has been no recurrence of former conditions," writes Mr. B. J. Pendleton of J. C. Shepherd Meat and Grocery Co., Gloucester, Mass.

If you are tormented with painful swellings, (arthritis) in your legs and feet, if your legs at times are red, swollen and painful or your toe joints swollen, stiff and so tender you can hardly touch them and shoes cause terrible pain, you too, like Mr. Pendleton, can obtain the great joy of relief by using Rabalm. Two sizes, 50-cents and $1.00 containing 3 times as much. RABALM is for sale by all druggists.

POLL FAVORS HOOVER

Straw votes are straw votes. Some however are much more thorough and far reaching than others. They are undertaken in such a manner and carried along so systematically that they come pretty close to displaying the attitude of the voters if such can be gained from the expression of a part of them picked at random. The poll of the Literary Digest is probably the most thorough and from this week's figures it is shown that 752,810 voters in 29 states have expressed themselves.

In all the states from which votes have been tabulated thus far all are for Hoover with one exception. That is Arkansas, the home state of the democratic vice presidential candidate which shows a slight preference for Smith, a majority of 155 votes in a total of 3755.

Of the total votes Mr. Hoover received 514,397 and Mr. Smith 231,002, or more than two to one for the republican nominee. The majority in the several states varies from four to one in Vermont to just a little better than three to two in Maryland. Connecticut shows a better than two to one vote with figures of 12,931 for Hoover and 5655 for Smith.

In analyzing the figures of the poll and the comparisons with last year's vote by the same ones participating in the poll, the Springfield Union finds that the figures given for the 29 states show Hoover "receiving about 19 per cent. of the Coolidge 1924 vote, 19 per cent. of the Davis vote, 38 per cent. of the LaFollette vote, about 60 per cent. of the new vote. On the other hand Smith is receiving about 21 per cent. of the Coolidge vote, 60 per cent. of the Davis vote, 62 per cent. of the Lafollette vote and about 33 per cent. of the new vote."

Applying these percentages to New England the Union shows that "in Connecticut it would appear that Hoover is receiving 81 per cent. of the Coolidge vote, 22 per cent. of the Davis vote, 28 per cent. of the Lafollette vote and 64 per cent. of the new vote. This on the basis of the 1924 vote would give Hoover a plurality of about 93,000 in Connecticut." By the same method it figures a majority of 150,000 in Massachusetts, 23,000 in Rhode Island and 47,000 in New Hampshire.

The advantage at the present time lies with Hoover with the poll as yet incomplete.

DRUNKEN DRIVERS

Over in the state of Rhode Island close tabs are being kept on the number of accidents as the result of drunken drivers, and from the results it would appear that there is good reason for it.

For the nine months of the year it is found that there have been 164 accidents in which such drivers participated and in which 47 persons were injured. The number exceeds that of the corresponding period in 1927 and the figures for nine months in 1927 exceed those for the whole of 1926. The figures given are of the arrests made. How many others there were who got by without accidents, but who may have given a thrill to some who narrowly escaped there is no way of telling.

When it is shown that in that state there were more arrests made for driving while drunk in September than ever before in a single month, it indicates that drunken driving is getting more popular and the authorities are finding it more difficult to deal with the situation. Nevertheless the record number of arrests for September indicates that drunken driving isn't being winked at entirely. Whether the manner in which those arrested are being handled by the courts is serving to meet the situation there seems to be some doubt. Naturally, if such were the case, it could be expected that the number would decrease instead of increase and September would have showed a low instead of a high record.

There isn't anything which creates a greater hazard on the highways than an automobile being guided by a person under the influence of liquor. He is not in a condition to properly protect himself or the other users of the highway. He is a direct menace to the most careful of drivers and the proper protection of all highway users requires that he be kept away from the wheel of a motor vehicle. When we think of the appalling number of injuries and deaths caused by auto accidents it becomes evident that too drastic steps cannot be taken to put an end to all those that are needless. There is certainly no excuse for intoxicated persons driving automobiles.

DANGEROUS INITIATIONS

It is of course the proper thing to do when the chairman of the interfraternity conference, a group of more than 60 college fraternities, deplores the death of [illegible] in an initiation by a Texas college fraternity. But it would be much better if the sacrifice of that life had been prevented.

There was no excuse for it. The young man was required to crawl between kid springs which had been charged with electricity. Just how it happened that he was killed, beyond the suggestion that he may have touched a live wire, has not been explained. But why should there have been any live wire for him to come in contact with under such conditions?

The idea has been advanced that possibly because of his makeup or physical condition he was frightened to death when he encountered the electric current. But why should he have been subjected to anything that would approach such a situation?

That initiation requirements were frowned upon by others is displayed by the expression of fraternity men that the interfraternity conference had adopted resolutions six years ago condemning any conduct endangering in any way the physical well-being of initiates." How much respect had been given to that action by other fraternities is uncertain, but it would appear that it had not influenced the Texas body. They evidently required some such experience as they have gone through to bring about the abandonment of risky stunts. Such an attitude is not so much different from the hazing practices which those in some institutions still cling to, in spite of the reforms instituted elsewhere and the too frequent demonstrations of the dangerous and possible fatal effects.

Every case of the kind that has been brought to attention in Texas should serve as an example of what ought not to be and shows as convincingly as could be asked the wisdom of eliminating all these hazardous stunts which have the possibilities of injuries or death for the initiates. These things deserve to get consideration before some life has been exacted. It does no good to the victim to get busy later on.

THE PUBLIC RESPONDS

It causes no surprise when the report comes from Chicago that National Air Transport found it necessary to suspend its passenger service temporarily because of the amount of mail matter that had to be handled. The air transport engages in the carrying of passengers as an auxiliary to its task of carrying the mails. When it has the opportunity it will take passengers. When the mail business is too heavy they must stay behind.

The reason for this situation at this time is attributed to the reduction in the rate for air mail service. It is having the very effect that was anticipated. That lower rates invite more business is a well established principle and it is being proved once more in connection with the air mail. The very opposite effect was demonstrated when the postal rate on the picture postcards was doubled and when other increases were made which brought about the abandonment of the use of mail service.

That the volume of mail will not continue to prevent air transportation for passengers for a very long time can be safely predicted. The air transport lines are temporarily embarrassed but the situation will be met more planes will be put into use or larger ones will be obtained to meet the requirements. It has always been thus in connection with other utilities and it has been made quite evident that the problem of air transportation is steadily getting more and more attention.

The demand upon the facilities of the transport lines for air service is indicative of the trend of the times. Distance is being eliminated rapidly whether it comes to handling mail or humanity.

NEWBURYPORT'S PLIGHT

After a considerable wait Newburyport's mayor seems to have gotten where he has been aiming for, but apparently which he hoped to escape in the higher court. "Bossy" Gillis has been sentenced to two months in jail, one at hard labor, and to pay a fine of $500, and he has begun to serve time.

Gillis got into office on a fluke but ever since he has been conducting his office in a spectacular manner which gained attention far and wide. Somehow he got the impression that he was immune to the restrictions that governed others. He was determined to bring others to account, especially those who had opposed his election, but he gave the impression of doing about as he pleased himself.

He had the misfortune of having bad advisers or else he refused to listen to good advice and his whole term of office thus far has been marked by conduct which cannot fail to have been distressing and embarrassing to the city of which he is the chief executive. This is increased by the fact that his actions have brought about a jail sentence.

Just how Newburyport could have permitted such a situation to develop is hard to understand. It is nevertheless the price which any community is likely to pay when it fails to display the proper amount of interest in the filling of public offices. The idea of leaving important decisions to others or relying on the other fellows, experiences just such a rebuke too frequently. Its prevention lies in the hands of the voters, and too often it rests with those voters who do not vote.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

On one important occasion Dean Stanley had been explaining his views to Lord Beaconsfield, prime minister, the latter replied: "Ah, Mr. Dean, that is all very well, but you must remember—no dogmas, no deans." To lose such deans as Stanley would have of course been a great misfortune to any church, but was Lord Beaconsfield's comment logical? Is the office of dean dependent upon his dogmatic theology? Dean Stanley was a scholar and a thinker, and he was broad-minded enough to do independent thinking. If he was liberal in his views, there was a solid reason for it, and he was able to defend himself from the narrowness of some of his opponents. Lord Beaconsfield was dead wrong. Dogmas never in themselves ever made a real dean. Such church officials are made by spiritual personality plus courage, ability and faith. And the entire deanship of Arthur P. Stanley emphasized these rare qualities.

Very many important questions are solved by religion, but it does not attempt to solve all the problems of the universe. "Why should we expect religion to solve questions with reference to the origin and destiny of this material universe?" I think that we have overstrained and perverted the purpose of the Bible in applying it to this natural world. The atheist has made much of statements in the Bible that do not accord with the attitude of science. We ought to remember that the writers of Holy Writ, especially in the Old Testament, gave the current opinions of the day in regard to natural phenomena. Now the Old Testament was given to the world as a true record of God's historic work in human redemption. No one is justified in considering it as an authority on heat, electricity or the fourth dimension.

There is not a harsh word spoken anywhere in the Bible against honest doubt. The writer has heard people remark that it is just as easy to believe everything in the Bible as it is for one to turn over his hand. The writer has not found it so. Is it easy to understand everything in the so-called uninspired works of other great writers? Did you ever come across anything in the thoughts of Plato that was difficult to understand? In understanding Plato we must be acquainted with both the material and intellectual environment in which he lived. Have you ever been puzzled with Browning? Dickens once said in order to find what Browning is driving at sometimes you want to turn the book upside down, and then it will begin to dawn upon you what he is driving at. In order to understand some of the sayings of the Bible we need to know more about its oriental environment.

There is not a harsh word spoken anywhere in the Bible against honest doubt, which I repeat for the sake of emphasis. This is not a random statement, but is clearly seen repeatedly in both the Old and New Testaments. Could anything be more beautiful and tender than Christ's attitude toward, and patience with, his obtuse and blundering disciples? It was "line upon line and precept upon precept," in regard to the fundamental things of his kingdom. Even with the learned ruler Nicodemus our Lord displayed the utmost patience. The Master evidently recognized that honest doubt does not exclude faith. No person who thinks at all can be wholly free from doubt. The honest thinker is willing to look on all sides of a proposition, and if he does he is likely to stumble on something that will cause doubts to rise in his mind. It is the thinker who can see the shadows as well as the light of any subject.

Another great element of the Bible is truth. Of course, emphasis is everywhere put on the value of faith, even, as we have seen, when it sometimes involves doubt. Again and again does the Master identify himself and his mission with the truth. "I am the way, the truth and the life." "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." Even Plato in the Republic puts this remarkable emphasis upon the importance of the truth: "It is impossible to overvalue the power which the soul has of loving truth and doing all things for the sake of truth." Now that is not very bad for one whom the narrow theology of the middle ages put down as a barbarian. It it, however, in point of time a far cry from Plato to Chaucer, but the great poet of early England has this to say about truth: "It is the highest thing that man has to keep." All the great poets from Chaucer to Tennyson and Longfellow emphasize the New Testament position.

The great distinction between Christianity and the numerous forms of heathenism is that its basic idea is love, faith and truth, while the religion of the lower or benighted races is, almost as a rule, one of terror and dread. It is sheer impiety to compare their deities to the world's Redeemer. As a matter of fact there is absolutely no points of comparison. It is true that in some of these pagan faiths some good moral precepts are to be found but as a general thing their divinities are lustful and cruel. St. John Lubbock in his Essay on Religion makes the criticism sharper still. "These deities," he says, "are jealous and revengeful, cruel, merciless and selfish, hateful and yet childish." The sacrificial spirit so prominent on eevry page of the four gospels is entirely absent in all pagan beliefs. Christianity alone is fitted to redeem the world.

The following beautiful story is said to have actually happened in one of the far eastern countries to which one of our missionaries was sent. The pagan king was having a festival when the question was raised whether this new missionary should be given a hearing. In support of the hearing one of the warriors made this plea: "On a dark and dismal winter night, when the rain and snow rage outside, and while this hall is warm light and cheerful, it sometimes happens that a sparrow flies in at an open window, flits around for a while and then flies out into the night again. We see him for a moment but we know not whence he came or whither he goes in the blackness of the storm outside. So is the life of man. We know not whence he came from or where he goes to. If, then this new teacher can tell us to the darkness that went before, or the darkness that is to follow after, let him be heard." It is needless to say that he had an hearing.

In view of the vast number of great discoveries made in the last generation, and what are coming to light constantly, are we justified in believing that there are ultimate problems which must ever remain unsolved? Probably the keenest minds would prefer to abstain from laying down any such limitations. Suppose a Puritan audience in early America had been told that in the course of three centuries, or less, ships propelled by steam would be regularly plying between the old and the new worlds, what impression would it probably have made? Or what would they have thought of flying across the Atlantic, or talking to one another across the continent? In view of these and other discoveries and inventions is it not quite within the range of reason to doubt if there will be in time to come any ultimate problems? Suppose the next quarter-century duplicates the last, is not this view rational?

Five persons were injured seriously and 12 were slightly hurt when a Canadian National railways train was sideswiped by a Canadian Pacific freight near Hamilton, Ont.

SENATOR BORAH GETS INTO THE CAMPAIGN FOR HOOVER.

Speaking in Minnesota this week in behalf of Herbert Hoover, Senator William Borah of Idaho said:

The questions involved in this campaign are ones which come close to the home and family and individual welfare and to the economic freedom of each and all. They are not questions which so often engage our attention in a political campaign. They are more nearly questions and problems with which we have to live daily, and with which we have to do in our coming and going as citizens.

I have no intention of indulging in personalities. It requires less brains (applause) to run a campaign of personalities than any other intellectual activity we engage in. These voters will have to do with issues after personalities have disappeared and after the invectives of the campaign have died out. They do not instruct the voter and I trust I'll not so far forget myself as to deal in those things.

St. Lawrence Waterway

We have the question of waterways and the development of waterways. It is a most excellent illustration of the attitude of the two candidates for the presidency. We see on the one hand a clear conception of the problem, the result of profound study. On the other hand, I am not sure just exactly what we do see. It may be I have been unable to interpret his language. (Laughter and applause.)

We have a territory here in the great northwest occupied by some 40,000,000 or 50,000,000 people, tributary to this great waterway. In this territory there is produced some 75 per cent. of the products which aren't transportation from the farms to the rest of the country. Proper development of waterways to the ocean would result in an increase of five, seven or ten cents a bushel for wheat and a corresponding increase in the price of your other exporter products.

Back in 1925 the two candidates had occasion to present their views. It is fair to presume that at that time, neither being a candidate for presidency, that they were presenting their views free from political bias, conscious or unconscious.

Hoover fa St. Lawrence Plan

Mr. Hoover at that time said: "I have felt deeply that the construction of the St. Lawrence waterway would be very important to the development of the resources of our entire country. We could build up agriculture and industry. New York as a food shipping point will disappear in that event. I believe that this project of the St. Lawrence will increase the value of production and increase the standard of living in the entire country."

The governor of New York also expressed himself decisively, much more than he did in St. Paul a few nights ago. In one of his speeches Governor Smith said with reference to the St. Lawrence waterway:

"As chief executive of the great Empire state, paying nearly 30 per cent. of the taxes of this country, I would have no know that New York state protests with all its might, and will oppose the project to the limit of its resources."

One of these resources would be Governor Smith if he were elected president—should that incident occur.

Speaking in St. Paul the other night he said: "In my speech of acceptance I expressed my position. Two years ago I expressed myself in favor of the all-American route, through Lake Ontario and down the Hudson to New York. And I said if I were elected I would have an engineering survey made and would stand by the engineers' figures." Then we better take an engineer for president of the United States (Laughter, cheers and applause.)

It is an engineering problem and not a political one.

"I would be satisfied to be guided by the congress of the United States," said Governor Smith.

We have heard a vast amount about leadership in this campaign, and about the facts that the last two presidents have not led in party affairs, and now, six months in advance, he already abdicates his authority and proposes to turn it over to congress. You know perfectly well what he would be doing to that congress, in view of what he said about the proposition's being an absurdity. Why not turn it over to a man who is an engineer and has the courage to act regardless of the effect on his political welfare.

"Turn it over to congress! (Laughter and cheers.)

Party Responsibility Both Ways

The governor in his address in Helena and again at St. Paul made some reference to the oil scandal and was truly oddly disappointed because Mr. Hoover had not spoken out in the matter. I do not desire that any word which I say be construed into any apology or excuse for the miserable creature who dishonored the party, betrayed the party—in the oil scandal. But I do defend Herbert Hoover against the implications of Governor Smith in regard to that matter.

Because Herbert Hoover sat in the cabinet where it turned out there was a man disregardful of all sense of honor and decency, the governor means to have the voter condemn him because he was found in their company. Is the governor willing to fight this campaign on the question of associations? (Laughter and applause.)

Cites Croker and Murphy

The governor has been a member of Tammany for 40 years. Is he responsible for the stealings and extortions of Croker? Is he responsible for the peculations and persistent and unconscionable stealings of Charlie Murphy? Is he willing to adopt the rule of vicarious responsibility? When Murphy died four years ago the New York Times, a strong supporter of Governor Smith, editorially said: "Tammany has a long record. It is just as much of a disgrace as it was 50 years ago. It has been secretly ruled by this oligarchy. Murphy was the exemplar of the system which dominates official life and which condemns New York city to suffer."

Of that organization the distinguished governor has been a leader for years. On the day on which the New York Times published this editorial Governor Smith said: "I am suffering the loss of a close personal friend of many years standing. He was a clean, wholesome, right-living man."

I am not surprised that a man who has that conception of right clean living is unable to understand the honorable outlook of Herbert Hoover. No, let's not try men in this campaign by association. It would be too severe.

Hoover's Record Clear

There is a way to test the honesty and the integrity and the high ideals of Herbert Hoover. His record is behind him—a marvelous record such as few men have. He has spent not only millions but billions under adverse circumstances. He has not only expended for our people but for foreign peoples. If there were anywhere a discrepancy, if there is one cent gone, they are at liberty to call attention to it, but it is a stupid practice to attack a man for the acts of another for whom he has no responsibility whatever.

So far as the republican party is concerned, as the party is inferentially if not directly attacked by Governor Smith as sordid and corrupt, let me call attention to the fact that in 1924 18,700,000 voters were cast for Calvin Coolidge—that those fifteen million voters constitute the republican party for which I speak tonight.

Individual derelictions may come, individual instances of malfeasance may come, but the great mass of the republican voters who have fought the battles of the republican party the last 40 years, are a clean, patriotic, devoted people. Great as the leaders have been, the greatness of the republican party has ever consisted of the rank and file of men and women who have fought its battles and gone into the trenches and over the top. They nominated a clean ticket in 1924 and elected it. They have nominated a clean ticket in 1928, and will elect it on the 6th of November.

Smith's Farm Solutions

The governor has complained that the republican party has not solved the farm problem. One would infer from his remarks that he mind has always been made up on that subject—that while we are stumbling and trying to find a way out of the morass there was walking over in New York one, who perfectly understood the problem—waiting to be called to the White House to settle it.

In 1924 in an interview he outlined his idea of settling the farm problem, and he said it was his conviction that the problem depends on the scientific control of the crops. He thought excess crops might be controlled through the banks! (Prolonged laughter and cheers.) He said the heads of these institutions should refuse credit to the farmers who insisted on overproduction. That was in 1924. He said government interference never would settle the problem.

On Jan. 31, 1927, after the McNary-Haugen bill had been up for three years, the governor had another idea—he said a chain of farms might help the situation. (Much laughter.) That is just what some of the farmers have been trying to get rid of for a good many years. I do not claim that that came from Tammany. I think that was original. (Cheers and laughter.)

The McNary bill has not yet passed his intellectual horizon.

Governor Smith said: "When the farmer stops sitting on top of the world and begins to understand the rules of economics he will begin to help himself." That was in 1927—the governor had a solution all to himself then—the fact is the farmers are the only ones who can save themselves.

"Governor Smith promised to appoint a commission to consider the whole matter after he had been elected. Why wait till then? He told them he would not wait until he had taken his oath of office, no, indeed, he would appoint just as soon as he was elected.

World Expresses Opinion

The newspapermen, that class of individuals who always have a way of asking questions whether you are a candidate or not, asked him his position on farm relief, and passing them a copy of an editorial from the New York World, an admirably edited paper and loyal to Governor Smith, so loyal that it expresses his opinions three weeks in advance, answered: "That expresses my opinion." Shortly afterward Mr Raskob, who had made a couple of hundred million dollars under a republican administration and says he must now turn to the democrats to make something he can live on, made a statement, and when the newspaper gentlemen hurried to Albany and asked the governor whether Mr. Raskob expressed his views, he said: "That is four times you have asked me that I express my own views."

He has delivered his message to the farmers of the northwest, and I say, not in severity, but in charity, that there is not a man living who can say what the position of Governor Smith is on the farm problem.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The extent to which personal equations enter into the handling by governments of international problems that have far-reaching possibilities is rarely entirely clear.

Not only is it customary to keep mum officially on these aspects of international disputes; but seldom, unless long after the event, does the man who had the deciding voice set down the considerations that moved him to any particular action with sufficient frankness to bring the event itself into true historical focus.

Which leads to the observation that if President Coolidge ever writes his memoirs lookerson in Washington through the whole period of his one and a half administrations would confidently expect him to disclose that he suffered disappointment as to a purpose close to his heart. They have long been satisfied that he took over the responsibilities of the presidency on the death of President Harding resolved that the rounding out of the Washington naval treaty to include limitation of combat craft not covered by that pact should be the great contribution of his administration toward peace in the world and eased tax burdens for many peoples.

President's Disappointment.

This gives point to the very evident feeling of chagrin detected in the Coolidge handling of events subsequent to the failure of the three power conference he convoked at Geneva to deal with auxiliary naval ship limitation matters.

He was gravely disappointed that Italy and France refused to join in that conversation, a disappointment indicated anew at the white house very recently just before the American note in reply to the request for comment on the Franco-British naval accord matter was sent forward. Mr. Coolidge was then authoritatively represented as feeling that such a conference as he had called was the proper place for discussion of such questions as those included in that accord. He most emphatically deprecated the action of British or French statesmen which had resulted in a press argument of the matter.

Honors Go To Kellogg

All of which was accepted by press representatives to whom these views were imparted as further disclosing the Coolidge resentment over failure of his own naval limitation plans and hopes. However great might be the estimation in which he was held by the public on leaving office, that one accomplishment on which his heart was set when he came in had been balked. And through a set of circumstances utterly beyond prediction, the Coolidge administration seemed doomed to wind up its affairs with Secretary Kellogg's name associated with its greatest international peace move, the multilateral anti-war treaty.

Some senatorial authorities have gone so far as to say Mr Coolidge was a very late convert to the anti-war treaty plan. If that is true, and if the estimate most Washington observers have of his mental processes on the subject are correct, his supposed attitude toward the Kellogg treaty can be easily understood.

Looking Up

Living as we do on earth we must look down a good deal. It is on the ground that our feet must tread, and from it obtain our sustenance. But spiritually we must feed on the word of God and it is in His word that we must find a solid standing ground for our faith and hope. For spiritual food and guidance we must look up.

The highway of holiness in which the word of God teaches us to walk is a narrow ascending path between two precipices. So it is important to watch carefully when we step in life as well as in war or play over-confidence is dangerous for it is engendered by pride and is the sure precursor of a fall.

The only hope of keeping safely on the path lies in looking up all the time, forgetting those things that are behind and below us and pressing onward and upward unto the prize of our high (upward) calling of God in Christ Jesus.

We cannot look up and see immediately all the glory to which God desires to raise us. We have been looking down too long. It is like going from a dark room into the sunlight—the immediate effect is to darken our vision and it is only by degrees that we begin to see all clearly. Our eyes gradually adapt themselves to the light. So as we look to Christ our light we see clearer and clearer glimpses of the Christ life.

We go to church to look up, to be aided in looking up, and for this purpose also we read our Bibles. Prayer is also the upward look to God, and we are lifted upward to a higher common with our Heavenly Father.

At times we allow our eyes to wander downward and it proves as dangerous as it is to the workman on a high scaffolding. To look down almost always means to fall down. Looking down in a spiritual sense means allowing our minds to dwell upon the pleasures or ambitions or vanities which makes holiness seem distasteful to us.

YOUR HEALTH

The Pain in the Back

Backache is not a disease in itself, but is entirely the symptom manifested by some important organ or structure which is either diseased, or has been injured. The most common of the diseases affecting the spine, which make themselves known by producing pain in the lower portion of the back are: tuberculosis of the spine; acute or chronic arthritis of the spine, known to the layman as "rheumatism"; several kinds of malignant growths or cancers; syphilis, etc. The most common injuries producing pain referred in the low back (and so-called hips) are: chronic sprains or strains of the ligaments holding the torso or trunk of the body to the pelvis; fractured, or broken, spines; dislocation of one or more of the vertebrae, etc. It is seldom, let it be remembered, that people who have kidney disease ever suffer with backache, except in those cases where a stone in the kidney exists. If one suffering with back pain is carefully examined, this stone will be discovered in searching for the cause of the backache.

Recently, much information through the lay press has been furnished to the women of our country in regard to the early discovery of cancer of the breast. It is almost as important for one suffering with backache to consult their physician early as it is for one who is suffering with a lump or sore in or on the breast. One should stop a moment and remember that such conditions seen early and properly treated respond more readily and a more certain cure can be effected. In these days of perfection of the X-ray, and in this age of specialism, accurate diagnosis of the numerous conditions producing backache can quite easily be discovered and effect not only much good by the relief from pain, but it is also a very important economic factor in shortening the days of disablement as experienced by many workers of all types. It is, therefore, of equal importance to treat a backache from its incipiency as it is to treat any other illness, whether malignant or benign.

Arm Chair Journeys To Other Lands

ARM CHAIR JOURNEYS TO OTHER LANDS

Marriage, Divorce Easy in Russia.

KIEV, Russia—(AP)—Marriage in Russia is accomplished with less frills than in any other country in the world. Divorce is similarly facilitated.

Neither parental consent, banns nor license is required for the tying of the marital knot, nor are tiresome suits at law with proved faithlessness or other justification necessary for the severing of the bond. It is enough in either case to signify intention and sign an official register, and the registering of a marriage is not essential, but only advised.

Since the right of individuals to own property beyond actual personal necessities is recognized by the state only to a limited degree, and few citizens have accumulated anything substantial in the way of wealth or real property, such questions as dowry and a divorced wife's claim upon her erstwhile husband's estate offer negligible complications, except in rural districts where land tenure rights are affected.

The peasantry as a rule still stick to the church ceremony, illegal and meaningless as it is in the eyes of the law, in addition to registry. In the cities the lost husband's estate seldom extends much beyond his job if he is fortunate enough to have one.

What is known as "common law" marriage is widely practiced, and registration of a marriage agreement is recommended by the authorities only as a convenience or safeguard in the event of domestic disputes or controversies over offspring. In the absence of registration the marital relation is readily established by means of witnesses.

One party to a marriage can divorce the other without his or her knowledge or consent, subject only to the mailing of a printed notice, the total expense amounting to the equivalent of perhaps $1.50 in fees. A registered marriage is not so expensive, entailing only the outlay of a few copecks for documentary stamps.

The question of alimony becomes more burdensome, for it is decreed that if one of the divorced persons has employment and the other has not the employed one is responsible for the other's keep for a period of six months.

The christening of children has gone to the discard as an institution along with other religious rites. A communist father desiring to show his party loyalty and to dedicate his offspring to the communist cause will carry his infant to his office, shop or factory and there in the presence of his comrades declare his predilection in the matter of a name "Mai" or "Oktyabr," perhaps, in commemoration of revolutionary dates or that of some revered party leader. "Ninel," the reverse of "Lenin," is a favorite for girls.

Whatever the name chosen, the infant is declared to be an "Oktyabrenok," or infant communist. At about the age of six he becomes a "Red Pioneer" later a "Comsomolets," or young communist, and eventually a probationary communist and full party member.

Fire Danger.

Little three-year-old Tommy, who was on the porch of one of the neighbors, stopped in the midst of his play and endeavored to catch a lightning bug. When told to leave the poor thing alone he cried out: "Do you want it to burn the house down?"

They Are Not Edible.

"Those dahlia bulbs you sent me never came up," one relative told another when the out-of-towner had come for a visit.

"I didn't send you any dahlia bulbs," said the visitor.

"Yes, you did," was the answer. "I put them in the lower garden."

Explanations developed that the woman had mistaken sweet potatoes for dahlia bulbs.
